School Bus Law Affects Regional

Members of the Regional Board of Education learned Wednesday night that, according to State law which became effective in July, they are responsible for the transportation of secondary school children to private schools which are run on a non-profit basis. The board's attention to the law was called by Henry G. Merry, Garwood member. Some of the members were under the impression that the responsibility for transportation was with the local school boards, but Superintending Principal Warren W. Halsey said that State educational officials had declared otherwise. It was held that the six local boards of the communities which comprise the Regional district are only responsible for transporting children of elementary school age since they only maintain those grades.

The matter was referred to the transportation committee. At present, it was believed, very few students would be affected. Provision was made by the board for the acceptance of students in Regional High School of any age children who live in the area. Recommendation for this resolution was made by Commissioner Charles Elliott. It followed an application, however, from a refugee girl in Mountainide who wished to attend the high school. James Duguid, building and grounds chairman, reported that Washington headquarters of NYA had approved the project for construction of the proposed agricultural building. The board also settled details Wednesday night regarding a sidewalk assessment with the Springfield Township Committee which cleared the way to land transfers preparatory to the construction of the building.

Arrangements were made for giving the Patch test for tuberculosis, for X-rays for positive reactors and for interpretation of X-rays. Principal Halsey announced an enrollment of 617 at the end of September. He said that all graduate students who had applied for entrance to the State teachers college had been admitted. Permission was given for Max Perlman, social studies teacher, to attend the State P.-T. A. convention in Atlantic City. His expenses will be paid by the Regional P.-T. A.

HEALTH OFFICERS NAMED IN SCHOOL

Eleanor Hall, Phyllis Morton and Gertrude Schramm of town, and Jeannette Knapp of Mountainide are among those girls who have enrolled in the training course for assistants in the Health Office which is being given by Mrs. Ruth Montgomery, health counselor at the Regional High School. The girls, some of whom are interested in nursing, others of whom are N. Y. A. students and Office Practice students, are trained to serve at the Health Office in the absence of the nurse and meet together as a group for instruction.

The students are given familiarity with written directions and standard orders for many types of illnesses and injuries. Instruction is given in reading thermometers, making dressings, caring for dental instruments and applying bandages. After this training the girls take care of students under the nurse's supervision for one month. In addition, the girls are also taught to file records, to answer the telephone, and to keep records of student visits. Such a course makes it possible for Mrs. Montgomery to make home visits and still keep the Health Office open.

SUNSHINE GROUP TO MEET
The Springfield-Millburn Sunshine society will hold its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Ahlgren, 25 Rose avenue. Plans are being made to raffie off a blanket at the meeting. Mrs. William Stockle, president of the group, will be in charge.

He has been raising poultry and turkeys for several years. Wojtech is a member of the Pioneer Chapter of the local Future Farmers of America and has served as a chairman at a number of county and state meetings in New Brunswick.

Aid to Armed Forces Major Part of Red Cross Defense Activity

Practical assistance to soldiers and sailors preparing to defend America's shores has become the major task of the American Red Cross in Springfield and throughout the nation. Charles H. Huff, chairman of the 1941 Red Cross Roll Call Rally declared today. All the many branches of the organization are contributing time and effort to this program of aid to the armed forces, he reported.

Financial support for this essential work must come from membership funds received during the annual Roll Call, to be held from November 11 to 30, Mr. Huff pointed out. He explained that aid to the armed forces is only one of the activities financed from membership receipts.

To inaugurate the Roll Call drive in Springfield, Mr. Huff and his committee are sponsoring a Roll Call Rally to be held at the Legion Building on Wednesday evening, November 5. Aiding Mr. Huff in this campaign for membership and in plans for the rally are the five captains in the forth-coming campaign, including Mrs. Charles Phillips, Sr., Mrs. Alfred G. Trundle, Mrs. Frederick Compton, Mrs. Robert Treat, and Mrs. Charles Baumann.

Mr. Huff said the Red Cross is obligated by its Congressional charter to act as the link between the military forces and the folks back home. To accomplish this task the Red Cross, he added, has had field directors in military and naval stations and hospitals since 1917 and is now assigning directors to cover new stations as they are opened. It has begun a $1,250,000 building program to construct Red Cross Headquarters Buildings at 62 Army camps.

There are over 300 field directors and assistants on duty at 185 stations and hospitals covering approximately 223 points of field service, he reported. "These men," he explained, "are trained to serve as advisors to soldiers and sailors with social or economic problems. If a service man's family is involved in the problem, Red Cross workers in the home town chapter form a liaison to bring about an effective solution."

Pointing out that the Red Cross is the official non-military agency operating with military establishments, he said approximately 65 medical and psychiatric social workers are stationed in hospitals of the Navy and general hospitals of the Army. The organization is completely furnishing staffing and operating Red Cross Recreation Buildings erected at 65 Army sta-

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Nazis Claim Smashing of Soviet Army In Terrific Attack on Eastern Front; Pro-Nazi Panama President Is Ousted By Regime Friendly to United States

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

GAMBLE: On Eastern Front

Hitler's dramatic announcement that "events of enormous importance" would take place on the eastern front was followed closely, by what many observers and analysts of military tactics called the greatest gamble in the history of warfare.

Then from the Nazi high command came the word that in their opinion the last effective Russian forces on the central front had been smashed and "last army groups are being wiped out."

An initial campaign which had been planned for a month or less to yield Leningrad, Kiev and Moscow had been going on for more than 17 weeks, and the yield had been tiny. Though knocking on the doors of Leningrad had been denied, and there were many reports that this new plan of Hitler's to storm Moscow from a beginning distance of between 150 and 200 miles would call for the abandonment, for the present, of attempts to take the northern metropolises.

The observers, at the same time that they questioned the good sense of the all-out campaign for Moscow, admitted that if Hitler was to throw all his available forces into a blitz on the central front, Timoshenko's men would have to fall back, but whether Hitler could count on driving all the Russians out of western Russia before winter they believed to be dubious in the extreme.

There was a general feeling in Moscow that the attack was spurred on by desperation, that Hitler was feeling the effects of the unrest back of the eastern front, and believed he would have to have a big Russian victory before winter so that his front-line forces could be relieved to clean up the mess in occupied Europe, steadily becoming worse as winter approached.

As usual whenever a German drive was announced there were those who believed it might be a cloak for something else. Some suggested that the first spearhead to be driven forward, north of the Sea of Azov, might be a cloak for a water-borne attack on the Caucasus oil fields.

If it were true, however, the Reds on the fighting lines were badly fooled, for they reported a general central German attack of greater ferocity than any so far experienced.

TWO BITES: Or Just One?

Just as many papers were asking editorially why it was that congress was following the plan of what they called A-B-C legislation or the program of voting for or against Bill A, when everybody concerned knew that Bill B and Bill C, two other steps, were in the offing, the White House brought them a new sample to chew over.

Sen. Tim Connally (left) and Rep. Charles Easton of New Jersey are shown before entering the White House as members of a bipartisan delegation from Capitol Hill summoned to discuss with the President his plans for congressional changes in the nation's neutrality law. Both men are members of the foreign relations committee in their respective branches of congress.

This was the question of the alteration of the neutrality act. The press was informed that the first congressional White House conference on the bill was whether it would be advisable to take two bites out of the cherry or only one.

Would it, they discussed, be advisable to settle the question of arming merchantmen and extending the right to American merchant ships to go to British ports separately, or both at once.

Were the question decided in the first method, congressmen asked to vote on Question A, whether merchantmen should be armed, would know full well that this question would be indissolubly linked with Question B, of whether they should allow merchant ships to sail into British ports—but this question would not be before them.

PANAMA: Coup d'Etat

Three presidents within the space of a few hours was the news from the republic of Panama as political elements favorable to the democracies ousted Arnulfo Arias, pro-Nazi president and set up their new government.

In the bloodless coup d'etat, Ernesto Jan Guardia, former minister to Mexico, took over the duties of president as Arias fled to Cuba by airplane. A cabinet was then formed, Guardia resigned as president and Riendo Adolfo de La Guardia, former minister of government and justice, was elected president by the new cabinet.

Reports were that the coup was precipitated by the recent action of the Arias regime in ruling that Panama-registered ships could not carry arms for protection against submarine attacks. A cabinet ruling, this regulation was ordered as the U. S. was considering arming its own cargo ships.

RED AID: Wins Support

Despite the fact that President Roosevelt had been conceded to have stirred up a hornet's nest with his pronouncement about Soviet

Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican, is pictured entering the White House upon his return from Rome. Before leaving the Vatican, Taylor is said to have had a lengthy interview with the pope and it was reported that this was the subject of his discussion with the President.

Russia and religion, the house of representatives, even while the press battle over the subject was raging, put its O.K. on a plan to give cash aid to Russia in addition to material help.

This had been regarded as indicative of the tenor of house thought on the subject of helping the Reds in their defense of their homeland, an attitude that had been echoed in the American Federation of Labor convention.

This group, while assailing Communism as such, completely endorsed the sending of aid to Russia in increasing quantities.

The house action came when, in discussion of a bill which would increase the RFC lending power to a billion and a half, Representative Smith of Ohio said he understood Russia wasn't going to get any of it but he wanted to make doubly sure, so offered a prohibitive amendment.

ALUMINUM: A Decision

In an opinion that required 8 1/2 courtroom days to dictate, Judge Francis Caffey of a New York federal court ruled that the government had failed to prove its charges of violations under the Sherman Anti-Trust act by the Aluminum Company of America. Thus ended one of the longest trials in U. S. history with ALCOA the apparent winner on all points. Inasmuch as the government failed to prove its case, Judge Caffey said that it would be contrary to the public interest to dissolve or enjoin ALCOA.

An interesting part of the court's opinion was the statement that it appears that there exists in this country adequate supplies of bauxite (ore of aluminum) and water power available to anyone. Therefore, he said, anyone is and has been able to go into production of virgin aluminum since the last of ALCOA'S patents ran out in 1909.

BRIEFS:

BERLIN: One large guerrilla band of Serbs is led by a daughter of a Serbian attorney. It was reported by Croatian sources battling with the so-called Chetniks.

DETROIT: More than 100,000 men will be unemployed in the auto industry next spring, and many thousands more will be transferred to defense industry, leaders in the automotive field reported.

'In the Navy'

Mrs. Louise Daniels (above), former newspaper woman, has been named "Woman's Editor" of the navy department. It will be her duty to direct a publicity campaign that will tell wives, mothers and sweethearts of the navy, just what their men are doing to spend their time.

HUMAN: Interest Tale

There was probably no human interest story in the news which had the depth of poignancy of the abortive exchange of German and British prisoners of war—seriously wounded men, women and children, both combatants and non-combatants.

Two hopeful ships laden with an unmentioned number of German nationals had lain at Northaven, ready to set sail for a port still to be selected where these ships would pick up such British citizens as Germany would release.

But the ships did not sail, and imagination painted the anxiety and heartbreak aboard those vessels, emotions undoubtedly shared by an equal or greater number across the channel.

There were rumors that the Nazis were demanding the inclusion of Hess. This was promptly denied by England, who said that his name was not even mentioned.

Suddenly it was evident that the whole plan had broken down. Germany, Britain said, had broken faith—Germany was holding out for a swap of even numbers, whereas the government had stated, the British asserted that the exchange would be without reference to rank or numbers.

Some day a historically minded writer will pen the story of those days spent by seriously wounded British and German prisoners while two nations quarreled over their fate—whether to die on foreign soil, or to be sent back to their loved ones to close their eyes in peace.

TURKEY: Makes a Deal

Under a deal between Turkey and Germany, which had been concluded after months of difficult diplomatic maneuvering, and under terrific pressure from the Reich, the Turks agreed to give Germany half of their output of chrome, ore necessary to highest grade steels—but only to start delivery in 1943.

Germany, under the agreement, started at once to ship war material to Turkey, and the total deal was said to involve $75,000,000, not so big in a world which as one comedian said, was "playing bingo with billions."

Germany was shipping Turkey motor vehicles without tires, but not airplanes which Turkey wanted. Prior to this agreement Britain and the United States have been getting 100 per cent of Turkish exports of chrome.

However, the stubborn resistance the Turks put up against signing this agreement, and the dating of the first shipments in 1943 showed Britain that it wasn't any friendly agreement.

It was recalled that Russia and Germany, now locked in deadly combat with each other, had an agreement which looked for more friendly on the surface than the Turkish-German pact.

JAPAN: Gets Jittery

The Japanese, becoming jittery over the world situation which was starving them of oil, and strangling them economically, while Germany continued to pour men and munitions into the campaign against Russia, had issued an odd request to her Reich partner in the Axis.

Tokyo, through the Domei News Agency, called on Berlin to end the war with Russia, so as to conserve men and material for an all-out assault on Britain.

The Pacific situation continued tense, with the government-controlled press of Tokyo laying down a barrage of criticism aimed at the United States, and concentrating on reports of a military conference at Manila between British and American leaders.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander

The Front Pages: President Roosevelt, who has taken many a lashing from the press, saluted National-Newsweek with a message to publishers to guard the press freedom. In short, he urges it to hang on to its right to slam him . . . Royal Cortissoz, celebrating half a century with the N.Y. Trib., also said something worth remembering about press freedom. "Opinions," he said, "are a critic's capital, and he is useless if he cannot find freedom of expression for them" . . . Virginia Gayda, the typewriter that talks like Mussolini, urges the Fascist dailies to fake news to keep the people's spirit up. According to dispatches from Italy, the Italian people would prefer to have him fake up a few plates of spaghetti.

The Wireless:—Jan Masaryk's broadcast was heart-breaking enough to wring a tear from an isolationist. He reported that the victims of the Hun slaughters in Czechoslovakia are not the revolutionists, but just any helpless Czechs they lay their hands on. The squeeze is on the Nazis in South America, however, take it from broadcaster Herbert M. Clark. It's getting so uncomfortable for them in Argentina, he said, that some of Der Fuehrer's busiest dagger troops are screaming alluvial sudden that they're Swiss. . . . C. Faldman and B. Hope ping-ponging humorous insults at each other made laughs come like bananas—in bunches. . . . Eleanor Roosevelt's chatter does more to keep her listeners awake than the coffee she plugs.

The Story Tellers: Runyon makes a monkey out of the fiction rules in "Broadway Incident," his entertaining piece in Cosmopolitan. His hero is a drama critic, which is definitely a contradiction in terms. . . . Garbo is news for the funniest reason. She used to collar space on being a mysterious recluse, out of the world. Now Life blows her to lots of pages because she's a simple, friendly girl like you, Toto. . . . Paul Gallico's word-halo for Lou Gehrig in the Nov. Cosmopolitan creeps into your heart like a smile from a baby. . . . Writes Kyle Critch in Collier's: "When ecstatic cries of dahl-ing greet a Hollywood actress entering Ciro's, she knows that her last picture has been a success" . . . Or her first marriage has been a failure.

The Magic Lanterns: The cinema gets a pretty good report card. "Hold Back the Dawn" is a large afternoon for the sighting set. Charles Boyer plays put and take with two hearts, Olivia de Havilland's and Paulette Goddard's (who is a heel with a tender side). The yarn, about how he marries his way past the immigration gate, is skillfully told. . . . Things are milder in "It Started With Eve," but all oofly nice. Deanna Durbin is the same likeable lass, and Chas. Laughton is the funny-man of the occasion. . . . Tom Harmon runs and kicks a gamut full in "Harmon of Michigan." Football shots from the newsreels are woven into the love story, which also looks like cuts from previous films.

Typewriter Ribbons: F. E. Freedman: Is the Atlantic Ocean ever bobbed or fer boath? . . . Kin Hubbard: Their ought 't be some way 'cent centry so it wouldn't sound like you wuz steppin' on a basket. . . . Youngstown Vindicator: The generals most likely to defeat America are general inertia and general apathy. . . . Toronto Star Weekly: All Europe is now divided into three parts: occupied, unoccupied, and pre-occupied. . . . Olin Miller: It's when a man first feels his age that he has the hardest time being it. . . . Damon Runyon: She has an ice-cream cone where her heart is supposed to be. . . . M. Foster: The plaza was drowsy with history. . . . H. Klurfeld: She was a good secretary, but clocked.

New York Heartbeat: The Big Parade: Ambassador and Mrs. Martins from Brazil at the Stock ringside commenting Good Will with United Statesmen—by applauding the rhumbacrobats. . . . the Joe E. Browns staying young in the sinful places up 'til almost half-past eleven! . . . Sonja Henie swapping a chilly howja-doo with her boss, Darryl Zanuck. . . . The Drew Pearsons of Washington gaping at the Big Town's tallest buildings, the six. . . . Beatrice Kay and her definition of a diplomat in Washington or on Broadway: "A guy who knows how to keep his chin up without sticking out his neck."

New York Newsreel: Subwayites gazing at people across the aisle as if they were a blank wall. . . . The once famous actress who now performs in five-and-ten-cent stores, exhibiting all kinds of kitchen utensils. . . . The debutantes who have everything to make life worth living, yet few of them have learned how to live. . . . The amazing dexterity of cabbies weaving through the traffic, listening to their radio, talking to passengers and smoking a cigar at the same time.

Feathered Fighters for U. S.

Falconry, one of the oldest of the world's sports, is to be given a try-out as a military weapon of the United States. There is little doubt that peregrine falcons, properly trained, could be used as ideal interceptors for carrier pigeons used by the enemy. To handle these feathered draftees a number of soldiers are being trained as falconers, under Lieut. Thos. MacClure. These photos were made during a falconry demonstration at the Bronx Zoo, New York.

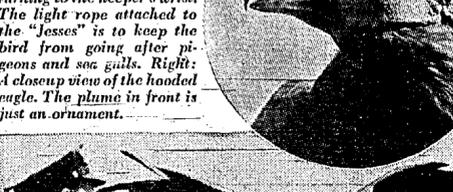

Lieut. MacClure "gentles" (gets it accustomed to being handled) "Thunderbolt," the first falcon to join the U. S. army signal corps. Falcons are found in big cities roosting on ledges.

A keeper at the Bronx zoo is about to hood a golden eagle. The leather hood is to keep it from seeing until the falconer wants it to see. Then it is taken off.

Above: Hood removed, the zoo eagle is shown in flight here. The bird is returning to the keeper's wrist. The light rope attached to the "jesses" is to keep the bird from going after pigeons and sea gulls. Right: A closeup view of the hooded eagle. The plume in front is just an ornament.

The eagle has made his perch and is about to rest. It would be difficult to train enough eagles, even if there were enough.

DELAYS TO RUSSIA

There were two inside reasons for the slowness of the U. S. mission to Moscow in sitting down at the conference table with Joe Stalin. One was the technical difficulty of the flight across Germany. The other was China.

The flight from London to Moscow is not the easiest thing in the world, since about a thousand miles is across enemy territory. The British bombers which make the flight use as much of the night as possible over German territory and also go up to tremendous altitudes.

The U. S. mission to Moscow also had to fly in sections—three different planes, flown on different days, with the time of departure kept a dark secret. And the last sections were delayed in London.

The Chinese delay of the mission to Moscow occurred before Averill Harriman left Washington, when it was proposed that China, nearest friendly neighbor to Russia, should sit in with Harriman, Stalin and the others.

But the state department objected—and for a highly unexpected reason. Appensement-minded diplomats inside the state department claimed that a Chinese mission to Moscow would offend Japan. The United States was trying to woo Japan away from the Axis, they argued, and so nothing must be done to rub the Japanese for the wrong way.

In the end, Japan reaffirmed its partnership in the Axis; but only after the U. S. mission to Moscow already had started, also after Nazi victories in Russia seemed on the upgrade once again. So the appeasement policy of the state department got nowhere.

NOTE—Key to Japanese policy of friendship for the United States or allegiance to Germany always is the barometer of Nazi military success. If Hitler is advancing, Japan will stick by him; and if the U.S.A. looks stronger, it is vice versa.

U. S. MILITARY ATTACHE—Gen. John Magruder was recently appointed head of the U. S. military mission to China in order to heal the slight to Chiang Kai-shek when he was not permitted to send an envoy to the Harriman conference in Moscow. But General Magruder is more famous for another chapter in his life.

When he was U. S. military attaché to Switzerland in 1938, Magruder sent a report to the war department on the march of Hitler's mechanized forces to conquer Austria. In this report he said that Nazi tanks and trucks were of poor quality and that many of them had broken down en route to Vienna.

This U. S. military report was immediately picked up by the British who placed great confidence in the word of a U. S. military attaché. Today, Hitler's tanks and armored cars are the model for modern warfare.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S JOB A friend of Mrs. Roosevelt came to see her at the White House, to talk about the First Lady's new job in the Office of Civilian Defense. She was much impressed at Mrs. Roosevelt's grasp of the problems, but a little disturbed at the boldness of some of her plans.

So thinking of Director LaGuardia, the friend remonstrated: "If you introduce such bold ideas, what will the mayor say?"

The First Lady smiled. "My dear," she said, "I don't think the mayor will say 'No' to me."

NOTE—Mrs. Roosevelt cannot spend full time at her desk in the O.C.D., and during her absences, the job will be held down by her good friend Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, wife of the secretary of the treasury.

MERRY-GO-ROUND What the army needs for men in southern areas is short pants. The long trousers are too hot and difficult to keep clean. British officers observing the maneuvers wore shorts and looked cool and swaggy.

Observed one second army unit agent the fact that the war games were held in the "Cajun" (Arcadian) section of Louisiana, "450,000 soldiers and all looking for Evangeline."

Attention, Mr. Tom Dewey: The U.S.O. did not show up very helpfully in the maneuver area. In some of the towns the local organizations did make an effort to provide the soldiers with bathing and laundry facilities, but in general the U.S.O. fell down on the job. It should have made special arrangements for the men in this backwoods region.

The Newport News Shipbuilding company recently pulled the army transport West Point in the amazing time of exactly eight hours. J. H. Crutchen of Pittsburgh has devised an auto-sticker reading: "Give a lift to every man in uniform."

Carlos Davila, popular ex-President of Chile, has been appointed special ambassador to five Central American countries. With European markets closed, Chile has asked Davila to make the most of trade possibilities inside the Western hemisphere.

TAXES—PRESENT AND FUTURE

Next March 1, a good many Americans will have a rude awakening. They will learn, for the first time, that war and defense are an incredibly costly business. For, on that date, the highest income taxes ever levied in this country will be due and payable. Everyone knows that the new tax bill is severe—but it is probable that relatively few know just how much of their income it will take.

A comparison of the old tax bill with the new tells the story. Under the old law, a single person with $3,000 net income paid the Federal government $84 in direct taxes—under the new law he must pay $197. Under the old law a married person with no dependents and a $10,000 income, paid $528—under the new law he must pay $1,305. And the new tax bill reaches down into income levels which were never touched before. For instance, under the old law a married person earning $2,000 a year was not taxed at all. Under the new law, he must pay $37.

In the upper income brackets, very substantial increases have also gone into effect. A married man, for example, without dependents and earning $25,000 a year, paid $3,843 under the old law. Next year he must pay $6,864—an increase of more than 50 per cent.

In the highest income brackets, the increases are proportionately much less—and for a sound reason. That reason is that people with incomes of great size have long been taxed to the very hilt. An example: Under the old law, a married person with an income of $1,000,000 a year had to pay the Federal Treasury close to three-quarters of it—$717,000. Under the new law, he will pay something over $732,000.

The heaviest burden of the new law, however, falls on corporations, rather than on individuals. The regular corporation income tax rates have been upped, and, in addition, very large increases in corporation excess profits taxes have been enacted. A corporation with a net income of $25,000 a year or more must pay a regular tax of 24 per cent. On excess profits of $50,000 it must pay 45 per cent in addition, where the old rate was 35 per cent. When excess profits pass $50,000, it must pay 60 per cent. Furthermore, the new law contains a provision which makes the burden on corporations considerably higher than the percentage figures indicate. To quote the U. S. News, "Under the old law, the normal taxes came out first, and the excess profits taxes were levied on what was left. The new law provides that the excess profits taxes come out first, and the normal taxes apply to what is left. Since the excess profits rates are much higher than the normal rates, the corporation fares much worse by the change."

Heavy—as this tax bill is, the Treasury estimates that it will mean an increase in Federal revenue of only $3,550,000,000 a year. So far, we have appropriated about $60,000,000,000 for military purposes—of which $50,000,000,000 is for our own defense, and $10,000,000,000 is for Aid to Britain. In short, the revenue produced by the record-breaking new taxes will be only a drop in the bucket in relation to the cost of our arms policy program. The general opinion is that a far tougher tax bill will have to be enacted before very long—possibly next year. Current English income taxes, which are three or four times as heavy as ours, indicate what happens when a nation goes to war in the mechanized modern manner.

"OIL SHORTAGE" BACKFIRES

The so-called "oil shortage" scare on the Eastern seaboard, promoted for reasons hard to understand, has vanished like a morning mist. According to a congressional committee investigation, there is no serious shortage in the foreseeable future.

The productive capacity of the American oil industry is more than adequate to meet today's enormous military demand, as well as the normal civilian demand. A transportation problem was created by the transfer of tankers to Great Britain. That problem is now being met by moving oil by rail, even though the cost to the industry is higher; by the construction of additional pipelines, and, in many cases, by using coal instead of oil in industrial operations.

"This country produces more than 60 per cent of all the oil in the world. It produces oils of a quality unequalled elsewhere. That is what private enterprise has done—and all the politically-inspired rumors of 'grave shortages' can't hide it. Friendly cooperation with industry—dislocation problems arise, due to defense needs, will do more to solve them than autocratic, punitive action."

Loan Office Was Opened In Summit

With the opening of the Employees Personal Loan Company's new Summit office Wednesday, the public is invited to an exhibit of interest arranged by Manager Robert T. Foster in suite 210 at 360 Springfield Avenue. The exhibit, which is on display in the office lobby, consists of a selection of coins and currency from the famous Chase National Bank collection, and a preview selection of the actual photo illustrations for James S. Cowley's forthcoming book, "Little Rivers of New Jersey."

This marks the first time that this particular coin collection has been displayed in this vicinity and features Continental and colonial money of New Jersey, early State Bank notes, Civil War currency and a complete display of all types of United States coins from 1793 to 1930.

In the odd and curious class will be found an actual Spanish Milled

Dollar of the 18th Century, known as a "Pipce of Eight"; the "Widow's Mite" and "Tribute Money" from biblical times; a New England "Pine Tree Shilling" of pre-revolutionary fame; and the "Franklin or Fugio Cent" of 1787 which was the first coin issued by the United States of America. Benjamin Franklin is reputed to have been responsible for the slogan on the coin which reads: "Mind Your Business." Odd value U. S. coins are also to be found in the following denominations: 1/2, 2c, 3c, Half-Dime, 20c pieces, etc.

Mr. Foster and his Assistant Manager, Eugene E. Carroll will be happy to conduct everyone through the exhibit, and to point out the various highlights of both the coin and the photo display. They particularly request, however, that parents or teachers accompany school children who wish to see the display which will be featured throughout the first week following Wednesday's opening. Special arrangements to view the exhibit will be made for any group or club wishing to call Mr. Foster in advance. The phone number is Summit 6-0120.

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY
Dear Ma—
I am inclosing a clipping witch has gave me the biggest lift since I was drafted. It is from Camp Stewart down in Georgia and it says that a colonel named Ralph Tobin of the 207th Coast Artillery came out against potato peeling in the army. He said he didn't think a soldier should ever wash a dish neither as both take time that could be used in learning how to fight. Well this man Tobin is my choice for top general in the U. S. A. If this clipping gets read much he will be the hero of the army in 'no time.

This colonel says the German army used a separate organization of kitchen workers to peel potatoes and wash dishes and, ma, that is the key to the way them Nazis fight I gess. With a guaranty that they won't never never have to do no work as kitchen canaries no wonder there morale is so good. He gave a hint that the American army wood organize a trained division of kitchen help soon and I hope he is right. It wood improve the spirit of the whole army and me so much that you wood never no we was the same fellows.

I do not no if there is anything except talk behind this idea but I wish you wood mention it in your prayers every night as I am sure the army wood be in better shape to win a war if it could get potatoes, dishes, cooking and general house-work off its mind.

I also wish ma that the army wood organize a division of street cleaners and bath room attendants two on account of that is no work for a soldier neither. It is awful hard for me to feel like a 100 per cent fighting man when I am walking up and down a camp spearing old papers and picking up general rubbish. And I certainly do not feel like no important cog in the arsenal of the democrats when I am in a scrub bucket brigade in the men's room.

They call this fatigue duty in the army and the man who first thought up this name for it had a great sense of word values. It fatigues me to even think of army house-work. I do not get half so tired on an all day hike as I do just thinking of peeing another barrel of potatoes or washing dishes.

If I was not a private I wood write a letter to Colonel Tobin saying he is the first smart general the army ever had and that I was for him for President, Secretary of War and the hero of the next Sergeant York picture, but it might get me into trouble like most of my letters do. I wish you and pop wood write him and get all the neighbors to do it. Believe me it has puzzled me how the Heinies could take all those Maggient lines and forts so quick but the hole secret is out. They could concentrate on it instead of on potato peeling.

Well, this will half to be all for now now.
Lots of love,
Oscar.

Kathleen Norris Says:

There Is a Power Stronger Than Armies

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Pamela says this is our war as much as England's. Grandma asks what is America coming to when we have to ask another nation for permission to feed starving European children. And Tom, departing for college, says democracy exists only in Russia.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE only persons who are happy today are those who believe in the infinite power and goodness of God, and who ask Him, with the faith of children, to bring good and peace and brotherhood out of the sad, mad tangle into which men have gotten the world.

This doesn't mean that only clergymen, rabbis, monks and nuns can claim today that inner sense of security and confidence we call faith. One doesn't have to renounce the things of the world.

But the worry and pressure of the times are so great that many women today don't dare stop to pray. They get themselves into absolute frenzies of fear, hate and resentment as they take in news reports, and argue breathlessly with anyone and everyone who will listen.

The talk that goes on at family dinner tables today is enough to disrupt even the most devoted groups. Father opines gloomily that democracy is dead and the country headed for ruin. Mother wishes that European nations had some sense, and had seen this cataclysm coming; then we would not have gotten into such a fix. Pamela is sure that if Mother and Dad just came down to headquarters with her every morning, they'd know that this is our war as much as it is England's. Grandmother says she doesn't know what America's coming to, when she has to ask some other nation humbly for permission to feed starving European children. And Tom, departing with his books for college, observes that democracy doesn't exist in any country in the world except in Russia. Gee, Professor Brown is swell when he tells them about Russia!

Makes Praying Difficult. Under these circumstances, how hard it is to turn to prayer. The inevitable weary hopeless feeling is, "if God is all power and all good, why was this allowed to happen?"

Well, it wasn't "allowed" to happen. It is no accident, this seething horror of murder and hate in Europe. It is as much the logical fruit of what has been going on there for a thousand years, as the raging forest fire is the result of careless campers, scattered cigarettes, abandoned fires. For a thousand years nations that should have been good neighbors and friends, nations whose sons and daughters have intermingled, enjoyed the same sports and books and operas, influenced each other's pattern of clothes and manners, have been planning wars rather than cultivating peace.

And after every war the "winning" nations have imposed conditions as cruel as they dared upon the "losing" nations. Taxes have been quadrupled, territory has been seized, customs rates and tariff costs cleverly adjusted to work the absolute ruin of the once liked and admired neighbor, and armies of occupation have moved in to maintain food blockades and destroy the self-respect and the comfort of the conquered people.

For a thousand years! With no peace treaty ever maintained, and each war more terrible than the

THE WAY TO PEACE

We all want peace, says Kathleen Norris, but we are willing to work for it only after we get what we want. And to get what we want we employ means that lead inevitably to war, hate and injustice. Or, having gained a temporary peace, we use our power to promote the agencies of war. We trample on the rights of the conquered. We set up prohibitive tariffs to ruin nations we once called our friends. There is a better way to a lasting and constructive peace. Good results never come from the wrong kind of thoughts and deeds. We need not withdraw from the world. We need not spend all our time in prayer. But we must, says Kathleen Norris, recognize the fact that we can find the only real way to peace through religion.

last. And unless the hearts of men are changed they will go on forever. No Sign of Change.

How are they to be changed? There is no sign now of a change. The enemy is always to be defeated. The victorious peoples must be allowed to dictate the terms of surrender.

And then we'll all turn good and holy again, and there will be God's peace upon the earth. Then indeed we will love our enemy, forgive them that hate us and despitefully use us, render not evil for evil, but overcome evil with good. All this we are prepared to do—only we don't mean to begin until some nations are smashed.

To talk this way is sheer blasphemy, and it is folly to expect help from on high while we indulge in it. But God's ways—and God's peace are as near us as ever, and if any worried and harassed woman wants to prove it she can do so easily by lifting her thoughts quickly to the goodness and understanding. This need not mean kneeling down, or withdrawing oneself from the thousand duties of household and kitchen. But it does mean dismissing all distressing and fearful thoughts with the old wonderful prayer: "I believe, O Lord; help thou mine unbelief!"

I believe in the possibility of world peace and world friendship. I believe that the billions wasted on war could be spent to build so generously and universally for profit and security that poverty and idleness and ignorance and injustice and slums and disease and crime could be lessened, and lessened steadily until they vanished from the world.

Hate Can Be Overwhelmed. I believe that hate could crumble, could be overwhelmed, could awaken to find that it has never been hate, it had only been the ignorance that masks love. I believe that all peoples have innate good within themselves, just as all men and women have, and that if we could once stop this mad race for armaments, this panic of fear, this international selfishness and greed, there would be more than enough money, food, service, sunshine and joy in the world for us all.

Believe this, and when you lift your heart in prayer, say (that you believe it). When agitating thoughts come to you, whether you are in the market, or making your beds, or shelling peas for supper, confide them to God's keeping; give that time to thought of God's power.

G.O.P. Leaders Planning for 1942 Prove That "Hope Springs Eternal."

Machine Tool Production Studied...

WASHINGTON. — Those Republican "leaders" who recently met in Chicago and planned details of the 1942 congressional campaign are a living proof of the old saying that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

Certainly the gentlemen are not concerned about past performances. The notion that history repeats itself, especially in politics, should make them smile at their own antics, but apparently they are very serious indeed. At this time, when the pattern of American slowly drifting into a war being repeated after twenty-odd years, an outsider would think men with political ambitions would be trying to project the present situation to his own advantage.

Some of the isolationists, especially in the senatorial group, are trying to do just that. It would seem to observers that, if one studied the situation of each with regard only to selfish ambition, the leads are not acting shrewdly.

Cast your own mind back to that list of the "little group of willful men" denounced by Woodrow Wilson less than a month before this country entered the war. They were the isolationists of their day. Did any of them achieve their burning personal ambitions? One of them, recent later, in 1924 was nominated for President—but on the third party ticket. That was Robert M. LaFollette, father of the present Wisconsin senator. His ticket, on which Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, leader of the present isolationists, was the candidate for vice president, carried precisely one state—LaFollette's own Wisconsin.

None of the others enhanced his political stature after that, though one of them, George W. Norris of Nebraska is still in the senate, and has lived to see his anti-utility crusade grow and blossom.

Reminiscent of Another Day. Let us revert to the Republican leaders now plotting for 1942. It is somewhat reminiscent of the so-called "Grass Roots" Republican convention held in Illinois during Roosevelt's first administration. It would be easy to recall names. Anyone can remember them, but to name a name requires an explanation of that particular case history, each one of which would require at least a column.

Suffice it to say that no one who was prominent in that gathering got anywhere as a result of it—even in the Republican convention which met in 1936. Soreness over several of those disappointments spotted the bad apples in the barrel which made the Republican National campaign of 1936 one of the most maladroited in recent political history—certainly since that for Charles E. Hughes in 1916.

Not that Alfred M. Landau had a Chinaman's chance of beating Roosevelt, anyhow, even if his campaign had been well managed, but many of the personal jealousies which literally infested G.O.P. national headquarters while Landau was a candidate were the fruit of that Grass Roots convention.

Let us turn back to a successful campaign of the Republicans, that of 1920. It is true that Will H. Hays built up the most efficient organization the party ever had. That was due to the ability of Mr. Hays.

But did any of the men who did that job, the men who planned what the party should do back in 1916, get their wishes in 1920? Hays, as everyone knew, hoped for the nomination himself. The platform, so carefully worked out in advance, was thrown on the scrap heap by the Chicago convention, and Warren Harding was nominated.

Machine Tool Production Problems. Despite strikes, inefficiency in high places, and lack of preparation when everybody ought to have known it was necessary, America's war-machine is moving.

It will move faster and faster. Leon Henderson complained that the machine tool industry is operating at only one-third of its capacity. This is not as bad as it sounds, because he was thinking in terms of three shifts, seven days a week.

Experts who know the machine tool industry tell the writer, production of machine tools can be doubled. This is of the utmost importance as more and more factories are being converted from peace time to national defense business. All of them, almost without exception, need retooling. In fact, it has not been long since the real bottleneck of national defense was machine tools.

NEW DESIGNS FOR YOUR COOKIE JAR

COOKIE SURPRISES

All crisp, crunchy, and some slightly nutty, all of today's recipes are so fashioned as to send you on a real cookie-baking spree. Fill that lovely cookie jar of yours until the sides are bulging with goodies so you can have cookies a-plenty to put in the children's lunch boxes, to serve as afternoon snacks, and as a pick-up for mealtime.

If you're doing some baking for a bazaar, there's nothing quite like plates of yummy cookies to put over the sales. Remember, you can sell a lot more, if you give out some samples. These can be set on plates with white paper doilies, for sampling, and those to be sold put in boxes already fixed. Cookies can be sold by the dozen if they're fancy and somewhat elaborate, by the pound if they're small drop cookies or squares.

Here's an interesting variation of the filled cookie, both dainty and delectable.

Corn Flake Filled Cookies. (Makes 36 medium-sized cookies) 1 cup shortening 1 cup brown sugar 3/4 cup flour 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup water 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 2 cups cornflakes

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Stir flour, baking powder, and salt together and add alternately with water and flavoring to first mixture. Stir in coarsely rolled corn flakes. Chill. Roll dough to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutter. Spread one round with filling, put on a second round and press edges together with a fork. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a hot (425 degrees) oven about 12 minutes.

Filling. 1 1/2 cups chopped dates 1/2 cup sugar 2 tablespoons water 2 tablespoons orange juice 1 tablespoon orange rind

Combine all ingredients together and cook until soft paste is formed. Cool before filling cookies.

These little butter balls make good nibbling and smart additions to your luncheon table. Made with butter, their flavor will be something you'll long cherish and remember.

Butter Balls. (Makes 7 dozen small cookies) 1/2 cup butter 1/2 cup brown sugar 1 egg 2 cups sifted flour 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup granulated sugar 1/2 cup finely-chopped nuts

Cream brown sugar and shortening. Add beaten eggs and vanilla. Add flour and baking powder. Roll into balls the size of marbles. Mix the granulated sugar and nuts and roll the balls in the mixture. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 10 minutes. These cookies will flatten slightly.

LYNN SAYS:

An assortment of cookies, freshly baked and packed in this waxed paper between layers makes a delightful present for youngsters away at school, for friends you seldom see. When your own cookie jar has been filled to bulging, pack a few boxes from what you have and spread cheer to others, too.

Careful packing in this waxed paper will keep even small dainty cookies fresh for a long time. Some flavors like chocolate improve after they stand for some time. Chewy, nutty cookies are the more chewy and delicious after several days. Spicy cookies become moist and well flavored after standing.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman (© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Sunlight on Furniture. QUESTION: What are the effects of sunlight and steamheat on furniture? Does a steam radiator standing one foot away from the side of a chest of drawers, and giving off heat, have any adverse effects on the furniture?

Answer: Sunlight on some varnished surfaces may cause them to turn white. In other cases the heat of the sun may cause hair-line cracks in the varnish. It is best to protect the furniture from direct sunlight, whether it be through glass or an open window. Furniture placed close to a steam radiator may become very dry, causing the joints to loosen. It may also damage the finish by drying out the oils in the varnish. Eighteen inches or more between the furniture and the radiator would be more advisable.

Too Much Heat. Question: My living-room radiator is too large for the apartment. Can you suggest a method of cutting down radiation without taking out any of the sections? Would cardboard or any other material inserted in the air spaces cut heat radiation by blocking free air circulation?

Answer: A radiator cover with all sides solid except the front, will do it. I would not advise cardboard. If a radiator cover is out of the question, go to your local tinmith shop and get a man to bend the end of a piece of sheet metal for you so that it will enclose the back and sides of the radiator. The sheet metal can be painted to match the walls. An open window near the radiator will also temper the heat of the radiator.

Hot Water Heat. Question: My house has hot water heat, with a single loop in the cellar supplying all radiators. Something seems wrong with the insulation, for on a cold day with the temperature of 165 degrees at the boiler, our living rooms were only 65 degrees. What do you suggest?

Answer: For one thing, a boiler temperature of 165 is too low. It should be 180 degrees, or even higher. This is especially necessary because of the long cellar main. You will find it a great advantage to put in an electric pump of the kind called an impeller or booster to force hot water through the radiators, instead of depending only on gravity. Any good plumber or steamfitter will know how to do the job.

Frostproofing a Leader. Question: My recollection is that last year you described a gadget that could be placed in leaders to prevent freezing. Could you describe it again and inform me where it may be purchased?

Answer: The gadget is a metal ball containing a chemical, with a wire support. The ball is installed just above the opening in the top of the leader pipe, the purpose being to prevent the formation of ice around the pipe opening. The name and address of the manufacturer can be furnished by the Architect Samples Exhibit, 101 Park Avenue, New York.

Water Heaters. Question: I have a choice of either a tankless water heater with my oil burner unit, or a regular boiler-burner unit with a storage tank. In your experience, which have you found to give greater satisfaction?

Answer: The tankless type of water heater might have a slight preference over the storage type, but you must make sure the boiler is plenty large enough to furnish the necessary amount of heat for the house as well as sufficient capacity to heat water for your household needs.

Crustling Kettle. Question: Nothing—an inquiry of hard water crusting in a kettle. "An Old Cape Coddler" recommends keeping a small clamshell in the kettle. The crusts form on this, and the kettle remains white and clean. A new shell can be put in when the other is discarded. Many thanks for that. Another remedy is to cut a piece of linen to fit the size of the bottom of the kettle; the crust will deposit on the linen, which can be removed when stiffened.

Mildew Scratches. Question: I am looking for a compound in stick form to hide scratches on maple and mahogany before waxing. Do you know of any such thing?

Answer: Dealers in radio supplies use a stick for taking out scratches on radio cabinets, which is what you are looking for. You may be able to get it at one of the 25-50-75 chains. Your radio dealer should be willing to get one for you if he does not carry the sticks in stock.

Cracked Plaster. Question: In a very old house, paint on plaster is terribly cracked. How can it be removed? Answer: If the cracking has gone through the plaster, the damage can be repaired with patching plaster; get it at a hardware store. If the cracking is only in the paint, and the paint itself is firmly attached, the cracks can be filled with patching plaster, white lead paste, or glue size (thickened with whiting). After drying, smooth the surface with sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood.

by GRANTLAND RICE

THERE are three major factors in competitive sport—apart from such superior physical assets as speed and power. As some sporting philosopher once remarked—"the race may not be to the swift—nor the battle to the strong—but that is where to look."

Usually—but not always. For the three major factors referred to play a big part in naming the winner, no matter what the sport.

These three leading elements are Form—Technique Grantland Rice and Tactics. They are the big winners, where so many are so well matched on the physical side. They write most of the headlines.

And they are the least understood by the vast majority of those who play various games.

What They Are. Just what is Form—what is Technique and what are Tactics? I put the matter up to P. Hal Sims, bridge player and golfer, who has put in much careful thought along these lines through 40 years of competitive effort.

"Form," says Mr. Sims, "is really style—the correct physical way of doing things. It is the popular current style, which often changes as new champions come along with different ways of playing games. Technique is the best mathematical execution of form. I should say that technique is eliminating as much as you can the margin of error." It demands that you give more consideration to the percentage side.

Tactics is the handling or direction of form and technique together. "Many times the failure to observe technique puts an added pressure. All the mistakes you make increase pressure. In bridge for example the first mistake you make in bidding or playing the hand will increase the pressure enormously. The same is true in golf, which opens with the tee shot. If you miss this stroke, you are right out in the middle of increasing pressure."

The Many Angles. "I have always thought," P. Hal continued, "that Walter Hagen was always a master of technique and tactics. Hagen's angle is this—a golfer plants his tee shot into the rough, partially stymied by a tree. In place of accepting the penalty he has incurred by a bad shot, he tries to save himself by some miracle attempt. The odds against this attempt may be 10 or 15 to 1. If he would play out safely and then gamble on one pitch and one putt, the odds would be much less. And the penalty much lighter."

"How many average golfers will you see trying to play a wooden club from the rough. You'll see it often. They merely move from one trouble to deeper trouble, as a rule. By using the right technique they might still get a 4 on the hole or almost surely a 5. But overlooking the percentage matter completely, they wind up with a 6 or a 7. Most golfers could take away 8 or 10 strokes from their average rounds by using better technique."

The Case of Conn. "When Billy Conn met Joe Louis, Conn's boxing form was brilliant. His foot action and his hand action was all that any one could ask. He made you think of style—just as Jim Corbett once did.

"But Conn's technique in the thirteenth round suddenly blew up. He had taken the lead because he kept moving around, giving Louis a shifting target. But in the thirteenth round he suddenly turned flat-footed and began exchanging punches with a much better puncher.

"Many will tell you Conn became flat-footed through the body punishment he had taken in earlier rounds. I don't agree with this for the simple reason in the twelfth round Conn was at his best, swarming all over Louis. It was this round that made him so badly overconfident that he forgot all about technique and tactics. He overlooked Old Man Mathematics or Old Man Percentage completely. You couldn't blame him too much for this. It was the first time he had ever been within two or three rounds of a heavyweight championship. He lacked at this point the coolness and the experience needed to carry along a winning plan, which he actually had.

He Had the Odds. "There are those who say that Louis would have caught Conn anyway. Perhaps. But against much greater odds. Louis was almost sure to beat Conn in a ten-to-ten slugfest match. The odds at slugfest were 4 to 1 on Louis. The odds at longer range boxing were 3 to 1 on Conn. See what difference this makes? Things like this happen in sport every day—in every game. Better form can't win alone. It must have help from technique and tactics."
