Pleasure Driving Ban Must Be Enforced Says OPA Chairman

"I was in the District Office the first of this week," declared Oliver B. Merrill, chairman of the War Price and Rationing Board, 311 Springfield avenue, Summit, "and was told most emphatically that the pleasure driving ban must be enforced even more strictly than before for the reason that the need for the gas is greater than it was then."

Chairman Merrill adds: "Most people do not realize the seriousness of the present gasoline situation, especially as it applies to the pleasure driving ban. A number of persons think that because they have gasoline coupons, and have saved them for a special purpose such as going to a commencement, or to a summer home, or something of that sort, they are entitled to use them. That is not the case. The Government has not only asked but demanded that these coupons be used for nothing but the most essential purposes. This is going to mean a great hardship to many people, yet it is an absolute necessity. The gasoline is needed for the troops overseas and our war industries, and we, the citizens at home, have to do our part by sacrifice so that they can have the necessary gas and oil to carry on the war."

"The regulations and prohibitions have been printed in the daily papers and it would be well for everyone to be familiar with them before attempting to drive, for anyone is liable to be picked up and stopped and questioned, and if the answer is not satisfactory, will have to appear before the Enforcement Board."

Miss Ernestine Visey, assistant Union County Home Demonstration agent, will conduct a clinic for pressure cooker gauges in Summit, June 1 from 2 to 4 p. m. at Consumer Information Committee Headquarters, 4 Beechwood road.

DOES Blackout MEAN THIS AT YOUR HOUSE? With longer air raid alerts planned for Spring and Summer, a lot of families are going to find themselves sitting in the dark at the busiest time of the evening unless they are prepared with proper blackout equipment. The Government urges every home to work out a "protective lighting" plan, designed to keep the blackout outside, and still give the family plenty of light inside. Don't get caught in a blackout in the middle of dinner, or when you have an important job to finish for the next day. If you haven't planned your protective lighting, do it now! VICTORY GARDENS You probably have one of the 21,000,000 Victory Gardens in this country and are, therefore, well informed as to what is necessary to grow vegetables successfully. You know the importance of good soil, well cultivated, of dependable, tested seed planted at the right time, with suitable space for cultivating. The plants may need fertilizer and, later in the season, you will need to be alert in protecting your crop from weeds and insects. It is most important for your garden to have sunshine and rain. There are a lot of essential details to think about for the growth of a perfect head of cabbage or any other vegetable. Success in any line of human endeavor is dependent upon knowledge, experience and control of little things that many people are inclined to overlook or perhaps neglect, especially if it involves much time or effort. Everyone is aware of the importance of supplementing our national food supply by growing and preserving more vegetables. We should be even more concerned as to how this food will be utilized in our bodies to produce the maximum yield of heat, energy and mental capacity, and thus prolong life. In addition to fresh foods, we need fresh air, water, sunshine and exercise to make the body and mind function properly and to be an efficient producer. There are four roots to success: physical, mental, spiritual and economic health. Since each of these roots is influenced by our ancestry, environment and cultivation, it is evident that in growing the head at the top of the spinal column, there is even more need to use good judgment and care than in growing the vegetables that are destined to become a part of you and to give you continued vim and vigor. Just as weeds will take the nourishment away from the growing vegetables and interfere with their normal growth, so it has been found that there are similar, harmful things that interfere with human development. While the ill effect may not be noticeable in a day, a week or even a year, it is absolutely certain that the continued use of noxious things will not only shorten life but add to the physical, mental, spiritual and economic disability. They weaken the will to win, so essential for success in any human being. What weeds and insects are to your growing vegetables, so vices, tea, coffee, tobacco and liquor are to the human species. When their use gets started in a boy or girl, it is like a cancer, easier for the habit to grow and spread than it is to be cured. The longer weeds are allowed to grow, the more the roots suck the vitality of the plant and the more damage is done. So it is with habit-forming drugs. Many people have the false impression that as long as they use these harmful things in moderation, it will not make any difference to themselves or others. One thistle that blooms and goes to seed in your garden may reproduce several hundred-fold and scatter its seed so as to damage your neighbors' gardens. Let's be sensible and have enough regard for our human garden to free it of all habit-forming drugs and poisons that interfere with our four hidden roots, and the continued use of which is responsible for weakening the race, causing sickness, accidents, poverty and crime. Become a good shepherd and willingly deny yourself any and all of these noxious things to which you may have become accustomed. You will thus qualify, as others are doing, to create internal comfort and joy in yourself and others. The Victory Gardens will perform a great service if they not only furnish food to save our lives but teach us how to produce a more abundant life and a lasting peace. To have peace in the world, there must be peace in the human mind, and this can only be brought about by freedom from all nerve toxins and irritants. Therefore, weed your human garden while weeding your Victory Garden. HOWARD B. BISHOP. Human Engineering Foundation SUMMIT, N. J.

FROM GARDEN TO SHELF—Freezing Foods

By MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Demonstration Agent

How often have you eaten such tender and colorful vegetables at dinner that you did not realize they were prepared from frozen foods? Since the introduction of frozen foods on the market only a few years ago, many consumers have been searching for methods by which to freeze a part of their own garden produce for winter use.

The first answer to this need was the erection of numerous locker plants. Next, home freezing cabinets were put on the market, but the price is as yet too high for most families. Lately, since the curtailment of ice cream manufacture, some used ice cream cabinets have been sold for use in freezing foods at home. If you are considering such a purchase, check carefully upon the value you will receive for each dollar you invest. For instance, find out whether the cabinet's temperature can be controlled and whether it can be set at zero or -10 degrees Fahrenheit for the actual quick-freezing. The holding temperature can be slightly above zero. Inquire, too, about the care the motor has had in the past.

Although proper freezing is one of the requirements for good results, the quality of the food prepared is equally important. Since freezing will not improve the quality of poor food, choose any foods you plan to freeze as carefully as you would were they to be used immediately at the table. Starchy vegetables, in particular, become less palatable as the period of time lengthens between harvesting and freezing them. The ideal arrangement is to pick the food in the early morning and have it frozen before noon. If for any reason it is necessary to hold the food over for a longer time, keep it in the refrigerator.

Some varieties of fruits and vegetables respond to freezing much more satisfactorily than others. There is literature available which discusses in detail the freezing of the most commonly grown fruits and vegetables and the varieties best suited for freezing. Fruits and vegetables to be frozen are prepared carefully by washing and cutting off inedible portions, just as you would do in preparing for the table. Paradoxically, vegetables must be heated before they are frozen. Blanching, the name given this process, is essential to stop the action of enzymes and thus preserves the original flavor and color of the vegetable. In addition, it kills some of the micro-organisms which cling to the food and it shrinks the vegetables sufficiently to facilitate packing them tightly. One method of blanching is to place the food in a wire basket or a large square of loosely woven cloth and immerse it in a kettle holding eight to ten quarts of boiling water for every pound of food. The heat under the vessel should be high enough to bring the water back to boiling within a minute after the food has been increased. The blanching period varies from two to five minutes. Steaming is a method of blanching very effective with spinach and asparagus. The vegetable is arranged on a piece of cheesecloth or in an open wire container and placed within a pressure cooker (or a steamer) above the level of the simmering water. You can check the time by watching the steam issue forth from the open petcock.

After blanching, remove the vegetable immediately and plunge it into ice water or very cold water until the food reaches room temperature again. Now it should be drained, packed and frozen as quickly as possible.

All those prepared foods must be sealed in moisture-vapor-proof containers. Rectangular cardboard boxes lined with a cellophane bag which can be sealed seem to prove most satisfactory. These containers can be purchased at some locker plants, farm supply stores and commercial paper companies. Glass quart jars that can be sealed with a lid and rubber ring may be used, but they do not pack to good advantage in the freezing locker or home cabinet.

Quick-freezing at home must be done at minus-10 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. If you do not have a separate compartment for the actual quick-freezing in your cabinet, it will be necessary to lower the temperature of the whole box until the food is frozen solidly. In boxes where there is a fan, the freezing may be done in front of the fan. The precaution to avoid putting any "warm" containers—those just prepared for freezing—next to frozen ones should be observed.

SMART WINS FOUR TIMES, LOCALS LOSE

Negro Star Takes Four Events, But Regional Team Is Outscored By Rahway, 66-45-1

Regional High School's tracksters have not been winning the majority of meets this season, but it's no fault of "the elegant star," George Smart, Negro ace of Springfield.

Smart has been winning three events in the majority of the Bulldogs' dual meets and against Rahway on Monday, when the Regional squad lost its first meet in years to their arch county rivals, he took four first places and tied for honors in high jump with another teammate. But it was enough for what the locals lack is all-around balance to stand out in representative events, especially the distance.

The mainstay of the current track team is breaking all records in scoring. George is even surpassing the scoring honors in past years of the late Tommy Allen, former Regional track luminary.

Last year, Smart took second place in the county championship dashes, but he stands out as an overwhelming favorite in the Union

PUBLIC SERVICE BUSES

... More than 3,000 of them on the job every day!

TOTAL WAR demands the full use of transportation equipment. Public Service is operating some 3100 buses daily to carry war workers, business people and shoppers.

WAR WORKERS must have good bus service. They've got to be at their jobs on time. There must be no time lost in making planes, tanks, guns, and ships.

BUSINESS PEOPLE must have good bus service. They've got to be at their offices on time. They have an important part in keeping the war machine operating.

SHOPPERS must have good bus service. They've got to get to the stores. Families must be properly provided for.

Public Service buses are handling a war time traffic load of two million passengers daily—an increase of nearly three-quarters of a million riders daily since Pearl Harbor. Public Service transportation is doing its war job.

Gas Order Rules Clarified By OPA;

To drive or not to drive has been a pressing question in the minds of most local motorists; the part work and understanding this, the Administration has issued a list of the types of driving which are permitted or forbidden under the pleasure driving ban. The trip is for amusement or takes one to a place of amusement. A stop-off for a few minutes in your favorite tavern or possibly a mountain on the way home from work would be permitted if there is no deviation from the trip which is otherwise permissible.

Generally speaking, even where trips are permitted, they are ruled out if public transportation is adequate for the task. In other words, persons making a trip to a doctor or dentist whose office is on a bus line which passes in front of their door would be violating the ban.

If long walks were involved on either end, or if public transportation were inadequate because of the illness of the patient, an automobile trip would be permissible.

Driving to church, to cemeteries, for automobile repairs, for confirmations, to court for jury duty, or for litigants or witnesses, to place a car in dead storage—if the distance is not "unreasonable," is permitted.

In each case, however, the driving would be outlawed if public transportation facilities are adequate.

Driving is permitted to meet emergencies involving threats to life, health or property and if no public transportation is available. Driving to a farm is permitted for the purpose of regular work in connection with commercial farm operations.

No exception is made for the use of a car by a doctor for purposes of amusement or social visits, even though it is desired to have the car available for possible emergency calls.

Exceptions are made for soldiers who are on official leave. They may make social visits to relatives and friends or to transact essential business. The soldier's family may also drive him between railroad station and home.

Specifically prohibited are: Driving to graduation ceremonies, except for the purpose of transporting student; driving to inspect property owned by the driver; driving to social meetings, or to benefit any kind; driving to resorts, except in the case of cripples or invalids ordered there by physicians; driving on visits to relatives and friends.

The only exception to the last is that immediate members of the family may visit a seriously ill person at the request of the attending physician.

Victory Gardens Driving Approved Driving to and from a bona fide Victory garden has been ruled as permissible by the OPA, which says that such driving is permitted if the labor of the person being transported is essential to the cultivation of the garden.

The ban does not prohibit driving to weddings for the participants and guests. It does not stop driving by members of welfare organizations delivering food or medicine to shut-ins.

Driving travelers to and from railroad stations is permitted except where travel is for vacation, pleasure and social or non-essential family visits. Similar touring and vacation travel are all prohibited under the ban.

There is no prohibition on scoutmasters driving to scout meetings, but scouts may not drive or be driven to meetings; or on driving for shopping, or for taking students to school or for driving to a restaurant, or on transporting sick persons and maternity cases to and from hospitals.

The OPA will approve driving to the nearest station for fire inspection, and will permit veterinarians to drive for necessary treatment, but only where other means of transportation are inadequate.
