RED CROSS

It is safe to say that the great majority of people who support the Red Cross and work for it wholeheartedly would be able to give only a vague notion of the organization's purposes. This nation was not a signatory to the Treaty of Geneva when it was adopted by ten governments at a diplomatic convention in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1864. The United States declared its adherence to the Treaty in 1882, and today there are 62 signatories to the Treaty. The purpose of the Treaty, briefly stated, is to provide for the amelioration of the condition of soldiers wounded upon the field of battle, to neutralize and protect persons engaged in accordance with the Treaty, and to furnish supplies for these purposes. It was recommended before the signing of the Treaty, "That there exist in every country a committee whose mission consists in cooperating in time of war with the hospital societies of the armies." Red Cross societies are organized in accordance with this recommendation of the Treaty. The Red Cross Society of each nation signatory to the Treaty is recognized by the International Committee of the Red Cross at Geneva and by the other nations signatory to the Treaty.

The American National Red Cross is also, with 60 other Red Cross Societies of the world, a member of the League of Red Cross Societies. The purposes of the League are, briefly: to promote in every country the development of a duly authorized voluntary Red Cross organization to collaborate with these organizations in the improvement of health, prevention of disease and mitigation of suffering; to furnish a medium of cooperation in relief work in national and international calamities. The Charter from which The American National Red Cross derives its being and under which it now operates was passed by the Congress and signed by President Theodore Roosevelt, 1905.

This Charter, providing Government supervision, states that "the purposes of this corporation are and shall be: 'To furnish volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of armies in time of war in accordance with the spirit and conditions of the conference of Geneva of October, 1864, and also of the Treaty of Geneva of August 22, 1864.'"

"To act in matters of voluntary relief and in accord with the military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States of America and their Army and Navy, and to act in such matters between similar national Societies of other governments through the 'Comite International de Secours,' and the Government and the people and the Army and Navy of the United States of America."

"And to continue and carry on a system of national and international relief in time of peace and to apply the same in mitigating the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods and other national calamities, and to devise and carry on measures for preventing the same."

This column has been moved to quote the above excerpts because of a recent experience when it was demonstrated that ordinarily well-informed people harbor some very queer ideas about the functions of the American Red Cross. "There are some things which we should like to point out in this connection. One is the criminal behavior of the Japanese government, which is a signatory to the Treaty of Geneva. In refusing the American Red Cross permission to investigate the condition of prisoners of war in the Philippine Islands."

Further, "must never be forgotten that the Red Cross is a voluntary organization, with a small number of paid trained workers to guide and instruct the volunteers, and its work is supported by voluntary contributions from the public. The organization has been evolved from one glorious idea: voluntary service in behalf of humankind, on an international basis. The head of the organization is the President of our nation. The Red Cross is semi-governmental but its work is largely done by millions of enthusiastic volunteers. If you are a Red Cross worker, hold up your head in pride. You are one of a great and potent army, marching to the relief of humanity."

If you should have occasion to call up the Red Cross office, remember that the office work is done by its assistants, busy housewives who have contrived to arrange their schedule of home duties in order that they may have time out for a half day or whole day to serve at Headquarters.

Mrs. Leslie Chisholm, chairman of sewing production, announces that due to the coming holiday, there will be no sewing session next Wednesday at Legion Hall, but hopes that her workers will be out in force the following week.

Ask us how you can be represented with an individual greeting in the Service Men's Edition, December 3.

In a poll of alumnae opinion on international affairs, sixty-two per cent of the graduates said they believed the chances of making a lasting peace after this war will be better than they were after the last. Forty-nine per cent believed the war would last from 12 months to two years longer than the survey was made in the Spring of 1943. The alumnae concludes with a summary of alumnae evaluation of college experience as reported in the questionnaire.

Dr. Oral S. Goad of the English department at N. J. C., had charge of the book publication for the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Committee, which was headed by Mrs. A. Haines Lippincott of the Rutgers Board of Trustees. Copies of the book may be purchased by N. J. C. graduates for 50 cents, a special rate. "Twenty-five Years: Two Anniversary Sketches of New Jersey College for Women" will cost one dollar in the general sale. Send in news items of service men for the special Greetings Edition, December 3.

Mrs. John Moxon Co-Author of Book

(Continued from Page 1) thirds of the alumnae live in New Jersey and 90 per cent live in the northeastern part of the United States, somewhere between New England and Washington, D. C. Of N. J. C. graduates in the earlier classes, 1923-33, 72.5 per cent are married as compared with figures reported by F. L. Babcock for women college graduates throughout the country, of whom 55.4 per cent are married in the comparable group from 20 to 39 years of age. This variance in marital status is one of many contrasts revealed in the survey and illustrated with pictorial charts. N. J. C. mothers are reported to average 1.7 children each. N. J. C. graduates themselves, both single and married, are employed as teachers, secretaries, librarians, executives, clerical workers, scientists, engineers, and editorial workers; also as dietitians, social investigators, skilled and unskilled fa-

Regional Fares Well in Spite Of Defeat at South River, 12-0

Regional High School's football squad dropped its record to one of the season last Thursday, Armistice Day, to South River, 12-0, but despite having lost by more than the touchdown for the first time in a year, the Bulldogs showed plenty of class against what is considered Central Jersey's best team.

South River, undefeated this year, was added to the Regional schedule a few days before game time. Coach Art Patton was anxious to fill an open date and keep his boys in middle for the important state contest with Rahway on Thanksgiving Day.

The homesters scored in the first 10 minutes of play. Mixing offensive thrusts with an occasional short pass, South River advanced 5 yards, aided by a 17-yard punt and a pass good for 15 yards. Regional's defense stiffened on their own 5, but on a fourth down, with yards to go, Ken Galley, star back of South River, went over for a score.

Regional's bid for a touchdown came late in the second period when a 20-yard pass from Jumbo Swathney to Harry Nussbaum faced the light on South River's 20. Swathney plunged 5 yards, but the passes which followed were unsuccessful and South River gained possession.

In the next quarter, George Muller's 35-yard run for a second score was nullified by a clipping penalty. Regional tried desperately in the final period, featuring a forward-lateral out of a reverse from McDonald to Nussbaum which advanced 40 yards from their own 10. In mid-air, but couldn't gain further. Soon after, Herb Callahan threw Galley for a loss on the 28 on fourth down, but Regional's four passes failed to click.

South River took over, and on the next play, Galley passed to Backo, right end, who was nailed by Swathney on Regional's 2, but both went over to the end zone together on the tackle.

DON'T WASTE ELECTRICITY

Just because it isn't rationed

WE are glad to cooperate with the War Production Board in urging all our customers to conserve electricity.

There is no shortage of electricity in this community, but you should remember that the production of electricity involves coal, transportation, equipment and manpower—all needed in the war effort. Therefore we suggest:

toast more than 1 slice disconnect your iron

defrost refrigerator often

empty vacuum cleaner bag

It takes just as much electricity to toast one slice of bread as it does for two, so why toast only one slice when you're going to want more. Take full advantage of a multi-slice toaster.

Save electricity by disconnecting your iron if called away even for a minute. Plugging in the iron before you are ready is wasteful because most irons heat up in two minutes.

Thick ice on the coils makes motor work longer and more often giving less refrigeration. Leaving door open unnecessarily makes motor work overtime.

Dirt in the bag cuts down suction. You waste electricity and your own time by running the cleaner longer than necessary. Empty the bag each week.
