WHAT'S YOUR POST-WAR PLAN? In the midst of all the drives for funds for various wartime and eternal needs, there is one drive which is all our own. That's the Fourth War Loan drive which begins officially January 18 and runs for almost a month ...

A GOOD LOAN

There is, of course, a great basic patriotic reason for buying war bonds. You are lending money to your own country at a time when the money is very much needed. It would not be too much to ask all of us to give to the preservation of our way of life and our nation, but we aren't being asked to give. We aren't even being asked to lend without interest. We are being asked to lend on good terms ...

FOURTEEN BILLION

The Fourth War Loan drive isn't going out after quite as much money as the Third. The total sought this time is 14 billion dollars instead of 15 billion. But this time they want to get more of the money, percentagewise, from those of us who are medium and small buyers. As a matter of fact they would like to get as much as half the total from those of us who are neither millionaires nor big companies ...

BETTIQUETTE

MEMO TO MRS. HOUSEWIFE Washington authorities say chances are slender that civilians will get more gasoline in 1944. In fact, unforeseen military requirements might necessitate regional reductions. Wise housewives will spend spare time on canned fruits. Point values will undoubtedly rise due to bad weather and short crops. China's bootblack business reflects inflation there. A shine costs Chinese $5.00 (35¢). Good news! There'll be two million new electric irons made this year. New blackberries have been developed at Oregon State College. A cross between logan berries with selected blackberries, they're especially good for frozen packs, jams and preserves. WPB has lifted all restrictions on the use of wool in production of clothing, draperies and upholstery fabrics. Ban continues on finer grades of alpaca except for military use. Cranberries are the latest thing in the "dehydrated" field. Sliced and packed in jars or glassine envelopes, an ounce of the dried berries will make a pound and a half of sauce. Automobiles, homes and radios first, second and third in America's post-war purchasing plans. Our diets will get a boost from cutbacks in war needs. Shortly you will be able to buy more pineapple, pumpkin, figs, asparagus, corn and squash. Maybe for less ration points, too! Cocoa imports are on the wane again, which is bad news for the sweets industry and cocoa drinkers. Cheer up though—there'll be plenty of tea and coffee. OPA COMEDY One of OPA's fuel-oil rationing experts received an application from a Maryland farmer who requested more fuel for his diesel tractor. The "expert" wrote back suggesting that the farmer convert to coal! CLEVER REMARKS "Reputation is what folks think you are. Personality is what you seem to be. Character is what you really are." "It is no great thing to be humble when you are brought low. But to be humble when you are praised is a rare and great attainment."—St. Bernard. "I expect to pass through life but once. If, therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow being, let me do it now, and not defer or neglect it, as I shall not pass this way again."—Pam. GET THE FACTS NOW We have been reading a great deal about plans for providing our returning service men with jobs after the war. Every man is agreed, of course, that we must furnish jobs for our fighting men when victory has been won. They don't want hand-outs. They don't want charity. They don't want to be selling apples on street corners. They want jobs they feel they are now fitted to fill successfully. And right here is where you find one very vital factor missing in most, if not all of these postwar employment programs. The program plans speak in an over-all sense about jobs but they overlook the fact that millions of our returning service men have acquired a technical training while in the service, which equips them for something better than merely going back to their old pre-war jobs or handling a shovel on some public works project. Of the more than 800,000 service men already released and returned home, we have convincing evidence of this fact: a very small minority want to take on the kind of employment they had before they went to war. It has cost the government tremendous sums to train these fighting men in modern warfare, in the maintenance of motorized equipment, in radio and other communication equipment, in various types of specialized knowledge that equips them for a better job than the old one of driving a delivery wagon, standing behind sales counters, clerking in some office and so forth. We urge members of Congress sincerely interested in the future welfare of our fighting men, to suggest to the War and Navy Departments now to learn from these service men, the type of job they feel they are best equipped to fill when peace comes. Such data would be of incalculable value to those who are planning postwar employment opportunities. It is the government's responsibility to get these facts. It is industry's responsibility to use them to build a real postwar employment program. Without these relevant facts, we're going to miss the boat. The time to do this is now—not after our fighting men are mustered out. A subscription to the SUN will keep you informed of all local happenings. Until February 1, $2. will send the paper to your home for a year by mail; after February 1, the rate will be $2.50. Men in service like to get letters from home. Did you write today?

YOUR RED CROSS

"The thoughts of youth are long, our only neighbors, it is greatly en-long thoughts." This quotation encouraging and helpful to know so came back to us recently as we well how your spirit and helpful-ness are not restricted by horizons." Beautiful, impressive words! Yes, for us "Somewhere on route." Our the humanity of the Red Cross is boys in the services are writing elo- quently, forming poignant word and its "spirit and helpfulness are picture: of their experiences not restricted by horizons."

This was written on a ship in transport and as it has to do with of the Red Cross services, we are including it here:

"The skies were darkened this morning for the first rain of our trip," men were beginning to feel the tedium of restriction. Then the call came to fall in to go on deck. Many thought it merely a refresher exposure to deck air, many thought it just another stratagem to disrupt the growing laziness. They indeed it is as the spark that kindles. The whole spirit has changed. Your "little more" recalls the same stimu- lation of the unexpected ice cream cone.

Each soldier seems to prize his own particular item. There is an immediate rush of reading; book- swapping brings a new item of interest. Many plan early use of the sewing kit, even as I. The tablet and envelopes, again even as I. Indeed your kit seems to all a cornu- copia of your best wishes.

"The psychological effect of the timely distribution emphasizes cer- tainly the expansive and inclusive humanity of the Red Cross. On the high seas where the horizons are

Since 1938, Overlook Hospital has had an increase of 105% in maternity cases. Shown here is the nursery at the hospital.

105% INCREASE

This has been a busy week for our small canteen force, and proves again how necessary it is that the number of canteen workers be en- larged if the calls on the services of this group continue in such great volume.

A number of the workers are as- sisting three days this week in the Regional High cafeteria. Tomor- row two of the group will serve at Overlook Hospital. The hospital schedule covers every other Satur- day. On Tuesday twenty linchons were served to surgical dressings workers in the Methodist Church annex and on Wednesday ten were served to members of the sewing group at Legion Hall.

Mrs. Leslie Chisholm, chairman of sewing production, informs us that the present quota of garments to be sewed is very large, and extra help in turning out these garments would be greatly appreciated. Her group meets on Wednesdays be- tween 10 and 4, at Legion Hall. Volunteers who can ply a needle and wish to be of service, may call Mrs. Chisholm, Millburn 6-0996-M, or appear on Wednesdays at Leg- ion Hall, ready for work.

MOUNTAINSIDE—All "teen-age" youngsters are asked to meet at the Borough Hall at 8 p. m. Saturday, January 15 to present their ideas for entertainment during the coming months. Mrs. Joseph Hershey, who has been overseeing the group says that due to recent poor attendance it is obvious that the younger set does not want weekly dances and has in mind entertaining game nights along with the dance program.

However, she wants the views of the "teen-age" group as a basis for working out these plans. It is suggested that perhaps a different committee be chosen each month to plan for the Saturday night affairs and thus give a variety of entertainment which would appeal to all ages of the "teen-age" group.

BACK CONGRESS

America's Fourth war loan drive starts January 18. The drums of promotion will be thrumming already when this article is published.

I hope this loan goes over with ease and enthusiasm like the other three, and there is no reason to doubt that it will, but there are two possible changes in the overall war-loan picture that would please a lot of people, and I sincerely believe they would improve sales. (1) An effort ought to be made to sell more bonds to people in the low income brackets. (2) The bonds themselves ought to be smaller in size.

Reasons For Both. It would be possible to write a book full of reasons why poor people ought to buy bonds as well as relatively well-to-do folk and banks. The first reason is that there are infinitely more poor people, and their purchasing power is a lot more. Second, too many people with their first well-paid jobs are spending money foolishly and hastening inflation. Third, poor people are going to need money after this war.

The bonds themselves ought to be smaller because small bonds cost less, and people who pay taxes this year deserve every economy they can be afforded. As a matter of fact, I was disappointed when bonds from the third War Loan appeared in such ungainly size and shape. If it is safe to print a $100 bill 3 1/2 inches, surely a $25 bond does not need to be as big as a high school diploma.

Chances For Economy

Congressman Charles S. Dewey of Illinois, as long ago as May, 1943, made it very clear to everybody in Washington who attended his words that literally millions of dollars could be saved by printing smaller bonds. There are some exceptionally wise men in Congress. In most cases the title "Honorable" is as appropriate as it is proper. Congressmen are head-and-shoulders above the electorate or somebody else would have their seats, and Rep. Dewey won my esteem with one short talk on Government Economy.

When Calvin Coolidge was President, Mr. Dewey was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, charged with supervising the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which was a figurative headache to all concerned. The routine recommendation was to spend $10,000,000 for additional printing equipment in order to increase the plant's output of paper money 50 percent as demand seemed to require, but Coolidge said, "No." Then again did Mother Necessity bring forth an invention and Mr. Dewey found a better way.

What did he do? He figured out a system of printing twelve bills with a plate such as formerly printed only eight, and there was the 50 per cent output gain. Economy in paper, ink and shipping charges started right away saving two million dollars a year besides the original ten million dollars. And last spring Mr. Dewey recommended that something of the same sort be done about printing bonds. His technical experience is an asset to the nation, and I think he ought to be heard and heeded; I believe he will ultimately be heard.

Support Good Men
Congress is not the Puppet Show for the amusement of bureaucracy that it was a year ago. This column, released January 8, 1943, fairly gurgled over the fact that the 77th Congress apparently had a mind of its own, a conclusion which succeeding events have justified. Congress has lifted the lid of the gilded pot and made its power felt and understood.

Within the last 30 days this column has told of far-seeing work directed by Senator George of Georgia and Representative May of Kentucky, both concerned with post-war plans for prosperity.

Church Bells To Open Loan Drive

Church bells, belonging to all religious organizations and congregations, are scheduled to play a prominent part in the launching of the Fourth War Loan drive throughout New Jersey. The bond campaign will be directed by the United States Treasury throughout the nation from January 18 to February 15.

The plan, at least so far as New Jersey is concerned, calls for the ringing of the bells for fourteen minutes in a series of four strokes and then a pause on January 18. The selection of fourteen minutes as the length of time that the bells will ring is a reminder that the nation is asking for another fourteen billion dollars through the sale of war bonds to finance the war. The idea of the four strokes at a time and then a pause is also to serve as a reminder that the Fourth War Loan is now on.

Priests, ministers and rabbis in charge of their churches in two prominent counties of the state, have sent word to the office of John E. Manning, State War Bond Administrator, that they will be very happy to extend this cooperation to the exciting bond drive and to the war effort. The suggestion in the form of an invitation is now being passed along to religious congregations in all counties by the War Finance Committee in charge of each county. The invitation will also ask for support from all pulpits in favor of the bond drive.

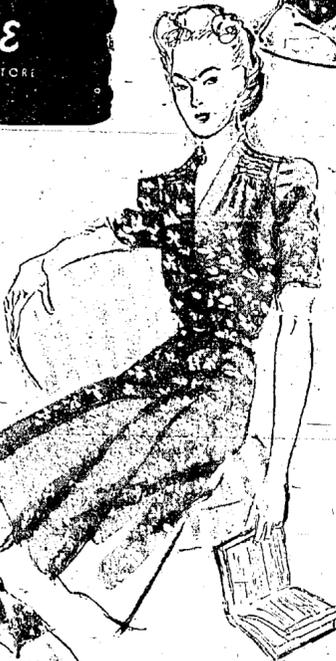

Col. Franklin D'Olier, chairman of the New Jersey War Finance Committee, states that he is fully aware of the tremendous and valuable cooperation extended by the churches in the previous bond drives and sincerely hopes and anticipates that it will be continued throughout the Fourth War Loan Drive.

OVERLOOK HOSPITAL
SUMMIT, NEW JERSEY

January 12, 1944

Dear Friends and Neighbors:

Whenever you or your family have needed hospital or clinical care, Overlook Hospital has been ready to protect you ... a kindly, ever-watchful guardian of your life and health. Now, your Hospital turns to you ... to ask you to safeguard its health ... prolong its life!

Not for 17 years has Overlook Hospital asked the public ... you ... for funds. But now the need is so obvious ... so important to every mother and dad ... that we know you will approve and respond.

The government will call on Overlook to care for the wounded or sick boys returning to this community ... perhaps your boy. Our present space and equipment are inadequate to meet such a call.

Moreover, new techniques in medicine and surgery require new equipment, instruments and machines. These life-saving developments will not only be needed for Service men ... but will be priceless to every family in an emergency.

But isn't your hospital really you? By helping it - you help your loved ones in their hour of need. Give. Give generously ...

Sincerely yours,

Walter C. Heath

Yanks In Rush To Beat Japs, Return Home

Prediction of a short war in the Pacific, based on the fighting qualities of U.S. troops and their eagerness to get home, was expressed last week by Lt. Joseph F. Lord, U.S.N.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howell G. Lord of 174 Summit avenue.

Lt. Lord, who returned recently from nine months of combat duty in and about the Solomon Islands is spending a month's leave with his wife, the former Sarah Heller, and his son, Joseph, Jr., 4, at the home of his father-in-law, Edgar W. Heller, 368 Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark. Lt. Lord was born in Newark and his parents lived in Clifton avenue, Newark, before moving to Summit a few months ago.

Lt. Lord has been attached to a special unit known officially and with considerable hush-hush as "fighter direction." A ground aviation crew, it has the task of following the shock troops in island invasions and setting up anti-aircraft installations and air-raid warning equipment.

"We go right in with the Marines and Seabees," said the 30-year-old lieutenant, "and catch a lot of bombing both before and after we get dug in." In the American invasion of Vella Lavella Island last August, Lt. Lord was in charge of a detachment of soldiers, sailors and marines. He experienced air raids at the rate of 10 a day for two weeks.

He has high regard for Japanese marksmanship, although he believes the effectiveness of bombing in Pacific island territories where defenses are scattered. His closest shave, Lt. Lord says, came when Jap planes flew over while he was bathing in a river in Vella Lavella. The nearest shelter was a muddy truck rut, but it looked good to Lt. Lord.

He says both officers and men of the combat forces are optimistic about an early termination of the war with Japan. The Japanese are now experiencing the same difficulty getting war materials and supplies that our troops went through in the first 18 months of war, he declares.

Lt. Lord, who also saw service on Guadalcanal, says: "We're chasing the -- out of them in the Solomons and the Japs know it. We're getting more planes now but not enough yet. If our Pacific forces could get what they want in supplies the war with Japan would be over before the fighting in Europe."

Next to their longing for home and hatred for the Japs, he says, our Pacific troops are consumed with bitterness about American labor. "They think they are taking a roasting," he says, "when they hear on the radio that the workers at home are being about wages and overtime while servicemen fight and work 18 hours a day, seven days a week for their 50 bucks a month."

Greatest boasts to morale, says Lt. Lord, are letters from home, Army broadcasts of records by Bob Hope and other entertainers and, strangely enough, the propaganda efforts of radio Tokyo.

"The boys got a big kick out of the Jap broadcasts," Lt. Lord said. "They send over very good American music and then the announcer will say: 'Wouldn't you boys like to be home now with your wife and kids and a big coon-skin?' It's so overdone it's really funny."

Lt. Lord brought back a firsthand experience of the suicidal tendencies of Japanese warriors. He was on a destroyer during the battle of Vella Gulf when a light American force steamed into the enemy's stronghold and destroyed a Jap cruiser and three destroyers. "I saw about 150 Jap sailors swimming around in the water," he says, "and when we approached to pick them up they just swam away in the other direction."

You May Call It What You Will, It's Hash Just The Same

By MARY W. ARMSTRONG
Home Demonstration Agent

Back when Granddaddy was a lad, red flannel hash followed a New England hotted dinner just as surely as Tuesday followed Monday. And although the same sequence of dishes may not be observed today, good, old-fashioned, substantial American hash is still one of the Nation's favorite dishes.

To most folks, that word "hash" immediately suggests a mixture in which ground, chopped, or minced meat is the most important ingredient. Theoretically "hash is hash," but actually many dishes that answer to an entirely different name are hash and nothing else!

Yes, the forms in which this time-honored "hash" can make its appearance at the family table are legion. If you still think "hash is hash," try some of them and be convinced!

and heat well. Then add the mixture and cook until it is brown and crisp on the bottom. Turn and brown the other side, or serve the hash folded as an omelet with the nicely browned crust on the outside, Garnish with parsley. This hash may also be baked in the oven.

Red flannel hash is made of ground corned beef and cooked beets and potatoes seasoned with onion, salt and pepper.

Paties may be made of the same mixture as hash, then formed into flat cakes and browned on both sides. This mixture can be put in individual sized loaves or in one large loaf. Ground meat, cooked vegetables, cooked rice, or bread crumbs are often added, with eggs used as a binding ingredient, to hold the loaf together so it may be sliced.

Crequettes are largely ground meat combined with thick white sauce and seasoning. This mixture, when cooled, is formed into balls or cone shapes, dipped in beaten egg, and a little water, sifted crumbs, then again in the egg mixture and in the crumbs. In pre-war days, crequettes were generally fried in deep fat; now they are more often browned in a small amount of fat in the oven.

Mousse is a delicate mixture usually made of cooked fowl, veal or fish—the lighter colored meats. Eggs are separated to give the dish a lightness, and some cream, milk or stock is used for flavor and moisture.

Creamed meat combined with mushrooms or celery and served on toast points, in toasted bread cases, or in patty shells makes a dish that is quickly and easily prepared.

Equal parts of ground meat and chopped, boiled potatoes, or a combination of vegetables, is the foundation recipe for hash. Season this mixture with onion juice, grated or chopped onion, salt and pepper. Melt drippings in a pan

To allow food processors upward adjustments of their maximum prices because of wage increases, the Office of Price Administration has amended food regulations covering canned fruits and vegetables, frozen fruits, berries and vegetables, preserves, jams, jellies, pickles, pickled products, and apple products. OPA estimated that increases at retail will run not more than one cent a can or, in the case of frozen fruits, one cent a pound. There will be no increases in prices civilians pay for tomatoes, peas, snap beans, corn, peaches and pears.

As a further move to stamp out the black market in gasoline, OPA has ruled that any local board or special hearing officer, after a proper hearing and a finding that the tire or gasoline regulations have been violated, may not only revoke a gasoline ration, but also may prohibit the use of gasoline in the violator's possession which was obtained as part of the ration.

About two-thirds (67 per cent) of the United States supplies of meat available for all needs in 1944 has been allocated to U.S. civilians, according to the War Food Administration. This allocation will allow about the same per capita civilian meat consumption in 1944 as in 1943. On a dressed weight basis, it is equivalent to approximately 132 pounds per capita for the year compared with the pre-war 1935-39 average of about 126 pounds.

About 440,000 cases (approximately 20 million pounds) of canned pork and beans will be released to civilian consumers within the next few weeks.

At the end of 1943, the general level of prices in wholesale markets was two per cent higher than at the close of 1942, and the prices of staples that families buy in retail markets for everyday living were up by about three and one-half per cent. This price rise was smaller than in any year since 1940, according to Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor.

Returning war veterans may enter virtually any of the 30,207 apprentice training programs in the United States. Age restrictions and other limitations have been especially lifted for veterans in many apprenticeship standards so they may obtain training for skilled work, according to the War Manpower Commission.

About 76 million pounds of tea will be available to civilian consumers in 1944—wartime limitations on shipping space permitting. This is about 18 million pounds more than civilians got in 1943.

The three United States farmers who returned recently from a two-month survey of agriculture in the British Isles reported that British farmers are very grateful for the assistance Lend-Lease farm machinery has given them in attaining maximum food production. The U.S. farmers, whose trip was sponsored by the Foreign Economic Administration, were Oscar Helms, Marcus, Iowa; Robert J. Howard, Sherburne, N. Y.; and Earl Robinson, Mondovi, Wis.

Heart disease is reported as still the leading cause of death. It is believed that the increased strain under all-out war effort and the return to work of older persons have been the major factors in the increase, making them, in part at least, war-caused and unpreventable.
