FROM GARDEN TO SHELF

CANNED GREENS VS. FRESH
By Mary W. Armstrong
County Home Demonstration Agent

One thing about women - we do learn from experience! I'm thinking of Mrs. Abbott who served her canned greens last winter, expecting them to taste just like fresh cooked ones. But alas!

She soon found that the crispy, fresh taste had disappeared along with the color. Her family dutifully ate the greens, but with no apparent enjoyment, that was sure!

So Mrs. Abbott, along with many other New Jersey housewives, has decided to profit by last year's experience. This year she will use those crisp greens in generous quantities just as they come from the garden, and she will not put so many of them into jars.

If you, too, wondered why your canned greens seemed to retain so little of their natural flavor and color, here's the answer: When greens fresh out of the garden are prepared for the table, they are cooked for only a very few minutes. The result is a tempting, flavorful dish which appeals to the eye as well as to the taste. But when greens are wilted and put into jars, they form such a solid mass that they must be processed for a long time so the heat can penetrate them thoroughly. It is this long processing that changes the whole appearance and taste of the greens.

But Serve Them Fresh
Why, then, should we use precious jars for canning a lot of greens when we know they aren't going to be too tempting next winter? Isn't it wiser to fill the jars with vegetables that will be palatable and appealing? And consider the length of time during which we have garden-fresh greens. In New Jersey this period lasts for at least eight months. Think of it! An eight-month season for fresh garden greens. Even after frost, as late as November, we can have kale, spinach and cabbage.

Take this into consideration, then, when making up your canning budget. Only a comparatively few cans of greens will be needed to tide the family over that short period when fresh greens are not available.

Tips on Canning
Experience has taught us several important procedures in the preparation of greens for canning or for immediate use. If you cut off the roots of spinach before you wash it, you eliminate much of the dirt. Use warm water when you give greens the thorough and repeated washings they must have. Warm water does a better job of loosening all the small particles of sand.

Always lift the greens from the water. Thus you leave the dirt in the pan instead of encouraging it to cling to the greens, as it is apt to do when you pour the water off. Lifting greens from many changes of warm water is the way to be most successful in removing all foreign matter from them.

The Criss Cross Cut
After the greens have been cleaned, pre-cooked and put in the jar, you will notice what a solid mass they make. To make it easier for the heat in the processing bath to penetrate to the center of the jar, thrust a long, sharp knife to the bottom of each jar and make a criss-cross cut through the center of the packed greens. This tends to open the mass and break it up so that the heat will reach every portion of the jar. Fill the jar with boiling water and proceed according to directions in the Canning Bulletin which is yours for the asking at the County Home Economics Extension Service office.

When you use these canned greens next winter, don't bring them to the table "as is!" They are at their best in a souffle, a creamed soup, or a casserole.

YOUR RED CROSS

LOCAL. Charles Huff, chapter chairman, recently received the following letter from the South Atlantic Area office, in New York City:

"My dear Mr. Huff:
It is a great pleasure to send you the enclosed honor certificate awarded to your chapter for distinguished achievement—in the 1944 Red Cross War Fund.
Heartiest congratulations to you upon your success in this campaign, and our deep gratitude to all who helped make it a success."
Sincerely yours,
(Signed)
E. ROLAND HARRIMAN,
Associate Manager.

Concerning accident prevention, a Red Cross Project, Chairman McAvoy announces that 93 per cent of the accidents which occur are to people who are not trained in First Aid, only 7 per cent happen to people who are.

Our six trained Nurses' Aides have completed 93 1/2 hours of duty during the month of May at Overlook Hospital. We are very proud of them.

Mrs. Charles Phillips, Sr., announced during the first few weeks, registrations will be sent out for the Blood Bank to all former donors. The Mobile Unit will come to Springfield in October. Donors should fill out the cards and send them to Mrs. Phillips, 82 Yattle Hill avenue; leave them at the Red Cross Room in the Municipal Building, or with M. Lichtenstein at the Wheelan Drug Store, by August 8, 1944. Anyone who has not given before is urged to do so this time.

Although there seems to be no reason to believe that there will be any bombing, the disaster committee is remaining intact to be prepared for any eventuality. The organization is complete and ready to go at any time except for trained nurses. If there are any nurses who have moved into the community since we organized who would like to volunteer for the Defense Set-Up, please call either Mrs. Earl Rumpf, or Mrs. Rodney Smith.

Mrs. Leslie Chisholm and Mrs. Henry McMullen were hostesses to the Sewing Group which meets every Wednesday at the Legion Hall. A picnic luncheon was enjoyed by these faithful workers who put in many hours of sewing for service men, hospitals, and foreign relief. A new hospital quota has just been accepted, and any new members, with or without a portable machine, will be very welcome.

NATIONAL. Every one in a while vicious rumors spread around that the Red Cross changes the service men for all kinds of things. It has been said about cigarettes, about food and lodging, and now blood plasma. There have been instances where wholesalers dispensed in error, cigarette cartons with the Red Cross label inside. This is the basis for the first rumor. In both world wars, the Red Cross gives and charges for food and lodging at canteens, hotels, and clubs. These charges were for less than cost, and were made at the specific request of the Army. Below is printed verbatim an editorial in the June 8 New York Herald Tribune, which will disperse all rumors concerning blood plasma:

"IT'S A SIN TO BE GULLIBLE"

"The amazing pace at which rumors spread and the more amazing credence given even patently vengeful ones have made the sabotage-by-tail-tales a fruitful field for enemy propaganda, including our native little 'in-fu-chers.' The latest stories, so wide-spread as to indicate a deliberate plot by enemies of the war effort, are (1) that wounded soldiers are charged for Red Cross Blood Plasma, and (2) that the Red Cross charges the Army and Navy for blood donated by civilians. There is, of course, not a scrap of truth, not a shred of evidence, to make these tales believable. No money is deducted from service men's pay for blood-transfusions, and blood donated to the Red Cross is delivered at once and without charge to processing laboratories, where it becomes the property of the Army and Navy.

"Yet, the number of queries as to their truth which have come to the Red Cross has given us little concern to those in charge of recruiting for the blood banks. Obviously these rumors stem from an organized attempt to discourage volunteer blood donations. 'Rumors such as these are launched by our enemies, but they are spread by the gullible. All that is needed to outwit those who

Suspect Denies Guilt In Theft Of War Stamps

MOUNTAINSIDE—Alonzo Jackson, 26, of Irvington, who was grilled by police in connection with the theft of war savings stamps from schools in many North Jersey communities, including the borough, admitted guilt to most of the nearby breaks into the towns, but would not involve himself as having taken part in the Mountainside school theft some weeks ago.

Jackson was arrested in Elizabeth Wednesday of last week and when taken to Fanwood headquarters, admitted robbing the school there and confessed to the robbery. Further questioning revealed he was responsible for similar thefts.

The Irvington man had a long police record, and local authorities are convinced that an accomplice may have robbed the local school. In the meantime, the school board is considering what action will be taken to reimburse pupils for the loss of stamps retained in the school office, for safekeeping.

Pictures Given Of New Cub Den

MOUNTAINSIDE — Pictures were presented of the new cub den of the Children's Country Home to members of the den Tuesday evening of last week, by Chauncey F. Stout, publisher of the Plainfield Courier-News. The den is known to the members of the den, as Den 12.

Mr. Stout spoke to the boys about Eddie Rickonbacker, who was interested in scouting. He told them that the Navy flyer, who rescued Rickonbacker a few months ago had been a Boy Scout. He congratulated the boys on being Cub Scouts and said he hoped as they advanced they would enjoy scouting.

Also present were Mrs. Louise Kniffin, superintendent of the Children's Country Home; Charles F. Patterson, pack master of Pack 171, which is sponsoring the new den; George Y. Hewson, field commissioner of Cubbing; Miss Martha Van Wert, one of the nurses of the home, who is the Den Mother, and Miss Eva Soden, a nurse at the home.

All of the members of the new den were present except Robert Crispin, who has been discharged and returned to his home. The den chief of the pack, Joseph Deuchler, was also presented with a picture.

Watch Hill outscored Mountainside Inn, 9-6 by a big rally in the opening inning. The winners chalked up seven straight scoreless before being halted. The Inn team tried hard to come back but couldn't overcome the 7-0 lead at the end of the second inning.

In a similar tilt between Birch Hill and the Rangers, won by the former, 7-6, a four run rally in the first frame also proved decisive.

Liberation of Europe Begins

The historic news flash, "First Allied landings in Western Europe have started," sent over the teletypes of the Overseas Branch of the Office of War Information, at 3:43 a.m., Tuesday, June 6, was part of the second, or actual combat phase of psychological warfare being waged directly under Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces.

The first phase of psychological warfare was the strategic or preparatory phase which the Americans and the British bombarded the enemy and occupied countries with leaflets designed to undermine enemy morale and bolster the morale of the enslaved peoples.

Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and Norway have been receiving miniature newspapers with a combined circulation of almost 16 million. Part of the present combat phase will be carried on by Psychological Warfare Branch combat teams who will be equipped with portable printing presses and radio equipment to keep the local population in liberated areas informed as to the progress of the war and to give in the local language the regulations of the military command.

Recent shortages of many civilian supplies may be attributed to military demands of the forces of liberation. Examples are radio tubes and parts, gasoline and oil. In spite of a radio manufacturing output over 10 times as great as pre-war, military demands for radio and tubes and repair parts have increased. This explains why civilians are finding it hard to get these items, the War Production Board says.

Every military plane has radio equipment, some as much as $100,000 worth each. Ships, tanks and other mobile equipment also use radio equipment. A five-month supply of 100-octane aviation gasoline is required for each of the 11,000 planes backing up Allied liberation forces, the Petroleum Administration for War reports.

Heavy and imperative demands for oil by General Eisenhower as early as last winter almost made New York, Boston and Philadelphia the first indirect invasion casualties. Increased production by East Coast refineries, the "Big Inch" and "Little Big Inch" pipelines, and emergency deliveries helped avert civilian shortages of oil and gas in the East

The nation's farm army of six million along with their town and city neighbors went into action this week on the Fifth War Loan, the War Finance Division of the Treasury announces.

Total good for this loan is 15 billion dollars by July 8.

Last year farm people bought $1,200,000,000 in War Bonds—about 10 per cent of their net income.

With an estimated net farm income of 13 billion dollars for 1944, bond purchases by farm people are expected to be higher this year than last.

The War Bonds bought during the Fifth War Loan will enable our Government to get more and better war equipment for its fighters than the bonds bought a year ago, according to a computation of the War Department.

A heavy bomber, today a year ago cost $500,000, today costs half that much.

A Bofors Anti-aircraft gun formerly cost $25,000, now costs only $13,000.

A year ago the Garand rifle cost $50. Today it costs $35.

A few items among them—the good old Army mule, have gone up in price.

A year ago Uncle Sam paid $100 for an Army mule. Today such a mule costs Uncle $225.

Certain small manufacturers are permitted to produce unlimited quantities of any farm machinery, equipment and repair parts made entirely from surplus materials or materials needing no allotments or priorities assistance higher than AA-4 preference rating.

WPB announces. Items most manufacturers will be able to produce under this relaxation, include corn shellers, feed grinders, plowshares, hand cultivators, rakes, hoes, shovels and barnyard and retail prices for snap beans, under new ceilings, are expected to be from 16 to 18 cents per pound during June, while field grown cucumbers will sell for 9 to 10 cents from June 16 through June 30.

OPA announces. Hothouse cucumbers will sell for about 22 cents per pound. For the remainder of June, prices on early 1944 potatoes will be increased about 1 cent a pound in all States except California and Arizona.

Cabbage ceilings range from 3.9 to 4.3 cents a pound. Effective June 17 retail prices on fresh fish and seafood will be reduced from one to three cents a pound.

Farmers bought and accepted early delivery of the largest tonnage of commercial fertilizers and fertilizer materials in the Nation's history during the past 12 months, the War Food Administration says.

Thus enabling plants to keep working at the capacity permitted by available labor and also avoiding a critical shortage of fertilizers on farms.

Ration certificates issued for purchase of men's rubber boots and rubber work shoes are now good indefinitely.

OPA says. . . Householders should fill their coal bins during the summer months because the shortage of motor trucks and drivers for distributing coal is expected to reach a critical stage by the beginning of the coal season, the Office of Defense Transportation advises.

On July 1, nearly 100,000 cadet nurses from the 1064 approved schools of nursing will celebrate the first birthday of the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps.

Candy production of more than 2 1/2 billion pounds reached an all-time high in the U. S. last year, according to the Department of Commerce. . . No large-scale resumption of bicycle production will be possible until the war in Europe has been brought to a successful conclusion, WPB says.

Carry-over of feed grains at the end of the present feeding year probably will be the smallest for any year since 1937, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicts.

ON FATHER'S DAY

It's a particularly American habit—and always has been—to take life seriously and, at the same time, to spice it with true good humor. That's why in ordinary years Father's Day, though springing from our deepest emotions and affection, was also a lighthearted holiday, rich with smiles and pleasantries: Remember how you used to tease Dad even as you were telling him what a grand fellow he was?

He's still a grand fellow, and this war, if anything, has demonstrated that the fathers of America have courage and determination—and love—more than we may possibly have suspected back in the easier days of peace. The sun that rises on Father's Day this year will rise also on foreign battlefronts, and will signal the end of the midnight shift in war plants across the nation. In its light the day that is dedicated to the American father becomes a solemn tribute to brave men—to young fathers in the front lines; to older fathers working resolutely at their benches to give their own and other men's sons the tools with which to fight.

Here in our own community young wives are signing tender Father's Day cards with the names of children whom their soldier-fathers have not yet seen. To these fathers, this year, such remembrances must arrive, not as greeting cards but as touches of home, as close as the garden gate, as real as the front door. Whatever the colors and sentiments of their Father's Day cards may be, such fathers must certainly feel that the bright eyes and the voices of their children are in them.

It isn't too much to think that on Father's Day this year all the fathers in America's past, who gave themselves to America's future—those fathers who fought and won their country's wars, and who took their children with them into the challenging wilderness—will be watching with proud and confident eyes the fathers of today, to whom they have given this nation in trust. And they will be well pleased.

Tribute Offered A. Lennox Crane For 30 Years Service in Church

burn. He said, "I was glad to have an active part in that work and always found it most interesting, and I feel that the four schools brought a good many days of pleasure to the young people of the Sunday School Extension Association."

Another feature instituted during Mr. Crane's term was the "White Gifts Christmas" through which medium the old method of exchanging gifts between scholars and teachers was abolished, and in its place children brought gifts for the more unfortunate. Even though he is now retiring as superintendent, Mr. Crane hopes to continue to be greatly interested in all Sunday School. In reference to the honor shown him on Sunday he said, "I deeply appreciate the kind expressions of congratulation and friendship which have come to me, both verbally, and in the fine gifts which I received on Sunday, and I shall certainly cherish the same for many years."

In addition to the ceremonies honoring Mr. Crane the regular Children's Day Services were conducted. Donor Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Hall, read the Scriptures, and children of the Beginners and Primary Departments under the direction of Mrs. Edward McCarthy and Mrs. Elwood Marshall recited and sang. Those participating were: Roberta Lutz, Kenneth, Thom, Lorraine, Buckley, Doris, Vohden, David, George, Ralph, Linde, Shirley, Stanley, Donald, Egar, Robert, Washner, Ruth, Wralin, Alfred, Bowman, Barbara, Wolf, Judith and Carol, Shand, Wilbert, Lavin, Constance Lambert, Dorothea, Pilla, Nancy, Plank, Jack, Wycoff, Robert, Wycoff, Gordon, Baker, Raymond, Plank, Linda, Heyman and Phyllis Jones.

Questions, Answers Shown to Simplify Oil Applications

To assist fuel oil consumers in filling out their application forms for the renewal of their fuel oil ration, District OPA Director Richard J. Tarrant issued a set of questions and answers.

Approximately 278,000 fuel oil users received the application by mail recently, and were requested to fill out the form and return it immediately, so rationing boards can process them and have the ration coupons distributed. Tarrant said consumers had already begun returning the forms and "if all consumers return the forms promptly we expect to have coupons distributed by the end of July. He urged that consumers order their tanks filled as soon as they receive their coupons in the mail."

"To perpetuate a pin in the interests of a vital war-time program," Tarrant added, "you will be thankful next winter if you get your tank full this summer." The questions and answers follow:

Q. Is the renewal application form difficult to fill out?

A. No. It is a simple one-page form containing only six questions, three of which are devoted to identifying you—your name and address, the address where the ration will be used, and the name of the person who applied last year for that address.

The fourth question inquires about whether there are any children under six years of age in your dwelling. Question 5 identifies the type of water-heating equipment you have that burns oil and how long you use this equipment each year and how many people use it. The final question gives you a chance to tell what

MOTH DAMAGE
The war against moths must be fought with every weapon at our command.

It is estimated that the larvae of the common clothes moth does about $200,000,000 worth of damage every year in the United States. That's a lot of money, and it's well worth while to spend a few dollars and a little time on preventatives to help cut down this loss. Woolens, furs, felts and feathers are the favorite food of the moth larvae. Any of these materials kept in the home require regular care, and when they are to be stored at home undisturbed for any length of time, certain precautions must be taken.

Cleanliness is particularly important. If it is impossible to have every garment cleaned before storage, see that each article is thoroughly and completely brushed with stiff bristles. Pay particular attention to pockets and seams where moth eggs are laid. Remove spots with a bottle of liquid household cleanser.

Next, give the garments to be stored a good sun bath, for sunlight is the natural enemy of the moth.

Then spray garments with a bottle of good quality insecticide.

type of equipment you have for heating your dwelling.

Q. Why is the question about children necessary?
A. The fuel oil regulations provide that an extra ration allowance be issued if one or more children under six live in a private dwelling. The number of small children is not important, just the fact that there is one under the age limit.

Q. Why does the type of hot water heating equipment make a difference?
A. The ration allotment is different. If you heat water for domestic purposes by an indirect water heater attached to your oil burning furnace, or if you have a separate device, which burns oil and is used only for heating water, your extra allotment for heating water will be figured one way. But if you have a space heater or a kitchen range equipped with a water coil or waterback, it will be determined another way.

Q. What are the different types of equipment used for heating dwellings?
A. Central heating plants, portable heaters, non-portable heating

Don't judge quality by the amount you can buy for the least money. See that the label on the bottle states the insecticide is harmless to fabrics. Spray guns made of substitute materials are available if you haven't a metal one. Hold the gun a few feet from the garment so that the fine spray can permeate the fabric. Here again, pay particular attention to pockets and seams.

If you plan to store clothes in a closet that need not be opened during the summer, clean it thoroughly by washing, brushing or vacuuming. Then getting out the bottle of insecticide once more, spray the interior thoroughly. To the storage space place moth balls, crystals or flakes in sufficient quantity as an additional precaution. When garments are in place, the storage unit should be sealed with tape to hold in the vapors.

Many woollen garments are kept in daily-use closets, yet are worn infrequently during the year. These should be given the brush-sun-air treatment every two weeks or so, followed by spraying. Keep your bottle of insecticide and spray gun handy and treat these daily-use closets at regular intervals. Spray upwards into the closet, then close the door immediately.

stoves, and kitchen ranges.

Q. What is a central heating plant?

A. A central heating plant is a heating system consisting of either a warm air furnace, steam boiler or hot-water boiler and the necessary ducts or pipes for distributing hot air, steam or hot water to registers or radiators.

Q. What is a portable heater?

A. A portable heater is a small heater which may be carried easily from room to room by means of a handle or a ball.

Q. What is a non-portable heating stove?

A. Such a stove is any one of the many types or models of circulating heaters, radiant heaters, parlor stoves or room heaters which are set up in one room of a house and rarely if ever moved during the heating season. They may or may not have a flue connection.

Q. What is a kitchen range?

A. A kitchen range is a device which may be used for both heating and cooking. It has a solid metal top with lids and is frequently so designed that it heats water by means of a waterback or coil.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Describes Career In Church Sunday School

To the Editor of The Sun:
Your reporter telephoned my home today, seeking some biographical information concerning my life, particularly as concerning my Sunday School career. In view of the fact that yesterday morning, in connection with the Children's Day service at Springfield Methodist Church recognition was taken of the fact that I have served that church as Sunday School Superintendent for thirty years, and am this year relinquishing that office, I will endeavor to give you below a few facts concerning the above, which I trust will serve your purpose.

I was born in Newark, but moved with my parents to Union, when I was quite small, and I can honestly say that I cannot remember the time when I have not attended Sunday School. The first Sunday School which I attended was that of St. Luke's Chapel (now St. Luke's Church) at Chestnut Street and Washington Avenue, Union. This was an Episcopal organization, and even though I have since that time been interested in churches of two other denominations, I still have a very high regard for the Episcopal Church and the activities of the organizations connected therewith.

The Superintendent of St. Luke's Sunday School was Mr. Richard Kipling, a very kindly mannered and gentleman, who was greatly interested in the organization, and who on more than one occasion provided from his own means various recreational activities for the boys and girls and teachers of the school. It was not a very large organization, being at that time in a somewhat sparsely settled community, and thus was not very strong financially, but Mr. Kipling always saw to it that the members of the school had what he felt the organization could not always provide them from their own funds. My teachers in that school were Mrs. Mary Mulhead, who subsequently became superintendent of the school, and who died two or three years ago, and Miss Emma Hibbard, both of whom I regarded highly.

After attending at St. Luke's for several years my parents and I moved again, and I then became a member of Connecticut Farms Presbyterian Sunday School. My teacher in that school was Miss Fannie B. Long, who still lives in Union, and when I joined the school the superintendent was Mr. Edward M. Burnett, who was succeeded by Mr. John B. Bunnell, now Chairman of the Board of First National Bank of Millburn, and a resident of Springfield.

After attending Connecticut Farms Sunday School several years we moved again, and I then became a member of Springfield Methodist Episcopal Sunday School. Mr. David J. Mundy was Superintendent, and I became a member of the class of Mr. Theodore D. Siskley. I remained in that class until I was elected Secretary of the Sunday School, and retained that office until May 6, 1914, when I was elected superintendent. I assumed that office on May 10, and in many ways I felt rather presumptuous in attempting to fill the office of my predecessor, particularly in view of the fact that Mr. Mundy had held the position for a period of thirty-five years. However, I attempted to give the position my best efforts from the first, and with the fine cooperation of the teachers and other workers have carried on ever since.

During these thirty years I have found the work in a great many ways most interesting and pleasant. I have naturally seen a good number of teachers, secretaries, and other officers come and go during that time, changes becoming necessary because of death, removal from the community, ill health and other reasons, but during the entire time I have always felt that I have had a fine cooperative group of workers, and it is to them that I give the credit for anything which we have accomplished.

I have always maintained that the closest connection between the scholar, whether young or older, and the Sunday School is that which is made through the teacher, rather than the Superintendent. I base this statement partly on my own experience during the years I was a scholar, and also on my observations in the cases of other people. Naturally I had a nice regard for the Superintendent of the schools which I attended when a youngster and during my boyhood, but it was to my teachers that I looked as the real connection between myself and the school. It is, in part at least, because of this feeling on my part, that I have always tried to be very careful in selecting persons to take classes in the school, and I have said on more than one occasion that I feel great care should be exercised in deciding on who may be invited to become Sunday School teachers.

One feature of the work of the Sunday Schools which probably reached its height during the time that I have been superintendent, although for which I do not take any special credit, but which I shall long remember, is the annual excursion which was operated jointly by the four Sunday Schools of the Protestant Churches of Springfield and Millburn. For many years this was really quite an "event" and it used to be said that on Excursion Day Springfield was practically deserted. For some time the stores used to close on that day, and there was really very little activity in town. I was glad to have an active part in that work and always found it most interesting, and I feel that the four schools brought a good many days of pleasure to the young people (and probably some not so young, also) through the work of the Sunday School Excursion Association.

A feature which was instituted in the Methodist Sunday School during my term as superintendent, and which I am sure was an advance in the right direction was the "White Gifts Christmas," through which means the old method of exchanging gifts between scholars and teachers was abolished, at least so far as an official act on the part of the School was concerned, and in place of same the members of the school brought gifts to be distributed to those not so fortunate as we, and I am sure there is every reason to believe that we have had a very real part in making happier Christmas Days for many persons through this means. For a good number of years our School cooperated with the Springfield Lions Club in this matter, and probably when world wide and local conditions again warrant it, the Methodist School will do so again.

In closing I would say that I can most heartily commend the work of the Sunday School to boys and girls, men and women, and where as a fine organization in which to become interested. I have found my work most interesting, and while I expect in a few weeks to turn over the superintendency to another it is only natural that I shall for many years, I hope, continue to be greatly interested in the work not only of this Sunday School, but of such schools in general.

I deeply appreciate the kind expressions of congratulations and friendship which have come to me both verbally, and in the fine gifts which I received on Sunday, June 11, and I shall certainly cherish same for many years. On the occasion of the Children's Day Service on that date I was presented with a fine volume of letters from some of my present and former church friends and workers, and also with a very fine Bible, and I am very glad to take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation of same to all who had a part in obtaining and preparing same.

HELL DIVING'S HIS JOB ..LENDING IS YOURS!

WITH GUNS BLAZING and a prayer are now at stake. You cannot—you must not—let them down. in his stout heart, this American fighter is hell-bent on destruction of our enemies. HE is not thinking of how little or how much he's doing to help win the war. For him, the chips are down; but his fighting spirit is as high as the heavens from which his plane is diving.

In cramped foxholes and disease-infested jungles, on sun-scorched beachheads—under and over the seven seas—other Americans are matching his courage. And their name is legion. They KNOW that war is a bloody business; that their lives, as well as yours,

Is it asking too much of you to back these men up by buying more, and still more, War Bonds? There can be but one answer. You'll find it in your own heart.

And remember, too, as you dig deeper than ever before into your pocketbook or cash surplus, that the Fifth War Loan MUST raise 16 billion dollars. It is the greatest financing drive the world has ever known... to back up the greatest invasion drive the world has ever known.

And Here Are 5 MORE Reasons for Buying EXTRA Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

Board Urges That Fuel Oil Ration Forms Be Returned

Fuel oil applications for the 1944-45 heating season have been mailed by the local rationing board to all consumers of oil in this locality. It is urged that all applicants fill in the forms and return them quickly by mail to the ration board so they can be processed and rationing coupons be mailed to users of oil for heating during June and July.

Householders will help themselves and the government if they co-operate with this program. Filling consumer tanks this summer permits dealers to refill their storage tanks and thus be prepared for the demands of the coming heating season. The new coupons will be valid for use immediately.

The majority of fuel users are required to answer all six questions on the form. Those who require fuel oil for apartment houses or more than three units, and public buildings, need answer only the first three questions which relate to name and address.

It will be noted that question four asks if there are any children under six years old living on the premises. The OPA explains that an extra allowance of fuel oil will be given for children under six.

Both the OPA and oil dealer urge that householders order their tanks filled immediately upon receiving their coupons, but caution against using any of the fuel oil until September 1, when the new heating season begins.

Jonathan Dayton Picture Given to Boxwood Hall
Representative McLean of Hillside has presented Boxwood Hall, of Elizabeth, with a portrait of Jonathan Dayton, Elizabeth patriot and statesman, who once occupied the hall as a resident. Jonathan Dayton Regional High School was named for this New Jersey patriot. Boxwood Hall, known also as the Boudinot House because of its one-time occupancy by Elias Boudinot, another early American patriot, will become a museum after the war is over. It is now being used by the Elizabeth Red Cross for community services work.

An original of the portrait hangs in the House of Representatives in Washington. Dayton attended the Constitutional Convention, and was a member of the second, third, fourth, and fifth Congress. He held the position of speaker in the latter two. He was actively interested in the settlement of military lands, and the Ohio city of Dayton was named after him in recognition of his interest.
