FRIENDS!!

Last Thursday's electric current failure in Springfield and neighboring towns occurred on the hottest day of the year... eight months ago to the day the ice storm also resulted in a power collapse, but that time over a period of several days instead of a few hours... Jersey Central Power & Light Company again found itself on the receiving end of target for bitter criticism... when the breakdown took place last winter this newspaper panned the company for the delay in bringing service back to normal, but on this latest occasion we can find no fault... It was just an unfortunate happening caused by the extreme heat and less than four hours afterward power was restored.

The power break saw Howard Johnson's Restaurant in Route 29 with a jam-up at the front door, where diners tried to get out because of the sudden hike in temperature and would-be diners tried to get in, unaware that the cooling system had failed... at the same time Orchard Inn stopped serving in the middle of the meal... waiters all stood outside in their aprons and napkins shoeing hungry customers away.

"Since they want to make or keep Springfield a place for 'jangled nerves and place of rest' they might as well keep it nice and clean," states the introductory portion of a letter to the editor this week from Max Weiss, 59 Bryant avenue, who urged adoption of an ordinance making it mandatory for property owners to cut down all weeds, especially goldenrod and ragweed... Weiss says he's suffering from hayfever.

Received a phone call from a gal who would not reveal her name at noon Monday stating she had been driving through Millburn and noticed the wife of one of Springfield's biggest big-wigs hauling huge packages from a chain store there... "And her husband is always yelping about civic spirit and stuff," the stoolie screamed as she hung up!

Al Bowman is still away! Publicity chairmen for all Springfield organizations will help us help them if they will remember that news of all meetings should arrive at the Sun office as soon as possible... with the start of fall meetings this month, evening sessions should be called in or type-written the next day... If this is done, the news can be set in type day by day, and the concentration of work on Tuesdays and Wednesdays and attendant difficulties will be avoided... concentration of work on Tuesdays Advance news of meetings or programs should be in the office by the Monday morning preceding date of publication.

Albert Binder, one of the Republican candidates for Township Committee, dropped in this office for a chat this week for the first time... he strikes the writer as being a pretty nice fellow, but someone had better convince him of Springfield's need for light industrial growth... Binder didn't say he opposed industry... on the other hand, however, he didn't say he liked the idea either!

We've got a big Labor Day week-end coming up and once again the National Safety Council warns of the tremendous upsurge of traffic fatalities occurring on the open highways on holidays... take heed, watch your speed, don't make this trip your last one, is the warning... another piece of advice given out by the Safety Council... hundreds of vacationers kill themselves diving into dangerous waters every summer... be cautious first, then have your fun safely, they warn.

Emergency Equipment Protects Town

Police radio, lights and machinery in Town Hall were maintained by use of the gasoline-driven municipal power unit during four-hour electric current failure last week. Shown examining voltage regulator on emergency generator are Firemen Ormond Mesker and Charles Schilling, left to right. Break in main line of Jersey Central Power and Light Company caused the light failure. It was attributed to the heat wave.

2,000 Local Homes & Businesses Without Power During Break

More than 2,000 homes and businesses in Springfield were without electric power last Thursday, during the peak of the heat wave, from 5 to 9:16 p. m. as shorting and insulation on main lines of the Jersey Central Power & Light Company fused at two points into a gummy mass, causing short circuits.

In addition to Springfield, all of Short Hills and portions of Summit and Millburn were without power.

Ice cream melted, cold drinks turned warm, and prespiring householders carrying flashlights deluged ice deposits here and in neighboring communities seeking chunks to put in operative refrigerators, fearing food spoilage.

Cops Act Fast

Springfield police, acting rapidly when all traffic lights in the township went out, manned major intersections of Morris and Moun-

Insurance Agent Lauds Springfield

Albert W. Anderson of Kenilworth, who collects a debit in Springfield for the Prudential Insurance Company, is more than two-thirds of the way to his goal of one-half million dollars in sales this year, according to an announcement this week at the Union office of Prudential.

Anderson's father-in-law of Thomas A. Mulligan, well known here, leads with new net paid for business totaling more than $300,000 this year. He also ranks high in ordinary sales among the 17,900 agents in Prudential's nationwide district agencies organization.

Anderson has been a life insurance underwriter since 1930 when he joined Prudential as an agent in Elizabeth. He has been associated with the Union district office for the past year, serving as company representative of Springfield.

According to Anderson, the large amount of insurance he has sold is due not only to the "period of development that Springfield is undergoing," but also to a "deeper seated realization by the people of the many benefits life insurance offers."

"Springfield is one of the fastest growing communities in this area," he said. "But growth alone does not make it great in my mind. That is done by the people who live in it. I have found the people of Springfield most understanding with a depth of good neighborliness that adds so much to pleasant association. Added to that there is a deep bond of family affection that leads parents, sons and daughters to welcome any plan which will help provide a measure of future security for the ones they love."

BATTLE HILL GROUP ENJOYS BUS RIDE

Members of Pride of Battle Hill Council, Daughters of America, journeyed to Coney Island Saturday night for the group's annual bus ride. One 37-passenger bus left American Legion in Hill at 7:30 p. m. and returned at 3:30 a. m. Arrangements committee was headed by Mrs. Emma Spiller.

Mrs. Ida Martyn and Mrs. Spiller will represent the council at a convention to be held at the Hotel Morton, Atlantic City, September 23 and 24.

Successful Season At County Field

Last week marked the end of a successful season at the Union County playground at Regional High School. Prizes were awarded winners of the croquet eating and jolly-pop contests and peanut hunt. Highlighting the afternoon were free ice cream pops presented everyone.

George Coan, Bust Lang, junior the playground, presented medals and certificates for points earned during the playground season to the following:

Controversy Over Derailed Freight

A derailed freight car, resting on its side for the past few days, at the private siding of the Union County Coal and Lumber Company, this week was the center of controversy between the supply company and the Rahway Valley Railroad.

Who is going to put the car back on the tracks? Supply company officials say they don't know. Railroad executives say it isn't their responsibility. And meanwhile, the car lies on its side like a wounded duck.

2 LOCAL STUDENTS ENTERING LEHIGH

Two students from Springfield are among the 600 freshmen who have been accepted for admission to Lehigh University this fall, Byron C. Hayes, associate director of admissions, announced today. The incoming class will come from 19 states, District of Columbia, and Honolulu.

The Freshman Week program will begin Tuesday, September 14. Registration for classes is scheduled for Wednesday, September 29.

Students from Springfield are James H. Lovell, Jr., 133 Short Hills avenue, who will study Chemical Engineering, and Clifford D. Walker, Jr., of 81 Severn avenue, metallurgical engineering.

Schools Open For New Term On Wednesday

Springfield's two public schools, James Caldwell and Raymond Chisholm, will open for the 1948-49 term on Wednesday of next week. The date is September 8. Students, entering school for the first time, including those transferred from other districts, have been requested to register as soon as possible before the term begins.

It is anticipated that nearly 800 students will comprise the enrollment this year. Average enrollment at the close of school for the summer vacation was 768.

Meanwhile authorities have announced virtual completion of the summer face lighting job at both schools, particularly James Caldwell, where a new section of roof has been added, new drains installed and new sound-proof ceiling lights installed in the gymnasium-auditorium. Both schools have been painted and decorated.

Red Cross Awards For New Swimmers

Swimming trips, which hundreds of Springfield children have enjoyed during the summer, came to an end last Thursday. In all, 19 trips were made, six of which were for instruction only. More than 300 children participated, the average single trip a tandem being 127, and the longest 211.

The local Recreation Committee, which supervised the activity, expressed its thanks today to the Springfield Red Cross Chapter, which made the entire project possible. In addition to providing transportation, the Red Cross furnished two instructors who contributed a total of 62 instruction hours.

Hospital Grants Told by Society

George E. Stringfellow, president of the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society, has announced basic grants of $250 each for cancer clinics of St. Elizabeth and the Elizabeth-General Hospital and the Overlook Hospital.

Stringfellow has notified Harry W. Kohler of Linden, president of the Union County Chapter, of the approval of the project by the society. They are given under a new program inaugurated to provide nursing and clerical overhead expenses for the clinics.

Rotarians Praise Local Developers

Suburban Properties, builders of the Revere Quality House at 77 Fieldstone drive, was commended by the Rotary Club at its noon meeting Tuesday for bringing so much favorable publicity to Springfield.

Pictures of the home appeared in many national magazines and all leading metropolitan newspapers. Advertisements emphasized the house was located in Springfield. Hawley Jaquith is president of Suburban Properties, and William T. Smith, Jr., vice-president. More than 3,000 persons viewed the house on Sunday.

Gordon A. McCall, charter member of the Rotary Club and local realtor, was presented with a gift by the group. He will leave for California tomorrow to establish residence there. Ben Chadwick, who will take over McCall's real estate business, has applied for membership in Rotary to fill McCall's classification.

Rotarians Praise Local Developers

Two new members were accepted following an induction talk by Owen F. Libbey, past president of the Hillside Rotary Club. They are Carl Holmers, an accountant, and Henry Heath, member of the Best Penel firm.

Guests were present from Union, Kenilworth, Elizabeth and Hillside. Milton Keshen presided.

Newswanger Appointed Springfield School Head

Benjamin F. Newswanger, member of the teaching system in Springfield for the past 22 years, was unanimously appointed supervising principal of local public schools shortly before midnight last night by the Board of Education.

Newswanger, who will receive $4,800 for the 1948-49 school term, replaces G. Mercer Guerry, who resigned recently to take a higher paying post in Long Island.

His appointment was made on recommendation of Charles D. Runcle, head of the school government committee, following a four-hour closed session of that unit. It is understood Newswanger was one of three candidates whose qualifications were reviewed in conference before a decision was made.

REGISTRATION DATES REPEATED BY TREAT

In addition to regular daily office hours, Township Clerk Treat repeated an announcement yesterday that his office will remain open the evenings of September 9, 14, 16, 20, 21, 22 and 23 until 9 P. M. for the purpose of General Election registrations.

RUTGERS TO OFFER COURSE ON RUSSIA

In response to the mounting interest in Russia, University College, the evening division of Rutgers, will offer this fall a credit course in Russian history for those wishing to become better informed on Russian backgrounds.

The new subject, which is designed for teachers, journalists, and politicians, as well as for students, will be given in both the Newark and New Brunswick divisions. In Newark, the class will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings.

Only 1 in 30 Township Men Eligible for Army Service

Only one of more than 30 Springfield men who registered for the new draft from Monday until late yesterday will be eligible for the draft, according to an announcement today by William C. Severn, Jr., chief registrant for Union and Springfield for Draft Board 42.

Falling alone in the single, non-veteran, non-father category, Fred Danneman, Jr., of 33 Country Club lane, up to this point is the only local man eligible for service. Danneman, born in 1922, is a designing engineer.

Otherwise all other local men who registered are ineligible for service under draft regulations as they stand now. Most of the ineligible are former servicemen, several are fathers and at least three are out of the picture because of physical disqualification.

Severn said a number of persons registering this week thus far were violating existing schedules.

New Supervisor Has Served Local System for 22 Years

Benjamin F. Newswanger, member of the teaching system in Springfield for the past 22 years, was unanimously appointed supervising principal of local public schools shortly before midnight last night by the Board of Education.

Newswanger, who will receive $4,800 for the 1948-49 school term, replaces G. Mercer Guerry, who resigned recently to take a higher paying post in Long Island.

His appointment was made on recommendation of Charles D. Runcle, head of the school government committee, following a four-hour closed session of that unit. It is understood Newswanger was one of three candidates whose qualifications were reviewed in conference before a decision was made.

Rid Town of Weeds, Resident Requests

The Township Committee is in possession of a letter from Max Weiss, resident of 59 Bryant avenue, requesting passage of an ordinance compelling property owners to rid their land of weeds in an effort to aid sufferers of hayfever. The letter, which states Weiss will submit a petition if it is required to obtain the necessary action, follows:

"As one of the thousands of hayfever sufferers of Springfield, I thought I would come to you gentlemen for help.

"Would it not be possible to pass an ordinance compelling every owner of an empty lot to cut down all the weeds, especially goldenrod and ragweed, on or before a certain time every year—say August 1st or by the latest, August 15th. Not only would this be a great relief to us hayfever sufferers, but it would also give our town a 'better look.' I am sure you will agree with me on that.

"Now, I appreciate the fact that there are many people who own lots who would not welcome such an ordinance and who might be reluctant to cut down the weeds. Well, if they didn't do it by the specified time, the township of Springfield could take the necessary steps to have the work done and charge the individual on their tax bill.

"I know it is rather late in the season; however, if the lots were cleaned up now, I am quite sure that it would be a big help to us hayfever sufferers and at the same time it might prevent others from getting it. It's no fun, believe me!

Chamber Opposes Veterans' Bonus

In response to an urgent appeal from Jenn Gardner, president of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, the Springfield Chamber on Monday, at direction of Lew Sandler, president, sent a telegram to the State Legislature opposing payment of a bonus to veterans at this time.

In a press release early this week, Gardner stated: "The imposition of new taxes on business and industry would adversely affect New Jersey's industrial and commercial growth and jeopardize job opportunities which are far more important to the State's veterans than a cash bonus."

Milk Permit Given To Arthur Lamb

A milk license was issued this week to Special Officer Arthur Lamb by the Board of Health through Robert Treat, its secretary.

Lamb, who has asked to be relieved of regular duty as a special officer, has agreed to handle the milk of one concern instead of two as was his intention when initial effort was made for a license.

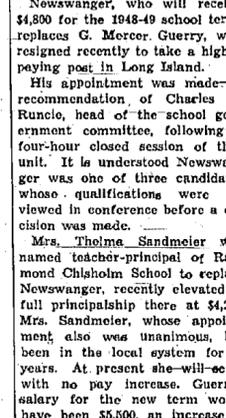

When Lamb's application was first taken up by the Health Board, Dr. H. P. Douglas, health officer, felt that his source of milk supply should be limited to one concern. Otherwise, according to Treat, there were no other objections to Lamb obtaining a license.

Action came this week on advice of Township Attorney Darby.

VETS WILL RECEIVE ADDED COMPENSATION

Veterans with service-connected disabilities rated 60 per cent or more in degree will receive additional compensation in the form of allowances for dependents under the terms of Public Law 877 which became effective yesterday, Veterans Administration announced.

Eligible for the increases are veterans of any war or peacetime service in the armed forces, who have service-connected disabilities of 60 per cent or more, and who have one or more dependents.

OUR POLICE CHIEF Says

A really good driver uses U-turns sparingly, and he certainly never executes them at signal-controlled intersections. A U-turn driver shows by his action he has changed his mind about which way he wants to go. Motorists like to depend on the other fellow doing the expected, not the unexpected. Exceptional care must be exercised in making any U-turn.

IT'S YOUR CONCERN TO MAKE A TURN SAFELY.

AMERICA the BEAUTIFUL

WHILE WE ENJOY THE BEAUTY OF OUR FORESTS AND WOODLANDS, LET US REMEMBER THAT A CARELESS MATCH, A FORGOTTEN CAMPFIRE EMBER, A SPARK PLUCKED FROM A CIGARETTE, CAN TURN VAST SECTIONS OF VERDANT LAND INTO CHARRED WASTE.

LAST YEAR, DAMAGE BY FOREST FIRES IN THE U.S. TOTALLED 32 MILLION DOLLARS... BUT THE GREATER COST CANNOT BE MEASURED—DESTRUCTION OF RESOURCES THAT TOOK NATURE AND MEN GENERATIONS TO BUILD, THE LOSS OF WILD LIFE, THE TOLL IN HUMAN MISERY AND SUFFERING.

WE ARE JUSTLY PROUD OF AMERICA'S NATURAL WEALTH AND BEAUTY — LET US GUARD IT CAREFULLY AGAINST ONE OF ITS MOST DESTRUCTIVE ENEMIES — FIRE!

From Files OF THE SUN

Five Years Ago
Springfield along with the rest of New Jersey took a 30-minute surprise air raid blackout test Monday night without a hitch or a trace of confusion. Old hands at observing the signals and acting accordingly, local residents quickly-doused their lights as the blue signal roared over air raid sirens and whistles at 9:25 p. m. Civilian defense forces had been alerted 10 minutes earlier with the transmission of the confidential yellow signal.

Criticism of the large Planning Board and support of Committeeman Fred R. Brown's contention that not more than one township committeeman serve on that body, was voiced this week by Gregg L. Frost, candidate for Township Committee.

Committeeman Charles Phillips, Sr., and Harry Nulph, bracketed Republican candidates for Township Committee, drew first place in the primary ballot in the office of Township Clerk Robert D. Treat.

Why Do People Read The SUN?

BUSINESSMAN:
"My work keeps me out of town all day, and sometimes for days at a time when I'm off on a business trip for my company. When you're not here too much of the time you can really lose contact with the community where you pay taxes, unless there's a newspaper that keeps you up to date. That's why I read the SUN."

HOUSEWIFE:
"Sure I read the paper. Like other normal human beings I like to know what the neighbors are doing and I might as well admit it... I like to see the account of my own bridge party last week. It helps me to compare prices too, so I can buy the week's groceries where my dollar goes the furthest."

THE SCHOOL KIDS:
SHE: "It's fun to read about our school activities in the SUN, and stories of the meetings of our clubs. It helps me decide where I'll spend my clothes allowance too. I like to read what the stores are featuring."

HE: "First I read the sports releases, same as the rest of the fellows do. Course I read other parts of the paper too, but I guess my second choice is the feature section. There's always some kind of a good hobby story there."

MERCHANT:
"I'm in business here at Springfield Center and I want to be sure I keep up with what's going on in this town. I don't live here—I'd like to, but you know what the housing situation is. The SUN also provides me with a 'Real Estate for Sale' column that I follow regularly. Sooner or later I'll find the place I want and then I'll be a real Springfieldite."

WORKING GIRL:
"The SUN helps me to keep up with the engagements and weddings of my friends I went to high school with. It's really amazing how you can lose contact once you get working out of town. I read the ads, too, because I still do a lot of shopping at the center."

All these people read the SUN because it offers them the Local news as no other medium can, it provides feature material, and serves as a shopping guide.

The secret of buying anything—from a six-room house to a potted palm—is to have the money to pay for it.

Local Grad Weds Bucknell Alumnus

The marriage of Miss Helen L. Karwoski, Regional High School graduate and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Karwoski of West Orange, and Leo S. Ranck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton L. Ranck of Lewisburg, Pa., took place Saturday afternoon in First Baptist Church, Westfield. Mrs. Martin Howarth of Westfield was her sister's matron of honor. Robert Morrison of New-dorp, S. I., served as best man. The bride chose a street length dress of light blue crepe with which she combined a matching hat. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Howarth's dress was of light maize crepe and she had cherry coko color accessories. Her corsage was of Italian roses.

WORRY never solved a problem

Getting yourself tied up in knots only makes the problem worse, the solution harder to find.

The next time you find yourself "worrying" a problem, try the relaxed approach:

Get into a hot shower or tub bath. Let yourself relax thoroughly. Then cool the water off quickly and give yourself a vigorous rub-down.

After this treatment you're pretty sure to be in a much better frame of mind to tackle that weighty problem. In fact, it won't seem half so serious!

P.S. ONE WORRY YOU DON'T HAVE TO COPE WITH IS THE COST OF WATER—WHEN A MERE NICKEL PAYS FOR THE AVERAGE FAMILY'S WHOLE DAILY SUPPLY.

Sautter-Flamme Wed in Millburn

Miss Jean Eveline Sautter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sautter of 40 Marcy avenue, became the bride Saturday afternoon of William J. Flamme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Flamme of 32 Marcy avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hugh W. Dickenson at 4:30 in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Millburn. A reception was held at the Wyoming Club, there.

Miss Elizabeth Crozier of Millburn was maid of honor, and Eugene Hughes of Elizabeth served as best man. Alvin Flamme, brother of the bridegroom, Robert Johnson of Roselle and William Holterback of Elizabeth, ushered. The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose a gown of white Swiss organdy fashioned with a yoke and sleeves of heirloom princess lace from her mother's wedding gown. Her fingertip silk illusion veil fell from a Juliet cap edged with the same lace, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses, asters and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was gowned in pale blue Swiss organdy with of the shoulder neckline and bouffant skirt. Her old-fashioned bouquet was of shell pink roses, asters and blue delphinium. A matching floral headpiece completed her outfit.

For going away, the new Mrs. Flamme wore a summer suit of royal blue with which she combined black accessories and the white roses of her bridal bouquet. The couple will return after a two weeks' motor trip through New England to reside here.

The bride was graduated from Elizabeth schools and the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts. Mr. Flamme is an alumnus of Union High School and is attending Rutgers University School of Pharmacy, Newark. He served four years with the AAF.

STUDYING GEOLOGY

Dr. John Lawrence Kulp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kulp of South Maple avenue, and family are spending the summer in the Smoky Mountains, North Carolina, where he is engaged in geological exploration. He will attend the American Scientific Affiliation annual convention at Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he will lecture on "The Abilites of Homi-noid Fossils." They will return to Leonia this month.

MOVING WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCall of Short Hills, will leave tomorrow (Friday) for an extended trip to California where they intend to reside permanently. McCall is a charter member of the Rotary Club, Springfield Chamber of Commerce and active in civic affairs. He is as head of the McCall Real Estate firm at 206 Morris Avenue, Springfield.

Dwyer-Ollinick Wedding Saturday

MOUNTAINSIDE — Saturday will be the wedding date of Miss Jane Marie Dwyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dwyer of Beach avenue, to Dominik Ollinick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ollinick of South avenue, Garwood. The ceremony will be performed at 3 p. m. in St. James Church, Springfield.

Miss Dwyer is a graduate of Regional High School and is now employed by Pass Dye Company, Newark. Mr. Ollinick graduated from Roselle Park High, and served three and a half years in the Army during World War II in the European Theater. He is with the Sun Oil Company.

The bride will have as her maid of honor, Miss Olga Ollinick, sister of the groom. Henry Englehart of Garwood will be best man, and Ellsworth Andrews of Garwood and William Bachman of Newark, will serve as ushers.

Registration Hits Early Snag in Boro

MOUNTAINSIDE — Draft registration was slow in getting under way in the Borough this week. Until early Monday morning no registrar had been appointed by Mayor Charles N. Thom.

The first Boroughite to register was Ralph Prugh of New Providence road, but he registered at the Westfield Board as he did not know of any registration point in MountainSide.

Mrs. Richard Keller of Whippoorwill way served the first day here, in the Borough Hall, and had only two men register: James Debbie of Route 29 and William Lenchun of Apple Tree lane.

On Tuesday Mrs. E. Alder Owens took over registrations assisted by Mrs. Roy Finton, at the Borough Hall, daily.

Driver Fined $35 On Two Complaints

MOUNTAINSIDE — Sigmund Durzcki of Oxford, was fined $35 last Thursday night in Police Court by Recorder Albert J. Benninger, on two charges. For being involved in an accident and falling to stop, he was fined $28 after pleading not guilty. Charged with driving without a New Jersey license and using New Jersey license plates on his car, he was fined an additional $7.

On charges of speeding, four motorists paid fines: Thomas J. Dasta of Pittsburgh, Pa., $10; Edward Buhle of Washington, D. C., $10; Edward J. Brown of Allentown, Pa., $13; and Eugene C. Contrabo, Camden, $15.

For parking in Echo Lake Park after parking hours, George Wilson of Millburn, was fined $3 and for a red light violation at the intersection of New Providence road and Route 29, Forest H. Altomose of Saylorsburg, Pa., was fined $8.

On a charge of operating a car with improper registrations, John Kubla of New York City was assessed $7.

PLANNING BOARD MEETING SEPT. 16

MOUNTAINSIDE — A special meeting of the Planning Board has been called by President Lloyd Manley, to hold a meeting on the long-discussed subject of house numbering in the Borough.

The meeting, a public one in the Borough Hall, will be held at 8 p. m., Thursday, September 16.

RETURNS TO BORO

MOUNTAINSIDE — The Andrew Schindlers of New Providence road have returned from a stay at Seaside Heights.

Are you planning to pick up and picnic this week end? Then I know you're hoping, as I am, for warm, sunny weather. But if it should turn out to be chilly or rainy, don't let that interfere with your plans. Go ahead and have your picnic anyhow... at home. That way your family won't feel let down, and you won't have to rustle up a regular meal at the last minute.

THIRST AID
It's no picnic being thirsty on a picnic, so be sure to take plenty of refreshing soft drinks on your outing! You'll find a big variety of "whistle witters" at your A&P... each as enjoyable as the other, and all thirstily priced. Make A&P your thirst aid headquarters!

QUICK AND SLICK
If you go in for campfire cookery, you'll get yards of enjoyment from ENCORE Prepared SPAGHETTI. It's mighty good cooked at home on the range, too, so get a few cans at the A&P. Made with a tasty sauce of tomatoes, spices and cheese, all you have to do is heat it. And if you want an extra hearty dish for 8 hearty eaters, combine 2 cans of this swell spaghetti with 2 cans of red beans; mix well in a skillet; add 2 tps. of chili powder, and heat thoroughly. Add green pepper and onion rings if you like 'em. Grand indoors or out!

SWANK FOR SALADS
For the best-dressed cole slaw or vegetable salad that ever went to picnicking, try this tangy dressing made with WHITE HOUSE MILK, the creamy-rich evaporated milk sold at the A&P. Just blend 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard, 1/2 tsp. salt, 2 tps. sugar, a dash of eye-balls and 1 cup unflavored WHITE HOUSE EVAPORATED MILK. Add 1 tsp. vinegar gradually, stirring till thick. Enough for 8 servings of salad.

KING-SIZE SANDWICHES
Where there's a grill, there's a way... to enjoy MARVEL HAMBURGER ROLLS in their special role of partners for sizzling hamburgers. But even if your picnic equipment doesn't include a grill, these delicious, freshly baked rolls from the A&P can have their innings on your outings. They're perfect for big he-man sandwiches of all kinds because they hold so much filling.

TURNTABLE TALK
By MARTIN BLOCK
AMERICA'S FOREMOST DISC-JOCKEY

ONE night back around 1935, on my way home from the broadcasting studio, I dropped in a New York night club to hear a new girl vocalist singing with Chick Webb's band. She had been with the band only one week, and she was as nervous as a high school senior making a speech on graduation night. If you want to hear for yourself just how much that shy, awkward girl has developed into a poised, finished singer, listen to Ella Fitzgerald's new Decca record of "My Happiness." Yes, it was Ella I heard that night.

The same tune has been waxed by John Laurenz for Mercury... and there's an interesting story connected with the record. Because of the Petrillo ban, the orchestral background was recorded in Europe and the master flown here, where Laurenz's voice was "dubbed" in. Pretty slick, huh?

Speaking of records made abroad, something really different is a tune called "Jazz Fiesta" recorded by Ambrose on a London label. Ambrose, who has been playing in England's swankiest hotels for years, comes up with a very listenable combination of swing and strings backed by unusual rhythm ideas... Another fine arrangement can be heard in Gordon Jenkins' disc of "Dark Eyes" (Decca).

Peggy Lee, the "Manana" girl, has another Capitol hit in "Caramba! It's The Samba (The One Dance I Can't Do)", which features that wonderful pseudo-Mexican dialect of hers... Sammy Kaye's latest Victor offerings are "Pecos Bill" and "Fool That I Am," the first an entertaining cowboy novelty tune and the second a slow, sentimental ballad that is proving very popular with Sammy's radio audience on the Chesterfield Supper Club.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS a BIG product of NEW JERSEY

Since the beginning of time, our fight against the menace of fire... the horrible destructive force of fire... has occupied man's ingenuity. But today, thanks to the leadership of New Jersey engineers and designers, modern fire extinguishers constitute a valuable protection against this mortal enemy.

Fire control apparatus is in use everywhere... on land, in the air, at sea. You see them on the highways and in the home, always ready for your protection. So hats off to the New Jersey men and women who have contributed so much to the design and manufacture of these important products!

Public Service Electric and Gas Company, public servant of a great state, commends the fire extinguisher industry on its accomplishments and its plans for future growth.

Look for the next advertisement in this series regarding your state published by Public Service. Copies of this series of messages regarding New Jersey are available on request. Write to 80 Park Place, Newark, N. J. Room 830B.

Our Neighbors

These events made front page news last week in the nearby community papers.

Here's a fish story to end all fish stories. It emanates from Ridgewood—from very reliable sources. Seems that the wife of the Supervising Principal of the Ramsey Schools, accompanied by a group of male fishermen last week actually lassoed a 16-inch pickerel. That's right she roped and tied the darn thing.

The wily pickerel had been tantalizingly swimming in view of fishermen but refused to nibble on their bait. Mrs. Twitchell, however, approached the problem from a different and certainly novel angle. For with a stone for a sinker and only grim determination for bait, Mrs. Twitchell heaved her line overboard. To her own astonishment, and complete confusion of the more seasoned fishermen, the pickerel made a dart and snarled himself in the line. With a scream and a jerk, Mrs. Twitchell hauled on the line. Lo and behold, the pickerel was firmly hog-tied on the other end. Yep, she had actually lassoed the creature. Mrs. Twitchell can probably now lay some claim to a title as a 20th century Diane.

State Questions Towns On Local Housing Setup

In an effort to determine current housing needs in local municipalities, Charles R. Erdman, Jr., State Housing Administrator and Commissioner of the State Department of Economic Development set Friday, September 10, as the deadline for reply to the State's questionnaire on existing home needs in each community.

Ohio is known as the Buckeye State.

Cinema's Future Speculative Says Maplewood Theaterman

A CROWD OF movie fans wait in front of the Maplewood Theater. But lines like this are now few and far between. The problem facing the movie industry is how to recapture their hold on the apparently suddenly critical movie-going public.

By JOHN COAD

What makes a motion picture an outstanding film, or an outstanding film a box-office hit? That's a question to Sturges Perry, manager of the Maplewood Theater. And after 12 years in the show business he still hasn't an answer to the problem.

That the movies are in a slump, Perry readily admits, but just why he isn't quite so sure. And that the current rash of criticism of the cinema today is 100 per cent justifiable he isn't quite so sure of that either. For after all he says, this movie business is a crazy game. "I'll probably get ulcers because of it. The public they're tickle."

"For instance take this subject of what makes a good movie a hit at the box office."

"Several years ago, I was manager of a theater which was playing in my opinion, one of the best pictures ever made: 'The Informer.' It was 'Dish Night,' we gave away free dishes with each show. Half-way through the performance, one woman came out of the theater, stating loudly that the house should have given away two dishes to see that picture. It was indicative of the public's reaction—the film was a box-office flop despite good critical reviews."

A Hit Second Time
"But several years later it was released again. This time it was a sell out. Why, because word had gotten around that 'The Informer' was a must for the movie-going public. Just like the best seller books, the public evidently feels it should see certain films, good or bad or indifferent simply because it is the thing to do. It's the everybody else is doing it, why don't you psychology."

"On the other hand you can take films like 'San Francisco,' a top box-office hit when released, but a dud when Hollywood tried to capitalize again on it several years later."

"The big attraction in this film, according to Perry, was a spectacular earthquake scene. But by the time it was re-released the film capital had developed bigger and better earthquake techniques and the public was bored with the film which reared its laurels on an earthquake and that, out-dated by several years."

"The dilemma of the movies today Perry says, revolves around, the Hollywood philosophy of 'give the public what it wants,' a debatable statement at best, and meeting the critical demand for better films, which unfortunately are often poor money makers. It seems that public taste is not always the critics' choice."

Foreign Films Have Little Appeal

An example of the present battle of home grown film products versus foreign productions. Critically the foreign products rank generally higher than the American films, but it's been Perry's experience that the foreign films have little box-office appeal. In fact, he says, they gross less than the average Hollywood production. It's the public again. They just won't seem to take the cinema medicine prescribed by the critic doctors."

In line with this, Perry noted that the biggest hits of the year so far were, "Sitting Pretty," and "State of the Union." Certainly these films were something less than dramatic successes. Entertaining yes, but that's about all. Well maybe that's what the public wants this year anyway.

As for the future of the movie industry, it's "speculative" says Perry, but he offered a few suggestions which, in his opinion, would aid in alleviating the present-Hollywood doldrums.

First of all he feels that more attention should be paid to the director of the film, who should be given a freer hand after he has demonstrated his ability to produce. Now, Perry says, there are so many hands in the cinema broth that the result is often an unsatisfactory stew. If director's were given the same relative authority as directors of the legitimate theater he opines that better films would result.

Elusive Goal
Secondly, some new blood in the plots. After 30 years of movies the same old plots have worn pretty thin, so much so that now stars are used to soup up essentially old time worn formula. But finding new plots, Perry admits, is something less than simple.

An thirdly, the deletion of the almost continual use of the superlative in Hollywood publicity. It's gotten to the point, says Perry, where the public is skeptical of all movie advertising because of the overworked adjectives.

But whether all this and more will pull the pictures out of the slump they are now enjoying, Perry doesn't profess to know. For after all, he says it depends on that unpredictable mass of humanity—the public, and the discovery of the "common touch" is an elusive goal.

The New Jersey Poll

Public Would Like to See Price Controls Back in Effort to Reduce Prices

PRINCETON, N. J., August 28—Despite the fact that President Truman's request for limited price controls was brushed aside at the recent special session of Congress, state and national Republican leaders might do well to examine carefully the fact that two out of every three residents in the state (68%) would like to see price controls come back in an effort to reduce prices; and that 55% of the New Jersey public would approve of price controls even if it means rationing.

Should President Truman make price controls a major issue in his campaign speeches, he is likely to find a sympathetic response from the general public, particularly among big city residents, manual workers, union members, and housewives.

As might be expected, Democrats throughout the state are overwhelmingly in favor of price controls (77%), but even more significant is the fact that three out of every five New Jersey Republicans (62%) say they are in favor of trying price controls again in an effort to combat high prices.

Support for price controls varies with the size of the community: the larger the town, the greater the sentiment for price controls. With the exception of rural areas in the state, where only a bare majority (52%) approve of price controls, more than three out of every five in all other segments of the population—men and women; Republicans, Democrats, and Independents; white-collar and manual workers; union and non union members, and the various city sizes—say they would like price controls tried in an effort to stem the rising cost of living.

When New Jersey Poll reporters asked a cross-section of voters all over the state:

"Would you like to see price control come back in an effort to reduce high prices?"

The replies were:

	YES %	NO %	NO OPINION %
Total State	68	26	6
Men	64	30	6
Women	73	22	5
Democrats	77	18	5
Republicans	62	32	6
Manual workers	73	23	4
White-collar workers	65	28	7
Union members	73	22	5
Non union members	67	28	5
Cities over 100,000	82	14	4
25,000-99,999	72	25	3
2,500-24,999	61	33	6
Under 2,500	52	37	11

When the 68% of the people who said they would like to see price controls come back were asked:

"Would you like it even if it meant rationing?"

The replies were:

Yes	55
No	10
No opinion	3

(Figures add to 68%—the total of those who favor price controls.)

EXPERT ADVICE FOR HOME GROWING

Your Suburban Garden

By Alexander Forbes

Perhaps last June you were thrilled with a massed planting of Madonna Lilies in your friend's garden. If so, and you wish to add these beautiful flowers to your own garden for next June's display, this is the time to act.

Madonna Lilies for Fragrance. The Madonna Lily known botanically as Lilium Candidum is probably the most popular of all lilies. It is believed to be the lily of ancient times and has been in cultivation in gardens through the ages, the emblem of purity, the inspiration of poet and painter for centuries. And its delightful fragrance is not equaled by any other lily.

In spring, the base leaves which have remained green through the winter, make new growth and later the flower stems reach up toward the sun. These carry a procession of small leaves and in June are topped by a cluster of buds and fully opened pure white, short-tubed lily flowers with partly reflexed, quite broad petals. The flowers are held quite close together and at right angles to the stem. Many of the three to four foot stems are topped with over twenty flowers and some have been known to bear fifty.

Plant Them in Full Sun. Choose a garden location where your Madonna Lilies will be in full sun and get free circulation of air. This will dry the foliage rapidly after each rain and reduce the likelihood of disease. They like a rich soil, prefer a soil although they will tolerate a limed soil but you must avoid the use of manure.

Their most important requirement of all is that the soil be perfectly drained. For this reason it is best to fork out a hole to a depth of sixteen inches.

If your subsoil is clay fork thoroughly into the bottom of this hole four inches of sand or fine gravel and an inch or more of humus or peat moss. If the subsoil is sandy use only the humus or peat but more of it. Tamp this down firmly. Into your top soil mix some sand and a double handful of bone meal per bulb and back fill the hole to within six inches of the surface after tamping well.

Now into the hole put a thin layer of peat moss, then a one inch layer of sharp sand. On this sand firm the bottom of the bulbs and on each drop enough sand to hide it. Fill the remainder of the hole with the top soil and water well. The tamping or setting by water of the soil below the bulb is important as it prevents the bulb from later settling to too great a depth. The Madonna Lily, unlike most others is base rooting and for this reason will not tolerate deep planting. A covering of two or at most three inches of soil on top of the bulb is best. It is well to dust the bulbs with powdered sulphur or better still with Semesan before planting. This mild disinfectant destroys mould and other disease organisms.

Madonnas Require Little Care. Madonna Lilies, best planted in groups of six or more, will form colonies and if happily situated will give a splendid display for years. Because they increase in number space the bulbs about one foot apart in irregular groupings. In choosing a location avoid a windy exposure and a border where they will have competition with surface rooting shrubs or elm and maple trees, or with strong deep rooting perennials. Lilies are best located by themselves in front of the green background of a hedge or shrubs. The Madonnas are a sight to behold when planted as companions to the pale blue belladonna or other delphiniums. If you use any iris cutflowers be careful to leave at least half the stem on the plant.

They do not like to be disturbed. Move only after they become crowded, in say five years. Give shallow cultivation when necessary and avoid damage to the new sprouts. During hot dry weather give an occasional soaking and mulch with an inch of peat moss during July and August. Many gardeners use low growing perennials or ground covers to shade the soil surface close to the lilies to keep the roots cool, but peat moss will serve this purpose well.

It is not too early to start planning cover crops in your vegetable garden. Rye and hairy vetch sown in late August or early September will keep the soil protected in winter and will add valuable organic matter in the spring. Vetch will increase the nitrogen supply of the soil.

Transplanting of rhododendrons and azaleas and narrow-leaved evergreens can be done from now until the middle of October. It can be started as soon as growth stops and the new leaves take on a dark green color. Early planting results in well established plants that can start right off in the spring.

This is the season also to make a new lawn or renovate the old one. Late summer or early fall sowing can be done more readily than spring sowing. The cool weather of September and October encourages growth of grass.

Order your bulbs for fall planting. If you are planning to set some Madonna Lily (Lilium candidum) get them in as soon as possible so they can make the roots of leaves to carry them over the winter.

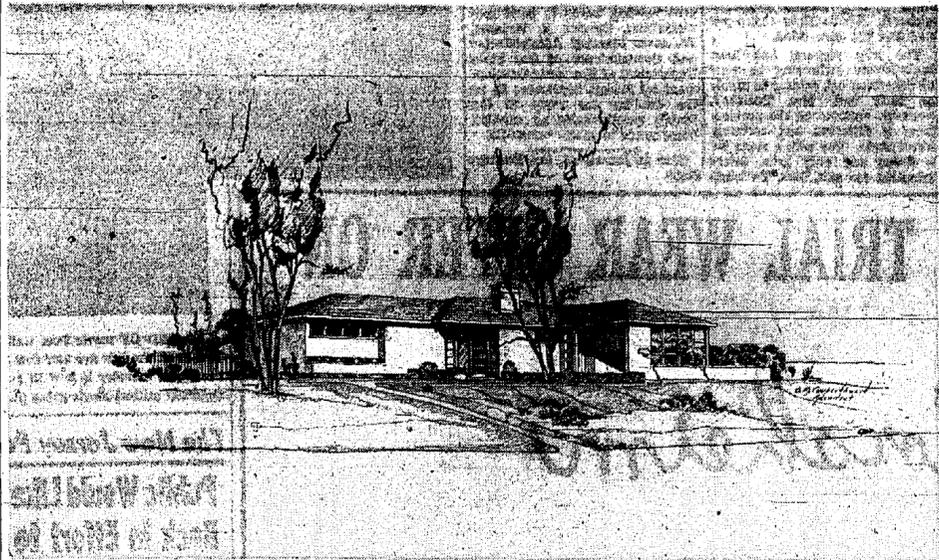

Cucumber beetles will continue serious until frost. Rotenone dust will keep them under control, as it will aphids on tomatoes and cabbage family, cabbage worms, tomato worms, Mexican bean beetle and corn borer. Squash bugs also will be a pest. If you can get a pyrethrum dust or spray, use this. However, persistent applications of rotenone or nicotine dust will hold them under control.

Month of Events in Jersey During Golden Sept. The "thirty golden days of September" for which New Jersey has long been famous are likely to draw record-breaking crowds of local and out-of-State visitors for the multitude of events scheduled during the month, according to Charles R. Erdman, Jr., Commissioner of the State Department of Economic Development.

More than 80 September events are listed in the "State Date Book" compiled by the New Jersey Council in the Department of Economic Development, and since publication of the Date Book, Erdman points out, many additional events have been planned.

September in New Jersey is traditionally the month of beauty pageants, oysters on the menu, football operators and countless business conventions. Young women chosen the most beautiful, talented and charming in their local and state contests will gather in Atlantic City September 8 for a week of final competition to select and crown "Miss America." In Asbury Park, "Mrs. America" will be chosen at gay ceremonies September 11. Later in the month, the boardwalks of Jersey's famous seashore resorts will be dotted with delegates promulgating between convention sessions.

A Modern House for Modern Living

IT'S NOT THE TRADITIONAL Colonial "Dream House," but this modified version of a "modern" home is the architect's attempt to create a home in keeping with the 20th-century way of living. The "modern" house, says the architect, does not attempt to "keep up with the Joneses" but turns its back to the inquisitive eyes of the public and provides privacy and seclusion at the rear of the home.

By BERNARD M. COWPERTHWAIT, Summit & Short Hills Architect

The modern house, or a modified version of it as here illustrated, is not the traditional Colonial "Dream House" so dear to the hearts of most prospective home builders. The typical so-called Colonial house was designed originally to conform to the techniques and living requirements of people who died two hundred years ago. Despite this, many persist in thinking that a Cape Cod cottage is still the snappiest idea in a home even though they are content to place their milk in the latest refrigerator, drive to business in the newest car, and press a button for heat instead of stoking a coal furnace.

Nor does the modern house attempt to "keep up with the Joneses," but frankly turns its back to the inquisitive eyes of the public parading along the street and provides privacy and seclusion at the rear of the house.

Since the lot on which the house is placed is on the south side of the street with a wooded area in the rear and a fine view of distant hills to the West, all important rooms were placed at the back to take advantage of the south sun, as well as the natural landscaping of the property. The less important rooms, placed in the front with long narrow strip windows, dictated the design of the front elevation which, as can be seen, is a far cry from the traditional facade usually planned to impress the general public.

The large floor-to-ceiling windows in the living-dining areas are protected with a generous five-foot overhang which allows the winter sun to stream into the room but keeps the hot summer sun from even striking the glass. The west windows, along which the dining table is placed, are open to the distant view which makes eating a pleasure instead of a mere routine. And the porch, devoid of supporting roof posts, and even insert screens, which have been found unnecessary, opens from the living room and is used as the dining room throughout the summer months.

The two main bedrooms, freed from the stifling effect of small windows, cramped closets and unusable wall areas, also face the South and with their large picture windows become not only sleeping rooms but also pleasant, almost secondary living rooms. The third room, placed at the northeast corner of the house, receives fine north light and was planned as a small study and drafting room for the Architect-Owner of the house.

Since no basement was desired, the utility room contains the efficient warm air heating plant, hot water heater and laundry tray with room left over for the storage of everyday household paraphernalia. A trap door in the ceiling of this room gives access to a storage area in the attic where other less used articles are stored. Floor construction is an insulated concrete-mat with a system of hot-air return ducts radiating from each room back to the heating unit. All floors, except the kitchen where linoleum was used, are covered with easy-to-keep-clean asphalt tile over which carpeting and rugs are placed.

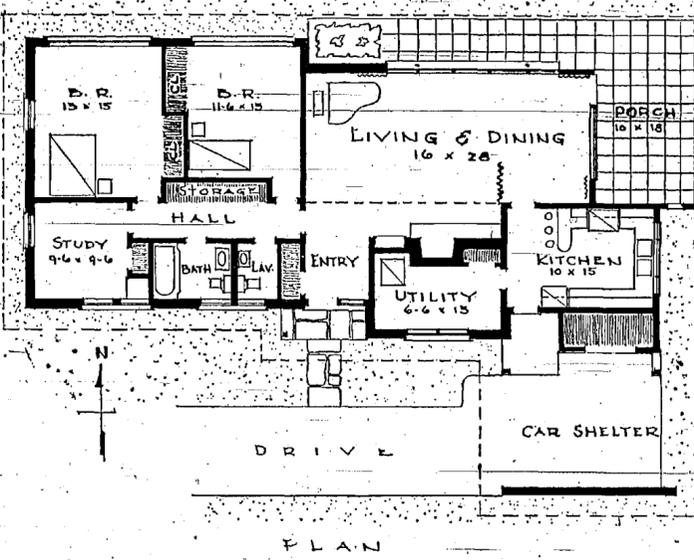

This house is therefore not the quaint little vine-covered cottage with its tiny-paned hard-to-clean windows and hand hewn difficult-to-paint shingles, so popular all over the world, but an individual's attempt to create a house and home in keeping with the 20th century way of living.

Don't Say String Beans—Ask for Snap Beans

Beans of many varieties are in the markets now. In the fresh line it's lima, or green and wax. No longer do we say "string beans," for there are no strings when the beans are young and tender.

Whether they are green or yellow, they should be cooked in a small amount of water, and only until tender. Lima beans, because of their higher starch content, will require more water than green or wax beans. Remember, the longer the cooking, the greater the loss of vitamins and also the less appetizing the beans.

State Gets Million For School Lunches

New Jersey has been allotted $1,012,341 in Federal funds for the operation of the National School Lunch Program during the 1948-49 school year, according to J. J. Dittreck, who is in charge of food distribution activities of the Production and Marketing Administration, U.S.D.A., in the Northeast.

In a communication sent to Agricultural Extension Officials of Rutgers University, Dittreck said that this is New Jersey's share of the $76,000,000 appropriated by Congress for the school lunch program, $68,000,000 of which has been allocated for distribution to the states and territories. Most of the balance is available for purchase of foods by the Production and Marketing Administration for distribution to participating schools.

New Jersey's allotment is about $54,000 larger than it was last year. Allocations are made by a formula which takes into account the number of school children and the per capita income in each state, Dittreck explained.

Last year about 140,000 children in 7,085 New Jersey schools benefited from the program, he said.

House Dresses Should Not Hinder Work

If you are a homemaker doing your own work, clothes that help you do the job are important. A dress that binds when you reach or bend, may be as fatiguing as a poorly planned kitchen, declares Inez LaBossler, extension clothing specialist, at Rutgers University. And it can be a safety hazard, too.

Why not give as much attention to selecting your work clothes as you give to choosing kitchen equipment. Here are a few requirements for functional house dresses says Miss LaBossler. Keep in mind that the advantage of one good design feature may be lost, if the rest of the garment is poorly cut or doesn't fit.

Have plenty of room across the back of the blouse, the specialist says. Pleats, gathers or other features which provide width are good, but only if the fullness comes in the right place. As for sleeves, they should be cut with ample width across the cap. Moderately wide, above-the-elbow sleeves are more comfortable and safer than elbow length or long ones. But for the most freedom and coolness wing sleeves are ideal. Necklines should be large enough so you can pull them over your head without strain or fuss. This saves dressing time as well as wear and tear on the garment. Necklines with flat trimming are cool, comfortable, and easy to iron. Be sure the skirt to the work dress is moderately wide, but not so full it gets in the way. This is no place for an exaggerated "new look."

Pockets are a must—but they should be large enough to be useful. Also, they should be placed so they won't catch on door knobs and stove fixtures.

An unusual combination of prize-winners are represented in this month's Amateur Camera Contest. For the extremes in age brackets—from teen-ager to grandmother—are found among this month's winners. First prize was taken by Mrs. Walter Davies, a Summit grandmother, second prize by Robert Kaiser, a Chatham teen-ager.

Mrs. Davies, who can boast not only of being an amateur photographer, but also a grandmother several times over—a unique combination—finds that photography is a fine hobby with which to keep herself occupied. Just goes to prove that this photo bug knows no bounds of age, sex, or parental affiliations.

It was a warm July day when Mrs. Davies loaded up her 1922 Graflex with film pack ready to take pictures of Pamela Rundlet, the elder child in the picture. Pamela was all dressed up for an afternoon party, when the rest of the family appeared for their picture too. That's Mrs. George Rundlet on the left, and the small child with the concerned expression is the younger Rundlet, Cynthia. When Mrs. Davies snapped the shutter of her Graflex, the result was this charming family portrait. It won her first prize in this month's Amateur Camera contest, and illustrates the point that a good snapshot-type photo often makes a fine portrait.

THIS STRIKING photo of a power line, entitled "Erector Set" was taken by Robert Kaiser, of Chatham. He used a Kodak Monitor at an exposure of F.11 at 1/60 of a second. It was awarded second place in this month's contest.

A Piece of Your Mind

Karl H. Platzer, Psychologist

The last article presented the facts arrived at in an audit of civil rights as they exist in Montclair. The method whereby these facts were obtained is interesting. The project was started by the Montclair Forum, a group of residents interested in social and community welfare. They enlisted the aid of the local unit of the American Veterans Committee.

These were joined by the Intercultural Group of the Montclair State Teachers College, the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Montclair Inter-Group Council. After discussing the field to be covered, it was decided to appoint six sub-committees, covering the fields of Education, Public Health, Housing, Employment, Public Facilities, and Recreation. Each committee devised its own methods of finding facts. Groups of colored and white students visited restaurants to order meals. Real estate agents were visited in efforts to rent apartments or buy houses. Delivery men for local stores had informal talks with customers regarding the way the latter felt about Negroes, Jews, or Italians moving into the neighborhood. Applications were made for jobs with municipal agencies, public utilities, and private firms. Records of employment in the public school system, the city bureau, and the police and fire departments were checked. These methods were practical and empirical; they yielded facts that could not have been found merely by questioning people as to whether or not they discriminated. Furthermore, they cost little; less than $30 was spent, all of it for meals ordered in restaurants.

Several methods were needed to complete the Montclair Audit for Civil Rights. Copies were presented to the city commissioners; one copy was placed in the Montclair Public Library where all who are interested, including yourself, may read it.

Accomplished Good
According to reports, the Audit has already accomplished some good in the short time since its

CATCHING UP WITH THE WORLD

By GREGORY HEWLETT

It may be water over the dam by this time, but this observer of the state of the world can't help but wonder if the rank-and-file veterans of World War II really want a bonus from the people of the state of New Jersey—want it badly enough to upset the financial apparatus?

The question of a bonus—and particularly the ways and means of financing it—has been one of the most troublesome problems facing our men in Trenton for the last two-three years. It's been kicked all over the state house lot, upstairs and downstairs, and during this special summer session of the legislature has gotten entwined with a couple of other bills to form a pleasant-sounding trilogy of "bingo, bonus, and bonds."

Thinking perhaps more of the political value of a bonus than of the benefits to the veteran per se, the idea has been that the state's 550,000 ex-soldiers should be given an average of around $200-apiece as a gesture, we suppose, of New Jersey's gratitude. Not having the million-plus dollars in the treasury, there've been all kinds of ideas for raising the money—running the gamut from a state-supervised lottery patterned after the Irish Sweepstakes to a tax on electric bills. No matter how it's done, it's obvious to most people that it would put another strain on everybody's already-strained pocketbook—including, of course, the purse of the veteran himself.

Although we wore a uniform overseas and had the historical rank of colonel, we're not eligible for any bonus and thus can't speak for those who are. But we're inclined to believe that most of the men who did their duty to God and Country would be happy to forego this gratuity—and might even consider $200 more of an insult than an honor. First thought of most folks, we know, is to take all they can get, but in this case, the veterans have had plenty of time to think twice about it.

Do we hear any seconds from the audience?

FAGING GOV. DRISCOLL
Speaking of the bonus, and of Trenton, we'll be glad when Governor Driscoll is able to return to his chosen hot spot. Senator John M. Sumner, Jr., of Salem has done all right as acting governor, and we expect he's following the boss' orders; but from all appearances, he lacks the leadership which Driscoll has shown both his position and personally. And the New Jersey Legislature needs leadership, even though the boys are now $3,000-a-year men!

We may be wrong, but we doubt, for example, that the legislators would get away with their plans for the state courts if the governor were on the job. Disregarding in some basic ways the recommendations of Chief Justice Designate Arthur Vanderbilt and his aides, the Senate Republicans have come up with a court pattern of their own—and have done it, apparently, for the simple purpose of showing the world that they're the ones who make the rules.

Differences over the retention of advisory masters to hear matrimonial cases and over the total number of Superior Court judges (Vanderbilt set 33 while the GOP Senators say 42) may not seem too important, but that alone means something like $14,000 in cash a year and much more in the patronage market.

Never let it be said, in other words, that the legislature would give up a chance to help give out a good job!

On the international scene, meanwhile, perhaps the most infact remains that this man, well-educated and well-paid, felt impelled by reason of social discrimination to turn away from the land of his birth.

Think then of the effect such discrimination may well have upon others who are not so fortunate as Robeson. When a man feels he has no stake in the country, he is willing to grasp at any panacea held out to him. The poor whites in Louisiana fell for the glittering promises held out by Huey Long. We still remember how many people in the depression followed the orotund platitudes of Father Charles E. Coughlin. The colored people in this country have been steadfastly loyal and will remain so, but why allow them to be tempted by the glib sales talk of communists that only under a system other than our own American one will they find themselves first-class citizens?

Intolerance, bigotry, discrimination must go, and the place to start is right in your own home town. It can be done; the Montclair Audit has proved so. Which of you will be the first to follow their lead?

Water Colors Are Exhibited at Paper Mill

During the current run of the Shubert opera, "Blossom Time" the gallery of the Paper Mill Playhouse of Millburn will exhibit a striking series of water colors by Lee Gaskins of Elizabeth...

Mr. Gaskins' work is characterized by clear and accurate handling and by both vividness and delicacy of color. During World War II, he served for three years with the Army Engineers and his travels in North Africa are reflected in such picturesque bits as "Street Scene, Africa" and "Santa Cruz." In contrast with these are such tranquil studies of New Jersey landscape as "Winter Time," "Sun-down" and "Reflection" and many interesting sketches of the Cape Cod Sand dunes. There is a bold and even seafaring quality in the scenes from the Garden of the Gods in Colorado and the rocks and pines of the Adirondacks...

Current Impressions

By REEVE STONE

Stravinsky As Middleman Igor Stravinsky is one of the most frequently recorded of contemporary composers. As a consequence, every person interested in music has probably heard several of his works and has already made up his mind as to how he favors him.

It is unfortunate that Stravinsky's best-known works are his three early ballets, "The Fire-Bird" (1910), "Petrushka" (1911), and "The Rite of Spring" (1913), as these depend too much on pounding rhythms and broken or interrupted melodic lines with a frequent accent on the grotesque for their appeal.

Not only is Stravinsky a much recorded man but he is extremely prolific in his composing. Therefore it is not surprising to find that all of his works are not of the same high standard as his "Song of the Nightingale" (1919), "Symphony of Psalms" (1930), and his "Symphony in Three Movements" (1945).

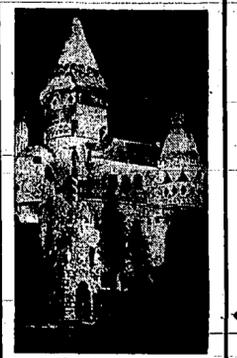

De-Neurotized Tchaikovsky For anyone who does not like the music he's heard by Stravinsky and yet likes the late 19th century romanticists, the Divertimento from "The Fairy's Kiss" may help him to become better acquainted with Stravinsky, as it is probably one of his most obvious and least original recorded works.

The story of the ballet is based on Tchaikovsky's life with Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale "The Ice Maiden" serving as an allegorical representation of it. The ballet was composed in 1928 to commemorate the 55th anniversary of Tchaikovsky's death.

Not only does the Divertimento serve to introduce Stravinsky pleasantly and unobtrusively to newcomers, but it will also help them to understand much contemporary music which has been influenced by Stravinsky. No matter what his place may be in years to come, his influence will certainly be felt. This album, however, is sure to be a disappointment for anyone who knows his more important works.

The surfaces of these records are as good as in most recent albums. The RCA Victor Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Igor Stravinsky, plays the music impressively, keeping the shallowness of the Divertimento concealed under a blanket of rhythm and contrast. The first two sides have the most interesting musical material but from then on, the music alternates between a nostalgic and empty reminiscence of his inspirer and sounding like dressed-up elephants dancing to Franco's more square miles in Africa than any other European nation.

Pictures, Plays and People

REVIEW OF THE WEEK: Not so long ago we were talking with a man in the film business. He repeated a phrase, often heard: "The American public doesn't want realism in its pictures."

And a piece of celluloid entitled, "The Sainted Sisters," is a fine example of the above statement. Neither fantasy nor realism, "The Sainted Sisters," who were anything but saintly at the film's start, gives to the theater public a taste of what the world should be, but very rarely is, in everyday life.

The sisters, Veronica Lake and Joan Caulfield, two comely, but unscrupulous lassies, make their way in the world by preying upon the good nature and fat pocket-books of elderly gentlemen. But as to all sinners it must, their luck runs out and with the police supposedly hot on the trail, the sisters flee to the Canadian border.

By a coincidence they find themselves stranded in the home of Barry Fitzgerald, a stone carver, who graciously relieves them of their ill-gotten goods, and to the dismay of the sisters distributes the money among the needy of his small Maine town. As if in answer to prayers, the poor suddenly find themselves gifted with a new roof or what-have-you. And Mr. Fitzgerald, a good fellow blames all the good deeds on the unwilling sisters, whom the townspeople take to their hearts. The now reformed sinners, overcome with remorse, go back to New York to take their judicial medicine, but return to their little Maine town in a touching Christmas scene. And of course there must be love interest, so Veronica, it is intimated, marries the handsome engineer and supposedly is his helpmate in building a power station for the town.

It's one of those films which hasn't much to recommend it, except for the one item - it depicts a world where everyone is good and kind and sinners are reformed - a little heaven-on-earth. It's a good film to see after reading the daily headlines.

the Way," went "blind" to train for the role. The child actress wore a specially constructed black silk blindfold during the days of lengthy rehearsal sessions with a guide dog. And to insure authenticity, her program followed closely that of the Hazel Hurst Foundation, a guide-dog school at nearby Pasadena.

And here's an indication of the public's choice in films this year. Among the top ten, according to the annual tabulation of Box Office Digest, were, "Unconquered," "Road to Rio," and "Welcome Stranger." A complete listing has not been released as yet.

It's a lucky charm, at least that's the way screen star-Nina-Foch looks at her most prized possession, a Pio Ziegfeld makeup box. The box of teakwood encrusted with a pattern of tiny mirrors, was given to her mother, Constance Fawcett, one of the film's most famous showgirls by the late Ziegfeld himself. Nina claims the box has given her luck ever since it was given her last year when she began a year-long hit portrayal in the Broadway show, "John Loves Mary."

Pre-View of Fall

FOR THE LITTLE DINNER, north or south, Pauline Trigrone designs a two-piece effect, with white pout-de-soie top, and matching black skirt.

By TRACY ADRIAN

A model from the current collection of New York dress designers showing a pretty frock for the leisure hours which every woman hopes to enjoy if she has "something to wear."

We like the skirt which tells better than words that the new look has taken in its balloon sales and left enough material to be chic, while the ultra slim skirt looks newer but not startling, beside it. The change in fashion is less drastic as we prepare for a new year, to be expected following the splurge of post-war show-off, the idea being, apparently, to make the best of either a slim or a bouffant silhouette, without over-emphasizing its intention.

In other words, fashion is not being railroaded extravagantly, but with moderation.

manhood gasped homeward from a big city job to his humble abode. Stopping only for a short dinner, he laid his fever-wracked, cold in the head bones into bed. As this last night a battered beaten wreck of young American Summer is such a swell time of year.

poor unfortunate was drifting off into a merciful sleep, which he sincerely hoped would last until oblivion, the presence of someone else in the room became apparent to him. He shifted uneasily. His inability to accept welcome sleep became obvious.

Then the darn mosquito buzzed close and bit me.

Instantly I was awake. There was no thought of sleep now. Only a horrible maniacal desire to catch this blood-thirsty intruder and end his ill advised existence. Standing aggressively, if somewhat unsteadily, blinking at the light and holding a copy of the New Yorker tightly clutched in my gnarled paws, I presented a satyr like pose.

Ready for the kill! First I shook the covers on my bed and made certain that my little winged friend was not lurking shyly beneath the counterpane, ready to perform his vampire duties on me when I returned to bed.

Certain that he was not there I methodically looked at every corner of the brightly illuminated ceiling hoping to see his cherty little face shining up there like a bright star — ready with my folded magazine to beat him to a pulp.

Then my excess of rage began to have its mark on me. Feet aching, heart beating wildly, I gripped my way to the bed, put out the light and dropped into weary half sleep.

Ah, at last, blessed peace. I could feel the day's weariness passing out of my bones. The soft glow of moonlight flooded the room and I shut my tired eyes.

But, no. Buzzzzzz. Somewhere near my ear was Happy Boy, the Jersey Sleeter, again. I could almost hear his silent laughter as once more I slumped violently at my crew cutted pate, and slammed the lights on only to find him vanished.

Finally I caught him and helped him to a speedy demise with a complete lack of anti-bloodsuck emotion. But he is the final victory. Tonight I find three of his

Editor's Note: Send in your favorite recipes to the "Two Best Recipes of the Week" contest. All entries should be addressed to the Home Editor of this paper.

SAUCE A-LA-PIEMONTESE

submitted by Mrs. Robert Caruba Maplewood

This recipe, according to Mrs. Caruba, originated in the Caruba Kitchen four generations ago and has been passed down from mother to daughter to the present time.

1 to 1 1/2 lb. veal (shoulder or rump)
4 large or 8 medium yellow onions
2 lbs. dried French mushrooms, soaked in 1 cup water till soft (1 hour)
1 clove finely chopped garlic
1 cup tomato sauce (home made marinara or Del Monte tomato sauce)
1/4 lb. dried basil

Sauté meat in 1 lbs. olive oil or butter, add onions, mushrooms and the water they were soaked in, then tomato sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Cook till meat is tender, (about 1 hour). Remove meat from pan and grind it well. After grinding, put back in sauce and serve hot. Parmesan cheese may be sprinkled on top when served.

We usually serve this on top of Mostaccioli, which is a short macaroni and can be bought in the local stores. It's made by LaRosa and is number 84.

Marinara Sauce

2 lbs. olive oil in bottom of pan
1 clove finely chopped garlic
1 medium can Italian tomatoes
1 small can Del Monte Tomato sauce
1 small can Italian tomato paste
1/2 ts. Basil or marjoram
1 ts. sugar

Sauté garlic in oil till light golden, add strained tomatoes, then tomato sauce, and lastly tomato paste. Add sugar, salt and pepper to taste and Basil or marjoram. Cook 1/2 hour over medium flame till all are well blended. This will keep in refrigerator two weeks if reheated after first week.

"GOODIE" PICKLED CRAB APPLES

submitted by Mrs. E. Jordan Linden

3 cups cider vinegar
1 cup water
3 cups sugar

2 sticks cinnamon
2 lbs. whole cloves

Bring above ingredients to a boil. Clean apples; leave stem on; drop a few at a time into boiling syrup. Cook 15 minutes. Lift out carefully and put into clean, sterilized jars. Cover with syrup. Let stand 24 hours. Pour off syrup and boil again. Then cover apples in jars with hot syrup again.

Let stand 2 days. Then boil apples again in syrup until tender but firm. Place apples in jars; cover to keep hot. Boil syrup again and fill jars to overflowing, seal.

N. J. One of America's Top Oyster Producers

Let go with all lines and make ready to sail!

This will be an oft-repeated cry today as trim craft move out into Delaware Bay and along the Atlantic Coast signaling the opening of the fall oyster season.

One of New Jersey's leading industries—for half a century, the cultivation and gathering of oysters has had a long and significant history in the State.

That the Indian appreciated the succulence of the oyster long before the appearance of the whiteman is proven by the ancient shell heaps that have been discovered in southern New Jersey.

The colonists early realized the importance of the bivalve, and this realization led to the settlement of many villages where the oyster industry constituted the principal source of livelihood for the population. One town of this type which has survived until the present day is, appropriately enough, Bivalve, N. J. In this quaint village, nearly the entire population of 500 is occupied with the gathering and shipping of oysters.

In the southern part of the State on the shores of the Maurice River, is located the largest oyster producing region entirely under the jurisdiction of any single state in the Union.

As a result of many years of careful cultivation and conservation, New Jersey is one of America's leaders in the oyster industry, as it is in so many other fields.
