FRIENDS!!

Things are looking better than ever over there at Revolutionary Square . . . a couple of weeks ago the developers of the proposed three million dollar project completed that huge sign at Morris and Flermer avenues . . . on Monday of this week another sign, calling attention to the location on the construction offices, also went up on the property . . . F. & F. Nurseries, former occupants of the huge area, has just about completed its own moving process to make way for the big proposition . . . now, unless an A-bomb drops in our midst, they'll be over there digging mighty soon!

And talking about the Atomic bomb brings to mind our private chat this week on another subject with State Civilian Defense Director Leonard Dreyfuss . . . there's the best appointment Governor Driscoll or any other governor, for that matter, ever made . . . Dreyfuss is charged with the responsibility of designing ways and means of protecting every man, woman and child in this state in the event of attack, bombing or invasion . . . the size of the task and the responsibility involved cannot be described, but if ever there was a man suited for the job, Dreyfuss sure fills the bill . . .

There's one outstanding thing wrong with the Union County Republican Committee down in Elizabethtown and it's high time someone called attention to it . . . little or no time is devoted from one year to the next in weeding out dead-weights, Republicans turned Democrats or removing from the files names of those workers who have died . . . blunder of them all was pulled last year when some leading live Democrats and deceased Republicans were announced as active GOP workers in the primary campaign . . . Warren Gaffney was very much embarrassed . . . last week comes another party announcement listing the names of municipal workers throughout the county . . . Springfield's contained the names of a couple of men whose GOP activity ceased long ago and failed to include some ardent party workers who by this time are plenty sore!!

That business of blinking traffic lights at Morris and Millburn avenues has caused some griping from Baltusrol way residents . . . they complain they take their lives in their hands trying to get into Morris avenue . . . traffic along the turnpike was backed up for more than a mile Sunday afternoon.

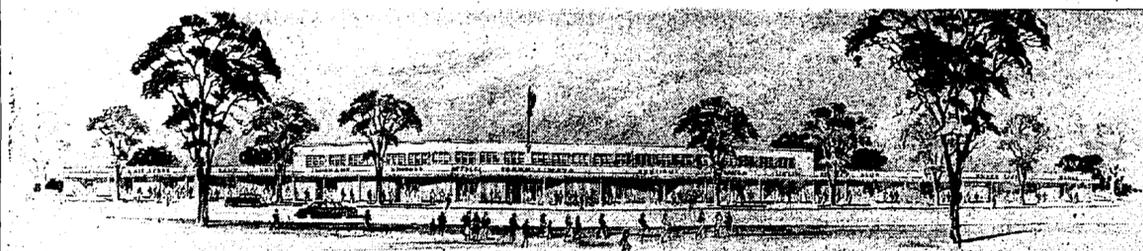

Schoolbells in Springfield will begin setting up an increasing clatter starting next Thursday as hundreds of kids begin their trek back to classes . . . as per age-old custom, the first few days spell slow journeys for most of them — only the tardy ones will be racing across streets to classrooms . . . motorists are reminded that children will be on the roads in full force between the hours of 8 and 9 a.m. and after the 3 p.m. closing . . . there is no greater tragedy than hitting a child with an automobile . . . no matter who is at fault, the motorist always feels the greatest sense of blame . . . don't you be the unfortunate driver who falls in this category.

A Millburn woman recently came up with perhaps the most effective way to combat hoarding practices yet devised, according to a story in the neighboring town's local newspaper . . . spotting another woman carrying a huge bag of sugar in an overstuffed pushcart, she screamed out, "LOOK AT THAT HOARDER!" . . . this almost brought on a hair pulling match, but if patriotic residents took similar steps elsewhere to embarrass the hoarders out of stores, we'll bet the practice would be stopped in a flash.

Because of the Labor Day holiday, all copy and pictures for next week's newspaper must hit the editor's desk no later than Tuesday noon . . . only by special arrangement will news items be accepted after the specified time.

Proposed New Springfield Shopping Center

"It will just be a matter of days before we get underway full speed," said Architect William Chirgotis yesterday afternoon when he brought the drawing, pictured above, to The Sun Office. Showing the proposed shopping center, which will form a large part of the three million dollar Revolutionary Square development, the drawing provides for sixteen stores with offices above. The building will stretch along Morris avenue and around Flermer avenue with the center of the structure opposite First National Bank. The stores will also have display windows in the rear with parking space nearby for more than 400 cars. Chirgotis said his plans call for starting the business structure soon after work has begun on the apartments.

New Referendum To Ask $395,000 For 14-Rm. Bldg.

Walker Issues Details On New School Program

Clifford D. Walker, president of the Board of Education, yesterday issued the following prepared statement concerning details of the proposed $395,000 new school building program which the public will either approve or reject by referendum on September 26:

"Announcement has been made that the Board of Education has decided on a $395,000 school building program, September 26th being the date set for the next referendum.

"Since the defeat of the referendum last May, the Board has conducted a survey for the purpose of obtaining a cross section of public opinion. The response to the survey was excellent and we thank everyone for their cooperation. From an analysis of the returns, it was apparent that the school facilities recommended were more than the people felt should be provided at this time, considering local financial conditions. Some question was raised as to the need for buying land, when we now have in our possession a plot toward the south end of town. Some felt that additions should be made to present schools.

"Careful consideration has been given to the results of the post card survey and to the May referendum as they affect current needs. However, we have not lost sight of the necessity of considering a long range program, since the initial step should fit into the future school system educationally and economically.

"It was the unanimous decision of the board members that the next school facilities should be located and planned for a future upper grade school as before, but that the initial unit would have to be much smaller and with the emphasis on classrooms. Naturally the amount which would be accepted by the people at this time was a matter of difference of opinion. After long deliberation it was the conclusion of the majority that the referendum would be for $395,000.

"At current building costs it is estimated that we can obtain a

Program Calls For Purchase Of Flermer Property

Detailed plans concerning its $395,000 new school referendum, slated for September 26, were disclosed Tuesday night by the Board of Education following a 4 to 1 vote approving a resolution authorizing the public ballot. An estimated 14 classrooms at the same 9 1/2 acre site proposed for the $550,000 16-classroom upper grade school rejected in May is contained in the board's new proposal.

Wilber Eno, vice president of the board, cast the only dissenting vote on grounds that the $395,000 school program is inadequate. He accused the board of giving him a "run-around for the past six months" in his campaign to obtain outside professional education and architectural advice.

Eno said the advice was needed now more than ever in order to get the maximum number of rooms out of $395,000 in the face of rising building costs. "All enlightened school districts bring in professional advisors when they have problems like ours," he said, estimating the cost of such services at $1,600 to $1,800. "That isn't very much for a $395,000 program," Eno declared.

Only a minimum quorum was present at Tuesday night's meeting. In addition to Eno, those in attendance were Clifford Walker, board president; Howard Smith, Robert Smith and George D. Harrison Jr. Absent were Mrs. Russell Pritzinger, Mrs. Robert Champlin, Thomas F. Doherty and Herbert O. Bailey. Mrs. Champlin previously voted against the $395,000 program.

The new referendum calls for a maximum of $394,000 for constructing and equipping the school and improving the site, on the east side of South Springfield avenue, near Shunpike road. Price of the tract, owned by F. & F. Nurseries, Inc., has been listed at $31,000.

Voting machines will be used on September 26 and polls will be open from 2 to 9 p.m. for Election Districts 1, 2, and 4 at James Caldwell School and Districts 3 at Raymond Chisholm School.

Regional Set For Heaviest Student Load

Staff Changes Announced For School Opening

During the month of August Miss Carol Kraft, Director of Guidance, has interviewed more than 400 students who have come to the high school to check their schedules or to make schedule changes to meet college entrance requirements.

The increase in the number of students who have registered for the fall term indicates that the enrollment will be larger than at any time in the history of the school. Last year Regional maintained a peak enrollment of 905 while high school enrollments throughout New Jersey continued to drop. In 1950 high school enrollments in New Jersey will continue to drop but Regional, because it is made up of districts which have many new housing developments, will show a considerable increase in enrollments.

The schedule of events prior to and including the opening of school is as follows: Tuesday, September 5, General Teachers' Meeting at 2:00 p.m.; Wednesday, September 6, Freshmen transported to school to duplicate daily routine with shortened periods; and Thursday, September 7, School opens for all students.

The following are the staff changes for 1950:

John Brown, a graduate of the University of Florida with a Master's degree from Columbia University, is an additional member of the staff and will teach social studies and physical education. Brown will be head football coach. He has been teaching at Caldwell High School for the last three years.

Michael Suchena, a graduate of Franklin and Marshall, will replace Albert Nevin and will teach U. S. history and geography. Suchena will be head coach of

'Power Fails As Storm Hits Springfield; Traffic Blocked As Winds Uproot Trees

A freak late summer electrical storm with gusts of winds reaching near hurricane proportions ripped through portions of Springfield late Tuesday afternoon causing hundreds of dollars in damage, uprooting scores of trees and resulting in a power failure which doused lights in some sections of town more than 12 hours. As late as noon yesterday emergency crews from Jersey Central Power and Light Company were working on torn wires in order to restore electricity to homes in Woodcrest Circle and Mountain avenue.

Bernard Schramm, former local volunteer fireman and employed as a traffic director in the observation tower at Teterboro Airport, estimated the winds here reached 65 to 70 miles an hour. Schramm was in Springfield when the storm struck.

There were storm rumblings and rain for about an hour before the main force of the miniature hurricane blow in from the northwest through a cut in Baltusrol Mountain. It was shortly after 4 p.m. when the full fury of the storm struck. Huge tree limbs along Upper Morris avenue, in front of Spring Brook Village, were torn and spilled on the roadway, blocking traffic. A couple of hundred pounds of tree fell smack on the front walk of the home of Herbert A. Kuyin at 420 Morris avenue.

A canopy at Gibson's Diner at Morris and Mountain avenues was ripped to shreds. Two local businessmen stranded in their car in a parking lot off Morris avenue said the wind almost overturned the auto. Power and telephone wires fell all over the streets. The new television aerial of Dr. Watson B. Morris at 193 Morris avenue was blown from the roof. Lights went out all over town.

The municipal building which houses police and fire headquarters also lost its electric current.

Sports Quiz Held At Rotary Session

A quiz on sports with two teams participating highlighted a meeting of the Springfield Rotary Club at noon Tuesday at the Baltusrol Golf Club. Winning team was captained by Harry Boughner and the losers were led by George R. Reimer of Union.

The contest was conducted by two Millburn Rotarians, George Bauer, director of recreation in the neighboring community, and Robert Marshall. Ray Bell served as umpire. Prize was a major league baseball signed by Ken Bandomer, vice-president, acting in behalf of Benjamin Newswanger, president.

Visitors at the meeting included John Mente and Horace Heyman of Kenilworth; Franklin Hardcastle, George Reimer and Harold Bromm of Union; William H. Force of Madison; Alfred Hoffer and Arthur Gordon of Elizabeth; Albert Bierman of Summit, and George Wells of Sayre, Pa.

Watching Troops Enrollment High

The Watching Troops, which are to begin their autumn riding season September 7, are meeting with a very enthusiastic enrollment, according to T. N. Tully, Troop Director. Troops will ride daily after school hours and on Saturdays for ten consecutive weeks. Troop No. 2 and Troop No. 4 already have a full complement.

The Watching Troops are sponsored by the Union County Park Commission at the Watching Stables, Glenside avenue, Summit, and all troops have equestrian for beginners, intermediates and advanced riders. Membership ages range from eight to eighteen years.

In addition to instruction, members of the troops enjoy rides over the twenty-five miles of bridle trails in Watching Reservation, and are eligible to compete in the Annual Autumn Troop Horse Show in October.

The following local trooper has enrolled to date: Lyddy Buerklin.

Scared Stiff During Storm, Says Local Office Worker

(Editor's Note: Following is a little story written by a girl employed in one of the offices in town. She tells how she felt during Tuesday afternoon's freak storm and asked she remain anonymous.)

Nature lovers can do all the talking they want about the Petrified forest but believe me, they'll look for a heck of a long time before they find anyone or anything as "petrified" as I was Tuesday afternoon when the full temper of that miniature hurricane swept down the main street of this small town.

"I didn't sleep, I wasn't pushed" but I sure fell — right smack into one of the most perfect cases of pure, unadulterated fright, you've ever seen, when that clap of thunder which came just a little bit after 4 o'clock smashed in my ear.

Simultaneously, the room plunged into semi-darkness and all I could think or feel was that lightning had struck again but this time it had struck me!

"When you see the lightning and hear the thunder, don't worry," they told me, "but when you don't see it or don't hear it then, after it's time to watch out." Well, I hadn't seen anything but I had heard an awful lot and even in my dazed semi-conscious state of

School Lunchroom Ready for Pupils

Announcement was made today by the directors of the Raymond Chisholm lunchroom that hot lunches, priced at $1.05 per week (milk inclusive) will be available at the school beginning Monday, September 11. Milk and ice cream, however, will be available on both these days.

Teacher Finishes Course in Driving

Thomas F. Langan, Jr., a member of the faculty of Regional High School, has just completed a two week professional course in automobile driver education at Montclair State Teachers College.

The course has 60 hours duration equally divided between classroom work and on-the-road instruction in dual control cars. Lennox is the son of Township Engineer and Mrs. Arthur H. Lennox, and Mesker is the son of Fireman and Mrs. Ormond Mesker.

Expect Record Attendance At Local School Openings

Springfield youngsters will bid farewell to summer resorts, backyard pools and long hours of play next Thursday when they once again take up pencils, books and pads and answer the call of "one old school bell." The two and one-half month vacation interval has seen many changes in the school setup and it is with mixed feelings of anxiety and optimism that parents, teachers and students alike await the beginning of the new term.

As was anticipated at the close of the spring session, a record breaking attendance will jam Regional High School and the town's two grammar schools. Raymond Chisholm and James Caldwell, while scores of kindergarten and first grade pupils will be housed temporarily in the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, pending the erection of a new school or additional classroom facilities.

According to an announcement made by Thelma Sandmeyer, principal of Raymond Chisholm kindergarten pupils of that school will attend the morning session in the Presbyterian Church. Caldwell School kindergarten youngsters will attend the afternoon session in the same church while first grade pupils of both schools will occupy classrooms in the Methodist Church.

Transportation will be provided, as in previous years, for those who are not within a reasonable walking distance from the schools.

VA Issues Advice To Army Draftees

Persons entering the Armed Forces who seek protection of their civil rights with regard to such liabilities as mortgages, taxes, rent and installment contracts, under the provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, were advised today by the Veterans Administration to consult a qualified attorney or seek the counsel of the bar association in their community.

The VA is neither authorized nor equipped to furnish personal counseling service regarding individual rights under this Act. Joseph P. O'Hern, Manager of the Veterans Administration Newark Regional Office, reported.

The VA, he stressed, administers the insurance section of this Act, which provides for protection of servicemen's and women's commercial life insurance policies while they are in service. This protection is not extended to National Service Life Insurance or U. S. Government Life Insurance, more commonly referred to as G. I. insurance. The protection of commercial life insurance is afforded by way of guarantee of premiums, and the VA has authority to approve each application in an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the face value of the policy or policies of each individual loan interest that the VA may pay for the insured under this Act, will remain as an indebtedness against the individual until repaid. The indebtedness cannot be waived by the VA.

Persons entering the Armed Forces who wish to make application for insurance protection are not to apply directly to the VA, but must wait until inducted into military service. At that time, application should be made on Veterans Administration Form No. 9-280 through the person's military organization. Induction center or such other place under military control.

Mr. O'Hern emphasized that the VA is not concerned with the non-insurance provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act except for certain legal questions regarding GI guaranteed loans, since the VA administers that program. He pointed out, that VA Loan Guaranty regulations permit lenders and veteran-borrowers to agree, with VA approval, to reduce the monthly payments of GI loans and to extend the maturity date. However, neither VA regulations nor the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act provide for suspension of monthly payments.

All provisions of the Act, excepting the Insurance Section, are more or less self-executing, or depend upon the initiative of the individual serviceman or woman.

New Residents
Among the new residents of Springfield this month are Major and Mrs. L. N. Chilwood of 33 Meisel avenue, former commanding officer of the Army and Air Force Recruiting Station at El Paso, Tex. Major Chilwood recently returned from Japan where he spent one year with the First Cavalry Division in the service of the Military Government. He is retiring from the Army today (Thursday) after 33 years of active service.

Looking Into Yesteryear

From Files OF THE SUN

Five Years Ago
The Board of Adjustment unanimously rejected an application made by Carl H. Flomer to convert a house on Milltown road into a two-family dwelling, on the grounds that it "would place a hardship on surrounding residents and property owners." Residents of the vicinity, members of the Country Oaks Association, who were the principal objectors were: Joseph Polizzotto, president; Mrs. Fred Danneman, Eugene Boehm, Louis Kupper, Hans Haubold, Vincent Carney and Lee Andrews.

Ten Years Ago

The Township Committee unanimously found Mrs. Anna Pelos, proprietress of the Farmer's Hotel, Morris township, guilty of a charge by Mrs. Olsen of 824 Morris, turnpike, Millburn, that brawls, disturbances (and unnecessary noise) were permitted. After deliberating for more than a half hour, the committee ordered the tavern closed for five days.

Marriage of Miss Marjorie Danneman daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Danneman of Remer avenue, and Kenneth A. Hoagland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hoagland of 181 Tooker avenue, took place in the Springfield First Presbyterian Church, Miss Dorothy Burd of town was the bride's only attendant and William Masling, also of town, was best man. Ushers were Frederick Danneman, Jr., brother of the bride, and Robert Hoagland, brother of the bridegroom.

A graduate of Union High School, Miss Sweetland attended the Colt Memorial-Babies Hospital, Newark. Her fiance, a Regional High School alumnus, attended Utah State University and served two years in the Navy during the war. He is now completing studies at the University of Southern California where he is a member of Pi Lambda Phi fraternity.

A pencil sketch of the historic First Presbyterian Church of Springfield, complete to the minutest detail and representing 100 hours of painstaking effort, was presented by Township Clerk Robert D. Treat to Rev. Dr. George A. Liggett, pastor, in conjunction with the church's 200th anniversary.

Closed Saturdays

Each time a new motion picture reaches the suburban theaters, there is an immediate demand for the book from which the story was taken. Among the new films from books to be found in your library are "Spy Hunt" from the book "Panthers' Moon" by Victor Canning; "Sugarfoot" by Clarence Buddington Kelland; "The Asphalt Jungle" by W.R. Burnett; "The Edge of Doom" by Leo Brady; "The White Tower" by James Ramsey Ullman; "The Black Rose" by Thomas Costain; and such time honored favorites as "King Solomon's Mines" by H. Rider Haggard; "Lorna Doone" by Richard Blackmore and "Treasure Island" by Robert Louis Stevenson. "Cheaper By the Dozen" and "Father of the Bride" have not lost their appeal and never will for they depict, in humorous fashion, the lives in part of "we the people." "Gone With the Wind," "Leave Her To Heaven" and "Valley of Declison" are seldom on the shelves for long but whether the picture recommends the books or vice versa is a moot point.

The library's summer schedule changes in September. The Children's Story Hour will be only once a month, on the third Saturday, the first one being September 16, the first Saturday that the library is open.

A Stranger Comes To Town

A stranger from out of town got on the bus and asked the operator:
"How much is the fare?"
"Just a nickel, mister", the operator replied.
"What?", said the amazed stranger. "Five cents! How can you give service for a nickel?"

Well—we can't!

When you stop to think about it, a five cent fare today—1950—is amazing. It is impossible to furnish you with adequate and dependable transportation at a fare we charged in 1940.

Prices have skyrocketed in the last 10 years.

Public Service has to pay more for everything that goes into a bus ride—things like oil, tires, bus parts and gasoline are way up over 1940 prices. Wages have been climbing, too. Since July 1, 1948, they have risen by about $4,750,000 on an annual basis—and over $13,500,000 on an annual basis since 1940.

And the bus fare is now only 5 cents.

Public Service filed a petition on July 12, 1950, with the Board of Public Utility Commissioners for relief from the five cent fare until such time as permanent rates shall have been established by the Board.

The company feels that you can readily understand that efficient and adequate transportation service is in jeopardy when we face the loss of nearly $4,000,000 a year.

school essentially of 14 classrooms and a large multiple purpose room for this amount, the building being ready for occupancy by September 1952. The initial layout would be arranged for later additions as needed. Gymnasium, auditorium, lockers, cafeteria, etc., are not included in plans for the present.

"The $395,000 figure includes the 9.3 acre site, opposite the Raymond Chisholm School. We believe the purchase of this land now is an important step in the broad picture of needed school sites. This land, with the presently owned tract in the south area, should provide all the flexibility needed for future expansion in either or both locations. When and where additional facilities will be required is a matter that cannot be determined at this time. The answer to this is dependent on population growth, new housing, economic conditions, etc. The Board of Education is constantly obtaining basic information to forecast growth, trends and future school needs and is incorporating in the records its survey or plans for the future. We feel sure that future boards will continue this process and keep the public informed as the need develops.

"Since the May referendum, the debt has been further reduced so that the borrowing capacity has increased considerably. The $395,000 bonding will be well within the local borrowing capacity. Approval by the people in the referendum is all that is needed to start this school for the children.

"As you know, school will open in September this year with all kindergarten classes in the Presbyterian Sunday School rooms and with some first grade classes in the Methodist Sunday School rooms. Some of the upper grades will be on a part time basis. It is the Board's opinion that there is general public agreement that additional school facilities are needed now. We believe also that as future needs develop, the people of Springfield will recognize the problem and meet the challenge at that time."

County Democrats Map Election Data

Harry Mopsick of Linden, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 6th Congressional District (Union County), John L. Banyasz of Garwood, Democratic candidate for Union County Sheriff, and John J. Crilly of Elizabeth, Mrs. Ann M. Donnelly of Scotch Plains and Oscar Lamb of Linden, all Democratic candidates for the Board of Chosen Freeholders, met this week at the home of Mrs. Donnelly to map plans for their campaign.

They decided, among other things, that the most important objective at present is to get every qualified elector registered. They notified the Union County Board of Elections has designated Tuesday and Thursday evenings, September 5 and 7, 12 and 14, and 19 and 21 respectively, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. as additional hours for registration and transfer in all municipal offices and at the County Board's office in the Courthouse, and that Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th the aforesaid offices will be open from 9 a.m. right straight through until 9 p.m. for such registration and transfer.

September 28th, is the last date for registration and transfer for the forthcoming General Elections to be held November 7th next.

The candidates pointed out persons previously registered in Union County who have moved from the registered address to another location in the county, even in the same district, must file a change of address over their registered signature on or before September 28th; persons who have changed their names by marriage or court order must re-register, and any person who will become 21 years of age on or before November 7th, 1950, must register, and has the right to do so, on or before September 28th, in order to vote at the General Elections.

The Democratic candidates maintain that if every qualified elector registers and then exercises his or her high privilege of voting the successful nominees will truly represent the majority of the people of Union County. When only a small percentage goes to the polls those elected are put in office by an organized minority. That this does not make for good government can be readily seen by looking at Russia and its satellite countries.

A Piece of Your Mind

KARL H. PLATZEN
Psychologist

ALL THE mail attracted by this column is interesting, much of it thought-provoking, and some really good. From time to time, some of the letters are printed here to represent what the readers are thinking. One such thought-provoking epistle follows:

AND THEN, COMES TOMORROW
Rose D. Kosches

The restlessness of Man is an impulse that carries within itself the seed of its own destruction. Like so many of the traits of character that Man possesses, restlessness is both a gift and a liability. Because of it, man has progressed. Stirred by it, he has created conveniences for easier living. Influenced by its magic, he has provided educational opportunities for his children. And, as a release from its demands, man has sought the guidance of divine providence and the solace of meditation. These accomplishments owe their presence in civilization to the ceaseless impulse of restlessness. But, along with this good of it, is the danger of the evil involved. Greed, hate, and selfishness, the three musketeers of despotism, can make of restlessness a thing to be feared, shunned, and ignored.

History tells us that man, in his desire for a more enriched life, has moved from plane to plane in communal cooperation, from level to level in understanding and charity, and from crest to crest in mental power. That early man who was a creature of instinct alone, who walked the face of the earth subject to the brutal superstitions of ignorance, has given way to modern man and his limitless capacities for self-development and self-expression.

Is it not strange that Man so often falls prey to his own weaknesses and the baser influences in society? Through all the ages of man, philosophers have sought an answer to this query. And, through all the ages of man, the same mistakes and weaknesses rise up to disturb the peace. For, in spite of the splendor of our civilization and its high social and economic structure, there is still much to understand and control. Long, long ago man began seeking for the road to idyllic living, seeking for that place where truth, honor, and love could abide in peace.

However, aims are a spur to greater effort and make bearable the mistakes of the human race. Inquisitive restlessness is no fitful fever that will pass in the night and be replaced by a cheerful calm in the morning. It is deeper and more elusive. It has its source in the emotional nature of Man, and is at best, unpredictable.

There are those among us who fear that the culture of the human family is losing its grip, that it is retrogressing instead of progressing. And yet, youth would challenge that statement because it has faith in its own TOMORROW. Its dreamless restlessness inspires youth to carry its banner of courage high as it looks ahead.

It is this resiliency of life which remains an ever present wonder, that makes us believe with Youth that THEN, COMES TOMORROW.

Public Favors Speed Governors

Director, The New Jersey Poll By KENNETH FINK

A GOVERNOR put on all cars that would not permit any one to drive faster than 50 miles an hour at any time strikes a responsive chord with New Jersey motorists.

A recent New Jersey Poll survey on the subject shows that New Jersey auto drivers and car owners, as well as the general public itself, favor such a step by a substantial margin.

Today's vote is all the more impressive when it is realized that nearly two out of every three car drivers and car owners questioned in today's survey favor putting a 50 mile governor on their own cars.

Chief reason offered for approving the 50 mile governor is the idea of safety. Many people believe that only by putting governors on cars will dangerous speedsters, particularly younger drivers, be curbed.

Opponents of the idea argue chiefly that a governor might increase the number of accidents because of the resulting slowdown in passing cars on the road.

When New Jersey Poll staff reporters asked the following question of an accurate cross-section of 1,000 adult men and women located in 17 of the state's 21 counties and in 44 different communities:

"Would you be willing or not to have a governor (regulator) put on your car that would let you drive no faster than 50 miles per hour at any time?"

The results were:

Yes, [No]not	will/will/undecided
New Jersey	car
drivers 63% 35	2

Note: worthy, too, is that majority sentiment in every population group measured in today's survey approves of the 50 mile an hour governor. Men and women, young and old, those who ride a lot and those who ride little; and people in all occupational groups, city sizes, and educational levels express willingness to have 50 mile governors put on their cars.

The fact that New Jersey motorists and non-motorists alike look with favor on 50 mile governors undoubtedly is due to the tremendous toll traffic accidents exact on public highways.

For example, traffic accidents alone killed 491 people in the nation during the four-day July the Fourth holiday celebration last month.

And during this coming Labor Day week-end, the traffic toll would undoubtedly be reduced if every car on the road had a 50 mile governor on it.

Experiment in Living: 40 Years at Free Acres

Unique Community in Watchung Hills
Founded on the Single Tax Movement

By JOHN COAD

EIGHTY-SIX families earlier this month (August 18-20) celebrated the 40th anniversary of the founding of Free Acres, a single tax colony located in New Providence Township and one of only three single tax colonies in the United States. For almost half a century this community has endeavored to put into practice the words of its constitution which states the purpose of Free Acres as an endeavor "to create a community for the study of self government, social progress and taxation where all shall be mutually helpful and free from all forms of monopoly of natural resources in order to secure to all equality of opportunity and a real reward of effort."

Free Acres, which today nestles prettily in the suburban Watchung hills, is an offshoot of Henry George's single tax movement which gained considerable following at the turn of the century. George, founder of this economic philosophy, expounded his views in his book "Progress and Poverty" which by 1905 sold over 2,000,000 copies. An American newspaperman, George journeyed to California during the days of the gold rush. While he was there he became disturbed by the disparity between the large sums of wealth accumulated by the few on the one hand, and the poverty of the masses on the other. This was but a symbol of the great change which was taking place economically, industrially and socially during George's time. The industrial revolution was just beginning to make great strides in this country bringing comfortable circumstances and security for the industrial barons, but restless insecurity for the working classes, when George came to the conclusion that the economic system of the nation was the cause for the evils which were abundantly present.

In his book "Progress and Poverty" George advanced his theory to remedy the economic and social ills of the day. He held that access to the use of land was the inalienable right of every individual. He pointed out the injustice of a system which allowed great land owners to make fortunes from the real estate, which they owned as a result of community efforts. He held that a single tax on land—and on land only—was the equitable form of taxation. By taxing unimproved land values but not the improvements on the land, George was certain a more abundant life would result for everyone.

This made sense to many people from all walks of life; to the hard-pressed laborer, to the middle class professional man, and even to a number of multi-millionaires who could be counted among George's followers. Among George's most ardent disciples was Bolton Hall, son of the Rev. Dr. John Hall, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York. In 1910, Bolton Hall bought 64 acres of land in New Providence Township and founded Free Acres as a model community to demonstrate the single tax movement in practice.

Today, 40 years later, Free Acres is a thriving community within a community, and is still attempting to operate under the conditions put down by its founder. The colony, as well as demonstrating the single tax philosophy, is an example of tight little democracy which combines individualism with enlightened community interest.

None of the 86 families, about half of whom make Free Acres their permanent home, own their land. In accordance with the single tax philosophy, they are called leaseholders and rent their land from the Free Acres Association. Theoretically their rentals, which are assessed upon the value of the land regardless of improvements, pay all the expenses of the community. In practice, and this has caused considerable disension among the residents, the Association has sought additional levies from other sources to meet increasing costs. This, of course, is not in accord with the single tax theory upon which the colony was founded, but it is claimed to have been necessitated by practical considerations.

The colony is governed by its own elected officials which include three trustees, three assessors, a town clerk, a building inspector and a treasurer. There are as well various committees to take care of such matters as fire, health and sanitation, and roads. Each leaseholder has one vote which entitles him to a voice in the affairs of the community.

Free Acres has its own library, a swimming pool, tennis court and children's playground and depends upon only two outside utilities—electricity and telephone service. It maintains its own

JUDY RAPP

On Suburbia's cover this week 16-year-old Judy Rapp of Milltown road, Springfield, is pictured as she sumps the surf at Barnegat Light. For Judy, like many others her age, summer shortly will be just a memory. Swimming, sunning and beach parties will soon give way to history, algebra and English. Judy will get down to such routine matters as these at Regional High School where she will be a junior this fall.

Spencer Brodney, a summer resident of Free Acres, by the bell which summons the colony to meetings.

water pipes, which are connected with the Commonwealth system, and has built and maintained some two miles of private macadam roads.

Some residents of Free Acres have termed the colony "a way of life." Its unique self-governing system has been likened to the old town meetings in New England. Almost all of the residents agree that Free Acres is more of a community in the true sense of the word than can be found in the everyday world. Neighbors work with one another for the good and benefit of the group. For instance, during the war, when most of the men were called into service, the women took over the life-guard chores at the swimming pool. There is a dramatic group in the making, and a number of the mothers are putting their heads together to plan some sort of program for the youngsters which will keep them within the community. As one of the mothers expressed it, "we realize that the younger kids are everybody's responsibility."

But, as in all matters which involve humans, matters do not always go smoothly. There was, for illustration, considerable argument among residents concerning the construction of a handball court. Finally, after much discussion in which the colony was split into two factions, it was voted to go ahead with construction of the court. As yet nothing has been done. Then there was the time when one of the older residents was advised by his doctor to get as much sun as possible for reasons of health. As a consequence he took periodic hikes around the colony garbed only in his underwear. When some of his neighbors insisted that he should be more fully dressed, he appeared in his underwear, but with a necktie. The silent squelch seemed to do the trick.

Bolton Hall, the founder of Free Acres, evidently was an unusual sort of person, and although he died in 1938 at the age of 84, his personality is still the subject for controversy among older members of Free Acres.

Hall apparently inherited the power of persuasion from his father who was a powerful orator and a leading Presbyterian pastor of his day. He was a tall, handsome man, endowed with the social graces which enabled him to travel in the best of circles. While an undergraduate at Princeton he was a member of the football team and the crew and editor of the university's literary magazine. He graduated from Princeton in 1875 and three years later received his master's degree from that institution.

From Princeton he stepped into the export-import business, but within a few years found himself faced with bankruptcy suits, one of which amounted to $280,000. From business he went into law, but fared no better because of his disposition to advise his clients not to waste money on legal disputes.

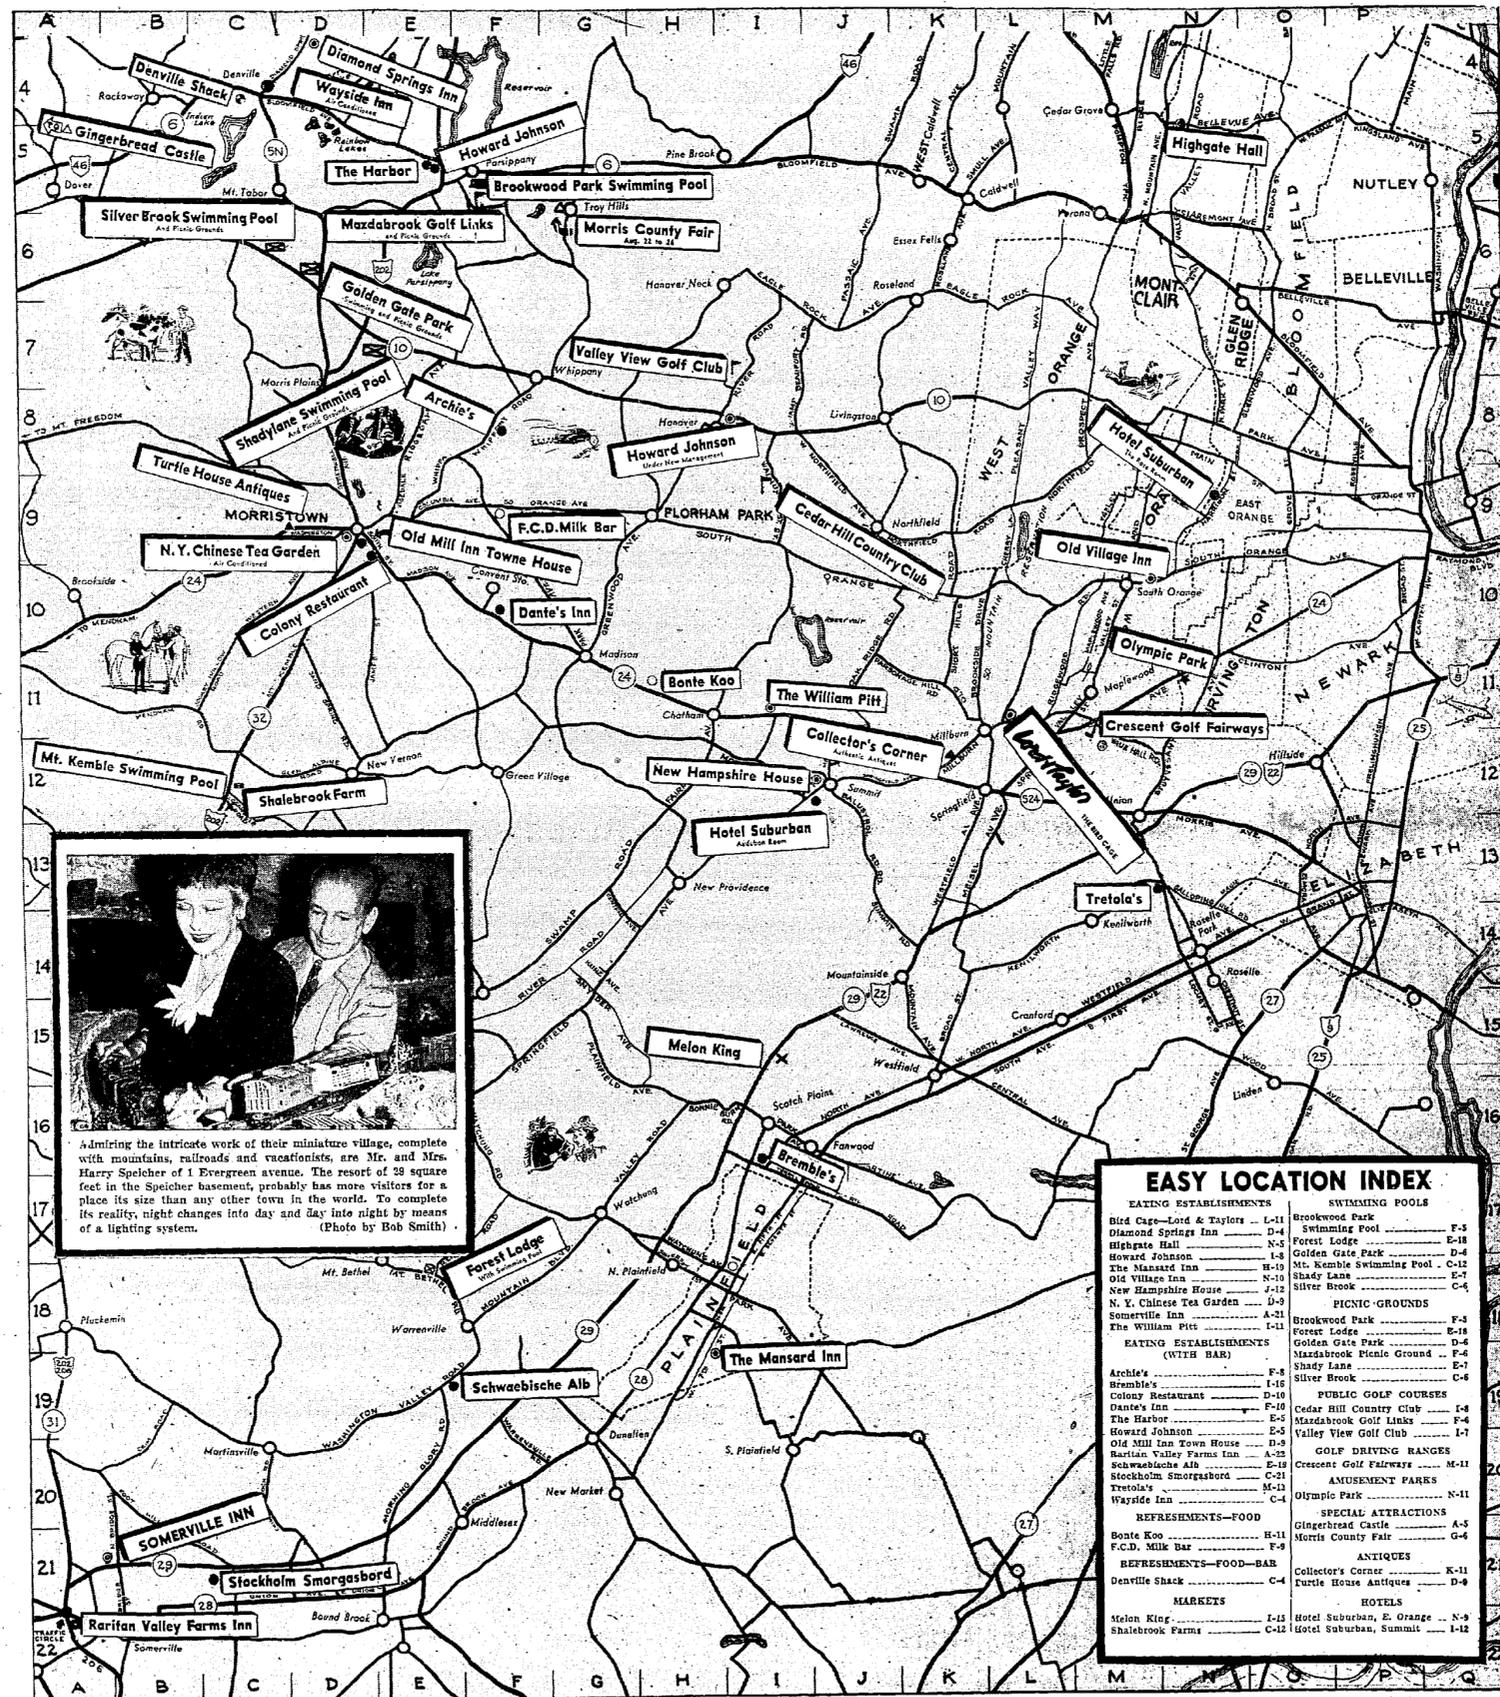

Although he seemed incapable of making his own way financially, he was married to the daughter of a wealthy New York real estate owner, and spent most of his time managing his wife's property.

In 1888 Hall met Henry George and became a convert to the single tax movement. He also met two other single taxers: Frank Stephens, artist, poet, crusader and pacifist, and Will Price an outstanding architect who designed some of the fashionable hotels in Atlantic City and Florida. Stephens and Price were founders of the Real Estate Association, bought 64 acres of land in New Providence Township in order to found a similar colony called Free Acres.

During the early years of Free Acres many of the residents were artists, writers and actors who spent their summers in the delightful Watchung Hills. They lived in tents or small, one-room shacks. Among the notables were: James Cagney, Thorne Smith, whose two daughters still live at Free Acres, Konrad Berovick, a short story writer, Will Crawford, illustrator for "Puck," and McKinley Kantor, a serial writer for the Saturday Evening Post.

Today the tents and shacks have given way to permanent homes, and many of the writers and artists have been replaced by commuting business men who like Free Acres as a year-round home. As for single taxers, there now is said to be only one avowed single taxer in the development, although others show various degrees of interest in the theory.

But Free Acres, 40 years old this month, still stands as a unique example of giving a different twist to this business of democratic living.

Admiring the intricate work of their miniature village, complete with mountains, railroads and vacationists, are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Speicher of 1 Evergreen avenue. The resort of 28 square feet in the Speicher basement, probably has more visitors for a place its size than any other town in the world. To complete its reality, night changes into day and day into night by means of a lighting system. (Photo by Bob Smith)
