

What Do YOU Think?

Beverly Rappaport

Question asked by your inquiring reporter: "Do you think the new people coming into Springfield will have any effect on the results of the coming November elections?"

Ken Brands, 103 Tooker avenue
"No. The new people will be influenced by the people who are already here or else they will be considered outsiders. The ethnocentric beliefs are too strong to be changed."

John Scarpone, 18 Baltusrol Way
"Everything has been Republican in this town since George Washington left. A change would be the town goal and if the new people would look back on the record of Springfield politically, they would see a change is needed. Since they have no previous political ties they won't be influenced by their neighbors and 'big wigs' in the town but will voice their opinions freely and vote the way they feel is right."

Joseph C. Rokosny, 27 Warner Av.
"No. There are not enough incoming residents to make a difference. Present party strength is much too predominant."

Bill Ziegenfuss, 387 Morris Ave.
"No, the results won't be influenced because the new people don't know the town or the parties running well enough. The trouble is that people stick to a party and not a man. The amount of Republicans and Democrats coming in would probably balance itself."

Harry Stewart, 6 Flemer Ave.
"Yes, they will. Different nationalities are coming into Springfield and most of them will probably be Democratic. There may not be any change in candidates but there will definitely be a change in the vote."

The "Springfield Sun" will accept questions from its readers, $3.00 will be given to an answer whose question is used in this column. We would also welcome any comments the readers may have on those given here.

Traffic Laws Are Enforced in N. J.

Traffic law enforcement in New Jersey is 20 per cent ahead of last year and 121 per cent above 1948—the year prior to the adoption of the new traffic laws, according to figures released through Police Chief Albert A. Sarge today.

Motor Vehicle Director William J. Dearden, who made the announcement today, reports that 100,429 traffic law violation cases, exclusive of parking, have been reported to his office by municipal magistrates during the first six months of the year as compared with 79,576 in the same period of 1952. These figures compare with 42,809 traffic cases in the first six months of 1948.

Calling the stepped-up enforcement a healthy sign, Director Dearden said that local authorities deserve high praise for their efforts to make the streets and highways safer. He also said that this year's figures prove the success of the new traffic laws which have resulted in a steady yearly increase in traffic control trials since its adoption on January 1, 1949.

Trolley Tracks Are A Hazard - Binder

To an interview with township committee member Albert C. Binder, the Springfield Sun has learned that Mr. Binder has personally contacted state officials for the third time and requested elimination of a traffic hazard on Morris avenue.

According to Mr. Binder, exposed car walls have caused numerous skidding accidents and steps must be taken to correct the situation.

He has been in touch with Arnold Vey of the State Highway Safety Program and Mr. Vey has investigated and passed on his recommendation to the Highway Department.

Mr. Binder is confident that action will be taken and until such time as this hazard is eliminated, any such incident can be attributed to the State's failure to cooperate.

Citizens Committee Offers School Expansion Program

This is the first installment of the very comprehensive report. The remainder of the school expansion plan as recommended by the Citizens' Advisory Committee of Springfield will appear in next week's issue of the Springfield Sun.

The Citizens' Advisory Committee has made a thorough study of Springfield's present and future needs so far as reliable projections of existing data permit. The study includes an appraisal of the community's unmet needs for school facilities, the type of school best adapted to fill these needs, the most desirable and economical site for school construction, and the type of construction which it is believed will best meet today's educational standards.

The essence of the Committee's recommendations is as follows:

1. The Committee recommends a K-5 school (kindergarten through 5th grade) of at least 14 classrooms, plus an all-purpose room and administrative facilities.

2. The recommended site for the new K-5 school is in south Springfield—the property presently owned by the Board of Education and now partially occupied by the temporary veterans' housing units which will be removed.

Although not completely ideal from a topographical standpoint, since there is a brook running across the tract that will have to be enclosed, it is felt that drainage and grading can be provided at a lower cost than the selection and purchase of another site.

The Committee recommends that the new school be of a modern, contemporary design, of a simple and functional character, to meet present-day educational standards.

Springfield's School Needs
In arriving at its recommendation for the number of rooms required for the new school, the Unmet Needs Subcommittee considered all of the following data available:

1. The size and distribution of the present and pre-school population throughout the whole community, broken down to cover separately the James Caldwell and Raymond Chisholm School areas.

Basic figures were available through the efforts of the Springfield Parent-Teacher Association which, in February of this year, gathered figures to supplement the study it made before the Florence M. Gaudinier School was constructed.

2. The number and location of new homes and housing units constructed in Springfield for the past several years, and the number of permits which have been issued for new housing units up to May 31, 1953.

3. A study of the location of vacant land suitable for building tracts throughout the township also was made to determine the probable volume of future growth in each section of the community.

4. The School Administration's records show during the last five years a net average gain of 28 new pupils per year entered in our

Springfield National Guard Members on Way to Camp

Nineteen residents of Springfield will join their comrades of the 50th Armored Division of the New Jersey National Guard who leave this week-end for Camp Drum, New York, for the annual intensive two weeks of field training.

The Springfield group starts reporting today and by tomorrow, all nineteen will have checked in to start the long annual drill and active military maneuvers.

Captain Anthony J. Taddeo, Air Officer and attached to the Headquarters of the 50th Armored Division, is flying the division general to Camp Drum, making inspections of all convoys en route to the camp.

First Lieutenant Charles Dasher, executive officer of transportation division, is another local merchant who will spend the next two weeks in the field training program. Dasher is manager of the Suburban Five and Dime on Morris avenue.

Other Springfield members of the 50th Armored Division who will participate in the Camp Drum training are: Joseph Papp, Jr., 37 Mountain avenue; Louis J. Lutz, 34 Linden avenue; Robert Foley, 18 Oakland avenue; Kenneth J. Baldwin, 161 South

Budget Committee Killed; Bonadies Is Squelched

The proposal of the Springfield Democratic party to form a Citizens Budget Committee was turned down by the Township Committee last night.

In a letter from Vincent J. Bonadies, president of the local Springfield Democratic Club, the Township Committee was asked to take under consideration the adoption of a committee to examine and advise on preliminary budget plans. The recommendations of this committee will not be binding on the governing body, but will be made public through the newspapers.

Committee member Frederick Handville stated very emphatically that he opposed the idea, since he felt that the way the budget is now being handled is adequate. He considered a citizens committee definitely "non-essential."

Committee member Albert G. Binder commented further, "We welcome advice and constructive criticism, but since every civic group in town was invited repeatedly and only a few showed, we feel that it either reflects one or two things—the townspeople are satisfied with the committee's job, or they just don't care."

"It would seem to me that this may be a matter of coincidence, but it appears that the proposal is closely lurking in the shadows" (Continued on page 6)

We take this opportunity to thank each and everyone who helped or contributed in anyway to make the 1953 Independence Day Celebration a safe and glorious one.
It is our sincere hope that the 1954 Committee will receive an even bigger and greater support.

Demand Protection Against Speeders on Morris Avenue

Residents in the neighborhood of Morris avenue—Alvin Terrace, Warner, Marion and Battle Hill avenues, have appealed to the Township Committee for some relief against the speeding cars in this section which makes it impossible for children and even adults to cross. The request calls for either a proper traffic light on Morris avenue or a special policeman to be on duty at certain hours.

The demand for some official action by the Township Committee was made in a letter, a copy of which is printed below:

"The safety of the children living in the area of ALVIN TERRACE, WARNER AVENUE, MARION AVENUE, BATTLE HILL AVENUE and MORRIS AVENUE calls for either the proper traffic light on Morris avenue or the services of a special policeman.

It is difficult enough for grownups to cross any of these intersections. During the summer months, especially, many children cross Morris avenue in this area to reach their only available playground, such as it is, 'Washington Avenue'.

The many residents in this particular area feel that our governing body is still responsible for the welfare and safety of our children and it is to be

Past Resident Dies At Rahway

A native of Orange, Pa., he had lived in Springfield before moving to Rahway. Mr. Ferry was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield. He was the husband of the late Gladys Ferry.

Local Bible Study Group Take Part In Convention

Springfield will be represented by 21 members of its Bible Study Group at the International Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses, Yankee Stadium, New York City. The group under the direction of Louis Episcopo will join a delegation of 120 representing the Elizabeth Congregation. Episcopo revealed that the group will travel by bus and automobile to join more than 125,000 other witnesses of Jehovah in their 8-day convention opening July 19.

The New Jersey witnesses are serving with New York congregations as the hosts to this convention and have been sharing in the preparations for it. Episcopo pointed out that Jehovah's witnesses are coming from every state in the Union and nearly 100 countries to participate in the largest religious convention ever to be held in America. Charter planes carrying delegates from Africa, Europe and Latin America will soon converge on New York. Large delegations from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and

ON THE SUNNY SIDE

The Springfield Sun stuck its collective neck out in last week's issue when our inquiring reporter was sent scurrying up and down Morris Avenue with her question - "What is wrong with the Springfield Sun and how can it be improved?"

It called for heaps of courage to ask that kind of a question but the little gal reporter refused to desert the controls until the quiz-plane made a perfect landing and seven replies to her loaded question appeared in last week's issue of the Sun.

The Sun is not finding fault with any of the answers even though practically all of them shoved us around quite a bit. Dr. Henry Mulhauser, for instance, was quoted as saying that "the paper can be read entirely in 20 minutes ... there should be more news about the town, the people in the town, what they do and where they go."

All of which is true and if the good doctor can offer any suggestion on how the Sun can gather more of that kind of information, we will be, forever, grateful to him. The Sun encourages all news items - any news item - any story with names. It is the foundation on which weekly newspapers are built and we have made every effort to bring little personals, social notes, any item about Springfield and its residents into the columns of this paper.

Maintaining a staff to gather such information is costly and we are still hoping that the residents will cooperate by sending in anything concerning anybody. "The paper is too small for a town of this size," said Mrs. L. W. James. Which is also true but the number of pages depends entirely on the advertising - there being a ratio of reading matter and advertising space to be maintained if we are to stay in business.

When advertising space increases in the Sun, the number of pages are increased, naturally. Springfield merchants haven't yet become aware of the fact that the Sun is read with a circulation that does a pretty good job of covering the township. Some of the merchants by-pass the Sun entirely and advertise in neighboring town newspapers and it's difficult to explain why the regular subscribers and readers of the Springfield Sun aren't told of the bargains and quality merchandise available in our own town.

Probably, that may be the explanation why so many people shop out of town since the local merchant evidently doesn't even consider the Springfield resident important enough to point out how well one could buy groceries, clothes, etc., right here in his own home town.

Can you imagine the yelp and howl if, in desperation and justifiably so, the Springfield Sun should launch a very aggressive campaign asking our readers to "PLEASE SHOP IN UNION AND MILBURN."

However, we feel confident the local merchant still considers the Springfield shopper very important and will soon have a message to all local residents pointing to the quality and prices for merchandise available right in our home town.

While we're on the subject of shopping in Springfield, we are taking the liberty of printing a letter which is self explanatory - and right to the point.

Editor, Sun: I have been a resident of Springfield for 7 years and consider myself a new-old timer.

Imagine my surprise, when becoming acquainted with many people, I found very few of them shopped even for groceries in our home town. I was an ardent believer in spending where you live - or how could you expect your town to grow?

But last Friday about 4:15 I happened to remember that Saturday was the 4th of July and the stores would not be open so I drove into town and was a little surprised to find a parking space in front of one of our super markets.

I was in the store about ten minutes when a police officer came in to warn me I couldn't park there as it was after 4:30.

When I ran out to move the car a gentleman in back of me was already receiving a ticket. I drove around the block and parked in a gas station across the street. After waiting for the traffic to stop I got back across the street to finish my shopping.

I bought $7 worth of groceries and the clerk put $8 worth in one bag and $1 in another. There wasn't any one to carry the things across the street for me so I put them in one of the baskets and with one hand balancing the $8 bag and one to push the basket with.

I managed to get across the street, but with great difficulty - because the wheels of the basket got stuck in the cracks. After maneuvering the bundles from the basket to the car - I had to wait for traffic again and get the basket back to the store.

Three guesses - when will I shop in Springfield again? Thanks to the officer who warned me and also to the gas station that allowed me to park in front of their gas pumps - but never again! Now I know why so few people shopped in Springfield.

When the mercury is popping toward the 90 degree mark, talk about politics isn't usually a very refreshing interlude but the local Democratic organization isn't going to let the ocean breezes or the air-conditioners lower the temperatures as far as the coming Fall elections are concerned.

The recent meeting held by the Democrats has started some beating of the war drums and the lighting of signal fires throughout Springfield and, according to Vincent J. Bonadies, the newly elected head of that organization, "there will be no furloughs - no cease firing until they close the voting machines on election day."

Having a militant organization competing with the long established majority party is good for both sides. The Republican organization, under the leadership of Charles Beardsley who is also the Union County chairman, is a well knit, well manned and hard working group and the local unit can be expected to bring in its strongest team when actual play starts. It's a healthy sign - this two party system - and it keeps the incumbents, the organization in power, on its political toes.

"There is more to vacation driving than just having your car checked up," states William Green, president of the Motor Club of America (Automobile Association of New Jersey).

"A good vacation means freedom from worry and hurry and above all - freedom from traffic accidents. Although you may not be the driver of the automobile, this does not exclude you from sharing responsibility for the trip and there are many things a passenger can do to help the driver to make the vacation trip safe and enjoyable.

"We are all creatures of habit and too often take for granted or ignore the obvious and little things that only loom up in importance when they contribute to a traffic accident.

"Here are some of the rules of vacation travel that are not found in the textbooks but are very important to all of us.

"Before starting on a trip, check road routes and allow plenty of time - enough time, in fact, to allow for a good night's sleep each night. If you become sleepy while driving, don't push yourself. Pull off to the side of the road and take a nap. You'll be surprised what a nap will do as a refresher.

"When packing the car do not obscure your vision in the rearview mirror and when children are to ride in the back seat make sure the rear doors cannot be opened while the car is moving.

"If a bee or wasp gets inside the car, pull off the road. He probably wants 'out' anyway.

"Check tire air pressure regularly. Carry a flashlight, flares or fuses, good spares, first aid kit, maps and identification. When you have everything checked off check up on yourself the entire trip. Play it safe at all times ... both THERE AND BACK!"

The season of higher temperatures and bright sunlight is here. But with high temperature and exposure to the sun's rays, Eric H. Peterson, Jr., Union County Agricultural Agent, urges special precaution in becoming accustomed to the sun and summer heat.

Heat sickness occurs when the body's heat regulating system collapses during prolonged heat or overexposure to the sun. In sunstroke, body temperature rises, skin becomes hot and dry, face reddens and a shooting headache develops. Heat exhaustion is an entirely different thing. Its symptoms are below normal body temperature, cold clammy skin, palor, dizziness, and a dull headache.

The National Safety Council recommends the following precautions:

- 1. Avoid too much exposure to direct sunlight; wear a hat while out of doors.
2. Avoid overexertion, particularly in the early part of a heat wave.
3. Wear light, porous and loose fitting clothing.
4. Increase the use of salt in food, and use salt tablets or salt in drinking water.
5. Drink plenty of water throughout the day, avoid ice water and alcohol.
6. Eat nutritious food, but avoid overeating. Get plenty of vitamin C in fruit juices and fresh fruits.
7. Get plenty of rest and bathe regularly.
In applying first aid treatment to a person suffering from heat sickness keep in mind this simple rule. If the patient is cold, make him warm; if he is hot, make him cool.

Shooting Tin Cans Brings Fine of $23

Ernest Brunner of 562 Jessie place, Union, would have been better off going to an amusement park for a little shooting with a .22 calibre rifle. There he could have gotten a great many rifle loads for the $23 he paid in Municipal Court Monday night. The fine was imposed by Magistrate Henry C. McMullen when Brunner was arrested for having some July 4th fun by shooting at tin cans in the fields along Mountain Avenue.

The law, as pointed out by Magistrate McMullen, forbids discharging of firearms within the township every day of the year and the Fourth of July is no exception. Patrolman Louis Quinton made the arrest.

SPRINGFIELD SKETCHES

BEVERLY KAPPAPOORT

"A policeman's job is not an easy one," says Police Chief Albert A. Sarge who is definitely an authority on the Springfield police force for 26 years.

In his rather cramped and not too cheerful office, Chief Sarge made up for his surroundings with his pleasant and friendly manner and kept this interviewer rather enthralled with facts about his own career and the workings of the force. Chief Sarge started as a patrolman on October 20, 1927 and in four years was promoted to sergeant. In 1931 he became sergeant and also court clerk until 1940. He has held his most recent position since March 1 of this year.

The sheriff of the "Wild West" has been glorified by the movies but we citizens don't realize the duties that lie behind his badge. Chief Sarge must be a finger prying man, a photographer, a record clerk, and practically a jack of all trades besides having to live up to his title which requires tact, understanding, and insight into human nature.

Chief Sarge has seen the Springfield department grow from a force of two men and a chief in 1927 to a force of 23 today. "As the town progresses, the police force goes with it," explained the Chief. "The public creates the demands of the department."

Unfortunately, however, the quarters of the department are not progressing. After a tour of the four room establishment which consists of two dull, unpainted offices, a cell block with three cells (one has been converted to a storeroom for lack of other space), and a front room with teletype machine, switchboard, and cabinets overflowing with up-to-date records of the Springfield populace, prepared by Chief Sarge in his own free time. There is no place for the men to congregate, relax, or wash up. The building does not have enough facilities or quarters to maintain a larger force which eventually Springfield will need.

When asked for any unusual experiences during his police career, the Chief told of a parole addict who was "taken for a ride" in his pajamas. The police gave chase and the car was abandoned, the frightened man running for cover under a porch on Evergreen avenue. The force came to his rescue and held him for safe-keeping.

To date, 2,143 arrests have been made by the department, 480 being indelible charges. The most ever locked up at one time was 32. Chief Sarge explained that highway 22 has been a great help to Springfield as to the death toll.

In the past, the department was faced with a tremendous amount of accidents.

Few arrests of teenagers has been made. "Mischievous in every human being," said Chief Sarge. "Of course doing wrong is a different story. We try to keep teenagers out of trouble."

It is to get dependent men since the pay is so little. Yet, the Springfield Police Force can hold its head up in any department in a town of our size or larger."

Sometimes the public demands too much," exclaimed Chief Sarge. "They don't realize how difficult it is to get dependent men since the pay is so little. Yet, the Springfield Police Force can hold its head up in any department in a town of our size or larger."

When Mother says, "Let's have supper in the backyard," don't wheel out the portable grill under a tree and start the fire. Heat may scorch the lower limbs and kill part of the tree, says G. M. Coddling, vice president of the Bartlett Tree Experts. Put the grill in the open.

ed maximum. During this emergency period, actual classes never reached this unmanageable number of pupils in the Board of Education used every conceivable means to prevent it. Sub-standard classrooms were pressed into service, temporary rooms outside the schools were used during one period, and double sessions were resorted to.

3. Completion of the Florence M. Gaudineer School did not bring facilities up to the desired standard, but merely brought the schools back to the level of overcrowding that existed in 1949. There were still enough pupils in the community to require 29 per cent above the recommended average per classroom—and this with allowance being made for the students entering the new parochial school.

4. If a 14-room K to 5 school is provided, ready for service by the fall of 1955, the number of standard classrooms then available, on the basis of population trends, will provide a classroom for approximately every 25 pupils. It is estimated that the average will not rise above 26 pupils per room at least through 1958, which is as far as it was practicable to carry the population growth figures.

James Caldwell School Situation—On the basis of the Committee's study, it was concluded that the James Caldwell School could be expected to just about serve the needs of the area adjacent to it.

Raymond (Chisholm) Inadequacy—Figures for the Raymond Chisholm School show that this already overcrowded facility will be completely inadequate, and double sessions or other means will have to be resorted to even before a new school can be completed.

The actual division of the single area into two school areas will have to be done by the Board of Education which will determine the boundaries on the basis of population distribution existing when a new school is completed.

On the basis of the building trends and direction of town growth, an additional two rooms is recommended to bring the total to 14 so as to give some growth space. It also is recommended that the school be designed to permit a future addition to take care of new population in south Springfield, since this is the area that has most land available for future building.

The sub-committee first considered whether a new school actually needed, or whether additions to Raymond Chisholm or Florence Gaudineer Schools would serve the need to better advantage.

An addition to Raymond Chisholm School was ruled out for these reasons:

1. Raymond Chisholm School is of fire-proof construction, being two stories high. Building law prohibits the addition of fire-resistant construction to an existing fireproof building. Since fire-resistant construction is cheaper than fireproof construction, it is just simple economy to build a single-story, separate structure as recommended by the Construction Sub-committee.

2. An addition to Raymond Chisholm School, even if it cost more to construct than a new school, would decrease the school play area below today's recognized educational standards.

3. Such an addition would require young children in the growing southern area of Springfield to have to travel too far to school. Gaudineer Addition Proposed—It was felt infeasible to use Florence M. Gaudineer School for any classes below the sixth grade, even though 5th grade classes are being taught there at present, for a number of reasons:

1. The Florence M. Gaudineer School actually is short four rooms at the present time because three rooms are used for 5th grade classes. Even without the 5th grade using the school, it still would be short 1 room. This condition is solved temporarily by using special rooms for purposes other than what they were provided for.

2. This situation will become progressively worse as the larger classes in lower grades are present, move into the upper grades. It is evident that an addition will soon be needed for just the upper grades.

3. The Florence M. Gaudineer School is equipped inside and out for the older children. Equipping of additional rooms at this time for younger children would be an extra expense, for the rooms eventually would have to be used by the older grades and all equipment originally placed in such classrooms would have to be replaced to meet the older children's needs.

4. The Florence M. Gaudineer School has the same disadvantage as the Raymond Chisholm School of making long distance travel necessary for younger children. Strategic Site Recommended—Having determined that an entirely new school is called for, the Site Sub-Committee then studied site possibilities from the standpoint of their geographic relationship to the existing school facilities.

It came to the same conclusion as the Citizens' Advisory Committee of 1950—namely, that a neighborhood in the south end of Springfield would round out present school facilities in line with the Board of Education's plan for neighborhood schools and a central upper-grade school. Since the growth of Springfield is to the south, and the need for additional classrooms comes from that area, it is the logical place for additional school facilities.

Advantages of the Property—The piece of property owned by the Board of Education between Mountain Avenue and South Springfield Avenue, known as the South Property, is the logical site for a new school. It is in the center of the neighborhood now developing and is only a walking distance for the younger children of the neighborhood. There is ample room for future expansion with plenty of area for a recreational center for the southern end of town. The Board of Education owns this property and it is centrally located for the entire southern section of the community. There are not many other pieces of property available at a size that would lend themselves to future school expansion. Those available would be an additional cost to the public, particularly since property already has been set aside for school purposes.

The Committee found that a drainage problem exists on the South Property. A brook passing under Mountain Avenue and draining through the middle of the 22 acres would have to be diverted, piped and covered. From a safety point of view, this is a problem that would have to be dealt with immediately for at least 600 feet to cover needs for the proposed new school. A total of 1,300 feet would have to be enclosed to get full use of the property, but the balance could be done later as use of the land might require. The committee feels the cost of grading and drainage must be considered in the initial construction, but is a small amount when compared with the cost of buying another tract of land which would still not be located in an advantageous geographical relationship to other existing school facilities and the community's needs.

Construction Sub-Committee Study—The construction committee has visited seventeen schools, representing the work of eleven different architects. The schools varied from small, one-story primary schools to large multi-story high schools. A summary of the particularly desirable features of these schools and their impression upon the committee is included with this report. Some general recommendations on policy are given first, as follows:

1. Consultation with the architect by the teachers and administrative staff, and careful consideration of their recommendations is very desirable.

2. The design of the school should provide for future expansion, not only for classrooms, but also of necessary services.

3. We recommend that the Board of Education, in presenting the school problem to the public, separate the total cost of the new plant into:

(a) Cost for furniture and fixtures.

(b) Cost of all other items—construction, site improvement, services, fees, etc.

4. The skillful use of colors throughout the building gives a pleasing and desirable diversity throughout the school. Of the eleven architects represented by the schools surveyed the following four are recommended for further consideration by the School Board: Alfonso Alvarez, David Ludlow, Alexander Merchant, Emil Schmidlin.

Eagles' Top All-Stars, 4-1—The pitching of Norman Lawn and the hitting of Ronald Hunter gave the Eagles a 4 to 1 victory over the All Stars in the Springfield Little League competition. The only run for the All Stars came in the third inning on a walk and a double by Eddie Nuttall.

The game was played at the athletic field on Melsel avenue as are all the Little League contests. All members of the Springfield Little League wish to thank all residents and business men for their contributions and help in making possible this baseball tournament.

of the November elections." Bonadies immediately wished to be heard, but was advised by Mayor Marshall that the Township Committee desired no discussion of the matter.

In a statement from Vincent J. Bonadies, immediately following the action of the Township Committee on the Democratic Party's budget committee proposal, he stated:

"This proposal was presented now and not in the fall to remove completely any political stigma or implications. The intent of the governing body to allow me to speak after each committee was allowed to do so, is a flagrant curtailment of my privilege as a taxpayer to appear before the committee. This display of the arrogant misuse of political power by our committee cannot be nov or ever excused."

"Mr. Binder's unprovoked attack on the sincerity of our proposal will no doubt come under careful scrutiny by the taxpayers of our town. We serve notice on Mr. Binder and the committee that this is not a political move and that we will continue the fight for a budget committee even after the elections. It is my opinion that Mr. Binder's attack was uncalled for, unjust and unfair."

J. Leo Moran, democratic running mate of Bonadies, had this to say concerning the proposal:

"Mr. Binder's remarks stating that the resolution on the budget committee proposal was intended to embarrass the Township Committee is not true. The main reason behind this resolution was to keep the people informed on where and how their taxes are being spent. If it were intended as a campaign
