SPRINGFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1954

OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER
TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD

10¢ A COPY. $3.50 BY THE YEAR

Total Cost of New School Will Not Exceed $615,000

At a meeting of members of the Board of Education and the Citizens Advisory Committee of Springfield, the architect retained by the Board, Emil A. Schmidlin, presented sketches and estimated budget for the proposed new school to be erected on the property owned by the Board of Education on South Mountain Avenue. The construction cost of the building itself is estimated at $470,000, which includes paving the parking area, drive-ways, and play area.

Last spring the Board of Education requested the Citizens Advisory Committee to look into the educational situation in Springfield and report their findings. Their report was received and approved by the Board, and their recommendations have been incorporated in the present plan.

Will Have 14 Rooms
The school is planned for kindergarten through fifth grade. It will contain 14 classrooms, 12 of regulation size and 2 somewhat larger, either of which may be used as kindergartens. Separate toilet facilities are provided for these rooms. There will be an all purpose room large enough for use as auditorium and gym, with a stage and a small kitchen adjoining. This room will also serve as a center for neighborhood activities after school hours.

It is large enough to accommodate the school enrollment if the building should have to be enlarged at any time in the future. There are also offices and health and teachers' rooms. The building provides for the separation of the lower grades from the upper, a plan which aids in the better operation of a school.

All classrooms will have biliter-

Bonadies Files For Township Committee Job

The opening gun in what promises to be one of the most hectic political campaigns in the history of Springfield was fired yesterday by Vincent J. Bonadies with the announcement that he will carry the colors of the Democratic party in the coming election for the one spot on the Township Committee. Bonadies had been sought to permit his name to go on the ballot for a county-wide office this year but many friends and supporters in Springfield have pointed out that the problems are here and prevailed on him to permit his name to be offered for the available place on the Township Committee.

Donnelly Named To Industrial Post

Eugene F. Donnelly Named
New Industrial Commissioner.
Committee member Eugene F. Donnelly was appointed to the new position of Industrial Commissioner at a meeting of the Township Committee held last evening.

Mayor Albert G. Binder, in making the appointment submitted the following statement:

"In order to propagate and promote the many advantages for business and light industry to be located in Springfield, it is the thought of your chairman that personal contact will best serve the purpose in the initial stage. To carry out this practice the Mayor, in conjunction with an appointed Industrial Commissioner, will avail themselves of any such opportunity, either direct or through the medium of a developer. Accordingly the chair now appoints to this position Mr. Eugene Donnelly to serve as Industrial Commissioner for the balance of the year 1954."

"Springfield is unique in its location as a suburban town. It has many choice areas for secluded industrial and business developments and at the same time en-

Township To Surface City Parking Lot

The Township Committee at its regular meeting last night passed the necessary legislation providing for the grading, surfacing and improvement of the municipal parking lot, bounded by Flemer Avenue, Hannah and Center streets.

The work is to be done as a general improvement and the ordinance introduced last night for this purpose, appropriates the sum of $22,250 to be raised by issuing bonds or bond anticipation notes.

Township Engineer Alfred Swenson is preparing plans and specifications for this improvement and work on the much needed improvement to the municipal parking lot will be started as soon as possible after the final passage of the ordinance.

Parking Meters Are Official Now

Autoists will have to put their money in the Springfield parking meters beginning with today, the ordinance relating to traffic and use of parking meters having been passed on its final reading at the regular meeting of the Township Committee last night.

While the parking meters have been installed on the streets for several weeks there was no attempt to enforce the law since the ordinance had not been approved. Many pennies and nickels were put in the meters the first few days after installation but the autoist was later informed by a sticker that the use of the parking meter was not yet a law.

Beginning with this morning money must be placed in the parking meters and the police announced that violations will bring the usual penalty.

Zoning Changes May Bring New Shopping Center

Changes in the zoning ordinances, introduced at the regular meeting of the Township Committee last night, may be the beginning of two new business developments in Springfield. The changes will affect what is known as the Marmon estates which runs into Summit and the other is the Ness property.

It is a fairly accepted fact that the Joseph P. Day interests have been interested in the Marmon property for the establishment of a shopping group with some well known department store as the center. It is reported that several nationally known establishments are part of the group being assembled by the Joseph P. Day interests for this location. According to the story, there will be sufficient space for parking which will spill over into Summit but the street addresses of the stores will be in Springfield.

Several developers and groups interested in the construction of a shopping center on the Ness property have explored the large available tract of land and its location appeals to those who are considering this site. The Ness property will make available about 18 acres and would be easily accessible to Millburn as well as Springfield and Summit residents.

The Joseph P. Day people, however, are further advanced in their negotiations and the action of the Township Committee last night clears the way for some immediate action on this property. A formal announcement is expected from the Day office very shortly on the progress that has been made in their plans for using the Marmon property.

The location of the Ness tract and the proximity to all traffic arteries has made this a very attractive large parcel of land and some announcement may be made for development of a business center on this site very shortly.

A survey was made the opening day which was Washington's Birthday—but the reports weren't too encouraging early that day although business picked up all over Springfield during the afternoon, Tuesday and Wednesday were "sensational," which was the word used by one of the merchants in describing his business.

"Those who made an effort to dress up and put some life in their stores," said another enterprising merchant, "found this sale just what Springfield needed." (Continued on page 4)

Mrs. Brown Says, "Thanks To All"

Mrs. Frederick A. Brown, widow of the former dean of the Township Committee who died last week after a long illness, has asked the Springfield Sun to thank all those who were so thoughtful, sympathetic and kind during her recent bereavement.

"I want to take this opportunity," said Mrs. Brown, "to thank everyone for the many acts of kindness and understanding during those days of grief. I appreciate having so many friends who shared by deep loss with their expressions of deep sympathy."

New Building Opened Here By DuPont

Mr. John P. McGrath, 637 Central Avenue, East Orange, has been appointed general manager of the new DuPont Paint Finishes Division warehouse on Route 22. The opening of the building on Tuesday marked another step forward in the expansion of Springfield.

The warehouse, which contains 15,000 square feet of floor space, was built by the Hettler Construction Company of East Orange and will be the wholesale distribution point of the DuPont Paint Finishes Division for Northern New Jersey and part of New York State.

Swimming Club Is Planned in Area

Membership in a new swimming club to be built off South Springfield Avenue in Mountaineer is being offered to Springfield residents but the number is limited according to the organizing group sponsoring the pool.

The location of the club will be near Echo Lake Park and the main pool will be 100 feet by 50 feet with a wading pool of 50 by 20. There will be supervised children's play area with equipment, bath houses with showers, lockers and sanitary facilities, sun deck on top of bath house, concrete walkways around both pools, high split cedar fence enclosing all and a sand area for privacy.

The members of the organizing group have had first hand experience designing and constructing such a project and plan to have the pool ready by June. In order to provide year-round recreation for the membership, it is planned to construct an ice skating rink adjacent to the swimming pool at a later date.

Memberships have already been accepted from Westfield, Mountaineer and Springfield. Those interested in becoming members can get further information by inquiring at the Springfield Sun for names and addresses of the organizing group.

Springfield Group Hears Talk By Cong. Williams

IN A Huddle—Congressman Harrison A. Williams, Jr. chats with Vincent J. Bonadies at the latter's home before telling how things are going in Washington.

Congressman Harrison A. Williams, Jr., Representative from the Ninth District who defeated everybody last fall by winning over his Republican opponent, came to Springfield Saturday night on a little social visit but which really marked the start of his campaign for re-election. Congressman Williams was invited by Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Bonadies to their residence to meet some Springfield citizens and tell about incidents in the life of a Representative in Washington.

The people invited by Bonadies to "meet your Congressman" included many of those actively identified as members of both major political parties in Springfield as well as several representing the Independent group in the Township. Mr. Williams portrayed the life of a Congressman in a very interesting manner and then agreed to answer all questions. Some of these were very provocative and challenging but Congressman Williams answered all of them and the entire evening proved to be very informative.

Mr. Williams chatted informally with all the guests during the evening and eagerly volunteered information concerning problems in the district he represents as well as the national picture. The Congressman avoided partisan politics as much as possible in his discussions but he was very set in his opinion on the economic situation in the country.

"For several weeks," said Mr.

Williams, "many Democratic leaders have been pointing to the economic factors: rising unemployment, falling production, and dropping agricultural prices. Republican orators have said that the Democrats are 'prophets of gloom and doom.' Presidential aid, Sherman Adams, labeled anyone who mentioned the danger signs 'political sadists' who were attempting to talk this country into a recession."

"It is my feeling that name calling won't solve our economic ills. The fact that there are dangerous signs is obvious to all. Pointing out those facts to the public is the responsibility of the loyal opposition—not an act of bad faith. Ignoring the economic facts and urging others to do likewise is not going to alter them."

"I don't believe we can talk ourselves into or out of a recession. I do believe, however, that failing to catch economic downturn in the symptomatic stage results in the need for major operations later on."

"It was reassuring to note that the President is not ignoring the economic warning signals but is contemplating action. This Spring should the situation continue."

New Map Of Area To Be Ready Soon

A new map of Springfield, Westfield, Mountaineer, Scotch Plains, Plainfield, Garwood, and Cranford, which indexes all streets, bus transportation, railroads, schools, public buildings, and other points of interest, is being prepared for summer distribution. The work is being done by the U. S. Hammond & Company of Maplewood, represented here by Mr. Robert Johnson. The local Chamber of Commerce is cooperating in the venture.

The holding map, which measures 21 inches by 29 inches, will show Westfield, Scotch Plains, Mountaineer, and Plainfield. Two adjoining maps will show Springfield on one and Cranford and Garwood on the other. A third fold will picture these communities on a road map of the metropolitan area.

Plans call for free distribution by the Chamber and the Industrial and Business Firms which share in the cost. These will be listed in a classified business directory accompanying the map. Hammond will mail out 10,000 copies of the map in this area. Requests for additional maps may be sent to the office of the Springfield Sun.

Auto Crash Injures Man

Donald C. Taggart, 45, of 1070 Wyckwood Road, Westfield, was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, on Friday, February 19, following an auto accident on Route 22. He suffered a concussion and possible skull fracture according to police.

A witness said that Taggart's car failed to stop before crossing the eastbound lane in front of the Orchard Inn. A car driven by Nicholas Montefusco, Jr., of Elizabethtown, traveling east on Route 22, was unable to stop and struck Taggart's car.

Frederick G. Bishop, 25, of Ogdenburg, New York, was traveling east behind Montefusco and swerved to avoid the accident but struck Taggart's car as it was spun around in front of him.

Letters to Editor

The Sun received several letters in the past few weeks - especially after the editorial relating to the meeting...

There was much news, well presented, with a fine lack of the usual "boiler plate" filler.

Items concerning various public drives, and other notices in the class of service to the community were prominent, and covered a generous amount of space.

Editorial, whether condoning recent happenings or criticizing them, managed to end with the idea that this is our town, and we all live together here.

A Regular Reader: P.S. This is not an "open" letter. Just keep it in mind the next time you get a letter which blazes away at you.

Editor, Springfield Sun: I want to take this opportunity to express, publicly, my thanks and appreciation for the integrity of those operating the Hi-Way Cleaners in Springfield.

It is indeed a pleasure to patronize the Hi-Way Cleaners who are always anxious and willing to be certain that their work is beyond reproach.

Sincerely, A. W. Luedeke

ATTENDED WORKSHOP
Mrs. C. L. Seltzer, vice-president from Raymond Chisholm School of the Springfield Parent Teachers' Association attended the third annual Workshop on Education for the 21 school districts of Union County, held at the Union Township High School on February 23, 24 and 25.

Groups Discuss Fund Campaigns

An informal round table discussion, sponsored by the Civics Department of the Springfield Woman's Club, was held on Thursday evening, February 18, at the Springfield Library.

The subject, "Is a United Soliciting Campaign a Possibility in Springfield?" was discussed by representatives of local civic organizations and fund soliciting chairmen.

It was conceded that if every drive were completely covered, it would take 1500 women, providing they did not participate in more than one drive, to cover Springfield.

Now that the problems of having individual drives have been aired and also realizing the many obstacles, it is hoped that at some future time there may be some way to relieve the problems that do exist.

"MEET YOUR CONGRESSMAN"

A modern version of the "old front porch" political technique was introduced by Congressman Harrison A. Williams, Jr. in Springfield Saturday night - and if he were able to duplicate that same charming and scintillating performance many times in each community and throughout the entire Sixth District, there isn't a single candidate on the political horizon at the moment able to defeat him this Fall.

In place of the front porch, the scene was shifted to the living room of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Bonadies' residence where 40 or 50 Springfield citizens were invited to "meet your Congressman."

Congressman Williams isn't the bombastic Senator Claghorn type of a representative. He doesn't overwhelm his constituents - he didn't hem and haw - he didn't flex his oratorical muscles and he didn't huff and puff. He answered everything and they threw curves and loaded questions at him but the young Congressman never once ran to cover.

He didn't act like the noble knight in shining armor on a white horse but he wasn't namby-pamby about any of the questions and when the sandwich trays and empty coffee cups were cleared away, there wasn't a single person in that room who wouldn't admit that "here's a guy who really is for the little people and means to represent his own district."

He was forthright - quick on the trigger - and, if he didn't know the answer, he didn't double talk his way out. His knowledge of what's doing on the gloom and doom front in Washington, his intelligent handling of the serious problems confronting Congress and his little facetious but not too frivolous explanations of the many questions flung at him, gave every one present the feeling that "this young fellow is more serious about his job than about himself."

We have always contended that political rallies merely attracted those who happened to belong to the same party, represented by the candidate, and the spellbinder invariably got a lot of mileage out of the breast beating and pointing with pride to the many accomplishments of his particular political party. But he is usually talking to his own and there's little chance of making a convert or even a luke-warm doubter.

Saturday night the "meet your Congressman" gathering gave Mr. Williams an opportunity to carry the ball throughout the entire evening, and when he was on the five yard line and they tossed him one of those Roman candle questions where he had to decide between the "greatest overall good for the Nation" as against some not too important Sixth District problem, he proved that the day of the Congressman who did nothing except send seeds to his constituents, went out with bustles and five cent subway rides.

We liked him - the way he smiled his way into those barbed questions - the way he talked "with" and not "down to" those who were really interested in what kind of a day he has a fine command of the language and he never had to grope for words - nor answers. He may be a freshman in Congress and he will probably discover a lot of rooms marked "private" where they cook up such little things as deals - but they're not going to push this chap around.

His youth - his sparkling, smiling eyes and his personable and intelligent handling of the entire evening pleased everybody. He's going to be a hard man to beat this Fall - and if he can put on some more living room chats and touch all the bases throughout the Sixth District, he's not going to be beaten. This approach might snowball into something big.

GOD BLESS 'EM
The Civics Department of the Springfield Woman's Club invited representatives of various groups in the Township to meet at the Public Library and explore the possibility of having a united drive for all causes. No one was optimistic in the hope of arriving at an immediate decision but some progress was made although there are several obstacles that, at the moment, cannot be hurdled.

Springfield has an unusual record in responding to the various calls for contributions and credit for this is due to both the fine civic spirited men and women who make up the working committees. No single drive could be wholly successful without both men and women workers and it is difficult to plan any kind of a fund raising campaign without everybody on the team.

There may not be a united drive - a single campaign for all the charities - but we hope the job to be done will find the usual hardworking men and women on the firing line, doing the job together.

leather or plastics. The boys have access to a shop library or file, but many pupils prefer to design their own projects. The work done in the shop is large in scope and varied, since it is inspired by the particular interests and needs of the individual students.

With the work in this general shop, the school tries to keep in mind the importance of the coordination of mind and hand rather than the perfection of a certain trade or project. Every youth has the opportunity to experience the thrill of a job well done. The enthusiasm with which a boy skillfully attacks the planning and building of something worthwhile for his home or recreation is the vehicle which develops resourcefulness, good work habits, accuracy, appreciation of craftsmanship, joy of accomplishment, good citizenship, and the acquisition of related knowledge. This manual training is not an isolated subject, but an integral part of the school program and a preparation for the worthwhile use of leisure time now, and in the years to come.

Red Cross Ready For Annual Drive

The residents of Springfield will soon be contacted to contribute to the annual fund drive of the Red Cross. The local chapter depends entirely on this one drive to finance its work in town and also to meet its share of the national quota.

One of the many services of the local volunteer drivers is to transport patients to hospitals and clinics for treatment. Many other trips are made in the station wagon for the welfare of Springfield residents.

The local Red Cross chapter also cooperates with the Springfield First Aid Squad in conducting first aid courses given free to anyone who enrolls.

Every summer the Red Cross Chapter, in conjunction with the Springfield Recreation Commission, sponsors and finances the Water Safety Program for Springfield children. Through this medium many school children have learned how to swim and take care of themselves in the water.

The Home Service chairman has been active assisting men and women in the armed forces in camps in the U. S. and overseas duty. This takes the form of helping to solve personal and family problems, including aid where indicated.

The American National Red Cross has spent $51,500,000 on more than 1,500 disaster operations in the six years between 1948 and 1953 according to a report just issued by the organization. Floods accounted for much of the destruction in this six-year period. The Red Cross spent $25,085,000 in assisting 94,800 families in 180 flood relief operations. Cost for 140 tornado operations for the spring months of March, April, May and June were $8,200,000. Most of the hurricane relief was concentrated in the Southeast and the Red Cross spent $1,130,000 on 12 operations. Disasters like fires and explosions were more frequent but less destructive. The 1,260 operations involving such disasters cost $1,800,000, while the 650 involving weather-caused disasters cost $30,000,000. The report indicates that no area of the nation is immune from disasters.

Answer the call—join and serve. The Red Cross Fund Drive will be conducted in Springfield on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 5, 6 and 7.

The 78th (Jersey Lightening) Division now has openings for both former servicemen and youths with no military experience. Members of divisional units throughout New Jersey receive a full day's Army pay for each Army Reserve nighttime drill session they attend.

(Continued from page 1) al lighting, with light from windows along one full side of the room and also from a strip of glass block at ceiling height on the opposite side of the room. This type of lighting is far superior because light is diffused evenly throughout the entire room and less artificial illumination is needed.

The Board of Education and the Citizens Advisory Committee feel that every item of expense connected with the new project should be known to the voters. In addition to the basic cost of the building, the following items are included in the budget.

At present there is a stream running through the property. In the interests of safety this stream must be straightened and piped. This work must be approved by the state and cost according to their specifications. This work may cost up to $30,000; therefore this figure is included. Complete furnishings for the building, including all classrooms, offices, and the all purpose room, will total $25,000. The proposed landscaping is estimated at a figure not to exceed $20,000. This will provide for finished grading, seeding, fertilizing, and planting, including a play area 160' x 300' back of the school. Wherever possible efforts will be made to save desirable trees on the property.

Total Cost $215,000. The bonding, attorney's, and accounting fees, which are controlled by law, plus the expense of survey and test borings, total $15,000. Architect's and engineering fees, also standard, amount to $20,000. In addition, an allowance of $15,000 is provided to take care of any possible unforeseen contingencies that might arise. This makes a total for the complete school, ready for occupancy, of $615,000.

This is the budget figure received from the architect, Mr. Schmidlin has a record of not exceeding his budget on 21 building projects in the last three years.

In the event that the bids on the final specifications total less than $615,000, the unexpended balance can be used to pay off principal and interest on the bonds when they begin to mature, thus reducing the annual school budget requirements.

The plan is to be presented to the State Board of Education the first week in March. After approval by the state, the date of referendum will be set. To allow for voting by absentee ballot, an election must be advertised 40 days in advance, so that the probable date of referendum will be about April 27. It is suggested that all voters make sure they are registered and eligible to vote. The architect's drawing and a

It is understood that several names are being considered by the Republican organization and an announcement may be made very shortly on the candidate.

Troop 16 had a Valentine Party at the home of their Troop Committee Chairman, Mrs. Doering. Each girl had a share of the work. They made the refreshments and provided the entertainment. They all came in "dresses". The girls are working very hard to earn their Cooking, Housekeeping and Sewing badges. When the weather permits they will work on Outdoor Cooking badges. They too are practicing their song for the Song Festival on March 12.

The girls of Troop 17 made Valentine corsages which they sent to the Colonial Rest Nursing Home. They have been studying the habits and mode of living of people in foreign countries in honor of International Friendship Month which is February. Mrs. E. W. Neal spoke to the girls about the country of her birth, Austria. They were happy for the nice weather the last two weeks and took advantage of it to have a game of Kickball. Woman's Club Show Set For March 10

Mrs. William Darrow will coach the dancers in the Woman's Club Show set for March 10.

As the rehearsals for "The Year of Jubilo" progress, it is quite evident that there will be plenty of fun and laughter ahead when Mr. Interceptor, played by Miss Evelyn Porter, leads her Bandmen on stage at the James Caldwell School on March 10 at the Husband's Night meeting of the Springfield Woman's Club. Miss Porter, Latin teacher at Regional High School, agrees that "Caesar was never like this!"

Mrs. Lee Andrews, Jr., is Drama Dept. Chairman and Minstrel Show director. Some of the members of the Music Department are assisting the Drama Department with this year's production. There will be dance teams, specialty dancers, a singing quartet, soloists, a singing chorus—all in all, many performers adding up to a delightful show.

Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace, did not always have its most famous son. Once it considered young Will a "ner-do-well," "fallen into the bad company of actors." In 1585, scarcely turned 21, this good-looking son left home under suspicion of "poaching deer." More "virginia" tobacco and peanuts are grown in North Carolina than anywhere else in the world.

Celtics Triumph In Fifth Straight

The league leading Celtics posted their fifth straight win in the Springfield Youth Basketball League last Saturday afternoon, defeating the Lakers by a 64-48 score. In the other half of the twin-bill, the Nats topped the Knicks by 41-38 in the best played game of the afternoon.

The Celtics started fast, getting off to a 28-13 lead at half-time, with Bobby Keith and Carl Haubold supplying the scoring punch. "Alabam" Anthony scored a basket in each half, his first two scores of the season. Ace Parker, Bobby Briggs and Meyers played well for the losing Lakers, with Parker held to nineteen points, being removed by Coach Walt Hohn in the last period with four minutes remaining. The fifth straight win practically assures the Celtics a tie in the championship race, with a Laker or Nat defeat, settling the race.

The Nats were spared by Butchies Ruban in their win over the Knicks, with Ruban scoring twenty-three points. Nendez, Freed and Cogliano played well for the losing Knicks.

Report From Washington

by Congressman Harrison A. Williams, Jr.

Defense Secretary Wilson and Secretary of State Dulles put forward a changed concept of military strategy. As reflected in the Administration's budget, it is proposed that U. S. policy rely heavily on air retaliation and atomic weapons and minimize reliance on ground forces.

This proposal is a matter of utmost concern to the citizens of the U. S. The questions involved and their effective resolution could well decide the future security of the free world. Many critics of the new policy point out that a defense which limits us to air and atomic retaliation does not provide flexibility to meet effectively localized aggression such as that which occurred in Korea. Other critics who support the reliance on air retaliation say that it does not provide enough funds for an adequate air force to accomplish this goal.

On the other hand, administration spokesmen argue that the proposed type of defense will permit the U. S. to choose its own grounds in any future conflicts; and, in addition, point out that this type of defense structure can be supported for a long time, if needed, by the U. S. economy.

This debate over military and foreign policy is really the great debate of 1954. I intend to devote considerable study to the issue involved and urge all my constituents to indicate to me their views on this matter of vital concern to national survival.

Gloom and Doom For several weeks many Democratic leaders have been pointing to the economic facts: Rising unemployment, falling production, and dropping agricultural prices. Republican orators have said that the Democrats are "prophets of gloom and doom." Presidential aid, Sherman Adams, labeled anyone who mentioned the danger signs "political sadists" who were attempting to talk this country into a recession.

It is my feeling that name calling won't solve our economic ills. The fact that there are dangerous signs is obvious to all. Pointing out these facts to the public is the responsibility of the loyal opposition — not an act of bad faith. Ignoring the economic facts and urging others to do likewise is not going to alter them.

I don't believe we can talk ourselves into or out of a recession. I do believe, however, that failing to catch economic downturn in the symptomatic stage results in the need for major operations later on.

It was reassuring to note that the President is not ignoring the economic warning signals but is contemplating action this spring should the situation continue.

Action on Hill The floor action on the Hill continues at a very slow pace. The Post Office and Treasury appropriation bills passed with little controversy. Current in the House is a discharge petition to force the Alaska statehood bill out of the powerful Rules Committee which has been holding up action on this bill.

Action on the St. Lawrence Seaway is expected to begin early in March. In ancient times the infantry soldier, best represented by the Roman legion, was more important in Europe and cavalry was more important in the warfare of Asia.

Bulldogs Top Cranford; Move To Semi-Finals

Playing possession offense and a light defense, the Regional Bulldogs defeated the Cranford Blues 52-44 Monday night in the Union County Interscholastic Conference basketball tournament at the Elizabeth Army. The win moved the Regional five into the semi-finals of the tournament. St. Mary's downed Westfield 55-51 in the other game of the double-header.

Lou DeRosa's boys were well coached and proved it by throttling the highly touted fast break of the Cranford team. The Blues were held to one field goal via the race-course route. Regional seemed to be in serious trouble early in the game when four of the regulars committed three personal fouls and were removed from the game. A great performance by a little-publicized junior, Joe Schaffernoth, saved the day for the Bulldogs. His only field goal in the first half resulted in a 23-23 tie at the intermission.

Fine passing by Tom Lucile and three field goals by Lefty Lee Lawn gave Regional a 36-33 lead in the third quarter. The Bulldogs stayed on top from this point on. Schaffernoth poured through nine points in the final quarter to give Springfield a seven point lead. Any thought of a Cranford rally was dispelled by the fine ball handling of the Regional back court men.

Regional took 52 shots from the floor and made 22 with Fred Buehner hitting on seven out of 14. He also scored on two free throws for a total of 16 points, high for Regional. Ron Doyle scored 19 points for Cranford to be high man in the game. Cranford missed 13 free throws and Regional missed 12.

St. Mary's pulled up a 44-24 with an amazing display of shooting and ball handling. Then, when Jerry Bechtel fouled out the team seemed to fall apart momentarily. Jim Hilleck's rebounding was one of the reasons why Westfield was downed. Bob Mettley's second half performance for Westfield almost upset the St. Mary's squad. The Hilltoppers saw their 44-24 lead cut to seven points late in the game. They had enough steam left to freeze the ball successfully for the last few minutes and maintain the seven-point lead.

MADE SCIENCE TRIP Frank Murphy, 16 Washington avenue, and Samuel Wronsky, 29 Crest place, accompanied the general science class of the Pingry School on a trip to Philadelphia on Feb. 20. The boys, under the leadership of faculty member Ernest C. Shawcross, traveled by bus to Philadelphia's famous Franklin Institute. There they saw among many other things, the current show at the Institute's Fels Planetarium, entitled "Once in a Blue Moon." In this demonstration, the mysterious ways of the moon were made known to all. The Pingry visitors saw The Engine of Life (the heart), an apparatus so large that one walks through it, following the path identical to that followed by the blood in normal cardiac circulation.

Schools To Begin Bowling Tourney

The Third Union County High School bowling tournament will be held at Bolo Lanes on Highway No. 26 in Mountaineer. All member schools will try to enter either a team or individual boys. Nine schools were represented last year in the second tournament.

The plan this year is to have each school enter as many teams of five boys each or individuals as possible. The eligibility code of the N.J.S.T.A.A. will govern your selection. All contestants will bowl three games. The winning team will receive a trophy. The high three individual average boys will receive County Championship Medals.

G. E. Official Tells How To Attract Business To Town

An article appeared in a recent issue of the American Press, an independent magazine for home town newspapers, under the heading "How To Attract New Industries To Town." Assuming that Springfield would like to attract some type of industry, we are reprinting the article below since the topic seems to fit the Township.

"Do you want to attract new industry to your town?" "Some publishers would answer 'Yes' and some 'No' to that question. This article is for those who would answer 'Yes.' It is an analysis by Clarence H. Linder, vice president of General Electric, as to what a town needs to have or do to attract industry. It is based on a talk which he gave before the Illinois Press Association in which he said to newspaper publishers: Said Mr. Linder:

"It isn't General Electric or du Pont which selects the new site but the site, rather which elects itself. The factors which industry must consider in choosing a new manufacturing area are beyond the power of industry to determine or influence. If the community hasn't the essential qualities and characteristics which are so important to industry, then the community must create them if it wishes to fit into the future pattern of partnership.

"What, then, are these factors? These qualities and characteristics which industry looks for in a community? They break-down into two broad categories: economic and social factors.

"One of the economic factors is proximity to market. Any well-located manufacturing plant must of necessity be situated with reasonable accessibility to a market for the goods it will produce. Proximity to supplies. Another factor is proximity to sources of supply. The plant must be reasonably accessible to the sources of raw materials and parts which go into its product. There also has to be an adequate supply of the right kind of labor. Not only is it necessary that an adequate supply of the right kind of labor be available, but it is most desirable that the community have a record of solid labor conditions. Although it is unfortunate and also difficult to explain, nevertheless it is true that certain communities do have records of long periods of labor unrest, frequent strikes, and violence.

"Another consideration is prevailing wage rate levels. Industry must assure itself that its proposed rates in a given community will be high enough to attract the caliber of personnel required, yet not so high as to be out of line with rates paid for comparable work by existing companies in the area.

"Then we must consider the tax rates. While industry does not expect nor desire a 'free ride' as far as taxes are concerned, good-business judgment does dictate that, all other factors being equal, the plant should be located in the state and community which provides the best service rendered. This necessitates a study of the types of taxes prevalent in the community in question.

"Trends of Taxation. In the field of state taxes, one must consider such things as personal income taxes, corporation taxes, franchise taxes, etc. So we have to weigh those factors, also. And for both state and community taxes, we have to study not only the immediate picture but also the expected trend.

"How about utilities? In order for a community to be considered seriously as a plant location, it must be able to provide the necessary utilities or services in a form adequate to meet the plant's needs—such things as electric power, gas, water, and sewers.

"Transportation facilities must be adequate. Every manufacturing plant performs the function of receiving raw materials, changing their form, and then moving the finished product into the hands of its customers. This means transportation, to bring materials in and to ship them out. A city with some railroad lines will obviously hold an advantage over another.

And freight rates are a study in themselves. Water transportation also may be important. Other transportation factors are good through-highways for trucks, railroad passenger service, airline service, inter-city bus transportation, together with bus transportation within the community itself for the use of employees.

"All the foregoing are economic factors. There are also several social factors which are important in determining a suitable factory location.

"One of these social factors is housing. Will it be adequate? If not, are there local builders and financiers willing and anxious to supply the increased demand? Educational Facilities
