Hitchings Catches 111 Pound Marlin

Major and Mrs. Robert Hitchings and sons, David and Jeffrey of 117 Haverhill Avenue, spent two weeks vacationing at Normandy Beach. They returned home on Saturday, July 31.

While there, Major Hitchings went out on his first deep sea fishing trip and came back in with a white marlin, believed to be the largest ever caught off the Jersey shore. The fish weighed 111½ lbs. and was 8 ft. 1 in. long. Major Hitchings made this catch from the July 8-10 run of the Yacht Club on Tuesday, July 27. It took him an hour and five minutes to bring it in.

In view of the approaching emergency drive by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and the fact that our town, which has so often been spared, has two small victims of this disease, I am heartened by the spirit shown when three other neighborhood children saddened by the plight of their friends (frank from door-to-door soliciting financial help to combat this disease). Such spontaneous action could well be an example for us adults who in this modern world, often forget the plight of those less fortunate.

I would like to take this opportunity to commend the action of these three children, who like many more have raised funds to help fight this dread disease. They deserve great credit for having succeeded despite obstacles that only served to spur them on to greater success. The amount raised was the largest ever received from children neighborhood activities.

In order to assure those who doubted the intentions of these children but more important to give credit for a job well done, I am happy to list these additional soldiers in the never ceasing battle against Polio. Stuart Chesler, 44 Wentz Avenue, Ronnie Puorro, 88 Irwin Street and Eddie Bloom, 86 Mapes Avenue.

These children and those who were so generous to them may be assured this money will be used to allay the sufferings of those afflicted with this disease.

On behalf of the Springfield Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, I express the thanks of those who have been and will continue to be aided by this and similar efforts.

Both Local Polio Cases Appear Out Of Danger

First Aid Squad Cannot Transport Polio Victims

The polio scare in Springfield has resulted in a statement by the Springfield First Aid Squad to the effect that "it cannot transport cases diagnosed as poliomyelitis." Following is the complete announcement on this subject by the First Aid Squad:

"Following the announcement of two polio cases in Springfield, the First Aid Squad has asked that the following information be brought to the attention of all Springfield residents.

"The Springfield First Aid Squad cannot transport diagnosed or possible poliomyelitis cases. This service cannot be offered because of the dangers involved to the squad members and also because the ambulance could not be used for a period of 12-14 hours after being used for the transporting of a polio case.

"Preventing the spread of polio concerns us all. Residents of our township would not knowingly expose themselves or members of their families to this dread disease and we, as volunteer members of your first aid squad, would not do so either. Using the ambulance for such cases would be the means of such exposure. It would be contaminated even with the use of isolation techniques on the part of the attendants. Any person using the ambulance after the transportation of a polio patient may very well risk exposure to the disease. This is one reason why the squad believes it to be unwise to transport polio patients.

"From a more practical point of view, disinfection of the ambulance following a polio transportation would put it out of service for 12-14 hours; all bedding used for the patient would have to be burned; attendants could wear only a mask, coveralls, and a pair of shoes, all of which would have to be burned on completion of the trip. These severe measures are necessary because we do not have the facilities available as these organizations equipped to handle contagious diseases.

We know, with these facts in mind, Springfield residents will realize the reason for this departure from our announced policy of offering the squad service whenever and wherever they are needed.

"Help in transporting a polio victim can be secured through St. Elizabeth Hospital of Elizabeth, which is the polio center of Union County. If any questions arise, please contact your first aid squad by calling police headquarters or by phoning St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Elizabeth 5-3100."

March Of Dimes Asks More Contributions For Emergen

Springfield will be called upon to help in the emergency campaign for Union County's $50,000 quota to supplement the January March of Dimes drive to be held from August 16 to August 30. Edward L. Whelan, chairman of the Union County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced that Acting Postmaster George M. Turk has agreed to handle the Springfield campaign.

Although Union County contributed a total of $136,010.95 to the 1954 March of Dimes, the highest amount in the history of the appeals, the emergency drive is still necessary, Mr. Whelan said. He explained that on a nationwide scale insufficient funds were raised to provide both for patient care and for polio prevention.

The county chairman quoted National Foundation figures to show that a third more polio cases were reported in the first half of the current year than the average for the same period over the last five years. He said signs indicate at least 40,000 new cases by the end of the year, in addition to 67,000 patients carried over from 1953.

"In any event," he stated, "a record polio case-load must be cared for in 1954. The provision of increased amounts of gamma globulin and the evaluation of the

The polio scare—as far as Springfield is concerned—appears to be over although both cases will be watched carefully.

Seven year old Bobbie Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Walter of 12 Kipling Avenue, was brought home Tuesday from the isolation ward at St. Elizabeth's in Elizabeth and is now under the loving care of his mother who was formerly a nurse.

Susan, the nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex White of 15 Kipling Avenue, is sitting up and doing very well, according to the doctors, even though she is still at Muhlenberg Hospital in Plainfield.

Both children, according to the health authorities, now appear to be out of danger and there should be no concern as to further cases since yesterday was the end of the fourteen-day period with no new cases reported.

Dr. H. P. Dengler, Springfield Health Officer, is very pleased with the fine progress being made by the two local youngsters and attributes the present improved situation to the cooperation of all health authorities, the quick action of the parents in reporting the cases and the response of all neighbors in cooperating with the visiting Health Board nurses.

There were 15 cases in all reported in Union County up to yesterday compared with 27 reported in the same period last year, according to Miss Bertha M. Coe, orthopedic nurse for the Union County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Mrs. Walter was happy to have her boy home, she said on the telephone yesterday, and hopes her training as a nurse will help bring Bobbie back to complete recovery.

Another meeting of the municipal engineers with the water company will be held Tuesday, August 24, and a second meeting of the representatives of the various municipalities is scheduled for September 13 at which time the water company is expected to announce improvements to prevent future water shortages in this area.

Officials from Summit, Maplewood, West Orange, Irvington, Berkeley Heights, Passaic Township as well as Springfield attended Monday night's meeting on the water shortage situation.

The water company was called upon to give some assurance that there would be no lack of water or water pressure as was the case in several of the communities during the recent dry spell.

The heavy rains early this week have improved the situation in Springfield but the use of water between the hours of 4 p. m. and 10 p. m. for sprinkling lawns and Replies accompanied by donations will be requested.

In addition, a selected list of donors will be approached with a plea for an extra gift for the emergency fund. The women's division and the sports division will be urged to sponsor special fund-raising events, and each county municipality will be asked to do the same. Coin boxes will be distributed in the main business districts.

FUND-DRIVE
RESIDENTS—Don't forget to place your quarter donation to the Springfield First Aid Squad in the slot marked "TOWELLS," dated August 14 on your card.

Springfield is near the top of the list of Union County communities, according to Union County CIO statistics, in registration percentages. Mountainside being high with 80.6 Clark Township is second with 78.3, New Providence is third with 75.9 and then comes Springfield in fourth position with a percentage of 66.6.

The request for this additional registration of voters came from the leaders of the Union County CIO who claimed that Elizabeth and the larger cities had low per capita registrations and asked the board to overcome this problem by ordering neighborhood registration. Late registration hours and registration in factories, offices and shops. The CIO statistics show that Elizabeth has a population of 124,098 and a registration of 52,883 or 42.5 percent. The small towns, according to the CIO statistics, are highest in registration percentages.

Even with Springfield's reported 66.6 percent registration, both political parties have plan an all out campaign to have every eligible voter registered for the coming November elections. A great number of new residents have come into the Township in the last year or so but they have not registered because they weren't able to qualify during the last registration period as to length of residence requirements. However, workers of both parties will start an early campaign to get all these new people registered but, with the hot wave continuing, policies will remain in the hot ton drawer until after vacation (Continued on page 6)

ON THE SUNNY SIDE

Springfield has no serious juvenile problem—and, certainly, no delinquency problem. This fact became established after a survey which included talking to parents, police authorities and other individuals in Springfield who insist that "there is a positive approach to parental responsibility here for character building—and besides the youngsters in the Township are nice, well behaved children."

However, everybody agrees that "there's very little for the youngsters in Springfield after dark" and aside from "meeting the kids in one of the ice cream parlors" there's no place to go and nothing to occupy their attention—except the Teen-Inn programs at the American Legion Hall on Saturday nights.

Which brings us to the letter, printed below, from Mr. and Mrs. John M. Keith who have devoted a great deal of their time and energy in making these Teen-Inn programs possible:

Editor, Sun:

In the issue of the Sun of August 5, 1954, you ran an article on Teen Inn, Inc. in which you used my name. Neither Mr. Keith nor I were consulted by you on this press release and in several respects we do not agree with the content of the article.

In the first place Teen Inn is no new organization. This is a community service activity of Continental Post American Legion and has been in existence since January 22, 1944 and was incorporated by the Post in, I believe, May of that year. Meetings have been held weekly during the school years—but few exceptions where the Legion building rentals interfered. No charge has ever been made for the use of the building and Mrs. Keith and I act as members of the Legion and Legion auxiliary serving only to guide the governing Student Committee.

In 1944 we did advance funds to start operations but this money was promptly repaid. Teen Inn annually makes contributions to worthwhile projects and carries a comfortable balance in the local bank.

Quite to the contrary of the general thought behind your article we have considered recommending to the Legion that Teen Inn be discontinued. We are beginning to question the necessity of activities such as Teen Inn where parents of children provide them with spending money sufficient to purchase commercial entertainment.

Finally, we do not recognize a Juvenile Delinquency problem in Springfield. The current publicity without a definition of the term "Delinquency" is doing the Teen Ager a disservice. We read in the papers of other communities of the problems of alcohol, narcotics, and the serious side-effects of these vices. There is Delinquency, which, thanks to the wholesome family life in this community, is far below the state average. When you include misdemeanors in this same category under the general term delinquency you are creating a false impression for our parents of the actions of their children and their associates.

We are very pleased we chose Springfield as the community in which to raise our four children.

Sincerely yours, J. M. KEITH

The letter speaks for itself and we do not care to make any comment except that, in answer to the first paragraph, we did try to contact the Keith residence by telephone to verify the information but there was no answer to the many calls. Mr. and Mrs. Keith are to be commended for their interest in behalf of Springfield's youngsters and, in place of the voices thundering down from the speakers' platform exhorting the welfare and social workers to guide the future of the rising generation, we love the very last paragraph of the letter in which the Keiths say how "very pleased... we chose Springfield as the community in which to raise our four children."

Nothing could be said—or written—that would show greater confidence in the youngsters of Springfield.

Weather bureau: "They Didn't Believe Me."

Deodorant: "You'll Walk Alone."
Aspirin: "You Go to My Head."
Pawn Shop: "Everything I Have Is Yours."

Manicurist: "The Touch of Your Hand."
Optician: "The Nearness of You."
Bootlegger: "In the Still of the Night."

EMERGENCY POLIO DRIVE

Twenty million dollars is a lot of money. This is true in a general sense, but the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is finding it even truer, because that's what the foundation must collect between August 16 and 31 to meet its needs.

Apparently, the March of Dimes campaign in January was a very successful affair. National headquarters of the foundation termed it "the most successful in polio history." However, adds the foundation, "it fell far short of the tightly budgeted needs for 1954. That is why we must now make an emergency, all-out appeal to the public."

The foundation points out that services provided by the agency are being jeopardized by a lack of funds which threatens to force curtailment of the program of service and research. Continuing care for 67,000 patients stricken in earlier years are a burden on the organization.

In addition, the foundation is working to increase the supply of gamma globulin in the nation and finance the continued research in the development of possible polio vaccines. Publicly subscribed funds have been a tremendous source of the financial footing needed to bring these phases of the war on infantile paralysis to their present development.

The polio foundation will make an effort to get itself off the "point of no return." Efforts will be made to reach every member of the public in one way or another. The project is one which should be of interest to every member of the community because of the possibilities which lurk for everyone.

There is no class, social or economic distinction among the victims of polio. No age-group is immune to the attack of the deadly virus, and the pain is inflicted upon young and old alike.

When those who seek to solve the problem are in need of funds the situation becomes tenuous. Curtailment of activity can mean more victims going without the needed treatment and care. We might be shocked at polio statistics. But when we realize that every statistic is a person the horror becomes even more realistic.

"IT'S ONLY A BELLYACHE"

Summertime connotes a period of freedom from work routines, golden hours of surf and sand, the muted murmur of woodland brooks, the twilight coolness of mountain trails, and a hundred other delights. Sometimes it also means sunburn, contact dermatitis, middle-ear infections, exhaustion, and food poisoning—that is, if we are not careful to take its pleasures and avoid its pains. For pains are quite frequent in summer, as in other seasons, and sometimes they are unavoidable, especially pains in the abdomen.

In hot weather we are inclined to brush off the symptoms of abdominal distress as due to the heat, or to cold drinks, or just something we ate. But they can be the signs of appendicitis, especially in children, and should not be disregarded, because as late as 1950 appendicitis killed more than 3,000 people in the United States. Typically in appendicitis the patient has colicky pain in mid-abdomen, some nausea and perhaps vomiting, and later a slight tenderness in the lower right section of the abdomen. When these signs are found, or when you are in the slightest doubt, call the doctor. Never administer a laxative. Don't be fooled by a period of absence of pain, because appendicitis shows an interval called "the fool's paradise" phase as it advances toward the development of gangrene. Don't underestimate that bellyache. It may be the warning that will save your life. Appendicitis is only a bellyache, but if neglected it can be the last one you'll ever have.

"As simple as one plus one equals two is the formula that it requires one driver alone, or another one or more to equal one accident," stated William Green, President of the Automobile Association of New Jersey at a regional meeting of the 38 offices of that organization.

"Therefore our driving attitude is a major factor toward our becoming involved in accidents. Such reasoning is borne out by the fact that traffic authorities have found through the instrument of survey that the majority of accidents on our highways are the results of thoughtlessness, carelessness and an utter disregard of the right of others."

"Each of us has our particular idea of the 'right of way' and in the majority of cases the conception of 'right' is in our favor. Any traffic court magistrate will furnish proof that the initial urge on the part of contestants in an auto accident suit is to establish 'how wrong the other fellow was.'"

"May we suggest to autoists in general that all of us reacquaint ourselves with the 'Rules of the Road.' Courtesy toward other motorists can prove to be a vital factor in reducing the terrific toll of accidents. It will minimize thoughtlessness and carelessness, those boon companions of tragedy. Consideration begets consideration and if we extend courtesy toward others we shall profit in return. Safe driving is a state of mind and it is smart."

"We are our brother's keeper on the highway for each of us make up the caravan of traffic. Being involved in an accident, no matter how small, is costly both in time and money. Observing the rules of the road and giving a thought to others, is good insurance against being involved in a traffic accident."

Leonard Best, School Aid Unit State Leader, Resigns

Leonard E. Best, president of the Richard Best Pencil Company of Springfield, who headed the fight for increased state assistance in education, announced his resignation as chairman of the New Jersey Citizens Committee for Adequate School Aid, according to an article in the Elizabeth Journal yesterday.

Expressing the belief that the group's work is done for the present, Mr. Best said, "I feel the time has come to turn our attention to other pressing problems of our public schools." Mr. Best said in letters to committee members, who represent parent-teacher and other civic organizations throughout the state.

In discussing the state aid situation today, the Summit Board of Education president declared that further increases in assistance "undoubtedly will be required."

He pointed out that the amounts provided in the legislation adopted in June still do not meet the needs of many communities.

But he expressed the belief that the legislation, going into effect in 1955 as the minimum amount needed, Mr. Best headed the commission.

needed and how the goal can best be reached," he said, the groups can reorganize and submit a definite plan. He himself has been named state aid chairman for the Federated Boards of Education and will work in that capacity. Meanwhile, Mr. Best urged the various groups to focus their major attention on the many pressing school needs such as teacher recruitment and financial assistance for school building programs.

"We have succeeded in doubling the state financial aid to local districts," Mr. Best declared. This will mean approximately 30 million dollars in extra revenue for 1955-56 when the full sum will be distributed, he said, explaining that the formula is based on enrollments which steadily are rising. It can be expected, the Summit man asserted, that state aid will increase by about 2½ to 3 million dollars annually.

The estimate assistance for 1955-56 is exactly half the 60 million dollars originally set by the State School Aid Commission in 1951 as the minimum amount needed. Mr. Best headed the commission.

Flemington Fair Starts Aug. 31

An unusual opportunity to see displays of outstanding old-time farming skills from wood chopping to bee keeping will be offered spectators at the Flemington Fair August 31 through September 6.
"Since ours is an old-fashioned country fair, we want to give the young people a real chance to show what they can do," William J. Kinnaman, executive vice president of the fair explained. "They will have plenty of opportunity to display their best animals and produce, but we also want them to show off their farming skills."
Milking contests will be staged every day of the fair at 11:30 a.m. There will be a bee handling demonstration every afternoon at 5 o'clock.
On September 1 in addition to these, there will be a tractor contest and demonstration, a cake baking contest, a wood chopping contest and a horse pulling contest. That day's program will also include a fire prevention demonstration, a farm machinery demonstration and a machinery parade.

On Thursday, there will be the showing of the Guernseys and Jerseys by their 4-H Club owners and, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the cavalcade of farm animals.
The sheep judging will take place on Friday beginning at 12:30 p.m., with the cavalcade of sheep to be held on the track during the afternoon program.
Saturday's program will include a Western Horse Show and Gymkhana with most of the events for the teen-agers and down but with enough events to bring the adults with their horses. For real fun on horseback it will be a fascinating spectacle for the spectators.

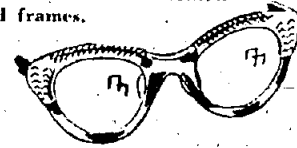

Use Electricity With One Hand
Putting both hands to work is one of the simple rules for saving time and labor on household jobs. However, there is one exception to that rule and that is when electricity is involved.

"When it comes to using electricity or electrical equipment, never have both hands doing different tasks at the same time," warns Mrs. Doris Anderson, specialist of Rutgers University. "For safety, when handling any electrical appliance or when changing a fuse, avoid touching anything else. If the appliance happens to be worn or otherwise defective in such a way that it will cause a short circuit, there is always danger of shock. But there is less danger and less chance of severe shock if one hand is free and is not touching anything else."
"As you know electricity seeks the shortest and easiest route to make its circuit to the ground and should be prevented from making that circuit through the body from one arm to the other.

"Special care must be taken in the bathroom and kitchen because the electricity travels through water. When turning on an electric light with one hand, don't touch water or the metal water faucet with the other. Be sure hands are dry when handling any electrical equipment and that the floor on which you are standing is dry. Cement floors often appear dry yet hold enough moisture to be shock hazards. Never touch a radio, portable electric heater or other electrical appliances or turn on lights when in the bathtub or when washing dishes or doing the laundry."
Another two-handed hazard has to do with the vacuum cleaner, the New Jersey State University specialist points out. If one hand is running a cleaner and the other moves a metal lamp out of the way and either of these appliances happens to have a loose wire or other defect, an electric shock might result.

"You might also remind yourself that this is a good time to check electrical appliances and connections to make sure that there are no loose wires or other defects that are shock hazards," Mrs. Anderson adds.

War Department Says Flag Can Be Flown At Half Mast

The question concerning the proper display of the flag which has been a matter of discussion among Springfield patriotic and civic groups, has been answered in a letter received by the Springfield Sun from the office of the Adjutant General of the Department of the Army in Washington.

The subject of the discussion has been centered about the authority to "display the flag at half mast." It has been a custom by local authorities to order the flag at half mast on public buildings in respect for a resident who had been active in municipal affairs and who had passed away. Several people who had looked into the matter were of the opinion that flags could be displayed at half mast "only on orders of the President of the United States."

In order to get a clear understanding, the Sun addressed a letter to the War Department requesting information on the proper display of the flag and whether or not the flag could be flown at half mast over public buildings out of respect to a local person.

Following is the reply in full, signed by Major General William B. Bergin, Adjutant General:

"This is in reply to your letter requesting information concerning the display of the flag at half mast."

"Concerning the display of the flag at half mast in respect for a local person in case of death, the Department of the Army may prescribe rules and regulations governing the display and use of the flag only for observance within the Army; however, there is no objection to a state or local governing body ordering the flying of the flag at half mast by resolution.

"The statement that the display of the flag at half mast may only be authorized by Presidential Proclamation, has reference to the display of all flags at half mast throughout the United States.

"I am enclosing a copy of the War Department Bulletin #4, which contains the rules and customs pertaining to the display and use of the flag of the United States of America, as set forth in Public Law #29, which I believe will be of interest to your readers."

The National Society of the Daughters of the American is, the flag's own right, or, if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line.

(a) The flag should not be displayed on a float in a parade except from a staff, or as provided in subsection (1).

(b) The flag should not be draped over the hood, top, sides, or back of a vehicle or of a railroad train or a boat. When the flag is displayed on a motorcar, the staff shall be fixed firmly to the chassis or clamped to the radiator cap.

(c) No other flag or pennant should be placed above or, if on the same level, to the right of the flag of the United States of America, except during church services, conducted by naval chaplains at sea, when the church pennant may be flown above the flag during church services for the personnel of the Navy.

(d) The flag of the United States of America, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

(e) The flag of the United States of America should be at the center and at the highest point of the group when a number of flags of States or localities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs.

(f) When flags of States, cities, or localities, or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the latter should always be at the peak. When the flags are flown from adjacent staffs, the flag of the United States should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant may be placed above the flag of the United States or to the right of the flag of the United States.

(g) When flags of two or more nations are displayed, they are to be flown from separate staffs of the same height. The flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

(h) When the flag of the United States is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of a building, the union of the flag should be placed at the peak of the staff unless the flag is at half-staff.

(i) When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope extending from a house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the flag should be hoisted out, union first, from the building.

(j) When the flag is displayed otherwise than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out, or so suspended that its folds fall as free as though the flag were staffed.

(k) When the flag is displayed over the middle of the street, it should be suspended vertically with the union of the north in an east and west street, or to the east in a north and south street.

(l) When used on a speaker's platform, the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker. When displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium, if it is displayed in the chance of a church, or on the speaker's platform in a public auditorium, the flag should occupy the position of honor and be placed at the clergyman's or speaker's right as he faces the congregation or audience. Any other flag so displayed in the chance of or on the platform should be placed at the clergyman's or speaker's left as he faces the congregation or audience. But when the flag is displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium elsewhere than in the chance of or on the platform it shall be placed in the position of honor at the right of the congregation or audience as they face the chance of or on the platform.

(m) The flag should form a distinctive feature of the ceremony of unveiling a statue or monument, but it should never be used as the covering for the statue or monument.

(n) The flag, when flown at half staff, should be first hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff position. The flag should be again raised to the peak before it is lowered for the day. By "half staff" is meant lowering the flag to one-half the distance between the top and bottom of the staff. Crepe streamers may be affixed to spear heads or flag-staffs in a parade only by order of the President of the United States.

(o) When the flag is used to cover a casket, it should be so placed that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave or allowed to touch the ground.

(p) That no disrespect should be shown to the flag of the United States of America; the flag should not be dipped to any person or thing. Regimental colors, State flags, and organization or institutional flags are to be dipped as a mark of honor.

(q) The flag should never be displayed with the union down save as a signal of dire distress.

(r) The flag should never touch anything beneath it, such as the ground, the floor, water, or merchandise.

(s) The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally, but always aloft and free.

(t) The flag should never be used as drapery of any sort, what-so-ever, never fastened, drawn back, nor up, in folds, but always allowed to fall free. Bunting of blue, white, and red, always arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle, and the red below, should be used for covering a speaker's desk, drawing the front of a platform, and for decoration in general.

(u) The flag should never be fastened, displayed, used, or stored in such a manner as will permit it to be easily torn, soiled, or damaged in any way.

(v) The flag should never be used as a covering for a ceiling.

(w) The flag should never be placed upon it, nor on any part of it, nor attached to it any mark, insignia, letter, word, figure, design, picture, or drawing of any nature.

(x) The flag should never be used as a receptacle for receiving, holding, carrying, or delivering anything.

(y) The flag should never be used for advertising purposes in any manner whatsoever. It should not be embroidered on such articles as cushions or handkerchiefs and the like, printed or otherwise impressed on paper napkins or boxes or anything that is designed for temporary use and discarded; or used as any portion of a costume or athletic uniform. Advertising signs should not be fastened to a staff or halyard from which the flag is flown.

(z) The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning.

Sec. 5. That during the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag or when the flag is passing in a parade or in a review, all persons present should face the flag, stand at attention, and salute. Those present in uniform should render the military salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress with the right hand holding it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Men without hats should salute in the same manner. Aliens should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the flag in the moving column should be rendered at the moment the flag passes.

Sec. 6. That when the national anthem is played and the flag is not displayed, all present should stand and face toward the music. Those in uniform should salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining this position until the last note. All others should stand at attention, men removing the headdress. When the flag is displayed, all present should face the flag and salute.

Desire is prayer; and no loss can occur from trusting God with our desires, that they may be moulded and exalted before they take form in words and in deeds.

—Mary Baker Eddy

The question of neighborhood registration has been a problem time but Mrs. Eleanor Worthington, Springfield Township clerk, doesn't think that method will increase the registrations here. "Our voters and prospective voters live here," said Mrs. Worthington, "and during the registration time, we do everything we can in our office here to help people register. It is different in the larger municipalities where many people are employed in industry, offices and shops but here in Springfield there are enough dates announced for registration to give everybody the time to visit Town Hall and get their names on the list of eligible voters."

Other registration percentages as announced by the CIO statistics were: Fanwood, 63.7; Scotch Plains, 57.1; Westfield, 53.8; Kenilworth, 53.2; Summit, 53.4; Rahway, 53.4; Cranford, 52.4; Linden, 51.9; Roselle, 51.5.

Gardens is still prohibited. Mayor Binder asks residents of Springfield to comply with this order until pressure for pumping is increased by the water company but the emergency still exists and great care should be taken to preserve the water service for fire protection and essential uses.

How to Stretch Your Vacation Budget

A bright new look for last year's slack suit, via a simple dye-bath, is a happy boon to summer wardrobe budgets.

Want more money for vacation fun? Use the dye-bath to give you another season's wear on sun-faded shorts, slacks, blouses, jackets and other outdoor wearables. A few boxes of all-fabric dye, which come in 54 colors and tints, both man-made and natural fibers, will yield a fresh, new-looking vacation wardrobe that even close friends won't recognize as last year's togs. If the fabric's unevenly faded or stained, or if you're changing from a dark to a lighter color, or if you want an entirely different color, the Tintex Home Economizer Bureau advises using color remover first. The washing machine is ideal for dyeing the larger articles, such as slacks, coats and dresses, the bureau points out.
