DON'T HAVE ACCIDENTS — AND HOW!

Police Chief Wilbur C. Selander, whose department keeps records of all traffic accidents occurring within the city limits, observes that the type and causes of accidents tend to follow a definite pattern based on seasonal weather conditions.

Knowledge of this pattern can be of great value to capable drivers in preventing accidents, he points out. "For example, the winter-type accident is most likely to be a collision resulting from reduced visibility due to bad weather, or a crackup resulting from lack of control on snow or ice," the chief explained. "And frequently it's a combination of both these factors."

He further noted that accidents of this type are especially common during early winter — when many motorists are caught unprepared both as to their driving habits and proper winter equipment.

"The onset of winter weather usually brings on a rash of accidents, traffic delays, and line-ups at service stations, most of which could be easily prevented by a little forethought and preparation," Chief Selander said. "This year I'd like to see our winter season get off to a better start than usual. We can do it if drivers follow three simple rules: (1) provide their cars with the necessary equipment to assure maximum visibility; (2) take advantage of scientific advances in the field of skid prevention; and (3) maintain the alertness and caution which characterize the expert driver in any season of the year."

Asked to elaborate on his three points, Chief Selander agreed that most cars come equipped with normal vision-clearing apparatus. If then boils down to having this equipment checked and put in top operating condition. Defrosters should work with full power and efficiency. This may necessitate nothing more than installing new thermostats.

Windshield wiper efficiency should not be taken for granted just because the arm moves back and forth across a segment of the windshield. If the blades are old and sun-baked, the rubber may be dead and should be replaced. The arm pressure should be checked, and it should show at least one ounce of pressure for each inch of blade length. New cars have that, but as cars grow older the pressure peters out and on many cars there isn't enough pressure left in the old arms to do anything more than make blades streak the windshield, or ride over snow that sticks to the glass. This is a dangerous situation.

Beyond these basic precautions, adequate winter-time visibility becomes a matter of the driver taking time to scrape all windows free of accumulated ice or snow before starting out. This can become a chore for drivers who park their cars out-of-doors, day and night, the chief conceded, but it's a chore which no driver can afford to shirk. It's all the more important to the drivers who park their cars outside.

With respect to scientific advances in skid-prevention, Chief Selander pointed out that a great deal of research has also been done by the Committee on Winter Driving Hazards of the National Safety Council. All kinds of skid-reducing equipment have been tested and driving techniques have been practiced and verified or discarded. Knowledge gained from these tests has become part of the lore of safe winter driving as practiced by both professional drivers and well-informed amateurs.

"We urge drivers to learn all they can about the relative benefits of various equipment designed to minimize skidding and getting stuck," the chief emphasized. "After all, when the weather's against us, we don't achieve safety by wishing for it. Knowledge is the answer, and prompt action based on that knowledge is the remedy."

"For example, tests show the best equipment for providing stop-and-go traction in deep snow or on glare ice is a set of reinforced tire chains. But even chains can't help if they aren't in the trunk, handy to use when a driver can't move without them. So now is the time to make sure we'll have reliable traction when we need it."

The chief added that some of the special winter-treads are helpful in improving traction, particularly when snow is not too deep and the grades are not too steep. He said that some of the snow tires are better than others but that none can compare with bar-reinforced tire chains for traction or for stopping.

However, with the city's winter record in mind, Chief Selander pointed out that none of the skid-study experts claimed that any type of anti-skid equipment is good enough to permit summertime speeds on snow or ice.

Generally reduced speed, smooth starts, gradual stops — these are the driving methods which help wily-equipped drivers to maintain accident-free records throughout the winter, he said.

Meisel Ave. Area to Have Night Skating

The Meisel avenue ice skating area in Springfield will have floodlights this year for the first time, joining the list of places where night skating will be permitted, the Union County Park Commission has announced.

The Springfield site is a project of the Springfield-Milburn Kiwanis Club.

Floodlights have also been installed for skaters in the new pond in Unami Park, located in Cranford, Garwood and Westfield, the commission reported.

Altogether, 26 areas throughout the Union County park system, including the new one in Unami Park, it was announced. Preparations for the sport were outlined coincidentally with a warning by Wesley D. Hoesly, chief of park police, against the dangers of this ice.

Chief Hoesly urged parents to keep their children away from ice-covered water and called on adults to exercise caution. A report on whether ice is thick enough to support skaters is obtainable from park police headquarters in Warinanco Park, he said.

The sport will be supervised at Surorise Lake in the Watchung Reservation, and lakes in Cedar Brook Park, Plainfield; Echo Lake Park, Mountaineer and Westfield; Rahway River Park; Rahway; Warinanco Park; Elizabeth and Roselle; the flooded area at the Galloping Hill golf course, Kenilworth and Union, and the Woodruff section of the Elizabeth River, Hillside.

"Ice will be scraped in supervised spots and heated shelters will be open at some.

The following other places will be available for skating: Briant's Pond, Summit; the extension area and the lagoon at Green Brook Park, Plainfield; Milton-Laake, Rahway; Jackson's and Bloodgood's ponds, Clark; Nomahegan Park, Munsee Drive and county park traps; Cranford; The Black Brook area, Kenilworth; and the ice hockey rink in Rahway River Park.

When snow is deep enough, there will be coasting at Galloping Hill, Echo Lake and Green Brook parks. Two slopes will be reserved for skiing, one at Galloping Hill and the other in the Watchung Reservation.

Springfield Building First Fallout Shelter

Ground was broken in Springfield Saturday for the first public demonstration shelter against fallout to be built in Union County.

National state and county Civil Defense officials were represented at the ceremony at the Springfield Civic Center, Caldwell Pl. and N. Trippet St.

The shelter is being constructed as a joint project of Springfield Civil Defense and the Springfield Woman's Club.

In addition to being the first public shelter to be built in the county, it will be one of the first to be launched under the shelter-sponsorship program of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mayor Vincent J. Bonadies turned over the first shovel of earth on the site of the shelter.

The shelter will be 10 feet by 12 feet, somewhat larger than the 9x6 which Civil Defense authorities have recommended as the smallest shelter feasible for a family of five.

Since the fall-out shelter is of such great importance the groundbreaking ceremony was attended by citizens and officials representing Civil Defense work on local, state and national levels.

Asked Clubs To Help

This whole project began when Mrs. Wilson I. Christian, who was appointed by President Eisenhower as Federal Regional Director of Women's Activities for the Office of Civilian Defense Mobilization, suggested to Mrs. Joseph E. Walsh, Civil Defense Chairman of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, that this would be a good project for local clubs to undertake.

Mrs. Walsh then passed on this suggestion to the local clubs.

Mrs. Alfred Koppisch, Civil Defense Chairman of the Springfield Woman's Club, in cooperation with the Public Welfare Chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Bamdorn, contacted the township authorities and found them very receptive to the idea.

Mayor Bonadies and Springfield Civil Defense Director Saul Freeman pledged their support and started working on plans with the Club's Civil Defense Committee.

Thus far, Azeglio Paneani, local architect, has drawn the building plans and construction has been started by Albert Van Riper & Son with cement blocks donated by the Strong Block Co. of Plainfield. It should be noted that all labor, material and furnishings and food will be donated by merchants and businesses in the area.

This will be a prototype of a

Warns Against Yule Season's Carelessness

Springfield's Fire Chief Ormond W. Mesker today issued a warning to all residents of the Township to be "very careful during the Christmas season in the use of trees and the demand for more electricity."

"Now that the Christmas season is here," said Chief Mesker, "there will be a big demand for electricity from your home fuse boxes. Make sure you do not over load circuits, and use the proper size fuse."

"The Fire Department would like homeowners to use 15 amp. fuse boxes. Make sure your Christmas light cords and plugs are in good condition and are not frayed."

"You may also obtain a fire retardant formula for your Christmas trees and decorations by calling us, at DR 6-0144, and a fire safe Christmas and call us at any time, when in doubt about fuses or decorations."

"The National Safety Council warned today," continued Chief Mesker "that metallic Christmas trees are potentially as dangerous as the natural variety. There are hazards in using any type of Christmas tree, the council said, but the metallic trees present a new, potential hazard.

"The Council said a voltage leak from a faulty light cord could energize a metal tree.

"If some one touched a hot tree and a nearby radiator at the same time, a death-dealing jolt could result, the Council said."

Six 'Rookie' Patrolmen Win Diplomas

Six members of the Springfield Police Department have been awarded diplomas for completing successfully the eight-week session of the Union County Police Training Academy at Union Junior College, Cranford.

They are: Richard T. Elvin, 30-D Linden avenue; Robert W. Maguire, 64 Caldwell place; Edward A. Roessler, 15 Alvin terrace; Robert V. Roessler, 50 Battle Hill avenue, and Howard C. Thompson, 11 Cottler avenue.

The academy, which is conducted by the Union County Police Chiefs Association, provides basic training for new police officers of all 21 Union County communities, the Union County Police and the Union County sheriff's office.

The "rookie" policemen received instruction in department and discipline, police practice and procedure, legalized games law, reports and statements, criminal law, traffic control, firearms, defensive tactics, first aid, federal statutes, preservation of evidence disaster control, alcoholic beverage control laws, civil defense, investigation of bomb cases, immigration and naturalization laws, driver training, narcotics identification public and community relations, automobile theft, press relations, handling sick and injured animals and court procedures.

Holiday Mail Care Urged By Postmaster

Springfield Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio said today that the Post Office "still faces a tremendous job and all efforts are being made to deliver all mail on time and in good condition by Christmas Eve."

He pointed out that "by taking a little extra care with your Christmas mailings now, you'll avoid disappointing friends and loved ones at Christmas time."

The postmaster asked for "special cooperation to be sure that your return address and the recipient's address is plainly typed or written on all labels and Christmas cards. Use zone numbers, and it's a good idea to include an extra label inside your packages. Parcel post size and weight limitations vary according to destination. Ask about them when you go to the post office to buy stamps."

Speaking about stamps, the postmaster said: "Use a cent postage on all your Christmas cards. This way they will be delivered promptly, and forwarded or returned, if necessary, providing you include your name and address on your Christmas card envelope. First class postage on your Christmas cards enables you to include handwritten messages, thus making your Christmas greetings more personal. By including your name and address on each envelope, both you and your friends can keep your mailing lists up to date."

The Postmaster urged that "you mail all of your out-of-town Christmas cards and letters by December 10th."

Suburban Trust Co. Display Coin Banks

Each month for the past 4 months the Suburban Trust Co. has placed on display an exact reproduction of an antique mechanical coin bank from the collection of The Book of Knowledge.

Herbert I. Hoer, President of the Suburban Trust Co., said: "Great care has gone into making these banks as much like the original as possible. The painstaking processes used by our forefathers were followed by our craftsmen in creating the replicas. The detail and intricacy of these mechanical gems are a tribute to the ingenuity and craftsmanship of our forebears. Of course, they are doubly important to the banking industry since they clearly show that the tradition of saving and thrift has always been an integral part of our American heritage.

"We plan to continue the exhibition of a different coin bank each month."

Don't Be Fooled With Food Fads

It is estimated that 10 million persons in our country are wasting 500 million dollars a year on quack diets and fad pills, says Mrs. Irene H. Wolgamot of the extension foods and nutrition service at Rutgers University.

Many of the products are bought as aids to reduction, but the only reducing effect they have is on the pocketbook.

If you tend to believe in "wonder" foods and extravagant claims of the food quack, take an honest look at your beliefs, Mrs. Wolgamot suggests. Will your beliefs stand up against the teachings of recognized authorities and scientific investigation? Do you fall for fads because you want to be "different," or because you secretly believe in "magic"?

Remember that we live in a scientific age and that sound advice on nutrition is available to you from reliable sources, such as the American Medical Association, federal and state government agencies and responsible educational programs.

These programs are interested in disseminating food facts, not in selling you a product. The food faddist believes you must eat unusual and bizarre foods and food supplements. The nutritionist knows that a combination of everyday foods provides all of the nutrients needed for good health.

You can keep well with the right amounts of food every day from four major groups: Milk, meats, fruits and vegetables and bread and cereals. If you would like more information about these food groups, ask for a copy of "Food Fitness" from your County Extension Office, or write Mrs. Irene H. Wolgamot, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J.

ditions, and last much longer if a few precautions are followed. Rose canes are often injured down to the soil level by sudden changes of cold weather. Frequently the warm, dry winds of late winter will remove moisture from the canes, causing dehydration and tissue injury.

Hybrid tea and polyanthus roses, that have grown excessively tall, should be pruned to a height of 24 to 30 inches. This will prevent canes from whipping back and forth which eventually weakens the crown and root system.

After pruning, place a mound of earth ten to twelve inches high in a cone shape over the crown. This soil should be taken from the flower or vegetable garden. The soil should not be removed from near or between the rose bushes, since this would leave low spots for water to collect and injure the rose roots.

This soil mulching can be done immediately, and certainly before the ground freezes. After the cone of soil has frozen, apply a covering of leaves, salt hay, straw, peat moss, or other recommended mulching materials over the ground. This will keep the soil from continually thawing, refreezing, which would eventually injure the roots. For more tender varieties, or those grown in more exposed areas, additional protection can be given by wrapping the plant with burlap or straw.

The zoological name for the grizzly bear is "Ursus horribilis," according to the National Geographic Society.

Roses Require Winter Aid
Rose bushes need protection before winter arrives, advises Lawrence D. Little, Jr., Essex County Agricultural Agent. In the milder areas of this metropolitan county, roses will usually survive adverse weather con-

Overlook D-Day December 15

D-for-Deadline Day for all Overlook Hospital campaigns will be December 15, according to an announcement made today by Gilbert G. Boessner of Summit, General Chairman of the Building Fund for Overlook's new nine-story wing. He urged all canvassers to complete their calls and turn in reports by that date.

President of Overlook's Board of Trustees, also announced that there had been 100 percent participation in the Building Fund on the part of the Board's 42 members.

More than 1,000 people have been on tours of the new wing in connection with the hospital's current building fund drive. An Overlook official said after the building is officially occupied, in late December, a "Hospitality Day" is planned for the general public. An invitation to this Open House will be issued in the near future.

Christmas Stars At Planetarium

The amazing nature of the stars which appear each year in our December skies, and the age-old speculation about one famous star that has never been explained astronomically, form the theme of the holiday sky presentation "Christmas Stars" which began December 1 at the American Museum of Natural History Planetarium.

Exploring the night sky in the light of present astronomical knowledge, the show selects the region of Orion, most prominent of the winter constellations, for close investigation through the "eyes" of a modern giant telescope. Here, the objects that were but twinkling points of light to the ancients are revealed in their complex and awesome reality.

The middle star in Orion's sword, for example, is actually a great multicolored cloud of brilliantly glowing gases. Betelgeuse, the star marking the Hunter's right shoulder, is a pulsating sun several hundred times the size of our sun. Above Orion's head is Castor, the dimmer of the two bright stars in Gemini; appearing to the unaided eye as a single star, Castor is in fact six separate suns mutually revolving around one another.

Against this background of modern scientific discovery, the Planetarium recreates the sky that was familiar to the shepherds of Judea twenty centuries ago. Searching it for an object in which the Wise Men might have found special meaning, the show considers several possible explanations as to the nature of the Star of Bethlehem. But these speculations cannot be resolved, and as the Wise Men reach their destination in the final scene, a symbolic star shines in the Planetarium sky, expressing the eternal miracle of Christmas.

"Christmas Stars" will continue through January 4, after which the Planetarium will be closed to the public for three and a half weeks while a new model Zeiss projector—the first of its kind in the United States—is being installed to replace the present instrument.

The regular schedule of Planetarium performances is as follows:

Weekdays other than Monday, 2:30 & 8:30 P. M. Saturdays, 11 A. M., 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 & 8:30 P. M. Sundays and holidays, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 & 8:30 P. M.

In addition, extra performances will be presented daily between December 24 and January 2.

Yule Greens on Home Grounds

A surprising amount of Christmas greens can be gathered from evergreen foundation plantings, a holly, hemlock or pine on the average home grounds.

Proper pruning improves health and appearance of shrub or tree, makes for compact growth, produces desired symmetry. It's easiest to cut when temperatures are 40 degrees F. or above, according to Edward J. Duda of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories. Some twigs are brittle below freezing.

Start with sharp tools: knife or snap-type pruning shears, plus a pair of gloves and a few pieces of foil to wrap around ends of sticky branches. First, study the contour of tree or shrub. Mark for pruning an overly elongated branch, those that rub one another, branches that are too close, and every third one. Sometimes long "inside" branch does little to the outside appearance.

Sees Increase in Role For S&L Associations

Loren F. Gardiner, president of Crestmont Savings and Loan, says the Association with offices in Maplewood and Springfield, reported today that, in the light of today's knowledge, "by 1970, savings and loan associations will be called upon to supply 50 per cent of the home mortgage funds as compared to the 40 per cent they are currently furnishing."

According to Crestmont's top officer, who recently attended the 67th annual convention of the United States Savings and Loan League in Dallas, Texas, the outlook for the 1960's is a "bright one." Surveys presented at the convention indicate that by 1970 Americans will be working shorter hours and will have much more spending money. There is expected to be an increase of 13.5 million in the number of persons employed in the nation, and the personal in-assets totaling over $83 billion, with savings of $33.1 billion representing over 27 million accounts. As of November 1, mortgage loans outstanding total $31.5 billion, comprising the balances carried on nearly 8.2 million borrowers. Since 1954, savings associations have financed the construction of 1,750,000 houses.

"If savings associations achieve the rate of growth expected, said Mr. Gardiner, 'they will have total assets of $100 billion before the end of 1965 and $185 billion by the end of 1970.'"

1st Radiation Equipment

Elizabeth—A registration program of all the radiation producing equipment in Union County — aimed at coming up with safeguards in the state's sanitary code—is underway, Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, state commissioner of health, reported today. Dr. Kandle said that registration forms had gone out to all physicians, dentists, veterinarians and hospitals in the state asking them to list the kind of radiation equipment they had in use.

He said the group was created to survey all the radiation sources in the state and to come up with a code dealing with the registration of such equipment.

Dr. Kandle said that registration forms for X-ray machines, high voltage rectifiers and industrial isotopes. Legislation last year created the 10-member Commission on Radiation Protection of which Dr. Kandle is a member. He said the group was created to survey all the radiation sources in the state and to come up with a code dealing with the registration of such equipment.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY
The term "assault and battery" is frequently seen in the news, but have you ever stopped to find out exactly what it means?

The Supreme Court says that "assault" is an intentional, unlawful offer of corporal injury to another by force, or force unlawfully directed toward the person or another under such circumstances as will create a well-founded fear of imminent peril, coupled with the apparent present ability to effectuate the attempt if not prevented.

Thus the assault part is the threat. Of course, it can't be just an idle threat. For example, if your next-door neighbor leans out his second-floor window, shakes his fist at you and offers to punch your nose, there probably is no assault since he obviously does not have the ability to carry out the threat.

By putting the two together, we see that to be guilty of "assault and battery," there has to be a threat to do harm or personal injury followed by the actual touching in an attempt to injure.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

A judge's job is a difficult one at best, but imagine what it would be like if he did not have the power to keep order in the court, compel witnesses to answer proper questions, or deal with persons who improperly try to influence the jury. Any interference with the orderly and swift administration of justice in the courts cannot be tolerated. Thus the judge has the power to compel obedience by punishment for "contempt of court."

In the trial of any case, whether it be civil or criminal, the parties are usually antagonistic. The lawyers on both sides work with skill, vigor and finesse to advance the cause of their clients. Spectators are often heard to give murmurs of approval or disapproval.

The trial judge must be impartial and open-minded concerning the issues, evidence, parties, witnesses and lawyers. Should he fail to exercise his duty in this respect, the case may have to be tried again, or it may be reversed on appeal. It is imperative that he maintain conditions so as to assure all parties of a fair and just trial. Thus, the judge needs the power of levying fines or handing out jail sentences when parties or spectators become unruly.

The power to punish for contempt is not confined to the courtroom itself. For example, disobedience of a court order, failure of a witness or juror to appear or tardiness on the part of jurors and witnesses constitute a contempt of court and are punishable as such.

CONTRACT BANGERS

Everyone makes mistakes, even though we don't always like to admit them. The courts recognize that no man is perfect, may take mistakes into consideration in certain contract matters.

Generally speaking, there is no prescribed form for a contract. In fact, a contract need not necessarily be written. Very often they are oral.

When making oral contracts or agreements, you should be careful to avoid mistakes. They may be costly. For example, take the case of a homeowner and a painter who orally agreed on a painting job. When asked for the price, the painter replied "two-fifty". The painter meant $250; the homeowner understood it to mean $2.50 an hour. Thus you see where the parties thought that they had reached an agreement, they had not done so. The very mutually mistakes, and the contract could be nullified.

The law is that where there is mutual mistake as to the subject matter of a contract, there is cause for rescission, which means that both parties must return the benefits received. Of course, if the painter has already painted all or part of the house at the time the mistake is discovered, the court will permit him to be paid for the recoverable value of the work done.

Yuletide Theme For YM Dance

A lighted Christmas tree, snowflake-studded windows, and white stars hung overhead, will be the setting for the Christmas dance in the Summit YWCA ballroom Saturday evening.

The program from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight will include dancing and refreshments as always. Special features will include a rumba lesson by Mrs. Robert Pevoto, pupil of Arthur Murray, and Christmas caroling by the assembly during intermission.

All young people of the area are invited to these semi-monthly dances, with or without a partner. There is a nominal charge to cover expenses and prior reservations are not necessary, it was announced.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. William Boney at the YWCA, CR.3-4242.

CYNTHIA'S CHATTER

This year's yearbook will be dedicated to the class advisors of the Seniors: Mrs. Lesbiek and Mr. McCabe. Due to their efforts in our class projects, Senior Play Senior Ball, this year and all of our preceding year's presentations, these two people have been chosen. Congratulations to both of you and you certainly deserve the honor!

Ensemble Applauded

The audience at the Presbyterian Parish House enjoyed a concert given by the Regional Ensemble last week.

Each year the ensemble gives this group a preview of their Christmas Concert at their Parish House. The Christmas Concert will be given a week from this Thursday, the 17th of December. At this time also the ensemble will give an assembly program for the students. The day before, the 16th of December, the ensemble will travel to B. Alkman in Short Hills to serenade the shoppers. Remember these dates: Concert Dec. 17th, Alkman Dec. 16th. Last Friday night the ensemble sang in a program given by the Diamond Hill Community Chapel in Berkeley Heights. The program was a mixed one, with the ensemble singing and then the members of the Church Choir. The response was gratifying to both the ensemble's and the choir's work.

TAKING CARE OF YOUR GARDEN

By Edward A. Cardinal

With Christmas close at hand it would be wise to consider garden supplies on your gift list. Most men are not overwhelmed by a shirt or necktie, but might be "bowled over" by a nice Scotts-Spreader spray pump or a good set of hand pruning shears. Even the children would appreciate a pounds of wild bird seed for a month or two. A bird feeding station and 5 pleasure watching our feathered friends when the ground is covered with snow. There are dozens of items which may be had for as little as $1.00 for an inexpensive shear, or as much as $200.00 for that power driven snow blower dad has always talked about. Maybe a power mower for Junior would be in order, and he could make some money mowing lawns next summer. QUESTION: Does mulching plants help them in winter as well as summer? ANSWER: Yes, for it helps to conserve moisture as well as maintain a more uniform ground temperature. This prevents alternate freezing and thawing which is harmful to young plants, especially if newly planted. Q: Is it too late to Wilt-pruf my plants as you suggested some time ago? A Wiltpruf, a material that is sprayed on the plant foliage to prevent winterburn, may be applied at any time. The only precaution is that it should be able to dry on the plant before it freezes. Therefore, apply it during the warmest part of the day to give it a chance to dry properly. Q: Should all plants be protected from winterburn? A: Most plants are hardy enough to stand normal winters, azaleas, rhododendron and laurel sometimes suffer badly and should be protected. Hemlock, if planted where high winds prevail, should also be protected with burlap screens or sprayed with an anti-transpirant such as Wilt-pruf. Any plant that has a history of winter injury should be protected in some way. Q: Snow sliding off my roof has damaged several plants. Is there any way I might protect them? A: Cypress are often damaged this way, so you might support them by tying a string around the lower trunk and winding it around and around completely to the top. This will keep the branches from collapsing and it is not unsightly. During the winter it is wise to remove the heavy snow from all plants by brushing it off. This will prevent sagging of the branches and possible splitting. Q: Can pre-emergence crab grass chemicals still be applied? A: Yes, in fact some manufacturers recommend application at this time. Q: I would like to move a few prize azaleas—is there still time? A: If you value them highly I would wait until spring. Transplanting now might be fatal if we have a severe winter. If absolutely necessary, mulch with a heavy layer of manure and protect from windburn.

DATE: December 19, 1958 TIME: 10 a. m. PLACE: Paterson, N. J.

While parking his truck, telephone installer Henry J. Milewski noticed smoke coming from a nearby house. Jumping from the truck, he ran over to help. As he approached, he saw a woman climbing out a second floor window onto a roof. In her arms she clutched a small baby and a two-year-old child. "Help me! Help me—my babies!" she screamed. Trapped on the roof, she was preparing to drop her children to the sidewalk 15 feet below!

"Wait! Don't drop them!" Milewski shouted, running toward the building. But the woman let the two-year-old slip from her arms. His arms outstretched, Milewski was able to catch the child. He placed him on the sidewalk and ran to get a ladder from his truck. With words of encouragement, he reassured the woman, set up the ladder and brought the baby safely down. The woman followed. "Hold on tight," Milewski instructed the woman. As she reached the ground, she fainted. Bystanders carried her into a nearby store while Milewski looked after her children. After she recovered, he brought the mother and children to the home of relatives to be cared for.

DATE: December 19, 1958 TIME: 11:30 a. m. PLACE: Port Elizabeth, N. J.

On the same day, Roger C. Hoffman, a splicer's helper, working on a pole in Port Elizabeth, suddenly heard cries of "Help!" Looking across the street, he saw smoke pouring from the windows of a small house. He quickly climbed down the pole and ran over to the house. "Don't go in there!" warned bystanders.

Ignoring the warning, Hoffman raced into the smoke and flames, and fought his way inside. He found an elderly man trapped in a corner of the house. The man, his leg in a cast, was helpless to flee the blaze. In his fear, the man held tightly to a bed. Hoffman had to slap his arm free to break the man's grip. He then dragged the injured man through the blaze to safety. Hoffman called the Port Elizabeth Fire Department. But, before the fire could be put out, the house had been destroyed. Firemen credited Hoffman with saving the injured man's life.

New Jersey Bell President, E. Hornsby Wasson, (right in photo) presents Milewski and Hoffman with the company's top honor—the Bronze Vail Medal—for their bravery and devotion to the welfare of the public. These awards bring to 87 the number of Vail Medals awarded in New Jersey Bell's history.

Gridlers Tie Rahway
Two Regional teams climaxed sterling seasons last week, and another makes its debut at the Westfield gym this Friday. The football squad spotted the visiting "Indians" two quick touchdowns and then came back to outplay the Rahway eleven and gain a 13 to 13 tie. The soccer team worked its way into the final game of the Group III Soccer State Championship where they were defeated, although playing very well, by Verona last year's Co-Champ with Chatham. The co-ops again against the annual anathema, Westfield, and should come home with some "Blue Devil" horns.

Rahway was a heavy favorite as the two teams took the field Thanksgiving morning. They started off with a bang and looked bad for the Bulldogs. But the home town contingent refused to give up and came back with two touchdowns of their own in the 2nd quarter and made Rahway look more like Edson than the unbeaten power which they were supposed to be. An eight play march which included a 13 yard run by Bobby Shayer and a 19 yard pass from Eddie Reese to Shayer. The march was climaxed by a 1 yard scoring plunge by fullback Ronnie Bell. The ensuing extra point was missed which proved to be the first of many frustrations for the valiant underdogs. After holding Rahway—and forcing them to punt, the Regionalites faded in three plays to knot the score. The big play was a 46 yard pass from Reese to Herb Etzold which placed the ball on the Rahway 5 yard line. From here, Reese kept and went over standing up. The extra point, a pass from Reese to Etzold, was good and the scoring was over for the contest. The remainder of the game was all Springfield with the "Bulldogs" twice losing the ball by inches on fourth down in "Indian" territory. The entire team play outstanding ball as Rahway succeeded in getting the ball out of their half of the field only once in the second half and that was late in the game. After their first quarter lapse, the defense continually held the on-thrusts of the vaunted backs from Rahway. The offense functioned very well as Reese's faking was exceptional and the running of Bell, Etzold, and Shayer shattered the opposing line and made key passes possible. Reese hit seven of seventeen passes for 101 yards and three completions nullified by penalties. One of those that were called back would have given the locals the ball on the "Indian" five.

Thus Coach Schneider's "Snarlens" finished fine season with a 5-2 record, and broke a two year dominance by the visitors. The entire squad is to be congratulated for a fine effort. Reese and Etzold are sure shots for All-County berths and could be All-State members.

Boosters Finals In State
Coach-Huncher's soccer players advanced through sterling play to the final of the State Group III Championship. They defeated top teams to earn a crack at Verona. The Co-Champs of '58 scored in each of the first two periods, and although they fought valiantly to overcome the deficit, the Regional booters were forced to take a two to nothing defeat. The play was exciting and tight with the "Purple Booters" finally walking away with a hard-earned victory. The two previous triumphs for the Regionalites were over Summit and Livingston, 2 to 1 and 2 to 0 respectively. Summit had previously held but were unable to do it twice in a row as Harry Levin tallied the winning goal in the third period after the Summit eleven had tied the score after Joe Vizoni's first period goal.

Livingston was the next victim as goalie Walt Duda and fullback John Messineo combined their outstanding defensive play with the sparkling front line play of John Angelman and Devlin. Devlin crashed in the first goal on a beautiful assist from Angelman, and Hans Kryger sprinted through the defense on an assist from Messineo to score the clinching goal with less than two minutes remaining in the contest.

Duda and Angelman received Honorable Mention in the Newark News' All-State Soccer Team. Not all of the Union All-County selections have been made, but these boys and Messineo and Devlin are likely candidates for positions on these teams.

accomplished two things in their thrilling last minute 59 to 56 victory over Westfield. First, they started their season out on a winning note, something has long evaded the hoopsters. Second, they proved to the Westfield coach that YOUR TEAM HAS TO BE UP AGAINST REGIONAL NO MATTER HOW MANY TIMES YOU'VE BEATEN THEM! The latter is a reference to Mr. Lay's remark after his team and the officials had beaten a gallant Springfield in the Union County Tournament last March. Although it was evident that his team had to go all-out to subdue the Regionalites, he said that his team had not been at its best because it had defeated the Springfield teams so many times.

That game is history with this season, and this year's basketball season started with a bang for the localities as they roared from a ten point deficit to claim a thrilling and hard-fought contest in which fouls were many and tammers flared. Almost 1400 spectators saw the "Purple" take an early 8 to 1 lead which melted under a terrific second and third period attack by the "Blue Devils." The finish was something you read in story books, but never expect to see in person. Trailing 55 to 45, the local five exploded for 14 points in less than two minutes as the best team blew many chances to clinch the game at the foul line. Having made 21 of 27 from the charity line previously, the "Devils" succeeded in sinking only one of their last seven.

Jay Gladstone led the Regional's basketball team for 20 points with four of these coming in the last ten scored by Springfield. Jay also put in the winning basket and was all over the court on defense. Regional's "Max of Steel," Richie Baker, displayed his iron nerves at the foul line as he sunk two with seven seconds left. The pressure at this point was nerve-wracking as the Regional side was enclosed in an ominous silence and the Westfield fans were screaming their lungs-out trying unsuccessfully to distract Richie from his task. He calmly dropped the ball through without touching the rim, and Regional had clinched the victory.

The next opponent for the local five is Plainfield, which played host on December 5. This Friday, the Hillside "Comets" will host the Regional squad and promise to offer a good game. Next Tuesday, the Regionalites travel to Rahway in what should be a runaway. All things right, the "Orange and Blue" should play their home opener on December 18 with Caldwell as an undefeated team.

New Booklet Mailed to 6,700 Explains CD Setup

Information on home protection and the national plan for civil defense was sent to 6,700 Summit families last week by the local office of Civil Defense and Disaster Control.

According to a letter signed by Maxwell A. Lester, Jr., director, forwarded with the booklets, civil defense has "two distinct and separate functions."

In one instance the letter notes, it is the concern of the civil defense unit to provide the necessary assistance, food, clothing, shelter and medical aid, as well as protection of property, in the event of a non-military disaster.

Secondly, the letter continues, the civil defense unit represents a workable plan which could be placed into action and to some extent, "prevent further loss of life and complete disintegration of our democratic society as a result of military action."

Included in the civil defense operations, it is noted that the county, in cooperation with the city, has trained and certified 45 radiological defense monitors, known as RADEF. Ten of the monitors have completed additional advanced training to qualify for a radiological situation, evaluation and procedure recommendations during civil defense control operation in the event of a nuclear-bomb attack.

Emergency Hospitals Available

In addition, Mr. Lester, speaking for the defense unit, stated that Summit has two emergency hospitals, which have been supplied by the state and are stored at the Board of Education—and at CIBA. They are fully equipped for hospital operations and are able to operate as independent units caring for 200 patients.

The Summit Civil Defense Council was reactivated on August 15, 1950, utilizing various resources of the community into an integrated plan. Included among the resources are the Summit Chapter, American Red Cross, Overlook Hospital, the city's health, welfare, police, fire and public works departments, public, private, and parochial school systems, Summit Area Chamber of Commerce, Public Utilities and local industries.

In addition, a fully trained and uniformed auxiliary police force of 70 men has been organized and is available for call "at any time."

In commenting on the services of the defense unit, Mr. Lester remarked that additional personnel is needed for assignment to the Red Cross, radiation defense teams, emergency hospital and other units. Persons volunteering will be trained for a particular task.

Those interested in the defense unit should contact Mr. Lester at City Hall, forwarding name, address, as well as any unit preference.

Press Tours New Wing at Overlook from local newspapers took a preview tour of the new wing and were guests in the new staff dining room afterward.

"We want to thank the press for its support to 'Overlook,' night when editors and reporters said Charles E. Starr of Summit, trustee and chairman of the public relations committee. "We are most fortunate in this area to have so many newspapers with awareness of community needs. It is largely due to their staunch presentation of projects for community betterment, such as Overlook's new nine-story wing, that our towns reflect such a high standard of American life."

More than 1,000 people have been on tours of the new wing in connection with the hospital's current building fund drive, seeing at first hand the many medical and scientific advances offered by their community hospital.

After the building is officially occupied in late December, a hospitality day is planned for the general public. An invitation to this open house will be issued in the near future.

Thus far, four groups have memorial givers, medical staff, trustees, volunteers and hospital staff. Four Twig tours have just been completed. Twigs are local volunteer groups in towns served by Overlook. They work as offshoots from the main stem of hospital life by raising funds and working on special projects for the hospital.

Nine From Area Take Citizens' Oath

Nine area residents, including five from Scotch Plains, became citizens last week when 134 new Americans took the naturalization oath at ceremonies before County Judge Milton A. Feller in Elizabeth.

One couple, Mr. and Mrs.

Wasy Bilous of 1041 Summit lane, Mountainside, were once refugees from the Russian zone of Poland. They now have two children and operate a butcher shop in Irvington.

Mrs. Bilous worked as a dressmaker and her husband held two factory jobs to obtain the money to buy their shop which specializes in Polish meat delicacies.

Others naturalized were: Scotch Plains — Ellen Cora Burke, 2038 Church street; Mary Jane Adams, 2394 Longfellow avenue; Letizia Dentizio, 447 Flanders avenue; Gullborg Felger, 388 Hidgeview avenue and Paula Kennedy, 531 Willow avenue.

Also, Anna Plank, 1154 Route 22, Mountainside; Nasim B. Jaghab, 31 Stewart place, Fanwood and Angelo Yanagita, 243 Washington street, Berkeley Heights.

Praises Work of Visiting Nurse

Nobody knows what a visiting nurse, such as Mrs. Hilda E. Dunn goes through in one day: Her job is to visit newborns up to one year in age, do bedside nursing and cheer-up victims of T.B. and crippled children.

Mrs. Dunn has given 29 years of faithful service to the Visiting Nurses Association of Eastern Union County. It took her three years to become a registered nurse, which was her lifelong ambition.

Her day is from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. During part of these eight and one-half hours, Mrs. Dunn is visiting nurse at St. James School in Springfield.

We should all remember how these nurses give up their education to be with and help children in schools across the nation.

In Glee Club Barbara Booth of Springfield will sing in the Glee Club in the traditional Christmas season events at Kent Place School, Summit. The first will be held Sunday, Dec. 13, at 8:15 p.m. in Phraner Gymnasium on the Norwood avenue campus.

Afield in New Jersey

(A Monitoring of the Seasons Locally)

By Prof. David Fables, Jr. which are circumpolar, and Union Junior College, Cranford, hence may be expected to occur. Every naturalist setting foot in both regions. The higher the mountains ascend the more chance of finding circumpolar species common to both eastern home. Nostalgia regulates this and western mountains. The desire to find familiar living things about him. The easterner who travels in our western bring them back in their mind's eye to Europe. Unsuccessful in searching the exact species they sought, a close relative was substituted in the search, or at least one bearing superficial, if not actual, relationship.

Among the plants which forced their way into the colonist's lives in those days of struggle for their own survival in the bleak late autumns of New England, Middle Atlantic and Virginia weather were those associated with the holiday-period which had been colorful in the Europe of their past. An integral part of this celebration time was the Christmas tree, holly and mistletoe. These plants must be located here in America, and so the search began.

Shore Holly Rare
In Europe the Christmas tree was usually an evergreen, a fir, spruce or pine, whichever was most convenient. The greenery of the tables, doorways and windows was holly (most likely Ilex aquifolium). This species does not grow along the eastern seaboard and the beautiful red-berried American Holly (Sp. opaca) was substituted. So eagerly were the female (berry-bearing) trees decimated in the sandy stretches of our coast and Delaware bayshore areas that it is scarce as a berry producer in many regions where it was formerly abundant and well-formed.

Exceptionally fine trees still grow at "off-limits" areas of the sand-spit north of Atlantic Highlands; in fashionable Spring Lake and Sea Girt; on Island Beach; and dunes of Cape May County.

Wreaths were the form into which the holly was woven for use at Christmas. By the mid-1920s depletion of the holly brought club-mosses to the fore as greens substitutes. Three species were used, commonly referred to as ground pine, ground cedar and running pine (Lycopodium obscurum, Lycopodium clavatum). Acres of these grow in New Jersey, but as collecting grounds were made less accessible when the original stands vanished, again substitutes were necessary to augment the numbers of Christmas greens. Hemlock boughs were the next chosen green and of late the southern Long-leaved pine boughs are brought northward to adorn lighted front doors. Mountain laurel frequently surrounds the telephone cables and wires in markets of the east from Texas and the west. It occurs in clusters at Indian Mills, Quaker Bridge, Wading River and Green Bank, New Jersey, but is no longer of commercial value.

A small species of mistletoe, not used at Christmas, is found rarely on the black spruces of remote bog forests of northern New Jersey. This dwarf mistletoe (Arceuthobium pusillum) is so inconspicuous that it was not even discovered until late in the nineteenth century. Today it remains unknown to all but the initiated, who search for the parasitic "witches'-brooms" it forms during life. Only its name is associated with the Christmas Season.

At present, the greens of the Yuletide are mostly natural. The day may not be far off when artificial trees, hollies and mistletoe will supplant our current naturalness—we use them faster than we "grow" them.

Mistletoe Available
Vicia does not occur in our range, but a plant which closely resembles it does. White, waxen berries occurring in clusters and surrounded by small, evergreen leaves provided the necessary duplication. American mistletoe (Phoradendron flavescens) was found from central New Jersey and Indiana south to the Gulf of Mexico and west to the Pacific. Caught in the squeeze between those two commercial centers of the east, New York City and Philadelphia, the mistletoe of New Jersey declined in numbers early in our state's history. By 1900 only a few stations were known to the botanists (the species is now brought to the

DEATHS

Edward C. Lane
Edward C. Lane of 34B Forest drive, Springfield, formerly of Union, superintendent of the manual apparatus shops at the Weston Electric Keany Works, died Thursday in Overlook Hospital, Summit, after a heart attack. He would have been 58 Saturday.

Mr. Lane started with the company in 1920 as a cost analyst clerk at its Hawthorne Works, Chicago. He was sent to Keany in 1929 as a department chief in apparatus costs. Five months later and nine years after his first job as a clerk, he was appointed assistant superintendent in the cost division.

In 1946 Mr. Lane was made superintendent of the jack and key shops at Keany. He was made superintendent of its manual, carrier and crossbar shops in 1947 and was transferred to a similar post in the carrier micro-wave shops in 1951. He had been in his latest position since 1953.

He was an active member of the Stanley S. Holmes Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America. As a young man he was an outstanding semi-pro baseball player and bowler in the Chicago area.

Mr. Lane lived in Union in Twin Oaks road for 30 years before moving here about five years ago. He was born in Chicago.

Survivors are his wife, Anita; a daughter, Mrs. Allen McWright, East Orange; five

Baha's Elect Delegates To National Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loas, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rouse and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loas attended the Baha'i state convention held last Sunday in Springfield, after a heart attack. He would have been 58 Saturday.

The five delegates elected were W. DeForge of Hackensack; B. Kaufman, Dumont; Mrs. K. McLaughlin, Princeton; Mrs. B. Thigpen, Linden and Curtis Kelsey of Teaneck.

The major emphasis of the state convention, Mr. Loas reported, was on the achievements of the home front in the ten-year, world wide crusade initiated in 1953 to provide the institutions necessary for the establishment of their Universal House of Justice. One hundred twenty new Baha'i centers have been added during the last year, making a total of 1543 centers in the United States. The faith has been taken to 50 brothers, James and Emmet, Chicago; Joseph, Bronxville, N. Y.; Vincent Omaha and Rev. William Lane, a chaplain at the Quantico, Va., Marine Corps Base, and a sister, Mrs. Alfred Ender Chicago.

The Baha'i faith has also been a factor in the translation of Baha'i literature into 24 additional languages, bringing the total to 261; in the foreign to another regional spiritual assembly in the South Pacific, bringing the total of national and regional assemblies to 31; and in the building of 1000 Temples in Sidney, Australia; and Kampala, Uganda, East Africa, and the purchase of another temple site near Stuttgart, Germany.

Temper Tantrums

"Balloon! Get me the balloon!" screamed Jackie. The pride and joy of the family was lying on the floor of the store and beating his heels and fists. Naturally, his mother was embarrassed. People in the store had gathered around and were commenting about Jackie. She wanted to give Jackie a good slap but was ashamed because of all the people. In desperation she bought the balloon. Jackie knew now, even if he hadn't before, that his mother would give in to avoid embarrassment. He also learned that his mother gives in faster when there are people around. He wanted his own way and he got it, and probably will again. When children find out that temper tantrums succeed, they use them to control their parents and get what they want, says Phyllis Greer, specialist in human relations at Rutgers. Then temper becomes a habit. They learn to meet all obstacles by temper tantrums. When these children grow up, they still meet their problems through anger and temper. It's natural for children to fly into rage when they don't get their way. This is when parents need to help them learn to meet obstacles in a more constructive manner. Therefore, temper fits should always be stopped immediately naturally this is easier to say than to do. Nevertheless it can be done but it does take strength and courage.

When parents are firm and consistent, the youngster learns that tantrums are only wasted effort. Tantrums must be ignored. Sometimes it's possible to divert the child. All this takes patience and understanding, those two qualities of major importance for parents.

New Jersey Makes Wills, Too
Yes, if you die and have not made a will your property or estate will be handled in accordance with our state intestate laws. In other words, if you neglect to make your own will the state decides how your property is to be distributed to your heirs. Thus, should you want to control the manner of distribution of your estate, and most important, name the person of your choice as your executor, you must make a will.

Many, many years ago when a person died all of his property went to the State — the heirs. A property owner had no right to pass his possessions on to his family or to such other persons as he might choose. Gradually the right to pass on possessions was acquired. The method of exercising this valuable right is known as making a will.

You, like most of us, feel that the making of a will is a morbid task. Many of us say "I don't need a will. Everything I own is in joint names with my wife and she will get everything when I die." But will she? Suppose that she should die first — in that case you become the sole owner of the property and it will go to your heirs as prescribed by law. Or suppose that you are both killed in an auto accident but you die first. In that case all joint property will go to your wife and on her death it will be distributed to her heirs. Further, if none of these events occur, joint property ownership may well result in imposing additional tax burdens on your estate.

A will may be relatively simple or it may be complex depending upon the plan you adopt for disposing of your property. A will is not good just because it is long or just because it is short. It's only good if it fits your situation, says exactly what it means and provides for all reasonable contingencies. A will is merely a written plan setting forth what you intend should be done with your property after you die. Once made, it can be changed whenever you wish. In fact, a will should be changed as often as changing circumstances require.

You won't be around when your will takes effect. To assure the court that you did make the will and to explain just what you intended, certain technical requirements must be met. For example, your will must be in writing and witnessed in a proper fashion. The witnesses need not have knowledge of the contents of the will but they must see you sign it and they must also see each of the other witnesses sign. In addition you must tell the witnesses that the document is your will. Naturally it is imperative that your desires be clearly expressed so that your executor can carry out your plan.

The Spanish colonies on the northeastern coast of South America were called the "Spanish Main" to distinguish them from island possessions. Later, the name was applied to the Caribbean Sea and nearby waters made hazardous by pirates.

London's subway system now covers a network of some 250 miles.

Ability of the horned lizard to squirt blood from its eyes sometimes has been disputed, but this does occur when alarm or excitement causes the slug at the corner of the eye to rupture.
