South Side Sewer Reality; $295,000 Project To Begin

Year's Bargaining Results In $50,000 Saved For Town

The long awaited south side sanitary sewer becomes a reality this week with the announcement from Mayor Vincent J. Bonadies that construction will begin shortly. The $295,000 project will supply sanitary facilities from Balsboro Top down the mountain, adjacent to Briar Hills, across Route 22 and into the Rayway River.

After a year of bargaining with developers, two municipalities and the Federal Government, Springfield residents and industry in that area will now realize the dividends of a sanitary sewer.

With the start of construction on the project, it is estimated that the south side of Route 22 can realize a potential of $20,000,000 in real estate.

Originally a cost of $340,000 had been anticipated for the sewer project. However, efforts by members of the Township Committee and the Township Attorney in reaching the municipality for receiving bids at a time when the market was favorable resulted in a saving of nearly $50,000 — the total cost of the project at this time is estimated at $295,000.

The Township has recently concluded long drawn out negotiations — with developers, the Federal Government and the municipalities of Westfield and Mountainside. These negotiations have brought about contributions to the sewer totaling an astonishing 90 percent of the cost, so that a $295,000 project will cost the Township $20,000 or less.

The enormous saving was explained by Mayor Bonadies: "Developers whose success is being made possible by such improvements as this sewer have understood the principle that those who benefit most by an improvement should bear most of the cost, and these developers have cooperated with the Township Committee to the utmost. In addition Township officials worked long and hard to persuade the United States Public Health Service to go along with us, and a contribution of $79,200 was philosophy of that quarter. The philosophy of this administration is to look for ways of saving Springfield taxpayers' money on all similar projects. I am delighted both as an official and a taxpayer that (Continued on Page 3)

$400,000 Blaze Destroys Safeway

Building plus Contents Total Loss

A dramatic, general alarm $400,000 destroyed the Springfield Safeway Supermarket at 727 Morris Turnpike last Friday night. Over 60 shoppers and employees fled the store to safety.

The damage estimate was given by Safeway officials. Cause of the blaze, which started in the ceiling or roof, has not been determined.

About 100 firemen from five communities fought for two hours to bring the fire under control. The building and its contents were declared virtually a total loss.

The blaze, which sent flames shooting as high as 150 feet in the air and was seen even in Elizabethport, started most probably in the attic space of the building sometime before it was discovered at 7:42 p.m., spread over the top of the building and then poured burning debris into its interior, the fire department stated.

At least 2,000 spectators crowded around the scene and major traffic arteries were jammed for at least an hour in all directions for over an hour.

Two Firemen Hurt

No injuries were reported to any of those in the store when the fire was discovered, but two Millburn firemen suffered minor injuries.

Some of firemen from Springfield and from Millburn, and about a dozen each from Union, Summit and Westfield joined in the fight. All of Springfield's mobile equipment, as well as pump engines from Summit and Millburn and floodlight units from Union and Westfield, were sent to the scene.

Philip Agosta, manager of the store, said a woman about to enter the building was the first to notice smoke coming from the roof. She raced inside to warn store officials, he said. Agosta used the store's public address system to direct everyone to the parking lot outside. He said the exodus was brisk but orderly.

Rooftop Drama

Springfield firemen alerted by an alarm telephoned by Thomas Eakley, 19, of 15 Douglas St., Millburn, a checker at the A&P Supermarket directly across the street, arrived at the scene minutes later and deployed on the roof. The swelling crowd around the building witnessed a 10-minute drama in which the firemen first tried to confine the blaze to a small area, then were driven back as flames leaped high, drove them and finally had to hurriedly surrender their beachhead on the roof and retreat to the ground.

Closest to Job

SPRINGFIELD — Deputy Fire Chief Robert Day, who was shopping in the Safeway Market here at the time the fire started, said he had noticed that it was warmer in the rear of the store than the front. He thought nothing of it, however, until he heard a voice, asking everyone to leave. As he left, he said, he saw flames shooting out of the air conditioning ducts.

Once out of control on the roof, the fire spread to the interior of (Continued on Page 2)

Admit Murphy to Practice Before US Supreme Court

Paul T. Murphy of 11 Park Lane, Springfield, was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States on August 30th, 1960 in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Murphy was one of forty New Jersey attorneys who qualified for admission. In order to be admitted, an attorney must be in the highest court of his state for at least three years and be sponsored by two attorneys of the United States Supreme Court.

The New Jersey candidates for admission were tendered a breakfast by the New Jersey State Bar Association. Mr. Justice Brennan of the United States Supreme Court, formerly of the New Jersey Supreme Court, addressed the group.

Mr. Murphy was in Washington as one of two delegates representing the State Bar Association at the Junior Bar Conference. The New Jersey delegation voted in favor of a resolution calling upon the Senate to repeal the Connally Reservation which limits United States participation in the World-Court. Subsequently President Eisenhower addressed the Convention by closed circuit television favoring an identical resolution by the entire convention. After vigorous debate, the convention as a whole adopted the resolution: While in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were guests, along with the other delegates and the British solicitors and barristers at a lawn party given by President and Mrs. Eisenhower on the White House lawn.

Bonadies Fails to Institute Civil Service, Fight Highways in Court

Paul T. Murphy, Republican candidate for the Springfield Township Committee, his Mayor Bonadies for his broken promises to the town voters, in Mr. Murphy's latest release to the Sun.

Following is Paul T. Murphy's complete statement:

Mayor Bonadies is busily gathering statements endorsing his vigorous fight against the highway at the same time his fellow Democrat Mr. Palmer is allocating one million dollars for Route 22 along the same old route, at the same time empanation commissioners are being appointed for Troy Village, and at the same time the Highway Department is preparing to demolish Troy Village within sixty days.

"It is touching to have Mayor Bonadies solicit my support in his fight against the Highway Department, I freely give it to him. If Mr. Palmer responds better to Republicans than he does to his own party, I will join our Mayor in Trenton.

"If our Mayor wishes to start his lawsuit one year later, I will join as a Plaintiff in any valid lawsuit commenced prior to election eve. I will not agree, however, that the Democratic Party at any level can escape responsibility for the destruction of Springfield."

Mayor Failed

"It was Mayor Bonadies, not I, who promised to clean up the Police Department and institute Civil Service. It was Mayor Bonadies, not I, who failed. It is to be noted that while he retracted his irresponsible charge last week, he did not explain his failure to do what he promised.

"It was Mayor Bonadies, not I, who extolled the virtues of two-party government. It was Mr. Bonadies, not I, who destroyed it.

WHAT ABOUT HIGHWAY

"Mr. Bonadies secured election 'Mayor Bonadies secured election and control by his promise to protect us from the highway. Mayor Bonadies promised to fight the highway in the courts. To date, no suit has been started. It is interesting to note that Even Birds Must Be Counted!

Douglass Prof Takes Bird Census in Hutcheson Forest

U. S. Census Bureau officials think counting people is difficult, they should talk to Dr. Jeff Swinebroad, Douglass College ornithologist. He spent the summer counting birds — doing a census of the feathered inhabitants of the Hutcheson Memorial Forest.

higher than eight to ten feet off the ground. The forest runs up to 100 feet high in spots, and until we manage to get our nets up toward the top we won't be getting a really accurate census.

While netting and releasing birds is a time-consuming and involved method of counting the avian population of a forest, Dr. Swinebroad hopes his studies will help to determine the accuracy of a frequently used bird census procedure — the singing male count.

He explains that most ornithologists do a bird census by walking the same route through the woods day after day and recording the numbers and species of birds heard singing.

Beware of Walnut Trees

POOR NEIGHBORS

Walnut trees, both the black and white kinds, do not make especially good neighbors if you try to grow certain plants and shrubs near them.

Plant scientists seem to be finding out new things about the harm that walnuts can do every year.

For a long time it has been known that plants such as alfalfa, tomato and potato, as well as apple trees, do not thrive near walnut trees.

The substance is known as juglone—from the botanical name of the black walnut, Juglans nigra.

KILLED RHODIES

Then a North Jersey nurseryman unsuspectingly set out nine-year-old rhododendron plants in a cleared area bounded by five black walnut trees.

He transplanted some that were unaffected and they continued to grow.

Curiously, one healthy rhododendron grew about 2 feet from the walnut tree. Digging down to find out why, he found the root system of the rhododendron was situated in a space between two walnut roots so that there was no point of contact between the two root systems.

Plant disease researchers at Rutgers have a record of still another curious case. A large black walnut stood along a fence row next to a planting of perennials.

The grower noticed that plants growing in a semi-circle 30 feet from the tree were not thrifty. Plants that died or made poor growth were creeping buttercup, thyme, lily-of-the-valley, carpet bugle, and forget-me-not.

LIVE ROOTS ONLY

Trouble from walnut trees apparently disappears as soon as the tree or the plant it affects is removed. A living walnut root seems to be necessary to produce the action.

This little glimpse behind the research scene is intended to give you a clue about what may be wrong if anything you are trying to grow near a walnut tree doesn't grow as it should.

Last week I visited Sterling Forest Gardens as a guest of the Sterling Forest Peat Company. I have never seen such a fantastic display of tuberous begonias in my life.

Q. My ground is hard clay, so I plant to have it turned over. I will add lime and fertilizer, but my neighbor thinks I should add peat moss to break up the soil. Won't rototilling break it up enough?

A. You have a smart neighbor. Tilling will break it up, but in a few months it will settle back to hard clay once more.

Q. Should I rake in the seed or just roll it in?

Bermuda Bargain Prices Pave Way for Winter Golf

Castle Harbour Golf Course Awaits Avid Golfer

Golfing in Bermuda for a week-end. What a luxurious idea! What an expensive idea, one might add. Not if you take advantage of Vacations Unlimited, though.

Harold Friedman, a South Orange travel agent, has come up with a bargain price way to beat winter weather in the form of a series of long links weekends in Bermuda next January.

Every Thursday evening in January of 1961, Mr. Friedman will lead a four-day golfing tour to Bermuda by plane. Tour headquarters will be the Castle Harbour Hotel and its 18-hole championship course.

"Golfing Unlimited," as the program is called, has been designed so that only one day is missed from the business week. At the same time, it provides for three full days of golf—Friday, Saturday, and Sunday—with the return flight home set for 6 p.m. Sunday evening.

The total cost of the tour is $165 per person and includes round trip limousine transportation between South Orange and Idlewild Airport, round trip New York-Bermuda transportation via Eagle Airways, three nights stay with breakfast and dinner at Castle Harbour Hotel, all greens fees at Castle Harbour Golf Course, golfing trophies and a cocktail party.

The par-71 Castle Harbour Golf Course, measuring 6,000 yards from first tee to eighteenth green, surrounds on three sides Bermuda's largest and most complete hospitality, represented in the United States and

Canada by the William P. Wolfe Organization

Overlooking picturesque Castle Harbour, the course is laid out so as to permit hotel guests easy playing access with both the ninth and eighteenth greens located only a few steps from the hotel's front entrance.

Although the tours are primarily slanted to the links, fraternally, a full program of sight-seeing and other holiday activities have been arranged by the Friedman firm for non-golfers who would like to take advantage of the low-priced tour rates.

The four tours will leave Idlewild Airport January 5, January 12, January 19, and January 26. The tour price includes transportation to and from the Airport.

ROAD TO HELL IS PAVED WITH GOOD INTENTIONS

High comedy took the low road last Monday night in the Paper Mill Playhouse production of "Susan and God," a sly, sparkling, burlesque starring Jean Fontaine and what seemed like dozens of other amiable people.

In fact, however, there were only about six other representative of the idle rich in Rachel

Miss Fontaine's role as the lady on the spiritual "mat" does not altogether do her justice, for if the truth be known this is a rather badly conceived, badly written affair on which several serious professional people laud a scandalous amount of talent.

The fault, all in all, is that of the authoress. This reviewer, unfortunately, is not old enough to remember the times and the talents necessary to successful put over a play such as "Susan and God" but it seems to me that the "mat" can no longer save the piece for whom it was obviously intended. It was either old hat or the opening night audience was playing dead. I suggest it was the former.

The first act was a mish-mash of exits and entrances in which we are led a hot-so-merry chase through patios and characters and changes of clothes by an assortment of loaves (we counted seven complete changes of costume for Miss Fontaine during the performance), and lovely clothes they were, too. Unlike Shaw's meandering, which is a champagne cocktail, these exchanges had all the sparkle of a two cents plain left standing. The first act, in fact, could easily have been scratched; there is a limit to character establishment and drawing room bologna, particularly when most of it is not of itself entertaining, and goes out of the window during the rest of the play.

We learn, at long last, just what the play is about and it is just this: Susan Trexel and a Main Line Auntie Mama, has just returned from a trot-through-England's social set, bubbling over with a "religious" discovery which to the best of our knowledge, seemed like a cross-pollination between the Confessional and a parlor game. Played only by the "best people," of course, and revealing such sinful habits as what shade one's hair is tinted. As we might expect, each of the scuffling minor characters is set to involuntary soul searching, thus providing the play's single bit of complexity and interest.

But on with it. Into this spiritual cyclone pops Miss Fontaine's husband drunk as previously billed, with what appears to be the ugliest brat in creation — their offspring, of course, sprung by "Daddy" from the wretched Siberia of a girl's school into which she had been flung by Miss Fontaine. Daddy is given a workmanlike going over by Lauren Gilbert, a veteran soap opera leading man who uses his past experience to excellent advantage. Seeing in Susan's new religious enthusiasm a chance to revitalize their marriage, he suggests an armistice (oh yes, there were on the verge of divorce) for the sake of the child. He offers to stay on the wagon for the entire summer if Susan will fulfill her maternal obligations (an obviously odious task). This, essentially provides the dramatic tension of the play but this, unfortunately, does not get rolling until the second act.

The play is not without its moving moments and those are provided by Miss Fontaine in a few sad and serious portions of the third act. In truth, she is a most extraordinary actress, one capable of deep and moving portrayals when the script momentarily lags in its constant battle with the performers. We can well understand her wide popularity in "Tee and Sympathy," for instance, when her many graces find a suitable setting. She is not Tallulah Bankhead and she is not Rosalind Russell and she would be well advised to stick to a genre that specializes in three-dimensional characters.

As the third most misused members of the cast, young Helena de Crespo sketches an excellent daughter and manages, with surprising stage presence and vivacity, to overcome the clichés of her role. She enters as the unhappy product of wealthy, self-indulgent parents, complete with drab St. Trinian's costume, wire spectacles and braces on her teeth. Then comes the metamorphosis. Midway through the frolic Mama decides to Mama and — bingo — Miss Fontaine's Pygmalion touch transforms our Ugly Duckling into a Princess by the simple process of removing jumper, glasses, et al. Sound familiar?

Somewhere in between all this Dorothy Laming and William Taylor manage to carry on a Punch and Judy romance, Arthur Milmore Gil Tibbety (a girl) and John Milligan get involved in an inept triangle and Lily Dodge makes a tweedy, half-hearted swipe at Miss Fontaine's spouse (she incidentally, for those who like this kind of thing, is the niece of the Republican Vice Presidential candidate). It all comes right in the end.

John Larson's direction made a brisk business of it all and he is not to be held responsible for the authoress' indebtedness to the Marx-Brothers. A great deal of work was put into the scenery by Paul Bertelsen.

All in all, it's this way: "Susan and God" will need considerable

Pingry School Classes Begin On Sept. 14th

E. Laurence Springer, headmaster of Pingry School, has announced that classes would begin on Wed., Sept. 14 at 8:42 A.M. This will usher in the beginning of the school's one hundredth year of existence.

Dr. Springer stated that The Lower and Middle School divisions of Pingry were being merged administratively into one Junior School comprising grades three through eight.

He also announced that Charles B. Atwater, who will become Pingry's headmaster in June, 1967, has been raised to the rank of associate headmaster for the school year, 1966-67. Relieved of his teaching duties and his position as head of the new Junior School, Mr. Atwater will have the opportunity to assist from the second member of that formidable duo if it is to crash the Pearly Gates of Box Office Success. Let us pray.

serve in administrative capacities in all areas of the school. Edward W. Cissel has been chosen to head the Junior School. He is also director of admissions and director of the summer session.

Casimir A. France continues as assistant to the headmaster as heretofore. In addition, he is college and academic advisor to the Sixth Form, coordinator of all non-athletic student activities and chairman of two important faculty committees.

The faculty is enlarged by four additional members and there are six others replacing those who retired or left last June.

For the first time this fall, Pingry will offer a course in Russian. This will be taught by George N. Kojvobok who spent the summer in the study of latest techniques at the Russian Language Institute, Dartmouth College.

The new Science Wing will expand the scientific facilities of the school considerably.

As usual, the school is well filled and will have an enrollment exceeding 500.

Family Life Conferences Set for Local PTA Groups To Apply Findings of White House Conferences on Children and Youth

Ways of applying the findings of the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth to programs of the various New Jersey parent-teacher organizations will be studied by Union County women this month, Mrs. Mary W. Armstrong announced.

Local P.T.A. members have a choice of two meetings on either Monday, Sept. 26, in the Garden State Plaza auditorium, Paramus, or on Tuesday, Sept. 27, at the Far Hills Inn, Somerset.

These sessions are sponsored jointly by the New Jersey Cooperative Extension Service of Rutgers University and the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers. A third program of the same type is also scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 29, in Clementon.

Although planned especially for parent and family life education study discussion groups, the meetings will be open to the public. The theme will be "Children in a Changing World."

The morning session at 10 a.m. will open with findings of the White House Conferences as reported by Mrs. William Reisman III, president of the New Jersey Welfare Council; Samuel Witch-ell, associate professor of sociology at Glassboro State College, and Sampson Smith, superintendent of schools of Franklin Township.

Workshops will be held during lunch to assist leaders to develop their study discussion group programs using the findings and materials of the White House Conference.

The afternoon will be devoted to a roundtable discussion among Mrs. Kenneth Lathrop, president of the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. C. Lester Greer, extension specialist in human relations of Rutgers University; Mrs. Herbert Brower, chairman of parent and family life education, New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers and a librarian of the Public and School Library Services Bureau.

Turnout For Free Exhibit

To Demonstrate Carnegie Course

A free demonstration session of the world-famous Dale Carnegie Course is scheduled to be held in Springfield at the American Legion, North Trivett St. on Tuesday, September 20, at 8:15 p.m. The following week, on Monday, September 26, at 8:15 p.m., a demonstration of the course will be held in Plainfield at the Park Hotel, West 7th Street.

The Dale Carnegie Course is being sponsored locally by the Leadership and Sales Training Institute of New Jersey, whose offices are located at Box 320, Millington, New Jersey. According to Wesley E. Westrom, Director of the Institute, "more than 7,200 men and women in New Jersey have completed the Dale Carnegie Course since 1947. During the past 14 years, these courses have helped over 750,000 men and women in every civilized nation this side of the Iron Curtain to learn the art of effective speaking, human relationship skills, and memory improvement."

Mr. Westrom also pointed out that many top men in New Jersey industry, business, education and the professions attribute much of their success to Dale Carnegie Training. Housewives and career women, as well as salesmen and office workers testify that the training they received in "getting along with people" and being able to "make themselves understood" has helped

County Vocational School Opens; Has Post-Hi Classes

36 Students Will Participate in 2 Programs

Union County will enter the vocational and technical education field for the first time Monday (Sept. 12) with the opening of the Union County Vocational and Technical Institute.

The Institute for post-high school men and women will open at 2589 Morris Avenue, Union. Electronics technology and drafting and design technology will be offered.

Thirty-six students will be accepted for the two programs. George H. Baxel, Director, reported: "All will be high school graduates, have a background in mathematics and science and have passed a technical aptitude examination."

Students will be selected from among the more than 70 persons who applied, Mr. Baxel said. The final selection of students will be made as soon as results of the last aptitude examination given yesterday are known, the Director pointed out.

In addition to the day program, the institute will offer electronics technology and drafting and design technology in the evening. Registration for the evening program will be held September 19 and 20 at the institute's temporary headquarters in Union.

The institute's Union headquarters contains three modern, completely equipped laboratories as well as the administrative offices of the Board of Education of the County Vocational and Technical Schools.

In addition to the vocational and technical institute for post-high school students, the Union County vocational and technical school system will in the future provide secondary vocational and technical training programs, related apprenticeship programs, and trade and technical extension courses, Mr. Baxel said.

The Director said the technical institute's curriculum will include technical English and mathematics.

Much of the equipment for the new institute was purchased with funds allocated by the Federal Government through the provisions of the National Defense Education Act.

Three teachers have been hired for the day program of the institute. They are: John Green, Leslie Kirby, and Gary Woerner.

The vocational and technical at 7:30 p.m. in the Walton School, Mountain Ave., Springfield, Peter Szolo, director, announced today.

The newly formed orchestra, an outgrowth of the Scotch Plains Symphony, will begin its 1960-61 rehearsal season on September 22.

The first concert will be held in the Cranford High School auditorium November 21 when the guest artist will be Kenneth Amada, one of the top winners at the Belgian Festival this past summer.

Boston Specialists Engaged To Survey Overlook Parking

Parking Associates Will Consider Present and Future Overlook Hospital Parking Requirements

Overlook Hospital has taken the first step to solve the parking requirements of its expanded facility by engaging a firm of parking specialists to make a survey of its needs, both now and in the future.

Parking Associates of Boston has dealt with the parking problems of such large institutions as the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, among many others.

In addition to analyzing the hospital's parking and traffic flow, the firm will make recommendations from the standpoint of capacity, service, location, operation, condition and maintenance of present and proposed facilities. A written report will be presented to Overlook by the end of September.

Repaves Parking Area
Meanwhile, the hospital has gone ahead, with the approval of the City Council, and repaved the parking area directly across the street, on the corner of Morris and Mountain Avenues.

Gilbert G. Roessner of Summit, Overlook trustee and chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee, today pointed out the many variables involved in the hospital parking picture.

"Because of the complex nature of Overlook's parking problem, with demands from so many groups utilizing the hospital, the question of control—who parks where and when—is of prime concern," he emphasized. "First essential is immediate access to the hospital for patients, especially in the emergency area. Next in priority comes space for doctors, nurses, technicians and the some 575 employees of Overlook, all of whom play a vital role in the efficient functioning of the hospital."

Added to this are Overlook's average 300 patients daily, with their family and friends, creating particularized need for parking during visiting hours.

Has Large Volunteer Program
"Since Overlook has one of the largest volunteer programs in the state," Mr. Roessner continued, "we have some 1,000 people who come on varying schedules to be of assistance in their community hospital. The work of these volunteers not only raises funds for our hospital through the Women's Auxiliary, but their services are of direct benefit to our patients—both personally and in keeping hospital costs down."

"Another factor, faced by most established hospitals, is that we are in a built-up area and have recently added our nine-story wing. We have every confidence, however," Mr. Roessner concluded, "that our parking problem will be greatly eased by the specialized study being made."

Other members of Overlook's Building and Grounds Committee are: from Summit, Walter P. Bluntschli, Mrs. E. H. Heath, Fjiletus Holt II, Richard A. Mixer, Dr. N. L. Murray, Alfred G. Parker and Robert E. Heinlein, Director; Philip A. Meyer of Short Hills; Enoch R. Nedges or New Vernon, C. Dana McCoy of Millington; Arthur G. Pullis, Jr. of Chatham; Edmund R. Beckwith Jr. of Westfield; Dr. S. M. Atkinson of Madison.

Wins Beauty Title At Deerwood Club

One surprised woman last August 27 was Mrs. Flora Schlanger, 200 Eelak Avenue, Springfield. She won the "Miss Deerwood" title at the Deerwood Swim Club, Watchung.

This was the first contest Mrs. Schlanger entered since joining the club a year ago.

The mother of three children, Karen, 9; Alan, 7; and David, 1, Mrs. Schlanger captured the eyes of the judges as she and 9 other contestants paraded in bathing suits.

Asked for her husband's comments, Mrs. Schlanger only said "He was surprised."

Religious School Hours Changed

This Sunday, September 11, the Religious School of Temple Sharey Shalom, will be in session from 9 to 11:30 a.m., instead of from 10 to 12:30 p.m. as it usually is.

The reason for the change in time for school on this one day is so that the teachers may attend a Practicum at Temple B'nai Beshurim. The teachers will attend workshops entitled "Teaching Jewish History in Religious School," "Teaching The God-Idea," and "Planning the school year and preparing the weekly lessons, selecting content and method appropriate to age group."

The Practicum is under the auspices of Rabbi James Lehbarg and the keynote address will be given by Dr. Philip Jaffe.

Lafayette Trees Inspire Numerous Plantings Today

Trees Perfect Arboreal Symbols to Great Men

"Lafayette, we are still here." This in effect, can be the message from gnarled old veterans, trees that were planted as memorials in America.

The 202nd anniversary of the birth of the French marquis was observed on Tuesday, September 6, and fitting ceremonies could well be the planting of still more trees in his honor in the back yards of America.

The planting of living landmarks is as good an idea today as it was some two centuries ago, says D. G. Yates, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co. With the beginning of the Fall transplanting season this month, the home owner intent upon establishing an arboreal symbol, whether to Lafayette or any other great personage, might consider the kind of tree for his honor.

Among those that will last for generations are species that are slow growing and of outstanding character, such as the sugar maple, the beech and most of the oaks; particularly the white, red and scarlet oaks. In the South, the many proud memorials live oak, pecan and tulip tree.

An assortment of trees that won undying fame through association with Lafayette, include the famous Lafayette elm at Kennebunk, Me.; the Lafayette white oak at Southington, Conn.; the Lafayette century poplar near Geneva, N.Y.; and the Lafayette sycamore near Chadds Falls, Del.

If you plant a tree to Lafayette or anyone else, a permanent marker should be part of your memorial. To thwart vandals now and in the future, anchor a rust-proof metal marker to a heavy stone base near the foot of the tree.

Localities Get Certificates

Certificates have been awarded to numerous local residents for completing courses during the spring semester of the Union Junior College Institute of Union Junior College.

Launched last year, the UJC Institute offers non-credit, college-level courses for adults in the liberal arts and cultural areas and programs for industry and special groups.

Miss Mary P. Cunningham, 80 South Maple Avenue, Springfield, received a certificate for stenography.

Scotch Plains residents Miss Catherine Borla, 180 Glenside Avenue and Miss Patricia Landers, 1425 Robin Lane, received typewriting certificates.

Church School Opens Sunday Includes Pre-Nursery Kids

The full Sunday schedule of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Main Street, Millburn, will resume with the 9:15 service in the church on Sunday, September 11.

The old parish hall has been rearranged to accommodate the larger classes, in anticipation of the new Church House, which will probably be in use before the end of the school year.

As in former years, the Church at St. Stephen's begins with the pre-nursery classes (ages 2-3) and continues through the adult group.

The class sessions are preceded by the "Family Service" at 9:15 a.m. There will also be an 11:00 o'clock service, with choir, beginning September 11th. Registration for the Church School classes will take place following the 9:15 service on September 11th.

Those who will be teaching in the Church School are: Mrs. Herbert D. Simpson, Mrs. Louis Swigel, Mrs. Edward Eppinger, Jr., Miss Cathy Aurnhammer, Mrs. Charles E. Sasse, Miss Christine Trevor, Mrs. Thomas E. Smith, Mrs. Henry T. King, Miss Virginia Krautter, Mrs. Sheldon H.ady, Mrs. Richard Ernst, Mr. Edwin Shaw, Miss Margaret A. Hunt, Mrs. Richard B. Stock up in the "D, D, T" bombs! This week's Union County Mosquito Commission report showed an index rate of "heavy."

The winged stingers decided to make a Labor Day offensive and scored heavily in this area. The index showed 29 in Berkeley Heights, Scotch Plains and Parsippany, the lowest with a 3.5 rating.

The Holiday week-end didn't stop the Mosquito Commission in their summer fight against the pests. Seven control crews were out throughout Union County, particularly in the "high count" areas, trying to stem the tide.

While summer is officially over September 21st, no notice has been given to insects, so the Mosquito Commission must continue the fight.

British Musical Comedy Opens on Foothill Stage

"Salad Days" Stars Sue Tymeson

The British musical comedy "Salad Days" received its first New Jersey production at the Foothill Playhouse in Middlesex with opening night scheduled on Wednesday, September 7.

"Salad Days", originally written for the Old Vic Company, stars Sue Tymeson and Eddy Lawrence in the roles of the two college students who get mixed up with a magic piano, five helpful uncles and the police as they try to determine what job would be suitable for a lifetime career.

Miss Tymeson, a 17 year-old South Orange girl, jumps from high school dramatics to summer theatre to win the starring role in "Salad Days".

Hailed as one of the major talent discoveries of the summer season, Miss Tymeson combines a good voice with the poise of a veteran on the Foothill stage.

Eddy Lawrence, who plays opposite Miss Tymeson, switches from serious drama to musical comedy in "Salad Days".

Lawrence played the leading role in "Career" earlier in the Foothill season and has made numerous appearances in summer stock, radio and television.

Featured in "Salad Days" are Eve Johnson, Bob MacPherson, Stanley Klein, Margit Lukk, Don Dilly and Howard Baldwin. The play is directed by Robert Stevens with choreography by

U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jack Dunn, Democratic Congressional candidate for Union County, and the three Democratic Freeholder candidates, Dr. Edward J. Carlin, Thomas J. O'Brien, and William

Daniel, will be the guests of honor at the annual Scotch Plains Democratic Dance, it was announced by Ed Carlin, this year's dance chairman.

The dance, to be held Friday evening, September 23, at the Italian-American Hall, Scotch Plains, will feature music by John Pirolozzi's Orchestra.

Carlin said the dance will provide a chance for Scotch Plains citizens to meet their Democratic office holders and candidates.

In addition to the guests of honor, all Democratic county officials have been invited.

Carlin said the dance has become one of the traditional Democratic Party functions and attracts guests from the entire Union-County area.

Serving on the Dance Committee with Carlin this year are Adrian and Edith Powers, Jeanette Dietz, Joe Messersmith and the two Democratic candidates for Scotch Plains Township Committee, Robert C. Coakley and Jerry P. Donnini.

Pat Lane, Lansing Reynolds is musical director and leads the Foothill orchestra.
