Trash deal could yield savings

By Cheryl Hehl Staff Writer

It's been said that one person's garbage is another person's treasure. Thanks to a deal the county is wrapping up to extend its lease with Covanta Energy, most taxpayers will probably agree with that statement.

If you've ever questioned where your trash goes after your hauler slings it into the garbage truck, you might be surprised at the answer. In fact, the next time you turn on a light or plug in your toaster, imagine that at one time, the electricity giving life to your appliances was once your dinner scraps.

Turning garbage into energy figures significantly into the lease agreement extension Union County Freeholders made with Covanta, operator of the Union County Resource Recovery Facility in Rahway. Under the terms of the extension, the county and taxpayers will see an additional $276 million in revenue and tax relief over the next 20-years, according to Freeholder Daniel Sullivan.

"At a time when all governmental authorities are suffering from a dramatic drop in revenues, it is more important than ever that we seek to maximize an asset that has reached peak value and help deliver tax relief to our taxpayers," said Sullivan last week.

Officer faces 3 years

HILLSIDE — A Hillside police officer was sentenced to three years probation on Aug. 27 after pleading guilty to charges of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in connection with an off-duty shooting last year.

Detective James Holmes, an 18-year veteran of the force, was arrested and charged on Aug. 31, 2009 after shooting his 17-year-old stepson in the leg during a dispute at their Tom's River home. He has been suspended without pay since that time.

Holmes was sentenced last week in Ocean County Court by Judge James Den Uyl.

The removal of Holmes from the police force was not a condition of his sentencing. Local officials indicated the township must review the incident before deciding whether to take further action against Holmes.

Richard H. Bauch, a labor and personnel attorney representing Hillside, could not be reached for comment.

Hillside Mayor Joseph Menza said it not clear why Holmes' ineligibility as a police officer was not

Businesses charged with sales to minors

Mayfair Liquors, Carli's Lounge may face liquor license suspensions

By Paul Greulich
 Staff Writer

HILLSIDE — Two local businesses have run afoul of the law after selling liquor to a 20-year-old man working as an undercover police officer.

Charges of selling alcoholic beverages to underage persons were filed against Mayfair Liquors at 1444 North Broad St. and Carli's Lounge at 1555 Summit Ave., both in Hillside.

Both offenses occurred on Aug. 19.

The Hillside Police Department conducts periodic undercover investigations to ensure compliance with the law. In the two recent incidents, employees failed to ask for proof of age when they served or sold alcoholic beverages to youthful patrons, as they are required to do by law. New Jersey law prohibits people younger than 21 years old from purchasing alcoholic beverages.

"Underage drinking has been a long-standing problem," Police Chief Robert Quinlan said. "It's a problem in Hillside just like other communities. We take proactive measures to deter sales of alcohol to underage patrons."

In 2008, Mayfair Liquors had its license suspended for seven days for the same type of violation. Carli's lounge has no prior offenses.

If found guilty of the charges, both establishments face suspensions of their licenses to sell alcoholic beverages. Carli's faces a possible suspension of 15 days and Mayfair Liquors a possible suspension of 30 days according to penalty guidelines set forth by the state.

Quinlan said many other local businesses that sell alcohol were also investigated, but complied with the law when approached by underage customers.

"I'm pleased that the majority of establishments didn't sell to them," Quinlan said, noting that in the past, upwards of half the establishments investigated failed to adhere to the law.

"The situation is improving," Quinlan added. "But we're going to keep on doing these periodic inspections as long as necessary."

The charges will be heard on Sept. 13 by the Hillside Township Council, which also serves the function of Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

Both businesses remained open following the charges, but staff or owners of the two establishments could not be reached for comment.

Mayor Joseph Menza said he wasn't aware of any previous problems with either establishment. He said he hopes officials can address the charges while remaining aware of the difficult economic climate for businesses.

"At this time, when business are struggling, you have to come up with some kind of happy medium," Menza said.

ADOPTING A SHELTER DOG

When adopting a shelter dog, there are many decisions to make before setting foot inside the kennel. First decide on general size. A family with very small children should not adopt a toy-sized dog unless the children are unusually low key. Small dogs have small bones that are easily broken. On the other hand, elderly people often have frail bones that are easily broken, so families with elderly members should avoid large, rambunctious dogs. Decide who will take care of the dog, and make a solid, thought-out plan for feeding, walking, grooming, and playing. Shelter dogs have often been through hard times and may need help getting back on their feet.

The critical question to ask is "Will this dog fit my family?" If the answer is yes, a shelter dog may be the perfect choice. At TLC PET DOCTOR, we recommend regular check-ups so that we can help you monitor your pet's overall health. Bring your pet to 1326 Stuyvesant ave., Union regularly to maintain your pet's health and happiness. Call 908-686-7080 to schedule an appointment. From surgery to basic nail clipping, we want to help ensure that your furry friend is as happy and healthy as can be. We know how much you care about your pet, because we care about them too. We provide complete companion animal care, including dental care, and x-ray services. Our services include geriatric care, radiology, wellness and preventive medicine, and many more. We provide exotic pet and bird medicine, as well as diagnostic services offered on site.

P.S. When getting your new shelter dog used to the family, make sure an adult is always present when the dog is around any children.

How the UCPO stacks up against other NJ counties

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

The following story is part three in a series examining the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

When compared to three other county prosecutor offices in Central and North Jersey, the Union County Prosecutor's Office appears to have some pluses and minuses to their credit, as do the others.

A special commission was appointed in July by Gov. Chris Christie to see if the state's 21 county prosecutor's offices are doing their best to save taxpayer dollars. Before they return with their findings in December, Union County LocalSource looked at how the Union County Prosecutor's Office fared when compared to three counties with similar demographics.

Middlesex, Passaic and Bergen counties provided a range of density, square miles, crime and suburban-urban character required for an objective view of how tax dollars are being spent overall when compared to Union County.

The governor's commission was charged with specifically looking for inefficiencies, administrative redundancies, caseload discrepancies and inconsistent salary compensation, as well as whether regional consolidation and shared services might be an option. In order to analyze and compare statistical data from each prosecutor's office, Union County LocalSource used the Open Public Records Act to obtain employee salary, budget and caseload information from all four prosecutor's offices. Demographics from each county were also used for comparison as well as the Police Uniform Crime Index for 2008, the last year available for reference.

The crime rate for each county bears considerable weight when comparing the four county prosecutor offices roster of employees and salaries. With this information, a clearer picture of where there are gaps or excesses in prosecutor office employees and salary can be seen in relation to the overall crime rate.

It is important to note that while Middlesex County may be the largest of the four counties at 311 square miles, compared to Bergen county at 234, Passaic at 192 and Union county at 102.9 miles, Union County tops the list when it comes to overall crime with 32 incidents per 1,000 people. That is more than twice that of Bergen county at 15.6 incidents per 1,000 people and 30 percent more than Middlesex county at 22.5 incidents. Passaic county, which has similar demographics to Union County, had a crime rate of 29.7

incidents per 1,000 people.

Union County also has a high violent crime rate at 4.4 per thousand people, but not as high as Passaic county, which has 5.2 violent crimes per 1,000 people. However, Union County's violent crime rate is 470 percent more than Bergen County and 270 percent more than Middlesex County which has only 1.1 violent crimes per 1,000 people. Also noteworthy is the fact Union County's murder rate of 22 in 2008 is 314 percent higher than Bergen County's which only had seven, and 137 percent more than Middlesex County with 16 murders. Passaic county topped the list with 28 murders in 2008.

Although the number of police officers in a county are not significant to the prosecutor's office overall, the figure does bear weight when it comes to fighting crime generally in the county. For instance, although Union County was second in overall crime per thousand people with 16,800 incidents in 2008, there are only 1,810 police officers working in the county's 21 municipalities.

On the other hand, Bergen County, which came in with the lowest overall crime rate of the four counties, has the most police officers at 2,532. Interestingly, Bergen county has the lowest violent crime rate and murders but has the highest number of police officers. Passaic county had the lowest number of police officers at 1,460.

When budget data from all four prosecutor offices was analyzed, Bergen county came in first with a budget of $28.4 million, but Union County came in second at $19.3 million. However, Bergen County has 70 municipalities under its jurisdiction, while Union County has just 21. Passaic County, with 16 towns to cover, has an annual budget this year of $16.2 million, and Middlesex County, with 25 towns, works with a $16.5 million budget.

All prosecutor's offices throughout the state handle issues related to, or involved with prosecuting crimes. Because of this, each has a large number of employees handling everything from investigating crimes to administrative clerical work. Union County LocalSource looked at several specific employees and their salaries that were consistent in all four prosecutor's offices, including assistant prosecutors, county investigators and clerk typists.

Although the Bergen county prosecutor's office had the most overall employees with 298, Union coun-

We did the research and found that assisted living was our best option. We toured several communities and found that Spring Meadows Summit is simply the BEST in every way! Imagine my surprise when Mom said she wished she had moved here sooner. She loves her apartment. She is relaxed

Water main leak disrupts traffic flow on Morris Ave.

By Paul Greulich
 Staff Writer

UNION — The water was flowing but the traffic was stopped on Morris Avenue at Caldwell Place last week as workers labored to mend a water main leak that turned the roadside into a small river.

Police Captain Scott Breslow reported the problem is believed to have begun as a small leak on July 31 and worsened by Aug. 1. Workers from the New Jersey American Water Company arrived the morning of Sept. 2. The leak had gone unnoticed until that point.

The company's External Affairs Manager Richard G. Barnes reported that the leak was repaired before 2 p.m. that afternoon although equipment remained on the scene longer into the afternoon. Barnes identified the leak as stemming from a 6-inch pipe.

"A faulty valve caused the leak. The pipe is probably about 60 years old," Barnes said.

Barnes said he was unsure how much water was lost as a result. Breslow explained that the loose water took the path of least resistance down the street.

"Initially the leak appeared at the curb line but when the work crew got there and did their investigation they discovered the leak occurred at the center of the road which necessitated shutting down one lane in each direction," Breslow said.

About 30 buildings in the area lost water during the repair work, including Burnet Middle School.

Secretary to the principal Mrs. Cucciniello said that while faucets in the building were not producing water, there were no significant problems as a result of the break. Fortunately, school was not yet in session, so no students were affected.

"We do have teachers in school but I haven't heard anyone complain about it," Cucciniello said. "We don't have water but that's about it."

Historians, scouts create kid's corner

The Cranford Historical Society is proud to announce the creation of a "Children's Corner" at the Crane-Phillips House Museum. The Children's Corner is located in the Junior League Room at the museum. It has a permanent array of interactive toys, dolls and books that represent the Victorian Era.

The "Children's Corner" was made possible through the hard work and effort of Girl Scout Troop 593 members, Sarah Carolan, Kate McCann and Ilana Solomon who earned their Gold Award by undertaking this wonderful project which will benefit any children who visit the museum. The Girl Scout Gold Award is the highest award that a Girl Scout can achieve.

Their project addressed what life was like for children and their families in Cranford during the Victorian Era. The "Children's Corner" will give children who visit the museum an idea of how they would have spent their leisure time if they lived back then. Carolan, McCann and Solomon worked together in designing and physically putting together the "Children's Corner" which consists of a display case highlighting their educational programs. Carolan focused on toys and crafts, McCann focused on clothing worn by children and Solomon focused on books children might have read back then.

The Crane-Phillips House Museum will open its fall season on Sunday, Sept. 12, from 2 to 4 p.m. Founded in 1927, the Cranford Historical Society's mission is to preserve and perpetuate the history of Cranford.

To see the schedule, visit www.cranfordhistoricalsociety.com or call 908-276-0082.

Freeholders extend lease agreement with Covanta

The 14 Union County towns that signed on years ago, including Elizabeth, Union, Rahway, Plainfield, Roselle, Linden, Hillside, Summit, Roselle Park, New Providence, Kenilworth, Garwood and Springfield, will be "reaping the benefits" of that deal, according to Union County Utilities Authority attorney Jonathan Williams.

Last week, the attorney for the UCUA explained that while there are many details still to be worked out, he hopes the lease agreement will be finalized by the end of the year.

Among those details is getting the 14 towns to sign back on, which Williams doubts will be a problem considering the savings they have realized in the past.

For instance, in 2009 Rahway disposed of 13,387 tons of garbage in the incinerator, saving $160,647 that year. Elizabeth, on the other hand, processed 58,119 tons, saving $700,000.

Williams said the 14 towns will probably see additional savings of $12 to $14 per ton on their trash, which is "way under market price."

The seven towns, including Cranford and Westfield, that did not sign on in the past because they contract privately for their garbage service "pay significantly higher" fees at the incinerator," according to Williams. Whether that changes in the future depends entirely on private haulers, he added.

"We learned a painful lesson in the past not to pass any savings onto them unless they can prove residents will see that savings," he said, adding that back in the late 1990s the haulers did not and that will not happen again.

The county also has to get the Department of Environmental Protection and Department of Community Affairs sign off on the deal so they can receive regulatory approvals.

Covanta Energy operates the county solid waste incinerator, processing 1,500 tons of residential and business garbage every day. That household garbage is turned into clean, renewable energy, producing enough energy to operate the plant and sell to a power company.

With the latest lease agreement, the incinerator can stay in its present location on the Rahway river through 2050. It also will provide significant savings to the county and taxpayers over the long haul.

Compared to the average cost of municipal solid waste disposal in the county in 1995 when it was approximately $120 per ton, by 2008 the average cost was down to about $75 per ton, according to Union County Spokesperson Sebastian D'Elia.

There also is the possibility that Rahway, the host city for the incinerator, could receive an increase in hosting fees that could add up to almost a million dollars a year, according to one Rahway official, who asked to remain anonymous. Union County would also reap benefits from the deal, receiving a 10 percent revenue share of proceeds from the sale of energy produced at the facility starting in 2029.

The UCRRF began operating in 1994 after the state mandated all 21 counties in the state build their own incinerators in the early 1990s.

The facility currently generates electricity while disposing of all municipal solid waste generated in the county at rates which are already among the lowest in the region.

But, in order to understand exactly how those savings will be realized, it's important to know exactly how the Rahway facility changes your trash into energy.

The first step begins when private and municipal haulers bring trash to the Rahway facility. Their trucks are then weighed before and after the trash is unloaded, and a tipping fee is charged per ton of trash. Then the trash is burned at high temperatures in combustion chambers and the heat is used to generate steam which drives a turbine to produce 45 megawatts of clean, renewable electricity. The electricity produced is enough to satisfy the energy needs of 35,000 homes annually.

It all adds up, according to Covanta. For example, the 250 tons of municipal solid waste processed to date is equivalent to the annual amount of waste landfilled in the United States. Put another way, that's the equivalent of more than 30 million garbage trucks full of waste, that if placed end to end would circle the Earth more than four times. If the same trash was put in landfills, the waste would have buried the National Mall in Washington, DC from the Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial, completely covering the Washington Monument.

Covanta points out that in processing 250 million tons of waste, they recycled more than five million tons of metal, enough to build 60 Golden Gate bridges. But the process does not come without its problems.

In August, Covanta agreed to pay $16,400 in fines to the Department of Environmental Protection for exceeding allowable levels of carbon monoxide and sulfur dioxide released into the atmosphere. The fines were due to several incidents over two years, and, according to a spokesperson at the DEP, minor in the big picture.

Hillside officer gets probation reflected in the court's recent decision.

"The Ocean County Prosecutor's Office bounced it back into our laps," Menza said. "The disciplinary process has to advance at this point."

Ocean County Assistant Prosecutor Kristen Pressman said that in cases where police officers are convicted of a crime, termination is not customarily included in sentencing but left to the discretion of the department.

"It's usually handled by the department unless he's pleading to official misconduct, which is a separate charge and which was not the case here," Pressman said.

Hillside Police Chief Robert Quinlan said he does not expect Holmes to remain on the force.

"I anticipate that his separation from the police department will be forthcoming through the disciplinary process," Quinlan said.

Holmes' sentencing comes less than a year after the termination of another Hillside Police Officer, Patrolman Vitor Pedreiras, who pleaded guilty to charges of stealing money from a state homeless prevention program.

Quinlan acknowledged Holmes is the second officer in two years to face criminal charges, but stressed that both cases involved off-duty incidents.

"We have very strict rules and regulations and hold our officers accountable to those rules and regulations," Quinlan said. "However we can't control the officers' personal conduct 24 hours a day."

Quinlan said both Holmes and Pedreiras had good service records.

Menza said police officers, like politicians, are held to higher standards whereby a single mistake can easily ruin a promising career.

"They're human beings, they make mistakes. But they have to understand they're held to different standards than most people," Menza said.

Thief arrested after robbery at Hillside nail salon

Eric D. Felder, 40, of Linden was arrested on Sept. 1 at 5:20 p.m. on Foster Street in Newark about an hour after police responded to a report of a robbery at a nail salon on North Broad Street in Hillside.

Witnesses reported Felder entered the salon holding a pair of shoes and a belt under the pretense that he was selling them. He allegedly approached the first victim, who was receiving a pedicure, as if to show her the items he was selling. Instead he threw them at her face and grabbed her purse. Felder also grabbed the purse of another patron from the floor and exited the salon. He allegedly walked north, entered a parked burgundy, 2000 Nissan Maxima, and drove away. The two purses contained cash and other items valued at $1,450.

As Felder was driving away, one motorist followed him and called Hillside Police. The witness gave a detailed description of the car before losing sight of it in the area of Frelinghuysen Avenue in Newark. Police immediately responded to the nail salon and the area where the motorist lost sight of Felder.

Minutes later, Officer Francisco Vega located a car fitting the description which was parked and unoccupied on Foster Street in Newark. Additional officers responded and set up surveillance. When Felder later approached and entered the car, he was immediately blocked by unmarked detective vehicles.

Felder was arrested and charged with robbery and theft. Both purses were recovered. The arrest was made by detectives Brian Wilson, Sean Young, Peter Corvelli and Michael Ricci.

The officers pursued him onto the 1100-block of Roselle Street where he was observed pulling a silver revolver from his waistband and allegedly throwing it under a pick-up truck. Pettis was apprehended a half-block away.

Further north on the street, a Harley Davidson motorcycle was laying on its left side in the middle of the roadway. The motorcycle was registered to Cummings.

Another male, an 18-year-old from Roselle Park, was laying on the grass on the east side of the street. Investigation revealed this individual was crossing the roadway on a skateboard when he was struck by Cummings on the motorcycle.

OPINION

EDITORIAL

Get involved

Editorials on this page often have urged parents to take an active interest in the education of their children. Many studies indicate that when a parent becomes involved in their child's education, the child does better in school. This suggests that parents should, for example, attend school functions, such as back-to-school nights, school plays or sports games, and possibly walk their child to school on occasion. Also, make the child's day at school an important part of the dinner table conversation. When a parent becomes interested in a child's education, it seems reasonable the child will become more academically motivated.

For this new school year, parents should also consider becoming involved in another way: by supporting school fundraising efforts.

When schools open this week, they will be operating with reduced budgets. In March, Gov. Chris Christie decreased state aid to schools by $820 million. This resulted in layoffs, furloughs, raise deferrals and the redesign of programs. Many board of education members and school administrators with whom we have spoken said this was the most difficult budget they had ever balanced.

This move by Christie was needed. Schools have become too costly for taxpayers. And now school districts this year will be adjusting to the new reality as set down by the governor.

While none of these cuts impact the mandated curriculum, they do impact what could be called "quality of education" items: The marching band will not participate in away competitions, for example. Classrooms could have more children. A sound system will not be upgraded. Computers will not be purchased.

Parents and the business community have always stepped forward to assist schools. In Irvington, the current effort to restore Matthews Track and Field was inspired by an alliance of residents. At Foley Field in Bloomfield, where the unsafe concrete bleachers will be demolished, private groups and individuals will be stepping forward to raise the funds for temporary bleachers. Now, more than ever, outside assistance is needed by our schools.

This year we urge parents, and residents, too, to support their schools. We have always urged residents to shop locally and support local businesses. This year, we say: answer the call for volunteers at your child's school, and support its fundraising efforts, when possible.

There is a hint of impatience, even some anger when you speak to Linden Mayor Richard Gerbounka about special counsel fees.

Last week, City Resolution 273 was approved providing a total of $112,500 in fees to a Newark law firm regarding a single litigation matter in the city. The topic is a dispute between Verge properties and the city.

Gerbounka detailed the history of the matter, which started in 2003 before he was even elected mayor. It's a common problem when disputes between a community and a litigant encompass more than one administration.

During the go-go development period in the early 1990s developers were anxiously looking for opportunities. Municipalities feeling the heat from hard-pressed taxpayers were accommodating to commercial development with the tax benefitting ratables that would come. In that vein, a mixed use project with commercial on the bottom and housing on the top was envisioned on a South Wood Avenue portion of the city. A project in walking distance of the local train station, with the belief that a transit village designation would make it an attractive deal.

A $3 million dollar bond issue to get the project moving was approved by the City Council. At the time, the plan was to flip the funding after its success and develop another property across the street according to Gerbounka. The problem turned out to be that you can't flip property profits until the property is completed and the dollars role in. That still hasn't happened in the case of Verge properties. In the meantime, Gerbounka and city are hit each year with $125,000 in interest and principal payments. The problems started when claims arose that the environmental cleanup of the property by the city and Union County Improvement Authority was dragging. City fathers refute that allegation but are still left to defend a $15 million dollar lawsuit. With the recession drying up opportunities, the battle lines between municipalities like Linden and developers get even more strained.

By Frank Capece

If you get Gerbounka going on the litigation costs he has been forced to experience, get ready for an expanded talk session. He has a long-standing battle with Dupont and also a St. George's Avenue project where the city spent another $3.5 million in upfront bonded costs. Gerbounka knows he has to see the battles through to completion, but it is not one of his warm and friendly conversations. "They are bleeding us dry" is one of the ways he described the battle.

The pursuit of ratables often means litigation and community opposition for hard-pressed municipalities. It's hard to preach patience when the quarterly tax bills keep coming.

There are some rays of sunlight in the ratable pursuit crystal ball. Commercial real estate watchers say the second quarter of this year was the first time in four years where businesses actually leased more industrial space than they vacated in our part of the state.

According to The Institute for Supply Management which carefully follows the numbers, real estate has been a lagging indication compared to the rest of the economy. Stan Danzig, a major player in North Jersey Commercial Development said, "The positive absorption of space comes as companies to some extent are still consolidating their operations, sometimes taking the same amount of space in one location instead of multiple sites."

James Hughes, the often-quoted Rutgers economist said, "To have really sustained improvement in that sector, we need growth in consumer spending because that's the driver of wholesale trade that is lagging."

Maybe local candidates running for office this year, hearing the anger of hard pressed property tax owners can respond — just wait until that positive absorption starts happening.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Remembering Jill Riley

To the Editor:

At Cranford Public Library, we staff members are blessed with fond memories of former reference librarian, Jill Riley, who worked at Cranford Public Library from 1996 until 2000, and who passed away in 2000.

Like me, Jill was a dog-loving member of Mensa, who possessed a kind heart. Jill was so fair-minded that, even when she occasionally disagreed with people, she never felt superior to anyone else. She had no prejudices. We Cranford Public Library employees who had the positive experience of working with Jill, will always cherish the good times we enjoyed with the brilliant, humble, gentle reference librarian.

Jill Riley was our friend, as well as our supervisor and colleague. I'm also glad that I had the pleasure of having met Jill's dog, Sam, who was part chow-chow.

Making the distinction

To the Editor:

In 2006, the New Jersey Foundation for Open Government embarked on an initiative to empower citizens to have the cost of copies for public records lowered.

We drafted a resolution and asked citizens to present it to their local government bodies for adoption. As a board member I led by example. I approached Union County Freeholder Adrian Mapp and several towns and asked them to adopt the resolution. Many did, including Union County.

Union County Freeholder Spokesperson Seb D'Elia took exception to the credit I had given Mapp for this community service in a recent article. He said my information was skewed because I didn't give credit to the other freeholders who voted to adopt the resolution. However, freeholders routinely vote 9-0 on most every resolution before them. If it had not been for Freeholder Mapp, the resolution would not have been on the agenda. I seriously doubt they knew it was proposed by me. No other freeholder has ever returned any of my correspondence.

Although he didn't intend it to, D'Elia's letter made an important distinction between county machine Democrats and Democrats for Change, an organization which has been building in influence in challenging the machine. At the time this occurred, Adrian Mapp had fallen out of favor with the machine and he wasn't given the omnipotent party line. He went on to challenge them in the primary as a Democrat for Change and he lost.

The county Democrat machine sees these Democrats for Change as much as a threat as they do Republicans. Perhaps even more so as registered Democrats outnumber Republicans almost 3 to 1 in Union County. D'Elia represents all of the freeholders, including Adrian Mapp at the time. His letter taking offense at credit given to Adrian Mapp for lowering the cost of public records proves he represents the Union County Democrat machine. His taxpayer-funded salary is $111,420 and he has staff.

Vote to 'restore honor'

To the Editor:

We experienced an important moment in history by traveling to our United States Capitol recently with Americans for Prosperity; it was a journey both uplifting and inspiring.

It is amazing how the spirit works once our personal wills are open to the experience. We were joined by 2,500 citizens in our AFP contingency of patriots from several states. The planning was superb, the accommodations at the Omni Shoreham and the Marriott Hotels were as promised, and the speakers at the Ronald Reagan Dinner were the best any conservative could expect with George Will, Michele Bachman, the governor of Virginia and several other representatives of AFP from North Carolina, and other states. The attendees were most cordial and peaceful, friendly and proud to be there.

After our AFP conference of Friday, early Saturday morning breakfast, and greetings from Steve Lonegan and staff, we departed by bus to downtown DC for our trek to the Washington Monument and beyond to the Lincoln Memorial. We walked briskly with the crowds of people. There was a strong feeling of unity, as our beings were lifted by the sheer synergy of people keeping pace to get to the spot where the rally would begin 10 a.m.

Shortly after Glenn Beck gave the opening remarks, a flock of wild geese in a perfect "V" formation flew towards the Lincoln Memorial. Everyone around us was filled with awe, marking it as a symbol of the Lord's signage on this auspicious occasion of remembrance and restoration. We were remembering Martin Luther King's presence in that spot 47 years ago and his famous speech, "I Have a Dream."

This was not a political rally. This was one focused on the central figure of the republic established by our forefathers, some of our late and great presidents, and those brave fighters and leaders that have followed, through the wars, the triumphs and the defeats. It was about reclaiming our honor as a nation and honoring those who are living lives by faith, in hope, and with charity. We are pleased and humbled to have been specks on the landscape of that great gathering of Americans — pilgrims journeying together in faith by the supernatural gifts of faith, hope and love. We thank God for the privilege. We pass this message unto you because we care deeply about you, our country, and its direction. Remember, November is coming! Do your civic duty and vote for restoring honor to our great nation. Be proud you are an American. We certainly feel proud, humbled and blessed.

KVC is 'a family'

To the Editor:

Jello to our VFW and Kenilworth Veteran Center members. As the summer ends and fall is about to begin, I hope each and every member of Post 2230 and Vet's Center had a happy, safe, healthy, prosperous and enjoyable summer.

We here at the KVC are looking forward, with great anticipation, to seeing you at our next meeting and other up and coming events. Our officers have promised to lead this post to new levels of accomplishments and this cannot be done without setting achievable goals and cooperation of members at large.

In the words of former President John F. Kennedy, "Ask not what the post can do for you, but ask what you can do for the post." Let me reiterate what I have said in previous newsletters. Our obligation, remember, is to the VFW/KVC Post 2230. We have a number of outstanding events coming up in the future. Our veterans Day services, Thanksgiving food for the needy program, our holiday gift packages for our troops in Iraq and our annual Christmas party, just to name a few.

We must work together as a team and we can't be a team or be considered family without communication from everyone. To you, my fellow VFW/KVC members, I am asking you to seriously take into consideration that family relationship we have been working so hard to achieve. Remember, a happy family is made up of joy, memories, closeness and caring for one another. We, as members, must spread our warmth and affection for one another, share good times, laughter and pride, commitment and love. This is what will make our post a happy family.

With all these attributes we can and will be a winner. Last, but not least, let's not forget to share with our community that we, here at Post 2230, are not just card-carrying members. We are family.

A PEELING WRINKLE-REMOVAL OPTION

Compared with laser resurfacing and microdermabrasion, chemical peel may seem downright low-tech. However, light peels are quick and effective, giving those with dull skin, tired tans, and overactive oil glands a complexion with a fresh glow. While microdermabrasion mechanically lifts off a thin layer of old skin cells over several sessions, a single superficial peel sweeps away old skin cells and leaves skin baby-smooth with a glow that lasts for weeks. Chemical peels can be customized to patient needs with the selection specific ingredients and their strength. Depth of peeling action may also depend on factors such as how long solutions remain on the skin and whether they are lightly, heavily, or vigorously applied.

We hope that you have found today's column both interesting and informing. If you would like more information about cosmetic treatments for your skin, call 908-925-8877. We provide comprehensive medical and cosmetic skin care for men and women and always ensure our patients will receive the finest professional skin care possible. The office is conveniently located at 822 North Wood Ave, Linden. New patients are always welcome.

P.S. While superficial peels commonly utilize alpha hydroxy acids (AHAs), a trichloroacetic acid (TCA) peel is stronger and has a greater depth of peel compared to AHAs. Try our new Vi Peel for radiant, more youthful skin in just one week! To find out more about the Vi Peel, go to www.vipeel.com.

Electric Prices Deregulated in NJ Businesses and residents save up to 15% monthly and receive a $50 Rebate check www.localsourceenergy.com

Thanks to an innovative and comprehensive initiative from the state of New Jersey, you are now able to choose who you buy energy from. As with the Phone Company and Cable Television, the state of New Jersey has deregulated electric service. While your local utility, Jersey Central Power and Light or Public Service Gas and Electric will continue to be responsible for maintaining the existing network of wires, pipes and poles, other licensed suppliers can now provide the electricity at lower rates. It's the same electricity only at a lower price. The relationship with your business or household does not change and your utility company will continue to bill you each month and service your account. And, if you have a service contract with either PSE&G or JCP&L or if you are enrolled in budget billing, nothing changes. Except every dollar saved goes directly into your pocket. LocalSourceEnergy.com and Verde Energy are offering all businesses and residences in NJ reduced pricing which can lead to documented savings of up to 15% a month or more on the supply portion of your electric bill. Additionally, a $50 check is issued to each business or residence for signing up. There are no contracts to sign and the enrollment takes just minutes. This is so simple and easy. Now purchasing energy is comparable to shopping in the supermarket with your supermarket discount card. If you are buying Corn Flakes and the person in front of you is buying Corn Flakes, you use your supermarket discount card and pay much less for the same Corn Flakes. It's now the same situation in purchasing your energy. You now have a choice and you have the discount card, it's called LocalSourceEnergy.com. Customers can visit the website to enroll and receive information about their $50 rebate check and discount of up to 15% or more. All of this is at no cost to the business or consumer. From your Internet browser enter www.localsourceenergy.com. It's that simple and you'll see the savings each and every month for your home or business in your wallet.

ty came in second with 260. Middlesex followed with 209, and Passaic came in last with 186.

Assistant prosecutors, who are attorneys, review all incoming criminal complaints, present cases to the grand jury, file motions and briefs with the court and ultimately, prepare and present criminal cases for trial in Superior Court. Their salaries depend on whether they are experienced and how long they have been in a particular prosecutor's office.

Union County had the most assistant prosecutors with 62, with Bergen County having 52, Passaic 43 and Middlesex also with 43. However, when it came to comparing assistant prosecutor salaries over $100,000, Bergen County topped all with 36, Passaic, 29, Union County with 26 and Middlesex with 20. The lowest salary for an assistant prosecutor was found in Bergen County at $54,300, while Middlesex came in at $57,079, Union County at $58,399 and Passaic, $63,132.

County investigators play a critical role in all prosecutor offices because they investigate all indictable crimes. Their duties also include the interview and interrogation of victims, suspects and witnesses, use of forensic science and expert opinions required in the prosecution of criminal cases.

Union County came in fourth among the four counties with 68 investigators, 26 of which make more than $100,000 a year. Passaic County was first with 79 investigators, 21 making more than $100,000, while Bergen was second with 78, 70 of that number making more than $100,000. Middlesex came in third with 75 investigators, 31 making over $100,000 annually.

SERVING HIS COUNTRY — Lt. Col. Christopher Sands of Cranford, right, recently relinquished command of the 3rd Battalion, 312th Regiment after a three year tour. Lt. Gen. Stultz, chief of the Army Reserve and commanding general of the United States Army Reserve Command, left, presided over the ceremony. Sands was presented the Meritorious Service Medal and the Military Outstanding Volunteer Service Medal, while his wife, Faith, was presented the Commanders award for Public Service.

New UCC president greets students as school starts

By Paul Greulich
Staff Writer

New Union County College President Margaret McMenamin welcomed students back to school last week with a taste of the student-centered leadership strategies she plans to employ in the coming years.

On Sept. 1, the first day of school, all staff members were prominently wearing red and white pins with the words "ask me" printed on them to show their support for any students struggling with first-day uncertainties.

McMenamin replaces Thomas Brown, who served as school president for 20 years.

McMenamin, who has had many opportunities to meet and speak with Brown, praised his work at the school.

"He was a terrific leader and worked to transform the face of Union County College," she said.

McMenamin hopes to transform the school still further with a new "refocusing" of the institute on the students.

This will include making sure student services are doing everything they can to meet students' needs and ensuring teachers are accessible and well-known among students.

Margaret McMenamin

"In this fast-paced technological world we can't forget that we're dealing with people," McMenamin said.

McMenamin previously served as the Executive Vice President of Educational and Student Services of Brookdale Community College in Lincroft, a position she had for five years.

"Dr. McMenamin possesses the necessary talents and insight to lead Union County College at a challenging time, both for institutions of higher education in general and our college in particular," said Victor M. Richel, chairman of the College's Board of Trustees.

"This is a time of expanding diversity in both the student population and in academic focus, evolving occupational demands of the community, growing competition for funding and increasing technological opportunities," Richel added

Under McMenamin's leadership, the college will be working toward technology-enhanced classrooms where technology will supplement instruction rather than relying solely on the teachers' verbal or written instructions.

McMenamin pointed out that today's students have access to copious amounts of information that comes to them from a wide variety of sources.

"Students learn differently these days. They have different challenges and experiences than we did when we were in school," she explained.

McMenamin said she hopes to improve students' information literacy and critical thinking, skills that require problem-solving and initiative.

McMenamin was born in New York City and grew up in Ocean County. She attended Temple University as an undergraduate, and the University of Scranton and Lehigh University as a masters student. UCC is the third community college she has worked at.

McMenamin said the position of president at Union County College interested her, in part, because of the school's unique history.

Union County College was the first of the state's county colleges, founded in 1933 to help unemployed people get jobs during the Great Depression.

She was also attracted to Union County's racial and socio-economic diversity as well as the variety of great parks, cities, food and people in the area.

"This county has everything," said UCC's new leader.

McMenamin will oversee a college with an annual operating budget of close to $70 million. The school has a full-time faculty of 180 and an adjunct faculty of about 300.

The school operates four campuses in Union County in Cranford, Elizabeth, Plainfield and Scotch Plains. Union County College, previously known as Union County Junior College, Union Junior College and Union College, traces its founding to the opening of Union County Junior College on Oct. 16, 1933 in Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, with an enrollment of 243 evening students. It was the first of six Emergency Relief Administration projects in New Jersey. It also maintains an associate degree program with the Trinitas School of Nursing in Elizabeth and the Muhlenberg Harold B. and Dorothy A. Snyder Schools in Plainfield.

Union County College serves 6,300 full-time and 6,600 part-time students. McMenamin said enrollment is up.

"Our challenge is capacity — finding room and parking and spaces," McMenamin said. "And we will meet that demand."

Hillside mom able to save lives and soothe souls by listening

When her teenage daughter's friends came over to hang out, they would often linger at the kitchen table with her, open up, and share their stories.

That's how PSEG employee Michelle Brady made an important discovery.

"The kids would tell me 'I don't talk to my own mother like this,'" said the Hillside mom. "It felt good to know they were comfortable to talk. I always wanted to create a safe and accepting place for my daughter and her friends. And I discovered all I had to do was listen."

Brady's commitment to listening has set her on an important new path in life. The senior administrative assistant in the human resources department at PSEG in Newark regularly soothes souls and saves lives by volunteering for CONTACT We Care, the 24-hour caring and crisis hotline based in Westfield.

"When my daughter's friends would say, 'You should be a counselor, Miss Michelle,' it got me thinking. I realized that the ability to listen is a skill I can use at work, at home and in all areas of my life. Through PSEG's Volunteer Match Program I discovered CONTACT We Care and signed up to take their Volunteer Training because I wanted to learn how to really listen and make a difference."

After nearly two years answering calls to the hotline, Brady said the rewards are countless. "The most rewarding part is when a caller expresses appreciation and says they feel better. They thank me for being there for them."

CONTACT We Care handles more than 11,000 calls a year from men, women and teens who are lonely, depressed, stressed or suicidal. The 35 year-old non-profit was recognized as the Best Statewide Volunteer Organization by the New Jersey Governor's Office of Volunteerism.

Born and raised in Scotch

Plains, Brady attended Berkeley Business School following graduation from Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School in 1985. She has worked in varying positions at PSEG for nearly 13 years. "I'm a social person and I love to connect with people," said Brady. "It feels so good to help them and make a difference."

"Volunteering on the crisis hotline gives me great perspective," said Brady. "I realize that whatever I'm going through isn't so big after all. We tend to make problems bigger than what they are sometimes."

More and more often, Brady answers the hotline phone and finds a caller without hope, considering suicide. "It's tremendously powerful to be able to be there for someone in crisis and help them through their dark moment. It feels so good to connect and touch others in such a significant way — to help another human being."

Brady's experiences at CONTACT have inspired her to go back to school to study psychology. She's begun looking into different programs and options. "I'd love to enhance my skills and learn even more about the human mind. It's taken time and many different experiences to get me to this point, and it's all coming together now," said Brady.

For information about volunteering for CONTACT We Care, call 908-301-1899 or visit the website www.contactwecare.org.

Computer classes

The Investors Savings Bank Foundation has awarded a charitable grant of $5,000 to the Senior Citizens Council of Union County, a non-profit organization dedicated to improving the lives of older Americans living in the region. The council offers a variety of services that include medical and dental referral services, residential maintenance and sponsored day trips, health fairs and educational events. A new program is the Computer Connection for Seniors, a classroom-based training series designed to help senior citizens become more computer literate. The grant funds will be put toward costs associated with the program, such as equipment and instructor fees. "Helping seniors become more comfortable with computer technology will make their lives easier in numerous areas," said Richard E. Stone, executive director of the Senior Citizens Council. "For example, it can improve the way they communicate with family and friends. By making information easily accessible, it can also provide seniors with faster answers to questions on social security and health care."

Amid our current culture of slick hype, inflated buzz and paper-only promises, it's especially nice to stumble upon a restaurant with old-fashioned values and solidly good food. Plus $10 takeout dinner specials that seem too good to be true.

Bel Paese is not a northern Italian restaurant, with all those attendant upscale yuppie connotations, nor is it a New Jersey red-sauce Italian-American restaurant. Rather, it is the kind of place you could have found years ago in New York's Little Italy, when the neighborhood was less of a tourist destination and occupied more real estate. These are the kinds of authentic restaurants where Italian soccer fans go, where people still speak the mother tongue (both in the kitchen and in the dining room), where both food and family matter.

Assemblyman Jerry Green is welcomed to Clark's Arthur L. Johnson High School by Assistant Principal David Oliveira, Superintendent Kenneth Knops and Principal Rick Delmonaco.

District-wide convocation begins Clark school year

The 2010-2011 school year officially commenced in the Clark Public School District with a morning Superintendent's Convocation in the Arthur L. Johnson High School Auditorium facilitated by newly appointed Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Knops.

At the District-wide Convocation, administration was introduced, Teachers of the Year for 2010 recognized, new staff members introduced, tenure certificates were awarded to newly tenured teachers by administration, new changes in the district were discussed, the superintendent's focus for the upcoming school year was shared, and Director of Curriculum and Instruction Vince Caputo presented a "Tools for Success" overview to staff. The morning concluded with a motivational welcome by state Assemblyman Jerry Green, who represents portions of Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties. Green was introduced by Knops to an ovation by the more than 200 staff members in attendance. As part of his talk, Green thanked the teachers and administration for their commitment to youngsters, praised the district for the positive and forward thinking orientation of the morning convocation and volunteered to return to district for the purpose of having an open dialogue with administration, faculty and staff and bring the views shared back to the legislature and governor.

Commenting on the assemblyman's address, Knops remarked, "Assemblyman Green's talk was inspirational, motivational and extremely timely. He thanked our staff for their commitment to children and set an extremely positive tone for the start of the school year."

Summit CSA attends meeting on education

Nathan N. Parker, Summit Schools Superintendent will speak at the Sept. 14 meeting of the Summit Old Guard at the New Providence Municipal Center. He will show examples of this change and how he intends to move Summit schools in a stronger international environment.

Parker grew up on a dairy farm in Georgia. He earned his undergraduate degree at Kenyon College, his master's degree at the University of Chicago and his doctorate at Columbia Teachers College. All

Audience gets 'lost' in Kean's newest production

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

From the moment Warner Miller utters his first words in "Lost Boy Found in Whole Foods," the audience at the Zella Fry Theater at Kean University in Union, had already fallen head over heels in love with him.

At least, that's the way it happened last Saturday afternoon during the Premiere Stages' and Playwrights Theatre of New Jersey's presentation of a stark, tremendously jolting drama that will move the heartfelt emotions of every theatergoer, who bears witness to its actors and its theme.

Award-winning playwright Tammy Ryan has captured the essence of humanity as her characters attempt to bond and struggle to find a better life, which appears to be inadvertently hidden just around the corner. And it takes an excellent group of actors — every single one of the six — to prove her point.

The title of the play, "Lost Boy Found in Whole Foods," may sound a bit odd to some folks, but it is resourceful enough to attract appreciative audiences. Originally, the production was staged as a workshop vehicle last summer at Premiere Stages and as a reading at Playwrights Theatre last December. Now, it has been developed into a full-fledged dramatic offering what has been and will continue to intrigue audiences throughout the area through Sept. 19.

The story is set in a suburb of Pittsburgh in 2003 and revolves around a recently divorced woman, Christine, who resides with her teenage daughter, Alex, a confused youngster to the point of revolt. One day, while Christine is shopping at Whole Foods, she encounters a charming young man from Southern Sudan, Gabriel, who sells vegetables in the store.

During a conversation, he explains that he is one of the "Lost Boys of Sudan," a group of about 17,000 boys, who walked hundreds of miles to Ethiopia, then to Kenya, after their villages had been destroyed during Sudanese's second Civil War. Gabriel, who was brought to America by a Catholic charitable organization, works several jobs to send money to his homeland and also attends college classes. Much to Alex's chagrin, her mother arranges to provide room in her home for Gabriel. Gabriel's gratitude knows no bounds, but when he brings a lazy friend, Panther, over to the house, Alex is revolted.

Christine even confers with those who have helped Gabriel in one way or another — Michael, who is a former member of Catholic Charities and Segel, who aids and abets people from charitable organizations — so that she can better understand his needs.

John Pietrowski, with a formidable task before him, has directed "Lost Boy" with compassion and a true understanding of human frailties. He is to be congratulated for a job above and beyond a director's capacities.

Assisting him in his endeavors are six marvelous actors. They are led by Miller in the title role, who manages to enchant an audience as he runs the gamut of emotions as Gabriel, whose attempts at a better future, an advanced education and a place to call home with his own family, are muted.

Miller, who has a great future in the theater, can communicate with an audience just by a manipulative, genuine grin.

Then there's Kim Zimmer, a fine actress, who portrays Christine, a caring human being with a tendency to help the entire race, if that was at all possible. But then, Zimmer is derived from television's soaps, so she has plenty of experience.

Alexandra Rivera is absolutely wonderful as the confused, rebellious Alex. She brings a reality to the role that has mothers in the audience reliving difficult moments with their own children.

Jamil Mangan does a powerful job as the rebellious Panther, who is desperate to retain his life with his own family. David Farrington, as Michael, provides sincerity and depth in a world gone wrong and his futile attempt to fix it. Trish McCall is especially convincing as Segel, whose concern for helping needy people becomes overwhelming.

For those who love the theater and its capacity to entertain and reach into the deepest part of emotionalism, "Lost Boy Found in Whole Foods" is one's perfect cup of tea. See it before it leaves the Zella Fry Theater in the Vaughn Ames Building at Kean.

It's an experience one will not forget in a long while; the story, the characters and particularly the appropriate background drums and African musical vocals that accommodate many scenes.

FILM FESTIVAL — 'Nowhere Boy' starring Anne-Marie Duff and Aaron Johnson, and 20 more not-yet-released movies will premiere in Filmmakers Symposium's Arthouse Film Festival beginning in September at AMC Loews Mountinside. For information, call 1-800-531-9416 or visit www.PrivateScreenings.org.

The Hot Spot

Look for the yellow awning and a good time awaits. The Hot Spot is a relatively new restaurant located in Roselle Park. Myself & several friends decided to visit this eatery one afternoon. Upon entering & taking a seat while waiting for the menu we loved the decor. The owners are movie buffs and all types of unusual movie memorabilia adorn the walls. The menu is extensive, offering so many choices. We decided to almost try to taste a little bit of everything. For starters we ordered beef empanadas, beef, chicken and pork meat sticks and salad. The beef empanadas were little pockets of heaven consisting of nicely seasoned beef enclosed in a crispy dough pillow. The meat sticks equally as good as the spiced meat was barbecued to perfection served with a flavorful sauce. The salad offered all the freshness of summer - crisp lettuce, ripe tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, olives served with the house dressing. Next we ordered sub sandwiches, stuffed shells, steak and rice. The subs were delicious made of quality meat, lettuce, tomato, spices, mayo, dressing on very fresh bread. The stuffed shells arrived in a delicious gravy topped with golden mozzarella. The steak and rice was superb. Steak perfectly cooked and super yellow rice. No room for dessert but cheesecake and chocolate mousse was on board.

We spoke with the charming owners upon completion of the meal. The proprietors' mission is to provide great food, courteous service and a fun atmosphere.

We also learned catering is available at a reasonable price and many packages are available. Whether you dine in, take out or have it delivered The Hot Spot sizzles! Hours: Monday-Closed, Tuesday-Thursday: 11am-9pm, Friday: 11am-10pm, Saturday: 11am-10pm, Sunday: 11 am - 9 pm. See us on the web www.ILoveHotSpot.net

It's the perfect time to invest in phlox for your garden

Sometimes you have to recognize the obvious, and in my case right now, the obvious is tall garden phlox. I see it everywhere I go. The other day I visited a historic garden in the midst of renovation. Clouds of blossoming phlox dominated the old kitchen garden. Closer to home, I varied the route of my usual daily walk and discovered several front yard landscapes dominated by multi-colored phlox. This morning when I opened one of my standard garden reference books, the first page I hit was "Phlox."

The phlox in question is Phlox paniculata, a North American native that occurs naturally from New York state south to Georgia and as far west and south as Illinois and Arkansas. Like most other popular natives, it has been greatly improved by hybridizers. In the garden, the plants are hard to miss, as they grow 2 to 4 feet tall, with elongated, alternate leaves and glowing, five-petaled flowers in shades ranging from white to deep rose and red, with lots of cultivars in the lavender/purple/blue-purple range. There are even orange cultivars, though they never look like real phlox to me. Happy phlox form sturdy, fragrant clumps that are truly impressive when they bloom in mid-August. American settlers no doubt encountered wild Phlox paniculata shortly after arriving on this continent. By the early 18th century, it had traveled to England and in 1730; it was reportedly blooming there in the garden of Dr. James Sherrard, apothecary and plant collector. The first written description of Phlox paniculata by an American was made by Philadelphia nurseryman and plant collector John Bartram in 1737. The species still blooms today in Bartram's restored garden. By the mid to late 19th century, there were more than 800 named selections of phlox on the market. When I think about that, I am astounded by the plethora of available choices, but also wonder if some of those 800 varieties looked so similar that they were indistinguishable from each other.

By Elisabeth Ginsburg

Phlox fit right in with the asters that are just starting to bloom as the phlox conclude their run. Tall asters are about the same height as tall phlox and the white-pink-blue-purple color scheme matches as well. Combining phlox and asters in one bed is a good way to ensure an ongoing supply of late summer color.

Phlox is a sun lover and while it grows in just about any soil, it does better in rich, well-amended earth. To prolong its season of bloom, deadhead the top flower panicles promptly when the petals fall. This encourages side shoots to produce more flowers. You may be able to find potted Phlox paniculata in your favorite garden center. If not, try ForestFarm, 990 Tetherow Rd., Williams, OR 97544; 541-846-7269, www.forestfarm.com. The initial catalog costs, but subsequent editions will be sent free of charge.

ARIES, March 21 to April 20: Aries, it will be difficult to keep your emotions in check this week, especially when someone is attempting to ruffle your feathers. Keep a smile on your face and try.

TAURUS, April 21 to May 21: Not much is keeping your ego in check this week, Taurus. Therefore, you may find some people are staying away, for fear of being in your shadow.

GEMINI, May 22 to June 21: Gemini, throw a party and invite your closest friends. You deserve some time to simply kick back and relax this week. If a party isn't in the cards, go out for dinner.

CANCER, June 22 to July 22: It may be time to expand your family, Cancer. For those who are not ready for more kids, a new pet can add a different atmosphere to the house. Visit a local shelter for some prospects.

LEO, July 23 to Aug. 23: Leo, take advantage of an opportunity to go out and socialize with friends. Just don't burn the candle at both ends. Wait until the week-end for further festivities.

VIRGO, Aug. 24 to Sept. 22: Virgo, normally you are very mild-mannered. But, lately, everything sets you on edge. It is important for your health to calm down and avoid stressful situations.

SAGITTARIUS, Nov. 23 to Dec. 21: Sagittarius, there's no rest for the weary, and you certainly are weary. That's because you have been trying to do too much with little to no help. Things must change.

AQUARIUS, Jan. 21 to Feb. 18: Aquarius, be careful when offering an opinion that might be taken as negative. It might be best to say nothing at all for the time being. Look forward to Wednesday.

PISCES, Feb. 19 to March 20: Pisces, be extra diligent when making a big purchase this week. You need to put in a little more homework before sealing the deal.

Mobley feels division deserves respect

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

Rahway is one of four football teams in the Mid-State 39 Conference's East B Division that has played in a state championship game in the past two seasons.

"When we were in the Mountain Division, people used to thumb their noses at us," seventh-year Rahway head coach Gary Mobley said. "But we've all been there and prevalent and making a lot of noise."

"It doesn't surprise me, the level of success the teams in our division have had."

Rahway is the lone Group 3 school in the division this year, with the other five Group 2.

"There are very good coaches in our division and our kids are taught the right things," Mobley said. "The level of play shows by our records and presence in the post season."

Rahway, Gov. Livingston and Johnson reached state championship games two years ago, while Hillside fell one score shy of doing the same. Summit won North 2, Group 2 last year for the first time since 1994, while Cranford - seeking its first playoff season since 2004 - has many returning starters back in fold this year.

"It's a very highly-competitive division," Mobley said. "It's been that way for years. Summit had a rebirth and Hillside too and GL is always in the mix. Johnson has been in the mix for years and Cranford is bringing back a lot of skill guys. The division needs to be recognized for the quality of programs in it. I'm glad people are starting to see that and we're getting a little more credit for it."

Rahway held on to defeat Johnson 14-13 in overtime in Clark two years ago on Thanksgiving, enabling Hillside to win the Mountain Valley Conference's final Mountain Division championship on a tiebreaker. The tiebreaker was Hillside defeating Rahway head to head, as each team finished with just one division loss. Hillside's was to Johnson.

Last year, Rahway and Summit both finished 4-0 against Mid-State 39 Conference-Mountain Division foes, but Summit was awarded the Mountain Division title because of a better overall record - the Hilltoppers finished 12-0 for the first time in their history.

Rahway and Summit were the only teams in the Mountain Division last year not to play each other. This year everyone plays everyone within all six divisions of the Mid-State 39 Conference.

At the end of last year, with Rahway playing so well defensively, the matchup everyone wanted to see but couldn't was Rahway vs. Summit.

Rahway gave up the least amount of points of any Union County school - yielding only 112 in 10 games - while Summit scored the most - producing a whopping 520 in 12 contests.

This season the teams will face each other in their division opener - set for Sept. 25 at 1 p.m. at Rahway's Veterans Field.

Rahway will first play at North Plainfield Sept. 10 at 7 p.m. and then host Scotch Plains Sept. 17 at 2:30 p.m.

Summit will first host Voorhees Sept. 11 at 1 p.m. and then remain at home for a game scheduled against Warren Hills Sept. 17 at 3:30 p.m. Both of those contests will take place at Summit's Tatlock Field.

IT WAS 25 YEARS AGO WHEN MOBLEY PLAYED ON ONE OF THE BEST TEAMS UNION COUNTY EVER PRODUCED

For the first time in 1984, Union won North 2, Group 4 with an undefeated record, going 11-0.

The Farmers did the same in 1985 and, again, defeated Montclair in the N2, G4 championship game.

Mobley was a key player for Union on both of those championship squads.

In the 1985 sectional final - one year after Union defeated Montclair 34-13 at home in the 1984 title contest - Union and Montclair met again on a very cold day at Bloomfield's Foley Field. The Farmers came back to top the Mounties 13-8.

It was the fourth straight year Union and Montclair hooked up in the N2, G4 final, with Union winning in 1982, 1984 and 1985 and Montclair in 1983.

Those were the days when Union County ruled North Jersey, Section 2. Union County swept the section in 1985, with Union winning Group 4, Linden Group 3, Hillside Group 2 and Brearley Regional Group 1 over Roselle Park.

Union County won two of the group sizes in 1984, with Rahway also capturing Group 3. That was the last year Rahway won a playoff championship.

"I don't feel any different other than I am more responsible and accountable for my actions," said Mobley, who was a two-year starter as a junior and senior for head coach Lou Rettino. "Those were times that I cherished and those high school years are a part of who I am and who I've become."

"I fell in love with football, the game and all it entails. That's why I wanted to become a coach. I want our players to experience what I experienced as young man, building on memories for the rest of their lives."

"It was a blessing to be part of that whole thing, to live in a great community like Union. Playing Pop Warner football in Union, you knew the tradition as a young kid."

"I played for a guy (Rettino) that was a legend and you can't put a price on that. It was the luck of the draw. I could have lived anywhere else."

"Union was a juggernaut. Things were done the right way. We were taught the fundamentals and by coaches named (Fred) Stengel, (Carmen) Guarino, (John) Quinn and (Jim) Benedict to name a few. Guys like Cosmo Lorusso (the head coach at Roxbury who played for Union in the early 1980s) I heard about before I got to high school and he is a coach now."

"They were passionate, committed and knowledgeable coaches. What they passed on to you as a young man, you had no choice but to be successful."

"We did what they told us to do and it worked. I use some of the same philosophies and scheme techniques 25 years later and they have worked."

"The game has not changed much at all. Offenses might have changed a little bit, with the spread and things of that nature, but the basic things are still the same - you need to block, tackle, catch and run the ball. If you don't do those things, you won't win."

Roselle Rams full of potential to put together solid campaign

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

ROSELLE - The Rams have won more games the past two years than the three previous combined.

The first winning season since 1998 was established two years ago, with Roselle also coming close the past two years to qualifying for the state playoffs for the first time since 2000.

There is potential again for Roselle to put together a solid campaign.

"If we keep implementing our program and keep doing what we're doing we can continue to build," said first-year head coach Lou Grasso Jr. "We hope to do the right thing and that it pans out on Saturdays."

Roselle's second game scrimmage was at Millburn Aug. 28. The Rams were to face another Essex County foe in their game-scrimmage, which was scheduled to be played at Columbia last Friday morning.

Then Roselle will be the only Union County team this season that will not open this weekend. This is the Rams' bye week.

Returning starters on offense include senior quarterback Satir Stevenson, senior wide receivers Clinton Coffey and Thomas Taylor, senior running back Darius Mayers and senior fullback Karlbuto Alexandre, who started at left guard last season.

Stevenson is a two-year starter at QB. "Satir is athletic and a very smart kid, with a GPA over 3.0," Grasso said. "He's learning the system quickly and is a great leader."

Mayers paced Roselle in rushing last year with more than 1,000 yards according to Grasso and is also ready to make his senior season a special one.

"He put on some good weight in the off season and is more of a physical back," Grasso said of the 6-foot, 185-pounder. "He has great speed and is a real prospect."

Grasso likes what he has seen so far from his offense.

"I think we have a chance to be pretty explosive," Grasso said. "The guys up front are starting to get it. They're fast and physical."

Part of that explosiveness is the ability of Coffey to catch the ball and run past opposing defenders with it.

"Clinton is smooth and talented," Grasso said. "He can do it all as a receiver. He can also play running back and, in a pinch, quarterback."

"He can break tackles, his yards after catch are outstanding and he has good hands and runs good routes."

"He's a great athlete. He's fast and tough to handle on the field."

Grasso said that Stevenson also provides leadership on defense from his outside linebacker position.

"He's a stabilizing influence on both sides of the ball," Grasso said.

"We also have three pretty good athletes in our secondary and Alexandre is a very physical, attacking type of linebacker."

NOTES: While every schedule known to mankind has Roselle's first game vs. New Providence slated for Sept. 17, the Roselle athletic department has it scheduled for Sept. 16.

The game is Roselle's season- and home-opener.

"It's on Thursday, Sept. 16," Grasso said. "The other schedules are wrong."

Roselle's game on Oct. 9 against Dayton at Union is a 4 p.m. start because of SATs that day.

While Roselle is placed in Central Jersey, Group 2 along with other Union County schools Johnson, Cranford and Gov. Livingston, the Rams are situated in the Mid-State 39 Conference's East C Division along with Group 1 schools Bound Brook, Brearley, New Providence, Dayton and Roselle Park.

The Rams do play three Group 2 schools - Hillside, Johnson and Bernards - and also Group 1 Manville as their four non-division opponents.

Cranford Cougars should be very hungry to show progress

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

CRANFORD — You can make a case that Cranford should be the hungriest team in its division this year.

The Cougars were primed and ready for a standout season last year, but expectations and their record fell short of a winning campaign.

Cranford did conclude with wins over non-conference foes Voorhees and Carteret, but finishing 4-6 while not beating a single division foe is not good enough.

Cranford was 0-5 vs. division rivals Hillside, Rahway, Johnson, Summit and Governor Livingston. Four of those teams went on to playoff seasons, with Rahway the exception, although the Indians still finished 7-3.

Last year, the Cranford boys' soccer team captured its first county championship and then the boys' basketball team won a conference crown — the Union County Conference's Mountain Division title — for the first time since 1970.

Then the baseball team captured the program's sixth county championship and third state title — both times as the underdog and with wins over favored Scotch Plains along the way.

Now, with the necessary talent and experience in fold, it's time for the football team to step it up and challenge for the program's fifth state playoff season and first since 2004.

Erik Rosenmeier, in his sixth year at the helm, began to talk about what his team needs to do in order to succeed this year after its home scrimmage on Aug. 27 against Morris County foe Mendham.

"Offensively we moved the ball," Rosenmeier said. "We made a couple of mistakes, but we moved it, we moved it, we moved it."

"However that's not good enough in our conference."

The same six teams — Summit, Rahway, Hillside, GL, Johnson and Cranford — are in the Mid-State 39 Conference's East B Division this year, with everyone playing everyone. That was not the case last year, with four of the six teams playing everyone and Cranford the only team in the Mountain Division without a division victory.

Summit and Rahway both went 4-0, but did not play each other. Summit was awarded the division crown based on a better overall record as the Hilltoppers went 12-0 and captured North 2, Group 2 for the first time since 1994.

"We're going to play against people where first downs aren't going to be enough," Rosenmeier said. "We have to score points."

The Cougars scored only 62 points in their five division games last year, including an overtime loss at Johnson. At Johnson is where Cranford will begin its season this year, with the teams to meet tomorrow night at 7 in Clark.

"There are athletes in our conference that are going to score immediately," Rosenmeier said. "In the Summit game last year, Summit had nothing with 28 seconds left in the first quarter, then it was 7-7. Then two minutes into the second quarter they took the lead at 14-7."

"That's how it goes in our conference, so we just can't be satisfied with moving the football. We have to get in the end zone and we can't give up the big play."

"They (Mendham) took it to us there for awhile and we can't have that if we expect to be successful."

Cranford ended up finishing with 218 points total in 10 games last year for a three-touchdown average. However, the 12.4 average against division foes needs to increase in order for the Cougars — who run a spread option offense — to have a shot at beating those teams.

"I was disappointed with that," Rosenmeier said. "I think sometimes — even ourselves, whether it's our fans or whatever — people have the misconception that this (spread option) is like a three yards and a cloud of dust offense."

"Really, when we're running option, we should have these plays blocked up for big gains if we are able to block the people in front of us."

"Georgia Tech led the nation last year in plays over 50 yards. Most people don't think of an offense like that, but we've got to get the big plays out of this offense and sometimes I think we're content with four or five or six yards if we don't finish blocks."

Union Farmers have defense full of top-notch performers

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

UNION – There will come a time in the season where the Farmers find their stride offensively.

Head coach Brian Sheridan, now in his fourth year at the helm, hopes that crisp execution arrives sooner than later.

However, at the moment, Sheridan is very high on the performance of his team's defense.

"On defense I feel like we might have five, first team, all county kids in our front seven," Sheridan said.

Those players the coach lauds are senior tackle Dan Laguerre (6-3, 280), senior end Eric Simonson (6-3, 225), senior nose guard Drake Harris (6-1, 260), senior middle linebacker Everett Johnson (5-10, 215) and junior strong linebacker Taylor Graves (6-2, 210).

Laguerre is a two-year starter who will be seeking to play on defense at the next level as well.

"He spent his sophomore year going up against Robert Lisowski (who is now playing at Toledo), which made him a great player," Sheridan said. "He's such a strong athlete.

"In the weight room he's over 1,100 pounds in ¾ lifts, which is something you don't see until you get to college.

"He's coachable, very intelligent and has a 3.5 GPA. When you coach him he absorbs things."

Simonson is also a returning starter.

"He's as good as anybody at end right now and he had a couple of sacks tonight," Sheridan said after his Farmers hosted North Bergen, Paterson Kennedy and Shabazz in a quad scrimmage Aug. 25 at Cooke Memorial Field.

"We feel like Harris is one of those guys because of his presence on the inside and his strength levels," Sheridan said.

"Because of the way he's progressed this year, we think Graves has a shot."

Johnson, a three-year starter, will continue playing football in the Ivy League at Yale University.

"Everett is as good as anybody, I think, in the county at linebacker because he has three years of experience," Sheridan said.

"He's fast and he's explosive and he's another bright kid. He's going to Yale. He has a 5.0 GPA. He speaks German fluently.

"He could have gone to Harvard. He could have gone to Columbia, but chose Yale. He made his decision in the summer, so we're excited about that. He's accepted at Yale and has a roster spot waiting for him. We're just hoping he's the Valedictorian this year.

"On the field he's like having another coach. He also had some other 1-AA interest and some of the higher academic 1-A schools come in."

Union's 7-0 start last year saw the Farmers give up only 65 points and shut out three opponents. Laguerre, Simonson, Johnson and Graves started on that defensive unit.

"We're going to rely on our defense early on in the season until we can really identify who we are offensively," Sheridan said.

Succeeding James Daniels at quarterback is senior Chris Foreman.

"Chris is more in the mold of Dion Nesmith from two years ago, where he's athletic, he can make plays with his feet, he can attack teams on the edge and he can throw the football," Sheridan said.

"He's another basketball player that we have playing quarterback for us."

Backing him up is sophomore Doug Carter, who showed poise and confidence in throwing two touchdown passes against Shabazz during one session of Union's first scrimmage.

"He did a good job last year on JV and we're excited to get him out here and see how he progresses as the year goes along," Sheridan said.

Last year Union had the senior threat of Daniels throwing the ball to standout end Elijah Lee, who is now at Grambling.

"When you have James, who could throw the ball 60 yards through the air and Elijah, who was fast enough to catch it, you become more of a vertical pass team," Sheridan said.

"We're not sure if we're that team yet. We'll see as we progress throughout the summer."

LINDEN TIGERS

Head Coach: Deon Candia, since 2008.

Third season: 10-10 (.500)

Conference: Mid-State 39

Division: East A

Section: North 2, Group 4

Linden's last sectional title: 1985

2009: (5-5)

Tigers in the 2000s: 49-54 (.476)

Cooper Field: Field Turf.

Deon Candia is a 1991 Linden graduate, who was an assistant under Bucky McDonald — who he played for — and Joe Stinson.

This is the 25th anniversary of Linden's only playoff title. The Tigers captured North 2, Group 3 in 1985, beating Scotch Plains at home in the semifinals and West Morris on the road in the final.

Linden Tigers are constantly out to prove they're for real

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

LINDEN — The Tigers are in a stage right now where they constantly have to prove themselves.

This is not a program that can just send out a team and easily expect to win eight, nine or 10 games.

After consecutive 5-5 finishes, third-year head coach Deon Candia — a 1991 Linden graduate — feels he has the Tigers on the right path.

"We have a good core of kids buying into our system here," Candia said. "It comes from the off season, with the kids in the weight room and focused."

Linden got out to a 4-0 start last year, but then lost five straight before ending its season with a 26-20 home triumph over Union.

"These are my kind of kids," Candia said. "They want to do the right thing on and off the field and they're learning to love football."

"They dedicated themselves off the field and that makes me feel good as a coach."

Jaurice Jones started four games at quarterback last year when Trell Myers was out and he is back for what he hopes will be an outstanding senior season.

"Jaurice has some experience and he's a great athlete for us," Candia said. "He gives us an option of running the ball as well as throwing. He's a super competitor."

Candia said that Jones has received an offer from 1-AA school Bryant University.

Backing him up will be sophomore Jeremy Stathum (6-3, 195), whom Candia described as more of a drop back signal-caller.

"He'll stay in the pocket and he's got a very strong arm," Candia said. "He's our future at quarterback."

After a stellar baseball season, senior Will Ingram returns as one of the top running backs in Union County this fall. He rushed for 1,100 yards and averaged five yards a carry last season.

"Will's a great leader for us and a very tough kid," Candia said. "He's also an honor roll student who already qualifies for a scholarship. He also performs well in the classroom and is a great, all-around kid."

Linden averaged 27.25 points in its 4-0 start last year before falling at a team that was under .500 at the time — North Hunterdon — by the score of 21-14.

A 12-7 loss at home to Hunterdon Central followed and then came defeats at home to Westfield 24-7, at Immaculata 42-21 and at home to Franklin 28-21 in overtime in a sectional consolation game.

If Linden is to achieve its first winning season and playoff campaign since 2006, the Tigers must be more consistent on offense.

"We can throw the ball, but we want to build on our running game," Candia said. "We have a pretty experienced offensive line and running game."

Another returning senior running back is Kevin Rodriguez, while junior Ruhann Peele is back at wide receiver after starting in the secondary as a freshman two years ago.

"Ruhann is also our punt returner and kick returner and has super endurance," Candia said. "He can stay on the field all day. He's a true playmaker."

Candia also said that Peele received a verbal offer already from Rutgers, with the Scarlet Knights looking at him as a wide receiver.

"He has some work to do academically, but he has a plan and he's working hard at it," Candia said. "He went to camp at Rutgers over the summer and they were impressed with what they saw of him."

One of the top two-way linemen in the county is senior Austin Frank (6-1, 275), who was an All-County selection a year ago.

"He got bigger, had an excellent wrestling season and his working on his foot work right now," Candia said. "He's also very intelligent and has attracted looks from Holy Cross and Princeton."

"He's very competitive and we're looking for some big things from him this year."

Frank leads a 4-4 defensive scheme that is concentrating on better run coverage.

"We had some issues last year with the run, with some running backs gaining over 200 yards against us," Candia said. "We had some breakdowns and we really stressed that over camp."

"We need to swarm to the ball. We're working on our technique and tackling so that we can cut teams from making big plays."

Dayton Bulldogs have plenty back to best the opposition

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

SPRINGFIELD — Here are some of the more noteworthy firsts that were accomplished by the Bulldogs last season:

- First winning season since 1999 — Dayton's previous one was a 6-4 finish 11 years ago.
- First 8-win season since 1988 — Dayton's previous one was an 8-2 finish 22 years ago.
- First division title since 1988 — Dayton won the Mid-State 39 Conference's Union Division championship. In 1988, the Bulldogs won the Mountain Valley Conference's Mountain Division crown as a Group 2 school.
- First playoff season since 1988 — Dayton's previous one was 22 years ago when it qualified in North 2, Group 2.
- First playoff berth in North 2, Group 1 — Dayton's three previous playoff seasons were in North 2, Group 2 in 1981, 1984 and 1988.
- First win over New Providence since the mid-1980s — I was told either 1984 or 1985.
- First win over Brearley since 1999.

Despite losing talented seniors to graduation such as quarterback John Hoehn, running back Kevin O'Connor and lineman Dan DuBeau, there is plenty of talent back where expectations are high again for the Bulldogs.

Six of the seven returning starters on offense are seniors as are five of the six returning starters on defense.

"We have a senior-dominated team," said fifth-year head coach Joe Goerge. "We know what it takes, but have done nothing yet this year."

Back on defense are senior nose guard Alfonso Cacciatore, Jackson at tackle, Wortman at tackle, Williams at linebacker, senior linebacker Mike Hess and Cioffi at cornerback.

- Oct. 1 at Roselle Park, 7 p.m.
- Oct. 9 Roselle, 4 p.m.
- Oct. 15 at Belvidere, 7 p.m.
- Oct. 23 North Warren, 1 p.m.
- Oct. 29 Pingry, 7 p.m.
- Nov. 5 at South Hunterdon, 7 p.m.

Head coach: Joe Goerge, fifth season
•DAYTON BULLDOGS FOR DECADE OF 2000s: (14-36, .280)
2009 - (8-2), N2, G1 quarterfinals
2008 - (5-5)

"I think with the experience we have, we can be outstanding," Goerge said. "Hopefully, the kids understand what it takes to play at the best possible level."

One of the top freshmen in the county last season, Cioffi will see time at quarterback and running back.

"Anthony's a sophomore, so we'll keep it simple," Goerge said. "He's a hard worker and a good athlete."

Goerge said that Cioffi got banged up a bit during Dayton's first scrimmage at South River and as a result didn't participate Aug. 28 when Dayton was at Johnson along with North Plainfield and Cedar Grove.

"We will run the ball predominantly, but we've been getting better at throwing the ball," Goerge said.

Also to see time at quarterback and running back is Apicella, with junior Mike Fischetti also at the QB position.

"We're strong up front, with three of our top four guys being seniors," Goerge said.

Jackson is the leader on defense.

"It starts with Kareem up front, he anchors the line," Goerge said. "We have experience on the line with Jackson, Wortman, Cacciatore and at linebacker with Williams and Hess."

Jackson (6-2, 250) can halt an opposing offense by not allowing the ball carrier to get by him once he's off his block.

"Kareem has the ability to do it all," Goerge said. "He's strong, quick, has good size for a lineman and runs real well. "He has the chance to be a dominant player."

A three-year starter, Jackson is looking to play on defense at the next level.

Goerge felt Dayton performed better in its second scrimmage. Its game-scrimmage was to be at Robbinsville last Thursday night.

Then a whopper of an opening game will take place at Union's Cooke Memorial Field Saturday at 1 p.m. when Dayton hosts New Providence in a battle of 2009 North 2, Group 1 playoff squads. Both are situated in the same section this year.

For the third straight season, all of Dayton's home games are scheduled to be played at Union.

RAHWAY INDIANS

Head Coach: Gary Mobley, since 2004.

Seventh season: 49-17 (.742)

Conference: Mid-State 39

Division: East B

Section: North 2, Group 3

Rahway's last sectional title: 1984

2009: (7-3)

Gary Mobley is a 1986 Union graduate. He guided Rahway to the Central Jersey, Group 2 semifinals during his first four seasons at the helm and to the North 2, Group 3 final in 2008. As a junior and senior at Union in 1984 and 1985, Mobley started on state championship teams, with the Farmers going 11-0 both of those years.

Rahway Indians continue to be successful on yearly basis

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

RAHWAY — While the Indians may not have a large number of starting players returning, that has never stopped them from continuing to succeed lately.

Although Rahway did not end up qualifying for the Central Jersey, Group 2 playoffs last year, the Indians still posted a very productive 7-3 campaign that included a season-ending six-game winning streak.

Rahway has made the state playoffs five of the past six seasons — reaching at least the semifinals all five years — and has one of the best records among Union County teams the past six years.

Rahway also gave up the least amount of points of any team in Union County last year, surrendering 112 in 10 games, including three shutouts in a row and four total in a five-game span.

One of only two returning two-way starters is senior offensive right tackle and defensive end Osa Igbinosun, who is the fourth and final Igbinosun brother to be a standout player for Rahway. Like his older brothers OG at Marist, Amen at Fordham and Ike at Southern Connecticut State, Osa will be playing at the next level.

"He's being heavily recruited and getting looks from Maine, UMass, Richmond, James Madison and preliminary looks from a couple of 1-A schools like Maryland and Boston College," seventh-year head coach Gary Mobley said.

Igbinosun (6-2, 250) will look to be a senior leader on both sides of the ball.

"He's right in the line of his brothers," Mobley said. "His motor is always running."

"As a tackle he's a run blocker to be reckoned with. At the next level I can see him as a defensive end or a linebacker in a 3-4. He ran a 4.7 automatic time in the 40 dash."

Rahway's other two-way returning starter is senior offensive left guard and defensive end Keith Bumpas.

"Keith's versatility is something we're going to lean on heavily," Mobley said. "He may line up at tight end sometimes or fullback and on defense at end or tackle."

"We feel we'll be able to use that to our advantage."

The other returning starter on offense is senior center Urayoan Garcia.

Taking over the quarterback position is junior Tyler Zihlbauer, who played on the junior varsity last season.

"He's a very athletic and mobile quarterback," Mobley said.

"He has a good, live arm and quick feet. We will try to use his strengths as a weapon."

"We like his demeanor and his work ethic. He's a fit at quarterback similar to the type that Darrion Caldwell was for us."

"He makes plays not only with his arm, but he thinks through the game. He's field smart, which is what we like about him."

Rahway has new varsity skill players in Zihlbauer and fellow juniors Aaron Peters at tight end, Enel Webley at split end, Hakeem Komegay at flanker and Nafee Ariss at fullback. The tailback is senior Al'Raji Winbush.

"We feel as though the success we've had at the sub varsity level should transfer over to the varsity," Mobley said.

"The big question this year is how will our young guys respond?"

"We have juniors at quarterback, flanker and fullback. We'll see if their skill level will translate over to the varsity level."

"They all have playmaking ability and they will be fundamentally sound."

"We also feel good about our offensive line."

The other returning starter on defense is senior cornerback Malik Shell.

"Our philosophy on defense year in and year out does not change," Mobley said. "We focus on what makes us successful, playing stingy and fundamentally sound."

"These guys have played in our system all of their careers, so we hope continuity of the system will lend itself to being very productive on defense."

Summit Hilltoppers confident another title surge is possible

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

SUMMIT - For the first time in 15 years the Hilltoppers are defending North 2, Group 2 champions.

Despite being hit hard by graduation, Summit players are confident that another title run can be obtained and that the Hilltoppers can get back to the North 2, Group 2 final just like the 1995 squad did.

"We're, obviously, looking to have a great season," said senior two-way tackle Austin Jennings. "We're looking as we did last year to go to the state championship game."

"Right now we're focused on Voorhees (Summit's first opponent) and we just want to be 1-0 and take it one game at a time like we did last year. We're trying to do all the right things to make sure we get to Giants Stadium again."

"Last year was a great feeling and we still have a lot of guys coming back that got a lot of experience last year," said senior two-way end Ryan O'Malley. "I'm getting a good vibe too, the same feeling as last year."

Jennings and O'Malley are two of Summit's seven returning starters, with the others being Max Munoz, Sal Liberato, Logan Jeffries and Nick Oristanio.

John Liberato came aboard as the head coach in 2007 and along with a staff that includes former more-than-credible Summit players and coaches took a program that went winless in 2006 and built it back up to one that finished 12-0 for the first time in 2009 en route to the squad's first playoff championship since 1994.

"This year was like we ended practice last year, we're keeping the pedal to the medal," Liberato said. "We're going to do the things that we do best. That's what the scrimmages are for, to find out what we do best."

Summit's first scrimmage was at home against Shore Regional, Bloomfield and Caldwell Tuesday. The Hilltoppers will host Chatham Saturday, Aug. 28 at 10 a.m. and then their game-scrimmage will be at Lakeland Sept. 2 at 5 p.m.

As many as 25 seniors graduated from last year's state championship squad, but there's plenty of upperclassmen this year to continue the program's recent winning ways. Last year was Summit's first winning season since 2003.

When asked on Wednesday at Summit's Media Day if he named captains yet, Liberato said, "we have senior leaders. They are Pete Badgley, Sal Liberato, Austin Jennings, Ryan O'Malley, Nick Oristanio, just to name a few. The cream will rise to the top. We let the leaders lead."

Liberato said on Thursday that Badgley, a two-year starter, has been named the team captain.

"He's done a phenomenal job for us," Liberato said.

Replacing two-year starter Joe Jaskolski at quarterback is junior Ryan Bringewatt. He guided Summit's junior varsity team to a 9-0 record last season. Summit's freshman squad also went 9-0 in 2009.

According to www.summitsports.org, Bringewatt completed 57 of 109 passes (53 percent) for 970 yards last year. He threw 15 touchdown passes and was intercepted seven times.

On the ground, Bringewatt carried 35 times for 227 yards, which came out to an impressive 6.5 average.

"He's a very good runner and an accurate passer," Liberato said.

Liberato also cited the performance of his offensive line.

"I think our strength comes from our three offensive linemen," Liberato said. "We have Munoz back at center for the third year, we have Nick Oristanio back at guard and we have Austin Jennings back at tackle."

"We have two outside guys, Sal (Liberato, the coach's son), who is the fastest kid on the team and then we have (Ryan) O'Malley, who is 6-foot-6. We're going to try to use all of our weapons."

Defense is where Summit improved the most last year, enabling the Hilltoppers to go all the way.

"We have a good nucleus back, starting with our two defensive ends in O'Malley and (Logan) Jeffries," Liberato said. "Those guys really never came off the field last year."

"Then we have Nick Oristanio, who is back for a third year at middle linebacker. He's our master controller. He makes all the calls up front and everything like that."

"We feel we have a good nucleus back."

Johnson Crusaders primed to take next step this season

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

CLARK — Was last year's 6-4 playoff campaign a stepping stone for even bigger and better things for the Crusaders this season?

With the amount of returning starters back on both sides of the ball that could be the case.

Johnson has eight returning starters back on offense, with three of them returning on defense, in addition to several other players who rotated in last year.

"We want to reach our full potential as a team," second-year head coach Nick Gregorio said following his team's first scrimmage session, which was at Group 4 Bridgewater-Raritan and also against Group 3 Roxbury and Group 4 Sayreville. "With the amount of starters we have back, that potential can be pretty substantial."

"Our strengths on offense are our skill players," Gregorio said. "They were major contributors for us last year."

Those players include Franciotti, Ryan, Pace and Fischetti.

"Being in the second year of a new offense, the players have a greater understanding of the system," Gregorio said. "The line is also considerably ahead as far as knowledge of assignment and scheme than it was last year at this point. The linemen are a lot smarter and a lot more confident and know where we're going."

Johnson had a big home scrimmage scheduled against Group 2 North Plainfield and Group 1 schools Dayton and Cedar Grove Aug. 28. The battle for the starting quarterback position was sure to intensify between senior Josh Urbanovich, Fischetti and sophomore Lance Pecina.

"It's an open competition," Gregorio said. "The bottom line is the one that performs and produces the best will be the starter."

"It will be a competition from now until the end of the season."

"We have three guys we can win with who have different strengths and weaknesses."

Urbanovich was the junior varsity quarterback last season.

"Josh is more of a throwing-type of quarterback, one who can drop back," Gregorio said. "He has a strong understanding of the offense and understands defenses."

Fischetti is a lefty-throwing QB who lets his athletic ability lead the way.

"Anthony's an athlete who has speed and the ability to make plays off it," Gregorio said.

Pecina was the quarterback on the freshman team last season.

"Lance is also very athletic for a sophomore," Gregorio said. "He does all the little things right."

On the outside looking to go down field deep or cut across the middle and use his 6-5 size to catch the ball and then blitz pass opposing pass defenders is Franciotti, who last year was one of the most dangerous receivers in Union County.

"He's a complete receiver," Gregorio said. "He's tall, fast, agile, and runs very good routes. P.J. can just pull down the football."

"He's hungry to make a play and wants to be the guy. He wants to compete and be the best player in Union County."

A three-year starter, Gregorio also said that Franciotti is a solid blocker.

"He wants to play receiver at the next level," Gregorio said. "He was our leading pass catcher last year."

Ryan has had injuries to battle through before trying to go through a season this year without any.

"Corey has the potential to be a dominant player on both sides of the ball, he just has to stay healthy," Gregorio said.

"He's never lasted a full season."

Brearley Bears will challenge with new players at skill slots

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

KENILWORTH – While the Bears are inexperienced at quarterback and running back, they do have seven returning starters on defense, which is not a bad thing at all for a Group 1 school – or any school for that matter.

To say the defense is ahead of the offense as the scrimmage season continues would most likely be accurate.

“All of our skill kids are brand new,” ninth-year head coach Scott Miller said. “They got some varsity experience from last year, but very little.”

“Defensively, all of our guys up front and two of our linebackers return, so our front seven is not doing too bad.”

To say Miller and his coaching staff have found a way to win year after year and graduation class after graduation class would be an understatement.

In Miller's first eight seasons at the helm, he has guided Brearley to the state playoffs every year and enters his ninth season with an outstanding 70-16 (.814) record. His 8-7 playoff mark includes two state championship game appearances and the school's first North 2, Group 1 title since 1991, which was achieved in 2006.

That year Brearley became the first Union County team to go 12-0.

Miller has the best record of any coach in Union County the last eight years, while Brearley finished with the best record of any Union County team for the decade of the 2000s at 79-27 (.745).

Last year's squad qualified for the Central Jersey, Group 1 playoffs, but entered with a two-game losing streak after falling at Roselle and at Dayton in Union. However, the Bears bounced back to win at South River in the quarterfinals, earning a semifinal contest at eventual champion Asbury Park.

Brearley was put back into North 2, Group 1 for this year, along with fellow Union County schools New Providence, Dayton and Roselle Park.

Just how fast Brearley begins to click offensively will have a lot to do with the maturity of senior quarterback Joe Calello.

“Right now it's too early to tell,” Miller said. “On the JV level last year he was able to run with the ball well.”

“He's pretty quick and elusive. For a senior starting at quarterback for the first time it's tough.”

“We hope he won't make the major mistakes and play within himself.”

Returning starters on the offensive line out to give Calello as much protection as they can include senior tackle Bob Loneker, senior guard Greg Rice, senior guard Dillon Geoghegan, senior tight end Kevin Silvestrini and junior tight end Anthony Tancs.

“Behind them we hope to move the ball a little bit,” Miller said.

On defense, returning linemen include Silvestrini and Loneker at end and junior Mike Christian and Rice at tackle.

Tancs in the middle and Geoghegan on the outside return at linebacker, while Albano returns in the secondary at cornerback.

Michael Watson, a senior who is listed as a starter at cornerback, played some varsity last year before suffering a knee injury prior to the Roselle game.

“We've had to shuffle guys around because of inexperience in the secondary,” Miller said. “Basically, we're looking to get better every day we go out there. Of 4-5 things we see that we have to correct we'll pick one and try to get better at it.”

Brearley had its first scrimmage at Pingry Aug. 24, which was a team it defeated at home in the regular season last year. The Bears were scheduled to host Carteret Aug. 28 in their second scrimmage.

Brearley's game-scrimmage was to be last Friday night at home vs. Middlesex County foe Iselin Kennedy.

“In the scrimmages we're always looking to see what we've got,” Miller said. “We focus on ourselves and having to get better as a team.”

Brearley's first three games are against Group 1 foes, but then four of its next six are against Group 2 schools.

“This year – by far – is the most difficult schedule we've been dealt since I've been here,” Miller said.

Gov. Livingston Highlanders seek 7th straight playoff year

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

BERKELEY HEIGHTS – The Highlanders have qualified for the state playoffs each of the first six seasons of head coach Terry Hanratty's tenure.

Only Brearley and New Providence at eight years each have a longer string of success among Union County schools at the moment.

Hanratty said he is looking for leadership now in order for the Highlanders to make it seven years in a row.

Hanratty reported that senior Brendan DiLandro will not play this year after having shoulder surgery a month ago.

"He hurt it last year and it never really recovered," Hanratty said.

DiLandro (6-3, 230) was being recruited by the likes of Delaware, James Madison and William and Mary, according to Hanratty, with those colleges looking at him at tight end.

Concentrating on baseball is senior John Jennings, who started last year at middle linebacker.

Two former soccer players GL gained include senior placekicker Kyle Reavey and junior punter John Schemdel. Hanratty said they both played on the junior varsity level last season.

"It always seems like we lose a player to baseball and pick up soccer players," Hanratty said.

Last year's placekicker was Blake Anderson, who also previously played and lettered in tennis and soccer. Anderson, an all conference and all county selection last year, is now playing football at Merrimack College in North Andover, Mass. The business major is listed as a kicker and punter and wears No. 98.

Hanratty is proud to report that Anderson is one of 12 GL football players presently playing in college.

Others include Max Machado and Rob Ingebretsen at Bryant University, Frank Yannotta at Moravian, Frank Colder at East Stroudsburg, Matt Zimmerman of Mountainside – who is one of two captains this year – and Matt Boyer at Princeton, Ian Cunningham at Wagner, Tyler George at Monmouth, John Manganiello at Coast Guard Academy, Kevin Reavey at The College of New Jersey and Joe Gilfedder at Ithaca.

"Graziano played half of last year and did okay for a sophomore," Hanratty said. "He's getting better. He can throw pretty well and has improved a lot on his speed. We hope that he can be versatile enough to run with and throw the ball."

Returning starters on defense include junior tackle Tony Manganiello, senior cornerback Pat Eichner and Romeo at inside linebacker.

"We're doing a lot of learning right now and a lot of teaching," Hanratty said. "We have so many young kids, but we can't complain. We'll do the best we can."

"This will be a challenging year. Everyone will have to step up their game. We hope to win this year and will play to win this year, without a doubt. We're not playing for next year. We want to win this year."

NOTES: GL's first scrimmage was at Chatham Aug. 24 and its next was to be part of a quad at Montgomery Aug. 27

GL's game-scrimmage was to be vs. North Plainfield last Thursday night at Krausche Field.

The Highlanders are to open at Delaware Valley tomorrow night at 7.

They will remain on the road to play at East A Division foe Immaculata Sept. 16.

Then GL will play its five regular season home games all in a row.

The first will be against non-conference foe North Warren Sept. 25.

The next four will be against division rivals, including - after a bye week - Cranford Oct. 9, Summit Oct. 15, Johnson Oct. 23 and Rahway Oct. 30.

The Oct. 9 game is a 2:30 p.m. start because of SATs that day. The Oct. 15 game is a rare GL night contest.

Hillside Comets sparked by a healthy Ginyard at quarterback

By JR Parachini
 Sports Editor

HILLSIDE — The Comets might have been on their way to a second consecutive playoff berth in North 2, Group 2 last year if were not for the loss of quarterback Davonte Ginyard to a broken collarbone.

After Hillside was coming off a tough 28-26 setback at North Plainfield that snapped a three-game winning streak, the Comets tangled with Rahway at Johnson's Nolan Field. In the first quarter of that that game, Ginyard suffered the injury, which included a torn rotator cuff.

He was able to come back and start Hillside's season-finale against Hanover Park, helping lead the Comets to a 45-24 sectional consolation triumph and a 4-6 finish. Now a senior, Ginyard is one of four returning starters on offense.

"Davonte worked extremely hard to get back into shape to be where he needed to be," third-year head coach John Power said. "He's a tough kid who really is the key to our offense."

"We struggled without him and he showed what a competitor he was against Hanover Park. He really continued in the off season and so far has played well in our scrimmages."

"We're looking forward to a big year from him."

In addition to junior right guard Justin Gist starting a couple of games last season, the other two prominent returning starters are senior left guard Bryant Aguilar and senior tailback Andrae Vogelsson.

"Bryant is a National Honor Society student and a kid who has his best days of football ahead of him," Power said. "He's a hard-worker and a tough kid that is going to do great things with his life, whether it's in football, business or whatever."

"Vogelsson has really grown up in the off season. He's made a lot of good decisions, not only on the football field but with his life. He has a promising future ahead of him. He's doing well in school and on the field and he's a team leader. We really like our senior class."

Vogelsson at Sam linebacker and Aguilar at tackler are joined as returning starters on defense by senior safety Kevin Oshiokepkhai, who is also a wide receiver on offense and Hillside's punter on special teams.

Ginyard runs a Multiple-I offense and shows great versatility at the signal-caller position.

"Davonte is extremely unselfish," Power said. "Even though we run the Multiple-I, we also run the option and he puts us in the right place. He's a guy that makes the right reads, which is really key for an option quarterback. He's extremely athletic."

Hillside got off to a slow start offensively last year, not scoring until the fourth quarter of its second game at Cranford.

However, two Comet touchdowns in that period were enough in an eventual 14-7 triumph.

"We need to find more consistency offensively," Power said. "We started slowly last year and then kind of hit our stride."

"Then we lost Davonte, which definitely hurt, and that falls on us as coaches to make sure we're more consistent in the event of an injury."

"We have more talent this season and should be a lot more consistent."

After allowing a Union County-best 85 points in 11 games in 2008, the Comets took a hit defensively last year when they surrendered 225 in 10.

"Basically, we've changed personnel and have kids that will definitely be better at going to the ball than they were last year," Power said. "I think they understand the scheme more."

"They learned their positions this summer and I think you'll see us play with a little more passion than we have."

Of the six teams in the Mid-State 39 Conference's East B Division, four of them - Summit, Johnson, Gov. Livingston and Rahway - have made it to a state championship game last year or the year before.

Hillside was one score away from making one itself two seasons ago.

The other team in the division - Cranford - is primed to challenge for a state playoff berth and produce its first winning season in three years.

"Overall, the league from top to bottom is outstanding," Power said.

Roselle Park Panthers claw their way until the very end

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

ROSELLE PARK — The Panthers are coming off a first 0-10 season, have only four returning starters back total and face a very challenging schedule to say the least.

Yet fifth-year head coach James Foy couldn't be more excited about the present and optimistic about the future.

"We told the kids to forget about last year, it's over, and we're moving on," Foy said. "We, literally, almost have a brand new team out there."

Roselle Park was last victorious on Oct. 17, 2008 when the Panthers won at Newark Central 28-20. The last home win was earlier that season against Sussex Tech 47-14. The Panthers finished 2-8 in 2008, with the last winning season achieved in 2006.

Returning starters on offense include quarterback Winnie Brunette and running backs Connor Gabriel and Nick Longo — all seniors — and on defense junior safety Brendan Leary and Gabriel and Longo, who both play linebacker.

"For us to have only four guys coming back from last year after going 0-10 is very tough," Foy said. "We have taken a different approach this year."

"We're very young and we're going to play a lot of sophomores as it turns out."

Roselle Park's first scrimmage was Aug. 24 when the Panthers hosted Glen Ridge, Manville and Kinnelon.

"With the first group, we had 5-6 sophomores out there," Foy said. "There's a lot of teaching right now, with it being a big adjustment for sophomores to come to varsity and see the speed quicker and the strength of the opponent stronger."

Compared to last season's first scrimmage, Foy was very pleased with the performance his young team put forth Aug. 24.

"We were definitely better," Foy said. "We didn't let up any touchdowns in the two rotations and on offense scored twice and moved the ball well."

Summit and Dayton both went 0-10 in 2006 and just last year challenged for state championships, with the Hilltoppers winning their first one in 15 years, going 12-0 and finishing No. 1 in Union County.

Hillside went 0-10 in 2007 and then improved dramatically the past two seasons, including an 8-3 playoff campaign in 2008 where the Comets were one score away from reaching a state championship game.

"We're excited about where we're going to be," Foy said. "We hope to mature quickly. If the kids understand, we'll do a little better than last year. How our maturity translates to wins and losses we'll have to wait and see."

The most positive number that came out of last season was 33. Foy reported that the Panthers began the season with 33 players and also ended it with 33, despite all of the struggles in between.

"It was real credit to the players that nobody quit and there was no finger pointing," Foy said.

Last year's captains helped see to that, including seniors Will Fahoury, Victor Paulino and Ron Valente and Longo as a junior.

"Our kids were focused right to the last week, right up to the Roselle game," Foy said. "They hung on our every word."

"We still had 33 there on Thanksgiving morning and they did a great job of remaining focused."

"Success can be measured in different ways and that is one of them."

Longo, Gabriel and Brunette — the only three returning senior starters — were named this year's captains.

"We've talked to them about leading the way and showing the other kids how things are done," Foy said. "Normally the players vote on who the captains will be, but because we had so few seniors, the coaches decided to name those three right off the bat. We still might name one more."

Foy said the number of players now is 31, which might increase by a few by the time the season begins.

"With our sophomore and junior classes, we have a nice core of kids," Foy said. "One of the questions is how quick are they going to mature?"

"In our first scrimmage those sophomores and juniors started to get a chance to play for the first time and saw what the competition was all about. How quick they will mature and gel as a team we'll have to see."

Simone Rodrigues of Sisa Designs in Union

Local designer will show NYC her style

In her first appearance at Couture Fashion Week, designer Simone Rodrigues will present her latest collection under the Sisa Designs label on Saturday at 6 p.m. The fashion show will be in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria hotel on Park Avenue, New York.

A native of Belo Horizonte, Brazil now based in New York, Rodrigues is the creative fashion force behind Sisa Designs of Union. Rodrigues began designing and sewing at the age of 10 and went on to earn a degree in fashion design, business and marketing. She worked as a model and freelance designer for 10 years before launching her own label in 2004, focusing on exporting to Europe and the Caribbean.

Sisa Designs are inspired by nature and rendered in warm tones focused on accentuating a woman's unique beauty and sensuality with classic elegance regardless of age or size. The garments are made of the finest hand-selected fabrics including chiffon, silk, lace and taffeta, often creatively embellished with feathers, flowers and crystals. Perfect cutting and draping make each design smooth and stunning. Lines include swimwear, evening and bridal gowns as well as accessories.

Sisa Designs has shown on the runway in numerous fashion shows in Puerto Rico, Brazil and the United States, including at many charity events.

Rodrigues's designs have been worn in various beauty pageants and she is a favorite designer of a number of top Brazilian celebrities.
