Letter details prosecutor's look at Mountainside PD case

By Rebecca Panico
Staff Writer

MOUNTAINSIDE — The Union County Prosecutor's Office knew of the now-infamous sex toy that was cited in a lawsuit by five police officers and a borough employee about a year before they sued, a newly obtained letter shows.

The 46-page suit accused Sgt. Andrew Huber of inappropriately touching others in the department with the sex toy, police Chief Allan Attanasio pointing his gun at other officers, and additional allegations against other ranking officers that have rocked the local police department.

Officers Christopher Feighner, Richard Latargia, Thomas Norton, Jeffrey Stinner, James Urban and part-time borough employee Amy Colineri filed the suit in May against the borough. The borough soon after issued a statement noting that the Union County Prosecutor's Office had already investigated at least some of the claims mentioned in the civil complaint.

Thus far, the prosecutor's office has not confirmed or denied any investigation.

But a letter obtained by LocalSource through an open public records request details what the office investigated and recommended made to Attanasio, the chief who the lawsuit identifies as being aware of the behavior and condoning it.

For related story, see Page 6

The letter, dated Sept. 28, 2017, was signed by former acting county Prosecutor Thomas Isenhour and written by acting Assistant Prosecutor John Esmerado. It sheds new light on what officials say they knew about the allegations in the lawsuit and when they knew it.

The prosecutor's office decided not to criminally indict Huber for allegedly hitting a civilian in the head with a sex toy inside the police station, leaving soiled toilet paper in an officer's boot and touching another officer's genitals in the police department's locker room, according to the letter.

The letter stated that the prosecutor's office made a "sustained finding" with regard to Huber's sex toy and toilet paper incidents. It made an "unfounded finding" regarding Huber's alleged actions in the locker room.

The prosecutor's office recommended that Attanasio "consider" administrative or disciplinary action for Huber, who they say "violated" Mountainside Police Rules and Regulations.

Mayor Paul Mirabelli previously said in a statement that an unspecified course of action was taken after the investigation by the prosecutor's office. Borough attorney John Post said he could not detail what disciplinary was taken.

"If we felt that we were free to divulge this information, we would," Post said in a June 25 phone interview.

The lawsuit mentions some of the allegations that the prosecutor's office probed, but the civil complaint also

Roselle moves to terminate clerk put on leave six years ago

By Rebecca Panico
Staff Writer

ROSELLE — The borough council at its June 20 meeting voted to seek the termination of a municipal clerk who had been placed on paid administrative leave six years ago.

Rhona Bluestein spoke after a resolution to remove her for "unbecoming conduct, incompetence and other just cause," was put up for discussion. Although her name was not disclosed on the meeting agenda, borough attorney Karen Brown said Bluestein wanted to publicly discuss the council's action since she had received a Rice notice.

A Rice notice serves to alert individuals that issues possibly affecting their employment may be discussed at a public meeting.

The council's vote authorized the filing of a verified complaint with the state Division of Local Government Services to remove Bluestein, a process mandated by state law since she was a tenured clerk.

"I pride myself on being an expert on the laws of the state of New Jersey and I always did my job according to these laws," Bluestein said. "Rather than playing politics, any request that I knew was not in compliance with the laws, I did not fulfill or perform."

"For these political reasons, one day a borough official gave me a letter on borough stationery that stated that I must leave borough hall until further notice."

Carjacking suspect kills himself in Hillside

A Maryland man arrested for an attempted carjacking in Union grabbed a police officer's pistol and took his own life at Hillside Police Department Headquarters Friday afternoon, the Union County Prosecutor's Office announced Saturday, June 23.

The deceased has been identified as 41-year-old Jermaine Covington of Baltimore, the prosecutor's office said in a June 23 release.

According to the Prosecutor's Office, Covington left the scene of a motor vehicle accident in Union at approximately 1 p.m. Friday, with police ending a short subsequent vehicular pursuit due to safety concerns. Later that afternoon, Union police again spotted Covington's vehicle, and after attempting to run from the car and carjack a different vehicle, he was apprehended by members of the Hillside Police Department.

At approximately 4:45 p.m. Friday, while handcuffed to a bar in an area designated for processing suspects at Hillside Police Department headquarters, Covington grabbed a firearm from a passing officer's holster and fatally shot himself. He was pronounced dead at the scene. The circumstances of this incident remain under investigation, the release said.

Mountainside man arrested at airport after jewelry store robbery

By Chuck O'Donnell
Staff Writer

MOUNTAINSIDE — A Mountainside man was arrested at Newark Liberty Airport last week while attempting to board a plane for Florida after he had allegedly used a shotgun to rob a jewelry store in Passaic County, police said.

Marc Niedle, 30, and his girlfriend, Emily Lopazanski, 34, of the Fords section of Woodbridge, walked into Massola Jewelers in Wayne on Tuesday, June 19, Wayne Police Detective Capt. Laurence Martin said.

Niedle and Lopazanski are facing several charges, including aggravated assault and robbery, Martin said, adding that they were being held at the Passaic County Jail as of Monday, June 25.

Wayne police detectives and the Passaic County Sheriff's Department Crime Scene Unit responding to a 9-1-1 call arrived at the store at 11:15 a.m. The Wayne Police Department Headquarters is a little more than 1,000 feet away from the jewelry store.

Police said they saw the owner, George Massola, and his son, Roger, wrestling with a female on the sidewalk outside the store. Police handcuffed Lopazanski but Niedle fled the scene before police arrived.

Once Niedle was identified as the other suspect, Martin said he contacted the Mountainside Police Department, which set up surveillance at Niedle's Larkspur Drive home at about noon.

"Initially, we were looking for (Niedle)," Mountainside Officer-in-Charge Joe Giannuzzi said Thursday, June 21. "That's why we're setting up surveillance on the home, looking to see if he came out of the home or tried to get into the home. Once we knew he was in custody at Newark Airport with the Wayne police and Port Authority police, obviously we had his whereabouts down at that point."

Niedle was caught by Wayne police and

According to police, images from surveillance footage show Mountainside resident Marc Niedle and Emily Lopazanski, of Woodbridge, robbing Massola Jewelers in Wayne on Thursday, June 19. The two face several charges, including aggravated assault and robbery.

Port Authority police at Terminal C at the airport as he waited to board a flight bound for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Wayne police said.

"There was no struggle at the airport," Martin said. "We had plenty of law enforcement there to assist in the apprehension."

A Mossberg 12-gauge shotgun Niedle had allegedly used during the robbery was recovered at the store, Martin said. He did not know if the gun was registered to Niedle.

Images from the jewelry store's surveillance footage were provided to LocalSource by the Wayne Police Department. Martin said the images show Niedle, who was wearing sunglasses, pointing the gun at the shop owner's son. He said Lopazanski, also wearing sunglasses, is seen standing to Niedle's right.

Police said Niedle sprayed the Massolas with mace during the robbery. They were treated by the Wayne Memorial Volunteer First Aid Squad for chemical exposure to their eyes and face.

Niedle and Lopazanski were charged with robbery and aggravated assault with a weapon, as well as conspiracy and illegal weapons counts.

Martin declined to say if anything had been taken from the shop.

The Mountainside police also assisted Wayne detectives in executing a search warrant of Niedle's home on Larkspur Drive.

"The Mountainside police were more than accommodating," Martin said. "Those guys were fabulous, every person we worked with there. I was one of the people that called them initially. I spoke to the dispatcher there and I got a call back ... within minutes. ... Their attitude was, 'Whatever you need, we'll do it. We're standing by. You tell us what you need.' I was very appreciative of their cooperative spirit and professionalism."

Giannuzzi said Detective Sgt. Michael Jackson, Detective Stephen DeVito and Detective Shawn Bendik, along with "units from the patrol force," assisted the Wayne police.

On Saturday, June 23, the blinds were closed at 1622 Larkspur Drive, a house situated halfway up a steep incline.

A man who answered the door for LocalSource identified himself as Niedle's father. He refused to answer any questions about his son.

Ninety-year-old home becoming battleground

By Chuck O'Donnell
Staff Writer

CRANFORD — A sliver of land between a church and a restaurant specializing in grilled cheese sandwiches has become the unlikely battleground between residents hoping to preserve a 90-year-old house and a developer that wants to raze it to construct a new building.

According to plans presented to the Cranford Zoning Board on Monday, June 11, by Joseph Triarsi, the attorney for Eastman Properties, the house is “dilapidated” and should be torn down to make way for a three-story, mixed-use building on the 60-by-120-foot lot at 106 Eastman St.

The Craftsman bungalow is a classic example of a style of architecture noted for its gently-pitched gabled roofs, wide-open eave overhangs, exposed rafters and decorative beams and braces under the gables, supporters say. It also has a sun porch that extends across the front of the house with an oval window with many small panes of glass. Behind it is a carriage house that was converted to an apartment.

The proposed new building would have two commercial spaces on the first floor and two, two-bedroom apartments on both the second and third floors.

However, long before Triarsi began to make his appeal to the board for five variances and multiple waivers, word of the plans had already spread through the township. In a town where some houses date back to 1750, such as the Norris Oakley House, and others once hosted William Randolph Hearst and Gloria Swanson, like Cranford Hall, any plan to tear down old houses receives scrutiny.

Monica Shimkus, a resident of Miln Street, the nearest cross street to the bungalow, started a petition on change.org in hopes of saving the home from being destroyed. As of June 24, 151 people had signed the petition.

“This home, like Cranford’s other old homes, must be protected,” the petition reads. “Allowing people to destroy these homes is the same as destroying our town. The house is in very good structural condition and demolition would be a waste of resources as well as destruction of an example of fine, careful and quality home building. There are about 25 mature trees on the property, the removal of which would have consequences on flooding, shading, and air quality to the surrounding area as well as wildlife habitat.”

Additionally, the Cranford Historic Preservation Advisory Board posted on its Facebook page that the bungalow is “a unique architectural resource in Cranford’s historic downtown. Its position serves as a buffer or transitional property from Cranford’s downtown to the residential neighborhood to the north. Losing one more historic resource will be taking another step toward eroding the charm that makes Cranford attractive to residents and visitors alike. HPAB urges the zoning board to carefully consider the application.”

Several residents attended the June 11 meeting and posed questions to Eastman Properties’ architect Andrew Podberezniak and its engineer, Edward Dec, regarding density and proposed parking.

Podberezniak said at the meeting that, based on township regulations allowing for the construction of up to 20 units on 1 acre of land, the Eastman lot can accommodate 3.28 units. To build four, a variance would have to be issued by the Cranford Zoning Board. The plan calls for eight parking spaces, including one handicapped-accessible spot, to accommodate the residents of the four proposed apartments, but employees of the commercial spaces would make use of so-called “shared parking” on the street.

Triarsi said it has not been determined what type of businesses would occupy the first-floor spaces. One space is 712 square feet, the other is 825, Podberezniak said. The exterior of the proposed building would be 75 percent brick or stone, as dictated by township rules, he said. The remaining 25 percent would be siding.

Triarsi and additional representatives for Eastman Properties are scheduled to return Sept. 17, to continue its presentation. Shimkus said several residents are planning to attend that meeting. According to her, two people currently live inside the bungalow, one upstairs and one downstairs, and two more live in the converted carriage house.

On a recent afternoon, trees in the front yard of 106 Eastman swayed in the breeze and resident Christine Newport said there are already too many cars in town during rush hour, so adding more people and cars would make this worse.

“Just look at the windows in this house,” Newport pointed out. “You can definitely tell it’s an old house. They have a glossy waviness to them, so I know the house is very old. All the houses they are building now look the same. They’re big, they’re overbearing.”

“The town loses some of its charm, its quaintness when you tear homes like this down.”

Residents grill Mountainside council over police case

By Chuck O'Donnell
Staff Writer

MOUNTAINSIDE — Several residents have told the mayor and Borough Council they are concerned that a recent lawsuit filed against the borough by five male police officers and a female clerical employee could raise taxes and decrease property values.

At the June 19 council meeting, a $200,000 emergency appropriation was approved to help pay for legal fees associated with the lawsuit, and Mayor Paul Mirabelli and members of the council were questioned about whether they had taken the correct action or were doing enough to restore the borough's reputation after the 46-page lawsuit was filed in Superior Court on May 11.

The suit includes allegations of ignored harassment dating back nearly 20 years within the Mountainside Police Department.

Resident Liz Truman said at the meeting that when people looking to settle in the borough do an internet search of Mountainside, they will "be hit with article after article" detailing allegations in the lawsuit, such as how a sex toy was allegedly thrown at subordinate officers and waved in their faces.

"They read the allegations, which they believe are too numerous and too extreme to all be false," Truman said. "They're disgusted, and in disbelief, they decide not to take a chance on home ownership here. They don't want to live in a town where this behavior is apparently tolerated and are concerned about the potential increases to property taxes in a town that will undoubtedly incur significant expenses from litigation and settlements.

"As a homeowner, I'm concerned about the potential drop in my property value that will likely result because of this lawsuit."

The lawsuit was filed by officers Jeffrey Stinner, Christopher Feighner, Richard Latargia, Thomas Norton and James Urban as well as Amy Colineri, who formerly worked as a part-time dispatcher and now works as a part-time clerical employee in the department.

Police Chief Allan Attanasio, Detective Sgt. Andrew Huber and Lt. Thomas Murphy have been placed on paid administrative leave. According to state records, Attanasio has an annual salary of $150,104.

Among the numerous allegations in the lawsuit are that Attanasio pointed a laser-sighted pistol at subordinates when he was a lower-ranking officer. The lawsuit also makes references to sex toys, use of a flashlight to touch department members' buttocks, suggestive comments and other allegations.

Huber is accused of possessing and displaying a sex toy that he would throw at officers and wave in their faces. Westfield-based lawyer Joshua McMahon, who has in the past represented members of the Mountainside Police Department, provided LocalSource with a video that he said shows Huber removing a blue phallic toy from a filing cabinet and waving it in an unidentified man's face. The man in the video who appears to be recording the incident on his phone, McMahon said, is Murphy.

Several times throughout the meeting, residents told the council they feared these allegations would tarnish Mountainside's reputation. And, they demanded to know how it could be restored.

"The allegations in the complaint raise some serious issues of sexism, gender bias, homophobia and racism," Anjali Mehrotra said at the meeting. "They break a trust cycle in this town. The trust between the Mountainside Police Department and the Borough Council, between the council and the residents. What are you going to do to restore that trust? How are you going to restore the reputation of our town?"

Mirabelli repeatedly defended the council. He said it had taken the correct course of action by placing the three senior officers on paid leave and hiring former Assistant U.S. Attorney William Maderer to expand his current investigation to include allegations in the recent lawsuit.

Mirabelli also said the Union County Prosecutor's Office is conducting an investigation into the allegations in the lawsuit. He said the borough has also hired Christine Amalfe, "a highly experienced labor and employment attorney," from the Gibbons P.C. law firm in Newark.

The mayor added that residents' taxes could not go up in 2018, and that he and the council would be "fiscally responsive so that your taxes will go up as small as possible in 2019."

Despite Mirabelli's attempts to reassure residents he and the council were taking appropriate measures, the meeting often turned contentious.

At one point, borough attorney John Post sought to allay residents' fears that legal fees and punitive damages could result in a tax hike in 2019.

"The governing body and the borough does not believe for one instant there is any factual basis for determining that there would be punitive damages awarded in this case," Post said.

Laughter in the audience, however, prompted Mirabelli to interrupt.

"Please show some respect here tonight," the mayor said. "Everybody will have their opportunity to come and speak."

A few residents questioned the role of the police commission, which is comprised of councilmen Robert Messler, Keith Turner, Glenn Mortimer.

When resident Scott Kline asked Turner to discuss his role as the borough's police commissioner, Mirabelli stepped in and said, "For Mr. Turner to address it at this time is against the advice of our attorneys."

After another round of laughter from the 30 or so residents at the meeting, Kline said, "I'm asking a basic question. I'm only asking about what a police commissioner does."

Post said he believed the title "police commissioner" had been removed from the job description, and said he would send Kline an email with the official job description.

For residents such as Genevieve Cooper, the reassurances from the administration didn't go far enough. When she suggested that the controversy stemming from the lawsuit would have been put behind them if the mayor and council had fired Attanasio, Huber and Murphy when the allegations were first made, the room filled with applause.

"In any other environment, if you work in a pharmacy, if you work in a department store, if you work in a legal firm, if someone is doing some of the things we saw in videos and in deposition and so forth, the answer is that they're fired," Cooper said. "It's not that we immediately hire a lawyer."

The borough and Mirabelli issued statements via the borough's Twitter feed and website shortly after the lawsuit was filed stating they first learned of the allegations in a Feb. 28 meeting with Police Benevolent Association attorney Leonard Schiro.

Documents show prosecutor investigated Mountainside cops

(Continued from Page 1) includes additional accusations. For example, it appears that the prosecutor's office did not investigate allegations that Attanasio pointed his laser-sighted revolver at other officers, one of the more serious claims in the suit.

READING ROCKS — Addison McCarthy's vibrant bookmark design was chosen as the winner from among the second grade submissions to the Cranford Public Library's recent bookmark design contest for local elementary school students.

Mark Spivey, a spokesman for the prosecutor's office, said he could not give details of an investigation when asked if the office knew about that claim.

Borough officials also have said many of the claims outlined in the lawsuit were new to them.

The police union attorney — who was representing the six who later filed suit — met with the Post Feb. 28 to discuss claims of a "hostile work environment" allegedly created by Huber and a lieutenant, the borough said in a statement. The specifics of those claims were not detailed in the borough's statement.

Post's law firm was directed by the borough to investigate those unspecified accusations, but the six who made the allegations did not make themselves available for interviews, the borough claimed in its statement.

When the lawsuit was filed about three months later, the borough claimed it "contained allegations of current conduct that had not been mentioned by" the police union president during that initial meeting in February.

The mayor, Mirabelli, also said in a previous statement that Post had turned over the information he received at that February meeting to the prosecutor's office as well as a copy of the civil complaint.

Yet borough officials may have learned of issues within the police department at a Jan. 17, 2017 council meeting, when attorney Joshua McMahon first attempted to show what he says was a video of Huber waving a sex toy in an unidentified person's face.

"I don't want to see it, sir, quite frankly," Mirabelli said as McMahon held up his computer to show the council the video. "You're not going to grandstand here."

The mayor got into a heated exchange with McMahon at that meeting, telling the lawyer he should go through the police department's internal affairs unit with his "evidence." He advised McMahon to go to the county prosecutor's office if he felt the local police department's internal affairs units would not handle the issue properly.

McMahon declined to tell LocalSource who had retained him. However, a statement by the mayor referring to last year's council meeting alleged that McMahon was an attorney for Mountainside Officer Michael Pasquale. Pasquale has not filed suit with the borough.

McMahon did file a complaint with the prosecutor's office, but not one regarding his allegations of "pervasive and systemic problems" within the police department. Instead, McMahon filed an Open Public Meetings Act complaint with the county prosecutor's office, sending them footage of the meeting and claiming his First Amendment right to speak was violated.

LocalSource filed a public records request with the county to obtain a copy of McMahon's complaint and the response from the county prosecutor's office. The prosecutor's office did not pursue his OPMA complaint, records show.

Ultimately, the requested documents were given to LocalSource. The county compliance manager for the Open Public Records Act also sent the letter detailing the former acting prosecutor's probe, which was "provided for the sake of context."

Hillside school board, teachers union members clash over assignments

By Rebecca Panico
Staff Writer

HILLSIDE — Tempers flared at a June 21 school board meeting between a representative from the state's largest teachers' union and board members over a decision to move faculty and staff in the district.

New Jersey Education Association UniServ Representative Ted Tympanick responded quickly when board member Joi Stanley said it "disturbs" her to read a statement from the local union saying it has "endured the pushback from (the) administration" for years.

"We feel disrespected," Tympanick yelled, interrupting Stanley during her closing statement.

Hillside Board of Education President Hawaiian Thompson-Epps told Tympanick to "relax" or he would be escorted from the meeting.

He was not escorted from the meeting and school board members continued to speak.

Members of the school board also expressed frustrations because they worked to finally reach an agreement on a contract with the Hillside Education Association. Faculty and staff had been working without a contract since last July, LocalSource previously reported.

Lawler, who has been working as a high school secretary for 18 years, also claimed the administration's decision to move her to a different school was a form of retaliation.

"It's retaliatory because he feels if he can separate the union leadership and put them in different buildings," Lawler said, referring to Superintendent Antoine Gayles, "then my theory is that they don't have the power he thinks we're going to have."

In the days leading up to an agreement, faculty and staff made their contract negotiations highly visible by staging demonstrations after school. They called for salary increases to make up for pay freezes and a reduction in employee contributions to health care premiums.

Currently, the union and school board are at an $11,000 deficit in the salary guides, according to Tympanick.

Lawler makes about $61,000 annually, but claimed the administration was moving her to an elementary school secretarial position, a job that can be performed for a much lower salary.

"By putting her in that spot they're losing $15,000," Tympanick told LocalSource. Lawler chimed in, adding, "And we're here arguing over $11,000."

HEA Vice President Dewanna Johnson was also moved from her position teaching AP psychology, a program the superintendent praised earlier at the meeting. She too claimed that change was retaliatory.

"Teachers, you guys know that we try our very best," Thompson-Epps, the school board president, said at the meeting. "We try. Yes, there may be some personal vendettas like what was said, maybe some misunderstanding. But at the end, children come first. Children are first."

She later clarified her statements about personal vendettas to LocalSource, saying "Some people may feel there are personal vendettas because there is change."

While the school board claimed the AP psychology class would be eliminated, the superintendent said the district plans to train another teacher during the summer to teach the class.

Gayles also added that "No one on the board is retaliatory."

"We have to take a look on the needs of the district and put personnel where we think they will provide the maximum benefit for our district and students," Gayles told LocalSource after the meeting.

Gayles added that district officials are still working on some issues with the salary guides and that he hoped to resolve the matter "rather quickly."

Roselle seeks to dismiss former clerk

Bluestein said June 20 was the first time she had received a Rice notice. When approached after speaking to the council, she did not elaborate as to what — if any — duties she had been asked to perform that she suggested were against state law.

Borough Administrator Bryan Russell said the former borough attorney had sent a letter to Bluestein on May 8, 2012, stating that she had been placed on paid administrative leave. Neither Russell nor Brown responded to follow-up questions asking if Bluestein was still on leave.

Bluestein was making about $79,000 annually, state records show.

After Bluestein spoke publicly about her employment at the meeting, council President Reginald Atkins told Bluestein, "I haven't seen you in five years, but thank you very much for your comments."

"We executed something that I believe should've been done a long time ago," Atkins said later in his closing statement, referring to the "Rhona" situation, and legal matters that "I can't comment on."

He added: "I'm happy that tonight there was some action, which means that this council is working together to make sure that work gets done in this borough."

When asked after the meeting to comment on Bluestein's suggestion that she had been asked to perform services she claimed were not in compliance with state law, Atkins referred back to the previous administration.

"A lot of the council members that are currently on the council were not on the council at the time, so we don't have a lot of information to share," Atkins said, adding that he could not comment further on personnel matters.

Brandon Bernier, who won the Democratic nomination to run for the 2nd Ward council seat in the June 5 primary, said he was "flabbergasted" it took the council close to six years to take action to terminate Bluestein.

"So all it took was a resolution of this council to say, finally we're going to do something about this situation," he said during public comments. "So six years it took us to have a lawyer in place willing to do something about it — and the council now — after years of residents getting up here, demanding something be done about it, to actually moving this ball forward."

First Ward Councilwoman Denise Wilkerson urged residents to be "patient for the process" and said "change is coming."

"I am so proud of the administrative staff here who has heard the public in their concerns about certain employees that I am not at liberty to talk about," Wilkerson said.

Newark man charged in Elizabeth armed jewel heist

A Newark man appeared in federal court June 14 on charges for his alleged involvement in the September 2017 armed robbery of a jewelry exchange in Elizabeth, according to U.S. Attorney Craig Carpenito.

William Valentin, 42, has been charged with one count each of Hobbs Act robbery, conspiring to commit Hobbs Act robberies, brandishing a firearm during a violent crime and conspiring to use a firearm during a violent crime. Valentin's initial court appearance was scheduled before U.S. Magistrate Judge Mark Falk in Newark.

According to the complaint, four masked individuals, including

Valentin, entered an Elizabeth jewelry exchange the morning of Sept. 5, 2017. Valentin then allegedly brandished a firearm at an employee while the others unloaded the contents of the store's safes into large bags. Video surveillance reportedly shows the four entering the mall, approaching the jewelry exchange and running out with the bags of jewelry. Afterwards, they entered a black Audi and drove away.

In January 2018, Valentin was arrested in Holyoke, Mass., allegedly with a backpack containing some of the stolen jewelry in his possession. If convicted, he faces a maximum penalty of 67 years in prison as well as a potential $250,000 fine.

New highly interactive touchscreens provide info for NJ Transit customers

NJ Transit has unveiled new interactive touchscreen kiosks as part of its continuing effort to improve communication with customers. The high-tech digital displays, currently being piloted at select rail and Hudson-Bergen Light Rail stations, allow customers to access service information, maps and alerts to stay informed of travel options.

The interactive information kiosks are now in place at Newark Penn Station, Hoboken Terminal, and on the Hudson-Bergen Light Rail at Harborside and Pavonia stations.

“By listening to our customers, we know that receiving information is one of their top priorities,” NJ Transit Executive Director Kevin Corbett said in a recent press release. “These digital displays are an added tool that will enable customers to quickly learn the current service status for their particular trip as well as their travel options for rail and light rail. We look forward to hearing feedback from customers on this latest informational asset as we continue to modernize and expand customer communications at stations and terminals.”

NJ Transit worked with Intersection, a technology and media company, to install the kiosks, which feature large formats and have user-friendly touchscreens that provide real-time data specific to a customer’s trip and mode of travel. The kiosks provide customers with systemwide maps, real-time service alerts, departure times, scheduled service changes and emergency messaging. Each kiosk displays NJ Transit branding for easy identification.

Cranford police arrest man for modifying, igniting fireworks

By Chuck O'Donnell
Staff Writer

CRANFORD — A 26-year-old man was arrested for modifying mortar-style fireworks and setting them off along Raritan Road, police said.

Michael Kossop, 26, of Linden, was charged with possession of prohibited destructive devices, Detective Lt. Edward Davenport said in an email.

Davenport said Cranford police received calls from residents who reported hearing explosions June 20 at about 7:06 p.m.

Police interviewed residents and reviewed surveillance video. The Union County Prosecutor’s Office and Linden Police Department, the Cranford Police Department’s Detective Bureau assisted with the investigation.

Cranford police, with the assistance of the New Jersey Office of Homeland Security and Preparedness, the Union County SWAT team, the Union County Bomb Squad, the Union County Sheriff’s Department and the Joint Terrorism Task Force, executed a search warrant at Kossop’s home on June 21.

Linden Mayor Derek Armstead said Kossop has been suspended without pay from his job on the tree crew in the department of public works. Armstead said he has worked for the city for five years.

Kossop was also charged with possession of under 50 grams of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia.

Davenport said no injuries resulted from the explosions.

Celebrate our freedom and independence

July 4 is next week, when we celebrate our nation's independence from the British Empire.

Families enjoy a federal holiday and day off from work, using the time for get-togethers, picnics or barbecues, perhaps a trip to the beach, and finally concluding the day with an evening show of fireworks. The occasion is so festive that it's easy for us to forget what we're celebrating.

While the 13 Colonies in the new territory of North America had originally been a place for colonists to explore new lands, enjoy religious freedom, and develop settlements in towns and villages, when the English Parliament began to tax them, they were incensed. Cries of "taxation without representation" led to the Boston Tea Party and other acts of rebellion, which eventually fomented violence.

When British garrisons arrived, hostilities began, leading to the establishment of state constitutions and Thomas Jefferson's famous and eloquent Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Although the legal separation of the Colonies from Great Britain actually occurred on July 2, 1776, the same day the Second Continental Congress approved a resolution for independence, the actual document wasn't finished being revised by the "Committee of Five" until two days later, when it was finally approved. And while Jefferson, John

EDITORIAL

Adams and Benjamin Franklin all later wrote that they had signed it on July 4, 1776, most historians have since concluded that it was signed nearly a month after its adoption, on Aug. 2, 1776.

Since that time, July 4 has figured prominently in United States history, particularly for two of the signers of the document and one later president. Adams and Jefferson, the second and third presidents of our nation, both died on July 4, 1826, and James Monroe, a Founding Father who had fought in the American Revolutionary War and was the fifth president of the United States, died on July 4, 1831. Calvin Coolidge, the 30th president, was born on July 4, 1872, the only president to be born on Independence Day.

The United States has come a long way since first it rebelled against Great Britain, always trying to become a better nation for those who call it home. One of our greatest strengths has been the freedom to disagree, for with this freedom, this right, we can work toward a compromise, an understanding, that betters us as a whole.

It's easy to take such freedoms for granted, but there are still many places and people in this world who can only imagine what we accept as the norm. Learn your history and that of the world, recognize how wonderful our country can be if we maintain these freedoms, then celebrate with a purpose and true understanding of what it is we're commemorating.

We wish everyone a happy Independence Day and remember to fly your flag.

Children paying price

LEFT OUT

BY FRANK CAPECE

My thought patterns have been working overtime the past few weeks. The heartbreaking TV pictures of separated immigrant kids, the protesters in Westfield at U.S. Rep. Leonard Lance's office; on the other side the argument, this has been the policy through past four presidential administrations and leaves me wanting a solution.

Last week, a diminutive waitress at a Kenilworth eatery said it was tough working two shifts. The extra work is needed to pay for her son's private education so that his future will be better. She may understand more about the American dream than most, even though she emigrated from Central America. I started thinking also about the widowed Brazilian immigrant in Union, whose baby sits and doubles as an Uber companion, to offset expenses. In both cases, government assistance never enters their personal radar screens.

I enjoy traveling to the Elizabeth Public Library every so often to watch first-generation immigrants sitting at the oversized tables after dinner as they tutor their children to succeed in school.

Missing in the immigration debacle — on the part of the Upper West Side-elite types in New York and the commentators who control much of the airwaves — is commentary on the college-quota issue. It may just be too personal. The libertarian Cato Institute published a white paper recently by Ilya Shapiro on discrimination in Ivy League university admissions. He is following the pending Supreme Court case of Students for Fair Admissions v. Harvard.

The crux of the case involves a group of Asian-Americans who have been denied admission from the dear ole Ivy League school in the name of achieving the ambiguous goal of diversity. For many, it smells like a nasty quota system. It brought to mind the memory of a Greek-Polish teen I knew with outstanding credentials who faced some ugly math when applying for college.

There is the need for affirmative action on one side. On the other side is the use of legacy admissions. This translates to kids of alumni whose moms and dads contribute heavily to the school. Left sandwiched in between are the middle class kids, and fairness is out the window. Of course, the news reports of Jane Fonda's son and Jared Kushner getting into Ivy League schools after contributions were made could be called mere coincidence.

My spinning thoughts include Clark's Barnes and Noble on early Sunday mornings. A bevy of Asian-American kids can be observed hard at work studying or being tutored to achieve better results.

Shapiro writes of a high school admissions officer: "She rejects the notion the Asian kids are less well-rounded than the white kids and agreed with the plaintiff's lawyer that it's hard to think of anything other than discrimination that could account for this."

Back to the immigration problem, Tom Malinowski, a Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives from the 7th Congressional District, leveled an attack on Lance: "Once again our congressman is attempting to appear moderate with a distraction, all the while enabling the extreme policies of his party — and now innocent children are paying the price."

Innocent children paying the price — that seems to affect a whole lot of people.

Enter to learn, go forth to serve

Summer is here and, with its arrival, the end of spring and, more importantly for many, the end of the school year. The end of every school year is the conclusion of one more step in the learning process as students grow one year older, smarter and closer to adulthood and adult responsibilities. For their parents, each year means they are another year older, but it also is a snapshot of their children as they grow and, hopefully, reflect all of the best attributes of their family and friends, as well as everything they learned in school.

For some students, this isn't just the end of the school year; it's graduation. This is the end of 13 years of education, not counting preschool, and a time for them to graduate from adolescence to adulthood. It's a very big step, a moment on which they might have been reflecting for months, even years, with eager anticipation. How will they feel? How will they be treated? How will they be different? It's exciting and frightening at the same time. But it's a good kind of scared, maybe the best, because they are being given a chance to advance.

And what does that mean? For some, it's just

The garden is festive as daisy days appear

THE GARDENER'S APPRENTICE

BY ELISABETH GINSBURG

We are now entering the daisy days of early summer, when Shasta daisies, cone-flowers, Gaillardia daisies and a constellation of other Asteraceae or Compositae family members burst into bloom.

I love them all, because they are strong growers, attract loads of butterflies and other pollinators, and are equally useful for ornamenting the garden or filling vases in the house. Whether your daisies are residing in a repurposed pair of old garden boots and ornamenting a minuscule balcony, or installed in a multi-acre parterre by your pricey private gardener, they will thrive. If your sunny garden situation lies somewhere in between those two extremes, daisy family members will undoubtedly fit right in. They are great equalizers.

Daisies are also eminently congenial garden dwellers and socialize well with members of other plant families. One of the best daisy/non-daisy pairings that I have found is a daisy/mint combo that requires almost no care, offers contrasting textures, blooms repeatedly throughout the summer and discourages garden varmints. This match made in horticultural heaven combines Coreopsis verticillata, or threadleaf coreopsis, and Nepeta racemosa, or catmint.

In the last 20 years or so, breeders have introduced any number of new coreopsis, sometimes known as "tickseed."

New and not-so-new varieties bloom in shades of yellow, red, peach, near-white and combinations of those colors. Many, but not all, are great garden plants.

I will always try something new, but for my money, the best coreopsis — and the one I pair with catmint — is Coreopsis verticillata Zagreb.

Zagreb is descended from a North American native species and has been in commerce for long enough to have proven its merit. It grows about 18 inches tall, with delicate, thread-like foliage and a mounding habit. The real stars of the Zagreb show are the bright golden, daisy flowers, which are about 3/4 of an inch wide and appear in very loose clusters. Blooming in great profusion several times during the growing season, Zagreb is true to its starry family and lifts its surroundings. The growth habit also discourages weeds, a plus for lazy or time-challenged gardeners like me.

I pair Zagreb with a blue-purple catmint variety that blooms at the same time and goes by the Latin name Nepeta racemosa Walker's Low. Its friends call it "Walker's Low" catmint. Though "low" might suggest otherwise, at 30 inches tall, it does not grow particularly close to the ground. A card-carrying member of the mint or Labiateae family, catmint features stems that are square in cross section, as well as pungently aromatic leaves in a shade of gray-green. Its flowerheads are composed of scores of tiny, lipped flowers, which also carry the characteristic fragrance.

Though she is an old lady of 17, my cat, Sarah, will descend the back staircase on a sunny day just to plunge her face into the catmint clump that grows at its base. Afterward she returns to her throne on the back porch to loll in a contented haze for an hour or so.

Walker's Low is not the only catmint game in town. You might easily pair Zagreb with the taller Six Hills Giant, which sports darker blue-purple flowers.

If you decide on that combination, it is best to position the coreopsis in front of the catmint to show both plants to advantage. If you want a catmint that is shorter than the coreopsis, or you are trying to fit both in a large container, try Nepeta faassenii Cat's Meow, which tops out at 17 to 20 inches tall.

I love blue and yellow combinations; each shade makes the other sing. If you have the space, alternate clumps of coreopsis and catmint for a lovely border.

The advantages of the pairing go beyond beauty. Mint family members deter rodents and varmints of all kinds. I have not known our perpetually ravenous deer herd to touch coreopsis either, but the presence of the catmint will further deter any four-legged marauder that acquires a strange taste for daisies.

Both plants can also be easily divided to make more specimens, which is especially useful if you are trying to fill up a large garden space. Maintenance is easy and uniform for both species. After the petals drop, simply cut back the coreopsis and catmint by about 1/3 to stimulate tidy appearance and rebloom.

If you want to be thrifty and help repel plant predators naturally, collect the clippings and sprinkle them near more vulnerable species, like lilies, hostas, impatiens and sedum. Even dried out, the catmint retains its aromatic qualities.

I am an incorrigible plant collector and am almost always game for the new and different in the horticultural world. However, as in the case of blue-flowered "cats" and yellow-flowered "stars," sometimes tried and true plant combinations are the best solutions to garden challenges.

Reducing risk of falls creates confidence for seniors

ADVICE ON AGING

BY DONNA LAZARTIC

activities. This eventually leads to added social isolation, which is one of the main causes of geriatric depression. The risk of falls for older adults can be reduced by engaging in a fall risk assessment including physical, behavioral and environmental risks, and implementing practical lifestyle adjustments.

Some top fall risk factors include:

- Physical: Physical fitness, pre-existing conditions, vision and hearing loss and medications, can affect balance, physical abilities and cognitive health leading to a greater risk of falls.
- Behavioral: Lack of mobility devices or incorrectly using mobility devices, refusing assistance, unstable footwear, climbing or reaching for out-of-reach items, and not using eyeglasses or hearing aids all can contribute to the risk of falls for older adults.
- Environmental: A cluttered living environment, stairs, frayed carpets, unsecured rugs, lack of lighting, lack of stair rails and bathroom safety features, and commonly used items out of reach are some of the environmental factors that increase an older adult's risk of falls.

To help prevent falls in seniors, first complete a fall risk assessment. Engage an older adult in a conversation about their risk of falls and together complete the Risk Fall survey found in the National Council on Aging. The survey asks you to identify areas of risk pertaining to the older adult's physical health, behavioral choices and environment to define practical steps to take to reduce the risk of falling.

Next, get a physical to identify the physical effects and challenges from any existing health conditions. Review prescriptions and over-the-counter medications with the doctor in relation to physical strength and balance issues. Get a vision and hearing test and update eye-wear and hearing aid prescriptions. Find out if a mobility device is warranted.

Then address behavioral risks by wearing glasses and hearing aids as prescribed; using a mobility aid at all times; refraining from reaching, bending over or climbing for items out of reach; exercising to increase strength and balance; consuming high nutrient foods and reducing caffeine and sugar intake; reducing or eliminating alcohol use and/or refraining from physical activity while under the influence; and wearing sensible shoes.

Finally, make environmental adjustments. Ensure that floors, hallways and doorways are clear of clutter. Make sure there are wide passageways around furniture and tables. Install stair rails on both sides of the stairway and/or a chair lift system.

Check and repair all carpets for bunching and edging; tape down or remove rugs and runners. Remove all appliance cords or extension cord tripping hazards. Install proper lighting including room lighting, nightlights and easy-to-reach bathroom lighting. In the bathroom, install shower and tub bars, and use shower chair seats, and non-slip mats. Put often-used items between eye and waist level.

"Agnes had a bad fall. She got up in the middle of the night to use the bathroom and tripped on the floor mat," my mother explained. "Her daughter found her a long time later and an ambulance took her to the hospital. I don't know when they will let her go home."

Mom and I were sitting at her kitchen table with a cup of tea. She shared this story about her friend as a rationale for why she didn't want to leave the house with me. Since Agnes fell, my Mom, who is 82 years old and active, has been afraid that she, too, will fall and that her independent life will be changed forever. What she doesn't see is that her fear of falling has already changed her life.

The National Council on Aging notes that every 11 seconds, an older adult is treated in the emergency room for a fall, and every 19 minutes an older adult will die from a fall.

"Falls are the leading cause of fatal injury and the most common cause of nonfatal trauma-related hospital admissions among older adults," states NCOA on its website. "In 2015, the total cost of fall injuries was $50 billion."

Older adults who have experienced a fall often develop a fear of future falls, which can cause them to curtail their another summer before they continue their education in college, for two years or four, or perhaps a trade school. For others, they might decide to try the military and be all they can be.

The military offers training, career placement and development, and even more schooling. Or perhaps they are ready to try the world of employment themselves now. Maybe they will work somewhere in their own town or community, or perhaps they will travel to the big city or another state or even another country. But whatever they do, the sky is truly the limit.

We wish them luck in whatever they do. They need to always remember the lessons they learned, in school and from their parents. Those instructions weren't given just for the sake of the teacher or the parent; they were given with the intent and the hope that each student would take them to heart and use what they have learned to better themselves and, in doing so, improve the larger world.

It's a world of opportunity, a place where our graduates can look to excel and make a difference. They need only remember that, no matter how difficult it may be or how far they travel, they can always return to a home and community that loves them for who they are and values all they've accomplished. We believe in you, and we will be pulling for you, whatever you do.

We wish all graduates the best in life and what it has to offer.

• Barkey earned a BS in nursing from

Bethel University in 1985, and is currently pursuing her MS in nursing from Capella University. Barkey began her nursing career with Saint Barnabas Medical Center and has spent 30 years in the labor and delivery unit there, currently serving as the charge nurse.

Since 2012, she has travelled to Haiti twice with a medical mission team to help care for those still affected by the 2010 earthquake. In Haiti, she volunteered in the labor and delivery unit, in medical surgery as well as in the operating room. Barkey has also traveled to the Philippines on four separate trips since 2012, assisting in the operating room and with cervical cancer screenings; educating local high-school-aged girls in self-breast exams and sex education; and helping to train midwives in neonatal resuscitation practices.

• Martinez earned a BS in nursing from Bloomfield College in 2008. In her current position as Nurse Care Advisor at Jersey City Medical Center, she assists in preventing readmissions. She recently volunteered for two weeks in Puerto Rico after Hurricane Maria. With family in Puerto Rico, Martinez began searching for opportunities to help those affected as soon as she heard of the damage done by the hurricane. In Puerto Rico she cared for patients suffering from heat exhaustion and water contamination, and later helped to provide clean water tablets and educated residents on how to prevent mold.

Elizabeth man sentenced for vehicular homicide

An Elizabeth man has been sentenced to six years in state prison for causing an alcohol-fueled wreck that killed a fellow resident last year, according to a release from the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

Sergio Gomez Ochoa, 37, must serve at least 85 percent of that time before the possibility of parole under the terms set down by state Superior Court Judge John M. Deitch on June 1, the release said.

During the early hours of Aug. 21, Ochoa drove a Cadillac Escalade the wrong way down a one-way ramp onto U.S. Routes 1&9 and collided head-on with the Nissan Altima driven by Everett Ewan, 63, said county Assistant Prosecutor Colleen Ruppert, who prosecuted the case. Ewan was pronounced dead at the scene, Ruppert said.

An investigation by the Union County Homicide Task Force, Union County Sheriff's Office and the Elizabeth Police Department revealed that Ochoa had been drinking at a nearby nightclub for approximately four hours prior to the wreck. Ewan was driving home from his job at Newark Liberty International Airport at the time of the crash. About three hours after the crash, a blood test determined that Ochoa's blood-alcohol level was .113 percent, over the legal limit of .08 percent.

Multiple members of Ewan's family attended Friday's sentencing, including his mother and sister, who both had statements read into the record.

Ochoa pleaded guilty in April to vehicular homicide.

As the weather gets hotter, we may prefer drinking to eating. To ensure that we consume all the nutrients we should, it may be a good idea to start thinking about green shakes. Below is an easy one that even the kids might like. I like using collard greens because they are very inexpensive and very nutritious.

Collard Green Chocolate Shake

Ingredients

2 cups tightly packed collard greens, washed and chopped
2 bananas, preferably sliced and frozen
2 Tbs. unsweetened cocoa powder
4 to 6 cups of water

Steps

In a powerful blender, puree all the ingredients until smooth. Add more water if you like it thinner.

HOROSCOPE

AQUARIUS, Jan. 21 to Feb. 18

Don't be surprised if your outlook is a bit negative over the coming week. It's natural that you should feel a bit deflated, but you'll be back to your buoyant best soon enough.

PISCES, Feb. 19 to March 20

A creative activity of some kind will get a huge boost this week. No matter what it is you are hoping to produce it will have the mark of success on it right from the start. Get busy!

ARIES, March 21 to April 20

You may be annoyed that someone you work or do business with changes their plans at the last moment but what can you do? Do not get upset or things could spiral out of control.

TAURUS, April 21 to May 21

Demand honest answers to all your questions. Let others know that you won't mind if it turns out they did something wrong but you will mind if they try to cover up the fact. If they get even slightly evasive by all means get angry.

GEMINI, May 21 to June 21

The most important thing now is that you know where your money is coming from and where it is going to. If you let things slide or let other people make financial decisions for you it could get messy very quickly. Stay in control.

CANCER, June 22 to July 22

Some people may be vocal in their opposition to what you intend to do but that won't worry you in the slightest. You are on the cusp of something great, so follow your instincts.

LEO, July 23 to Aug. 23

You may be tempted to push yourself beyond your natural limits in an effort to make yourself look good but it isn't necessary and it may even be counterproductive. You're doing fine as you are, so keep those changes to a minimum.

VIRGO, Aug. 24 to Sept. 22

Others may have doubts about what you are doing but you are totally and utterly convinced that you are on the right track and with that kind of self-belief it's highly unlikely you will fail. You also have friends in high places you can call on.

LIBRA, Sept. 23 to Oct. 23

If someone in a position of authority criticizes you today you must not let it get to you. Most likely they don't know what they are talking about and will eventually apologize.

SCORPIO, Oct. 24 to Nov. 22

There is often a funny side to even the most serious of situations and if you look for that side you will end up laughing while others are crying for no good reason. The cynic in you thinks life is a bit of a joke anyway.

SAGITTARIUS, Nov. 23 to Dec. 21

If what the so-called "experts" say does not seem to add up then simply ignore their advice and follow what your instincts are telling you. Only you know what is best for you.

CAPRICORN, Dec. 22 to Jan. 20

The more others say that certain things cannot be done the more determined you will be to prove them wrong. You know you have what it takes so do what you must.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

33	6	227 North 15th Street

Said improvement shall include all work, materials and appurtenances necessary and suitable therefor.

Section 2. The sum of $20,000 is hereby appropriated to the payment of the improvement described in Section 1 of this ordinance. Said sum so appropriated shall be met from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds authorized and the down payment appropriated by this ordinance.

Section 3. The improvement shall be undertaken as a local improvement and the cost thereof not borne by the Borough shall be assessed upon the lands and real estate upon the line and in the vicinity of said improvement which may be benefited by said improvement, as provided in Chapter 56 of Title 40 of the New Jersey Statutes, as amended. All assessments levied for said improvement shall in each case be as nearly as may be in proportion to and not in excess of the peculiar benefit, advantage or increase in value which the respective lots and parcels of real estate shall be deemed to receive by reason of such improvement. The total amount of the assessments so levied shall not exceed the cost of said improvement. The portion of such cost which shall not be so assessed shall be paid by the Borough as in the case of a general improvement which is to be paid for by general taxation. Such portion of the cost shall be in addition to the contribution, if any, of the Borough, hereinafter provided.

Section 4. It is hereby determined and stated that (1) the Borough will not contribute any money to the cost of said improvement, and (2) 100% of the cost of said improvement shall be assessed and the estimated maximum amount of the special assessments for said improvement is $20,000, and (3) no special assessments for such improvement have been levied or confirmed, and (4) such special assessments may be paid in five annual installments.

Section 5. It is hereby determined and stated that (1) the making of such improvement (hereinafter referred to as "purpose") is not a current expense of said Borough, and (2) it is necessary to finance said purpose by the issuance of obligations of said Borough pursuant to the Local Bond Law (Chapter 2 of Title 40A of the New Jersey Statutes Annotated, as amended; the "Local Bond Law"), and (3) the estimated cost of said purpose is $20,000, and (4) $1,000 of said sum is to be provided by the down payment hereinafter appropriated to finance said purpose, and (5) the estimated maximum amount of bonds or notes necessary to be issued for said purpose is $19,000, and (6) the cost of such purpose, as hereinbefore stated, includes the aggregate amount of $5,000, which is estimated to be necessary to finance the cost of such purpose, including architect's fees, accounting, engineering and inspection costs, legal expenses and other expenses, including interest on such obligations to the extent permitted by Section 20 of the Local Bond Law.

Section 6. It is hereby determined and stated that moneys exceeding $1,000, appropriated for down payments on capital improvements or for the capital improvement fund in budgets heretofore adopted for the Borough, are now available to finance said purpose. The sum of $1,000 is hereby appropriated from such moneys to the payment of the cost of said purpose.

Section 7. To finance said purpose, bonds of the Borough of an aggregate principal amount not exceeding $19,000 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the Local Bond Law. Said bonds shall bear interest at a rate per annum as may be hereafter determined within the limitations prescribed by law. All matters with respect to said bonds not determined by this ordinance shall be determined by resolutions to be hereafter adopted.

Section 8. To finance said purpose, bond anticipation notes of said Borough of an aggregate principal amount not exceeding $19,000 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the Local Bond Law in anticipation of the issuance of said bonds. In the event that bonds are issued pursuant to this ordinance, the aggregate amount of notes hereby authorized to be issued shall be reduced by an amount equal to the principal amount of the bonds so issued. If the aggregate amount of outstanding bonds and notes issued pursuant to this ordinance shall at any time exceed the sum first mentioned in this section, the moneys raised by the issuance of said bonds shall, to not less than the amount of such excess, be applied to the payment of such notes then outstanding.

Section 9. Each bond anticipation note issued pursuant to this ordinance shall be dated on or about the date of its issuance and shall be payable not more than one year from its date, shall bear interest at a rate per annum as may be hereafter determined within the limitations prescribed by law and may be renewed from time to time pursuant to and within limitations prescribed by the Local Bond Law. Each of said bond anticipation notes shall be signed by the Mayor and by a financial officer and shall be under the seal of said Borough and attested by the Borough Clerk or Deputy Borough Clerk. Said officers are hereby authorized to execute said notes in such form as they may adopt in conformity with law. The power to determine any matters with respect to said notes not determined by this ordinance and also the power to seal said notes, is hereby delegated to the Chief Financial Officer who is hereby authorized to seal said notes either at one time or from time to time in the manner provided by law.

Section 10. It is hereby determined and declared that the period of usefulness of said purpose, according to its reasonable life, is a period of ten years computed from the date of said bonds.

Section 11. It is hereby determined and stated that the Supplemental Debt Statement required by the Local Bond Law has been duly made and filed in the office of the Borough Clerk of said Borough, and that such statement so filed shows that the gross debt of said Borough, as defined in Section 43 of the Local Bond Law, is increased by this ordinance by $19,000 and that the issuance of the bonds and notes authorized by this ordinance will be within all debt limitations prescribed by said Local Bond Law.

Section 12. Any funds received from the County of Union, the State of New Jersey or any of their agencies or any funds received from the United States of America or any of its agencies in aid of such purpose, shall be applied to the payment of the cost of such purpose, or, if bond anticipation notes have been issued, to the payment of the bond anticipation notes, and the amount of bonds authorized for such purpose shall be reduced accordingly.

Section 13. The Borough intends to issue the bonds or notes to finance the cost of the improvement described in Section 1 of this bond ordinance. If the Borough incurs such costs prior to the issuance of the bonds or notes, the Borough hereby states its reasonable expectation to reimburse itself for such expenditures with the proceeds of such bonds or notes in the maximum principal amount of bonds or notes authorized by this bond ordinance.

Section 14. The full faith and credit of the Borough are hereby pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and the interest on the obligations authorized by this ordinance. Said obligations shall be direct, unlimited and general obligations of the Borough, and the Borough shall levy ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable real property within the Borough for the payment of the principal of and interest on such bonds and notes, without limitation as to rate or amount.

Section 15. The capital budget is hereby amended to conform with the provisions of this ordinance to the extent of any inconsistency therewith and the resolutions promulgated by the Local Finance Board showing full detail of the amended capital budget and capital program as approved by the Director, Division of Local Government Services, is on file with the Borough Clerk and is available for public inspection.

Lou Grasso, Sr. - at right - was inducted into the New Jersey Football Coaches Association (NJFCA) Hall of Fame at Monday night's 40th annual Phil Simms New Jersey North-South All-Star Football Classic at Kean University's Alumni Stadium in Union. Grasso, the head coach at Roselle from 1979-2003 and with over 100 wins, was the North 2 inductee. Former Roselle Park head coach John Wagner - at left - was honored with a coaching award at last year's game.

Cranford's Ambrosio kicks FG to give North its only lead South rolls to 38-16 triumph for 20th win

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

UNION - Valentino Ambrosio - Cranford's standout placekicker - gave the North its only lead by drilling a 37-yard field goal at the 4:57 mark of the first quarter.

After that it was all downhill for the North All-Stars.

The South went on to score five touchdowns and one field goal - led by Stony Brook-bound quarterback Josh Zamot of Holy Spirit and South Offensive MVP and wide receiver Nahsir Morgan of Atlantic City - en route to a convincing 38-16 triumph in Monday night's 40th annual Phil Simms New Jersey North-South All-Star Football Classic at Kean University's Alumni Stadium.

North linebacker Arthur Pinckney of Union was in on a tackle that almost produced a North safety in the first half. Pinckney will next play at the Division 1-AA level at Marist College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The North scored both of its touchdowns in the second half after trailing 31-3.

The South now leads the series 20-17-2.

Grasso - from the section North 2 - was one of four designated as a head coach that was inducted into the New Jersey Football Coaches Association (NJFCA) Hall of Fame.

At haltime of last year's game at Kean, former Roselle Park head coach John Wagner - at left - was the recipient of the Dr. John F. Bateman Foundation Board of Directors Award for Winners for Life - Current Coach.

Grasso is a 1968 Roselle graduate who guided the Rams for 25 seasons from 1979-2003, winning over 100 games. Wagner, a 1969 Roselle Park graduate, was the head coach at Roselle Park for 25 years from 1981-2005, winning exactly 150 games, which is the most in school history.

Both coaches served as assistant coaches at their alma maters for several seasons before being promoted to head coach. Grasso is retired, while Wagner, after a highly-successful stint as head coach at Point Pleasant Beach, is now an assistant coach at Rumson-Fair Haven.

Roselle Park veteran mentor Fran Maggio was named the state's softball Coach of the Year by nj.com. His 22-season (1997-present) record at Roselle Park is a stellar 361-197-1 (.647). Maggio has now guided Roselle Park to the last three of its four Union County Tournament championships and to both of its Group 1 state championships. This year's team set a program record with 27 wins, finishing 27-3 after falling to eventual champion Steinert in the Tournament of Champions. The Panthers finished ranked No. 13 in the state and won the UCC's Mountain Division outright for the third straight season.

Hummel named Union County Player of the Year

Roselle Park standout junior RH pitcher and in the lineup No. 3 batter Maddie Hummel (No. 5) was named Union County Player of the Year by nj.com. On the mound Hummel was 23-3, allowing only 27 earned runs over 178 innings pitched. She struck out 191 batters and walked only 57. At the plate, Hummel batted .410 with three home runs, three triples and nine doubles. Hummel led the Panthers with 33 RBI.

Colicchio set to improve fortunes at alma mater

Former Linden head coach back at Elizabeth to lead a struggling Minutemen program

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

So now that Phil Colicchio is the head coach at his alma mater Elizabeth, how does the 1984 Elizabeth graduate begin to get the Minutemen to play his style of basketball?

"It starts this summer in our summer league," said Colicchio, who for the past 21 seasons guided the Linden boys' to six Group 4 state championships, nine North 2, Group 4 titles and three Union County Tournament crowns.

Colicchio and his staff turned Linden into the premier public school program in the state the past two decades.

"We will immediately concentrate on winning," Colicchio, 52, said. "Winning will be expected. That's how we were able to beat teams when I was at Linden.

"The players have to get that and when they do good things will happen."

This is not the first time Colicchio is coaching at Elizabeth. He was a very successful junior varsity coach at Elizabeth for a decade during the final years of head coach Ben Candelino's run as the varsity's highly-successful mentor. Colicchio guided the Elizabeth JV team to seven straight UCT championships.

After 11 years as a student at St. Mary's in Elizabeth, Colicchio moved on to Elizabeth High School for his senior year of 1983-1984. As Candelino's point guard, he helped lead the Minutemen to the 1984 UCT championship, which was the first of four straight (1984-1987) and eight of nine (1984-1987 and 1989-1992) Candelino guided the Minutemen to.

Colicchio's staff includes Marty Luc, who was the head coach at Rahway for a brief time and has been with Colicchio for some time now; Darryl Lampley, a 2007 graduate who was a standout player for Colicchio and Mike Pozyc, who was Linden's junior varsity coach.

"Those are guys I can trust," Colicchio said. "If I didn't have either Marty or (Linden assistant coach) Anthony (Drejaj) coming over with me I wouldn't have done this."

Colicchio said that there are also a couple of guys from last year's Elizabeth staff that he will talk to. The head coach he is succeeding, former Elizabeth standout athlete Donald Stewart, will not be one of them.

Stewart, who coached under Colicchio for one year in 2006, guided the Minutemen to a 7-17 record this past winter, which was the third season of his second stint at the helm of the Minutemen. During his first stint he guided Elizabeth to its last UCT championship, which came in 2004.

Two seasons before that, present Bloomfield head coach Pat Brunner guided the Minutemen to their 2002 UCT crown. Candelino led Elizabeth to a ninth UCT title in 1995, which was his last.

Elizabeth has won the most UCT crowns with 21. St. Patrick is second with 20 and Linden third at 11.

Elizabeth's last bonafide season was in 2011-2012 when the Minutemen last won North 2, Group 4 and then reached the Group 4 final. Elizabeth finished 3-20 for the 2016-2017 campaign.

Colicchio's title at Elizabeth will be that of Coordinator of Athletics and Special Events. Luc's title is Supervisor of Athletics. Candelino became the Director of Athletics a little over a year ago.

"For the past 20 years it's been talked about whether or not I might coach at Elizabeth," Colicchio said. "There was no plan to leave Linden, I absolutely love the city.

"From the superintendents to the mayors, everyone had been so supportive. With Ben now at Elizabeth, the timing was right.

"It was the toughest decision in my entire life. There were so many lasting memories at Linden. It was the change in athletic administration and I will leave it at that.

"You have to be happy. For 20 years (at Linden) the first 18 were great and the past two my wife told me I was complaining a lot."

If Colicchio was going to leave Linden for another high school, it was going to be his alma mater.

"If there was any place to go Elizabeth makes sense," Colicchio said. "I wouldn't go to any other high school."

How often did you think about the possibility of coaching in college, Phil?

"I got this from Coach (Bob) Hurley — stick at what you're good at," Colicchio said. "I've always felt that I could make a bigger difference coaching high school kids."

For those clamoring to see when Elizabeth will play Linden this winter, it won't be during the regular season.

The only possible meetings will be in the UCT and or the North 2, Group 4 playoffs.

Elizabeth and Plainfield dropped out of the Union County Conference's Watchung Division and down to the Mountain. Moving up to the Watchung from the Mountain was St. Mary's, Elizabeth.

So the Watchung Division will consist of defending champion Roselle Catholic, The Patrick School, Linden and St. Mary's. The Mountain Division now includes Elizabeth, Plainfield, Union, Westfield and Union Catholic.

"Elizabeth vs. Linden is the best (basketball) rivalry in Union County," Colicchio said.

If Elizabeth and Linden should meet in the UCT, it most likely won't be a game played at Linden High School's Phil Colicchio Court.

Colicchio will support Drejaj, who played his high school ball at Seton Hall Prep, for any head coaching position.

"Anthony is a great, young coach," Colicchio said. "He's a great person. He's like a little brother to me, I love him.

"He's sort of in the kind of situation I was in 20 years ago. If he does stay on at Linden it will be a whole new staff. That is not going to be easy."

Colicchio recalled his assistant coaches at Linden going back to Monty Brooks.

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think we would win six Group 4 state championships," Colicchio said. "It's almost surreal.

Basketball landscape changing with coach moving on

"Anyone can get lucky and win one. I had great kids who were great players and I had great assistants. I just tried not to get in the way."

When asked what he felt was his greatest win at Linden, Colicchio couldn't isolate any one triumph.

"I have three kids and that would be like asking me which is my favorite? Whichever team I'm coaching that day," Colicchio said.

"We've had wins over nationally ranked teams such as St. Anthony, Roselle Catholic and St. Patrick. We've won with undersized kids who had the grit to pull victories out.

"I was never afraid to schedule losses. I wanted the kids to have the opportunity to play those kinds of teams with the hope of getting us ready for the state playoffs.

"One win that gets lost in the shuffle was when we won the county in 2001."

In the 2001 UCT championship game, Linden came back with a big fourth quarter to stun five-time defending champion St. Patrick 76-59 at the Dunn Sport Center. It was the first of three UCT titles Colicchio guided the Tigers to - the first two over St. Patrick and the last one against Roselle Catholic.

"We had just won the school's first state championship in 2000 and lost some really good players to graduation, including who I think was the best player in the history of the school in Jamaal Tate (Penn State)," Colicchio said.

"It was at that time that I felt we were a program and that we were here to stay. We were not going away."

Another win Colicchio alluded to was Linden's 46-42 triumph over top-seeded Bloomfield Tech in the 2006 Tournament of Champions semifinals at Rutgers, which was Linden's first year in the TOC. BT was in its second TOC and nationally ranked at the time.

Another big-time Linden moment under Colicchio was its 63-51 - leading from start to finish - win over top-seeded and two-time defending champion St. Patrick in the 2007 UCT final at Dunn.

St. Patrick was nationally ranked at the time and ended up finishing 30-2 after repeating as TOC champions.

That Linden win prevented St. Patrick from finishing No. 1 in the country at season's end.

Linden produced a 30-3 record for 2006-2007, with its season ending at Rutgers on a half-court, buzzer-beating shot by Bloomfield Tech's R.J. Hall in the TOC semifinals.

Thirty years of coaching in now, Colicchio looks forward to another challenge, that of getting his alma mater back on top.

"If I still didn't have the passion I would stop immediately," Colicchio said. "I joked the past couple of years, saying that if we won the TOC I would retire on the spot.

"I grew up in Elizabeth. There are now seven schools (houses) and 6,200 kids (at the high school). If I can't find 10 kids to play . . ."

Elizabeth was led on Opening Night last season by junior guard Julius David, who poured in a game-high 28 points in leading the Minutemen to a 67-63 overtime win at Union in the third annual St. Jude Classic at Louis J. Rettino Gymnasium.

David, who went on to average 10 points, scored seven of his 28 points in OT, including his game-high sixth 3-pointer that gave Elizabeth the lead for good at 59-58.

"I'm not going to Elizabeth to lose," Colicchio said. "I'm not a patient man. I'm not looking at taking 2-3 years to get better."

Colicchio, who won at Linden preaching defense first, second and third, said he brought his Elizabeth swagger to Linden.

Now he gets the opportunity to bring his Linden swagger back to Elizabeth.

"We will be competing right from the very first game," Colicchio said.

DID YOU KNOW? Phil Colicchio played on the St. Mary's, Elizabeth baseball team his junior year that captured the 1983 Parochial B state championship. The head coach of that team was Ben Candelino.

Before Phil Colicchio was the head coach at Linden and prior to that for one year at Barringer, he was the junior varsity coach at Elizabeth for 10 years.
